Hand painted buckets which Colonial Americans used more than 150 years ago are on display at the Smithsonian Institution as part of an exhibit showing the development of fire-fighting equipment. These buckets were tossed into the street when the alarm sounded and picked up by the volunteer firemen as they raced to the blaze. They are made of hand sewed leather. Many were decorated with family designs and scenes of the times as well as the owners' name. A hand-pump "tub" fire engine, built in 1740 at Salem, Mass., showed the first improvement on the bucket brigades although, water had to be carried to this machine and then squirted on the fire.

Happy Chamois

Above the pastoral realm of Alp Lombach in the Bernese Oberland, Switzerland, rises the Augmatthorn, which has been set aside as a reservation for the Harder colony of ibex, which now numbers more than 150. In recent years a large number of chamois have chosen this protected region as their happy hunting ground and as a result herds of grazing chamois, frequently as many as 50 animals in one group, are no uncommon sight.

Prisons to Be Like Home

Prisons in Glasgow, Scotland, are to be just like a home away from home to a favored class of lawbreakers. The city will spend $3,700 in making cells more comfortable with blankets, pillow slips bolsters, rubber mattresses, collapsible tables and chairs and other conveniences.

Important Do's and Dont's for Home Builders
Engage an architect and inform him in detail about your way of living, your budget, your tastes, and your wants. But don't expect him to plan for more than your budget is really able to afford.
Visit new homes and acquaint yourself with what you can expect to get for what you can spend, and then be satisfied.
Study your plans for at least 60 days before you submit them for bids. Imagine yourself living in every room before you approve the plans.
Investigate all of the wonderful new materials whose use stamps your home as up to date and guarantees it a longer life.
Build on land whose future value is protected by restrictions. Spend more, if necessary, to have land that will add to the beauty and social value of your house.
Think of the cost of upkeep when you decide what material to use.
Don't fail to have automatically-fueled, automatically-controlled heat.
Provide enough closets, built-in cupboards, electric outlets and switches, and enough windows—for a light cheerful house.
Have complete specification, written so carefully that your contractor will not need to add extra charges for forgotten items.
Use good insulation in your home, one that provides for a vapor barrier to prevent condensation in the side walls and ceilings.

A Tip to Golfers

THE favorite food of the Kansas species of the famous philly-loo bird is lost golf balls. So when a golfer drives a ball down the middle of the fairway and then isn't able to find it, he knows at once that a philly-loo bird has swooped down and gobbled it up. Since this strange bird is invisible, of course, the golf ball becomes invisible also.

But W. M. Huff of the Chaflin (Kan.) Clarion has developed a plan for outwitting the philly-loo. He tells about it as follows:

"My method is to use specially prepared balls as bait. You take some red and white striped stick candy and dissolve it in hot water, making striped paint. Paint the golf balls with this striped paint and when the philly-loo bird swallows the ball the paint will still be visible so you can locate the bird.

"The best way to kill it is to cut out a section from the heart of a tornado, where the air pressure is greatly reduced by the whirling motion. Armed with this section of rarified atmosphere you get as close as possible to the bird and throw the rare atmosphere all over him. Then the bird just flies to pieces and the ball drops at your feet. Simple, isn't it?"

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

When the ice formed on the river last November it seemed a long time ahead to the month of March. Looking back, it isn't so long. Well, at any rate March is here, or will be next week, and right now a lot of tax payers are wondering why they were so anxious about it's arrival. Aside from this one discouraging thought, the month that brings Spring with it is certainly most welcome.

We are now entering the home stretch of the season's basketball schedule and, with high hopes for a successful finish, interest in the play-off games is steadily increasing. Considering the fact that the Thief River team has come through the season undefeated, local fans are decidedly conservative in their views on the final results. They can remember several up-sets in the district and regional tournaments in recent years. Experience has taught them that anything can happen in a basketball game. No one disputes the fact, however, that the Prowlers are the favorites to win in this region. The prospects for representation in the state tournament were never better at this stage of the race.

Next Wednesday should be a busy day in town. The district meeting of the Land O' Lakes organization always draws a big crowd. In addition to this attraction there will be the special train the Great Northern is bringing in here, presenting three cars of exhibits, moving pictures and a speaking program. Wednesday should be a busy day.

After the drubbing the hockey team took Sunday afternoon from Hallock the members of the management committee have been keeping off the streets as much as possible. The wolves have been on them. The fact that the team took Roseau last night will enable them to appear in public once more however. We are among those who still think the Thief River squad is a serious threat for any team they meet. We still maintain the local team is made up of the best individual players, man for man, in the league. If they ever do get together and start playing as a team they won't look foolish against any of them. There are only two more home games on the regular schedule, Friday night and Sunday afternoon. We have a hunch that these games are going to be worth seeing.

We haven't heard any complaints about the way the road crews handled this last snow either in the city or out in the country. The streets were clear and the roads open in a short time after the plows were put into action. If the question of whether or not the streets and roads were to be maintained in the winter as well as in the summer were submitted to the people there probably would be very few dissenting votes.

THE GREATER FINANCIER
(Blooming Prairie Times)

If you are seeking the greatest financier in this country you won't have to go to Wall Street or down to Washington. The greatest financier in this country is a woman who raises five kids on a salary of less than $100 a month, and there are lots of them throughout the country!

We showed the above to a friend of ours who happened to drop in The Times editorial office and he recalled how his mother financed their home. She explained to her husband one day she could do much better if he gave her an allowance each week so he finally gave her $6 a week with which to buy the food and run the household for a family of seven. Time went on and she concluded they ought to buy a cow and save money on their milk bill. Her husband agreed but he confessed he did not have the $35 necessary to buy the cow. She urged him to find a good cow worth the money and when he did, she dug out of a sock the $35 with which to pay for it. This was the money she had saved from the allowance of six dollars a week for a family of seven!

There were thousands and perhaps millions of mothers of sainted memory like this in the generation which has passed or is passing and this is the type that built this country what it is.

GOVERNOR BENSON'S ARITHMETIC
By Dr. V. O. Watts,
Associate Professor of Economics at Carleton College.
(Northfield News)

In his Lincoln Day Address our Minnesota governor said that business men should not complain of the high costs of government because "every penny" paid out "finds its way immediately into the channels of business." In fact, he concluded, this spending keeps business alive, and without it "nine-tenths of the business concerns of this country would be bankrupt today."

Is he right?

True, government spending financed by loans instead of taxes may give a momentary inflationary fillip to business. But Governor Benson has declared himself strongly opposed to this "shot-in-the-arm" policy. He must therefore have in mind only tax-supported spending as the sustenance which "keeps business alive." Are business men ungrateful dolts to object to such fare?

* * * *

Let's put the problem in terms of simple arithmetic. Here is a merchant with, say:

Cash	$ 1,000
Goods on hand	9,000
Total capital	$10,000

Suppose now that the government taxes away $500 of his cash and gives it to some "tax-eaters"—government employees or W.P.A. workers. Suppose further that those who get it, take it back at once to spend it all with the merchant from whom it was taken.

How much does the business man gain on this deal?

The tax leaves him with:

Cash	$ 500
Goods	9,000
Total	$ 9,500

After the tax-eaters bring back the money and trade it for goods the merchant has:

Cash	$ 1,000
Goods	8,500
Total	$ 9,500

He might as well have given his goods away in the first place. It is surprising that the business man feels ungrateful for this kind of "help"?

* * * *

"But," the Governor may reply, "the merchant made a profit on the goods, for he can probably replace them for less than the $500 he sold them for."

Suppose, therefore, that the merchant replaces the goods for half the selling price, or $250 cash. He then will have:

Cash	$ 750
Goods	9,000
Total	$ 9,750

This means that his loss is equal merely to the cost of replacing the goods he sells, rather than the full amount of the tax. But only if the goods could be replaced at no cost whatever would the merchant be even as well off as before the tax.

As for any benefit to business from tax supported government spending that is as impossible, therefore, as that two from four can leave six.

"NOT PROVEN"
(Fergus Falls Journal)

When a judge sends a jury out in a criminal case, he instructs the jurors to bring in a verdict of "guilty" or "not guilty." If the verdict is "guilty," the accused party must be sentenced, unless a stay or a new trial is secured. If the verdict is "not guilty," the case is ended, and even if evidence develops later showing positively that the accused committed the crime, there can be nothing more done about it. Of course a jury can disagree, but that simply means that some hold the party was guilty and others that he was innocent, and the prosecuting attorney must then decide whether to again try the case.

If the courts wanted a truthful verdict, they would submit three forms for the jurors: "Guilty," "not guilty," and "not proven." "Not proven" would be the correct verdict in a great many cases, one of which could be mentioned right now. It is absurd to ask a jury to say a person is guilty or not guilty when it is perfectly apparent that they do not know. It very frequently happens that the evidence is such that most people believe the accused is guilty, but it is not strong enough to convince them beyond any doubt, and the jurors must thereupon return a verdict of "not guilty." It is not right to come out flatly and say that a person is not guilty when the chances are ten to one that he is. On the other hand, it is not right to say that a person is guilty when there is a possibility that he is not.

A "not proven" verdict would be a truthful verdict; that is, the way the matter really stands. The case could then rest that way unless, and until, further evidence came to light. It would be claimed of course that this left a stigma on a person's character, but in doubtful criminal cases, the stigma is there, in the mind of the public, no matter what the verdict.

WAS CASH REGISTER SAVED BY CAT?

Staples—If Tom, the big Angora cat that keeps the state cash at a local grocery store free of mice, was responsible for saving the cash register when thieves broke into the store he may have a reward coming. This remuneration would be in the form of one frozen pickerel for breakfast as a change from his regular mice diet. Rossford Barnes has projected the theory that the cat saved the cash register from greater loss than the $27 taken by the prowlers. Every morning when the store is first opened the big cat begins clawing on the store room door to get attention, and it is possible that just about the time the cash register was being pilfered Tom made enough noise to unnerve the robber who ran with only part of the change in the drawer, scattering some as he fled. It is Tom's habit to sleep [illegible] on a crate that has been placed near the heating fan for him. He may have jumped down from there with a thud when he heard someone in the front room.

HISTORIC BAYONET FOUND BY FARMER

Wadena—An interesting old weapon was displayed here last week by Merritt Wells farmer living near Verndale, who discovered it on a farm in Wing River township near the old Otter Tail trail. While doing soil conservation work last fall a sharp metal point sticking out of the ground attracted his attention. Loosening up the dirt Wells unearthed a sort of dagger, ten inches long. A slot in the end of the five-inch handle indicates the dagger served as a bayonet on [illegible] possibly an army rifle. The blade, five inches long and one inch wide is rusty but otherwise in good condition. There are many possibilities as to how the knife came to be in Wing River township. By the middle of the eighteenth century Ojibway (commonly called Chippewa) Indians, armed with steel knives and white men's guns had pushed into the Mississippi valley. The knife may have belonged to some Chippewa Indian, who [illegible] Minnesota as a hunting ground for centuries.

GOBBLER BUMPS OFF RED FOX IN DUEL

Henning—A thrilling battle between a vicious gobbler and a red fox was enacted recently on the farm of Andrew Hessel in Inman, according to a story told here by August F. Olson, Hessel's neighbor. Mr. Hessel had an unusually vicious gobbler which had to be locked up because of its belligerent tactics against visitors. It appears that a hungry red fox, bent on getting a good meal, had gotten into the wire enclosure which houses Mr. Turkey. Although no one had a ringside seat, a royal battle evidently ensued. This was seen when Mr. Hessel surveyed the battle ground the next morning. There lay the dead fox and in a corner was the live gobbler, bloody, a bit groggy and minus a few tail feathers. In spite of all this the proud turkey has now recovered.

Farmers in this locality have taken special precautions to protect their poultry flocks for chickens become an easy prey for foxes which are thought to be on the increase.

Big Game
By STANLEY CORDELL

WHEN Bobbie came home from school he found the back door locked. The key was under the mat, however; he found it and went into the kitchen. There was a penciled note on the table.

"Dear Bobbie: Uncle Rufus arrived this noon for a few day's visit. We have driven over to call on Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw. Do your chores and be a good boy until we get home. Mother."

Bobbie's eyes shone. Uncle Rufus was the idol of all his childish dreams. Not only was he an especially indulgent uncle, but the life he led was one that would stir the imagination of any red-blooded American boy. For Uncle Rufus was a sportsman of the first water.

Bobbie went out to the shed and loaded up his arms with wood for the kitchen stove. He cut kindling for tomorrow morning's fire, placed fresh water in the henyard dishes, poured out grain for the night's feeding. Presently he returned to the kitchen and glanced at the clock. Three-fifteen. Mother and dad and Uncle Rufus wouldn't be home for an hour yet. Perhaps longer. Bobbie projected his mind ahead. Tonight, after supper, they would all sit around the table and listen to Uncle Rufus spin tales of his adventures. Bobbie wouldn't miss it for anything. Uncle Rufus was sure a great guy. Sometime he was going to take Bobbie on one of his trips. He had promised.

Bobbie started for the kitchen door and paused. A thought occurred to him. Usually Uncle Rufus stopped off on his way to or from the hunting or fishing grounds. And because of this reason his luggage most always included a rifle or a fishing rod, things that Bobbie stared at it in awe and wonder.

Thinking of it, Bobbie glanced once more at the clock, turned and quickly entered the front hall and mounted the stairs.

Bobbie's gaze made a tour of the room and suddenly his heart leaped. There standing beside the bureau, was a .22 rifle, almost a duplicate of the specially-made gun Uncle had let him handle last fall. Hesitatingly, Bobbie crossed the room, stood looking down at the piece in reverent silence. And as he stood there a daring thought occurred to him. Why not borrow the gun for a little while?

Bobbie picked up the rifle and tucked it in the crook of his arm. A sensation of pride and importance and well-being passed through him. Almost without thinking he descended the stairs, crossed the kitchen and went out into the back yard. It was easy to feel that the weapon was his, that he was starting out on his daily hunt in order to provide the supper table with fresh meat.

At the bars he stopped in the very act of pulling one of the shafts from its slot. A disturbing thought had crossed his mind—memory of Uncle Rufus' regard for his gun and rods, his meticulous treatment of them, the blaze of anger that glowed in his eye when once he told of someone borrowing a certain big game rifle uninvited.

A scene of guilt, coupled with fear of the consequences of his act, seized Bobbie. He knew he was doing wrong, and he thought how dreadful it would be if Uncle Rufus became angered at him and refused to tell him tales of his adventures, or retracted his offer to sometime take him on one of his trips to the woods. The possibility of being caught was scarcely worth the consequences, and yet—Bobbie had never owned a gun. His folks were poor and they couldn't buy him one. Despite his longing he had never complained or wished out loud for things that he knew would pain his mother because she couldn't give them to him. He could see the hurt in her eyes if it became known he had broken her trust and faith by borrowing Uncle Rufus' rifle.

Bobbie went back through the bars, replaced the shaft and turned toward the house. Well, anyway, he thought, sometimes I'll—The sentence was never finished. He stopped dead still, staring wide-eyed at the automobile that had driven into the yard, staring at Uncle Rufus climbing out from behind the wheel.

Suddenly he felt weak and sick and very much afraid. Uncle Rufus had spotted him and boomed out something he couldn't hear. He saw his idol striding through the yard toward him.

"So you found it, eh? Well, by jinks, I ought to take it back—robbing me of the kick I'd planned to get out of giving it to you myself. Well, how do you like it?"

Bobbie gulped. "What—wha—?"

"Come, Come," Uncle Rufus boomed. "You might at least thank a chap. Had that rifle made special just for you. It'll shoot true at 200 yards and knock a crow galley west. You'd better try it and see. Plenty of crows up in the woods where we're going."

Uncle Rufus' voice became a jumble of words "—had to talk to your mother and dad to get 'em to let you off from school a couple of days—four days in all with Saturday and Sunday—maybe we'll get a deer—have to be pretty straight shooter to hit a deer with a .22—Ho! What's this? Crying? Shucks! Big game hunters don't cry."

First Sale - Mar. 5

This is a new deal. We are starting SATURDAY, MARCH 5, to sell at Auction. Sale starts promptly at 1:30.

Every Saturday afternoon thereafter will be Auction Sale until further notice.

We find that the cost of selling trade-in used machinery, automobiles, trucks, horses, etc., is greater than should be, so in order to keep a continual clean slate and place us in a position to do business at a lower cost, we have decided to sell at Auction.

New Merchandise will also be offered for sale at Auction from time to time. We aim to make every Saturday afternoon Bargain Day. Sell fast and make it interesting to all buyers. No side bidders.

We aim to arrange some little surprise deal for each Saturday. Each of the first few sales at least will not last over two hours—so be sure to be on time.

Some of the items that will be sold at Auction the afternoon of March 5 will include:

Tractors
Horse Gang Plows
Horse Sulky Plows
Tractor Plows
Tractor Disk Harrows
Grain Drills
Spring Tooth Harrows
Field Cultivators
Feed Grinders
Stationary Engines
Cream Separators
Wagons
Any number of other items

This is only the first of a series of many Saturday Auctions. Later on we shall perhaps arrange for a special sale on horses and livestock, and special days for automobiles and trucks. However, any of these items may be included at any one of our sales. Bidders interested and we will place them on sale.

TERMS OF SALE: Items under $10.00 must be cash. If time sales on greater amount, arrangements must be made in advance and will be based on regular finance terms.

Our aim is to hold down costs, so at least as a starter we shall conduct the Auction Sales within our own organization.

Holt Creamery Churns 261,849 Pounds Butter During the Past Year

At the recent annual meeting of the Farmers Cooperative creamery of Holt, Walter Larson, manager, reported that the plant in 1937 produced 261,849 pounds of butter. A total of 212,240.5 pounds of butterfat was received, for which was paid an average net price of 38.32 cents. In the annual election of directors, T. H. Folden, who has served for 37 years, was re-elected, as was E. O. Wangsdahl. J. P. Augustine was named to the board to succeed F. D. Voth, who asked to be retired. Other members of the board are C. O. Johnson and O. H. Nohre.

284 Road Law Violators "Tell It to the Judge"

Highway patrolmen of the Minnesota Highway department let 284 traffic violators "tell it to the judge" in January, according to the organization's monthly report.

Of that number 12 drunken drivers paid fines totaling $840. Fines imposed for all arrests hit $3,326.55. Other revenue brought in by the guarandians of the highways amounted to $11,120.60, recovered in license fee corrections.

The patrol was busy with drivers that flirted with violations and warned 4,809 to mend their ways. Illegal equipment tags sent 1,122 vehicles into the garage during the month.

Despite the winter weather the patrol did 24,667 hours of duty and traveled 287,828 miles during the first month of the year. In their cruising they attended 48 accidents, gave first aid to 10 injured persons, made minor adjustments or repairs on 826 cars, delivered gasoline to 91 stalled cars, helped 131 out of the ditch, and removed 309 obstacles from the road. Trucks totaling 163 appeared overweight and were flagged down and weighed.

WPA CHIEF TURNS DOWN WEED PLAN URGED BY BENSON

Christgau Flatly Refuses to Back Eradication Program

Victor Christgau, state WPA administrator this week flatly refused to approve the proposed $850,000 weed eradication program for Minnesota and asserted "Governor Benson is taking his advice from politicians, rather than farmers."

In a lengthy statement, Christgau declared he is following the desire of farmers, as shown by a resolution of the state farm bureau last month urging weed eradication by a United States department of agriculture agency.

Supporting his assertion of several weeks ago that the project should be carefully planned and have a thorough "follow-up", the relief head charged that the governor's weed plan proposes merely a hit-or-miss program, unscientific and wasteful.

"Weed eradication," Christgau said, "because of the many types of work needed, from cutting through pulling, chemical treatment, to summer fallowing, must be scientifically directed."

Evolution Was Topic Of Evangelist Sunday

"Evolution begins with one type of life originating in a stagnant pool. Where the pool came from nobody seems to know. How far superior to the hypothesis of evolution and more sublime is the story of Creation where a perfect man created in the image and likeness of his Maker comes upon the stage of action, fully equipped to take over the dominion of the earth. No evolutionist has ever been able to disprove the fact that man was created in the likeness of God". So stated Evangelist Gulbrandson in his lecture: "Was man created in the image of God or in the likeness of a monkey?" last Sunday night in the former Methodist church. The program for next Sunday night is announced on the church page of this issue.

Supreme Court Rules on Revoked Licenses

When an automobile driver's license is cancelled for driving while intoxicated, the Minnesota supreme court held recently, it cannot be renewed unless the motorist shows "financial responsibility."

The decision reversed Judge Anton Thompson of Becker county district court who issued a license to John Halverson, Becker county, whose original permit was withdrawn upon his conviction of driving while drunk.

Under the drivers' license statute, the high court found, drivers convicted of serious violations are required to post financial responsibility for operating a motor vehicle that is not needed by those so convicted.

Halverson was unable to comply with the financial requirements, the court ruled.

WPA IS READY TO MOVE WHEN NEW FUNDS GET O. K.

More than 10,000 Will Obtain Jobs When New Law Enacted

Every certified relief person suitable for available WPA work in Minnesota will be offered a job within a few days after March 1, it was stated this week by Victor Christgau, WPA administrator. Reports from Washington indicated the speedy passage of legislation asked by the President to provide funds with which to meet unemployment due to the current recession. As quickly as the bill has been signed, between 10,000 and 12,000 new assignments will be available for Minnesota.

For the last ten days, when it became evident that there would be favorably congressional action, the state WPA organization has been at work preparing to move immediately after authority is received to increase WPA employment in the state from its present level of 45,000 to about 57,000. The employment division has been at work on its "certified but unassigned" file, preparing new assignment forms in blank. The operations division has been rechecking project records so there will be no complications about project operations.

Mr. Christgau explained that the increased employment in no way changes regulations that WPA workers must come from lists of those who have been certified as in need. Preference for local jobs will be given to persons with dependents.

LOST MONEY FOUND BUT LOST MAN STILL MISSING

Russell.—Appearing in opposite columns in the Russell Anchor last week were two "lost" items. A billfold containing a large sum of money was dropped in the streets of Marshall by Hjalmar Madsen of Russell, on a business trip to the neighboring city. Madsen returned to Marshall immediately, to find to his surprise that the billfold had been found and turned into the city hall to await his arrival. Many people live who are still honest!

R. C. BUREAU SOLD 4129 FARMS LAST YEAR, SAYS ARENS

More Than Double the Number Sold in 1936, Reports Conservator

T. H. Arens, conservator of the department of rural credit, released today his annual report, and other statistical information pertaining to the department. According to the report by Mr. Arens, the activities of two of the three principal divisions, sales, rentals and loans, for the year 1937, show a decided increase over 1936.

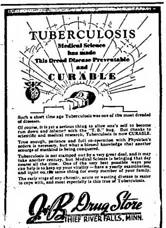
The department sold 1129 farms, a total of 173,750 acres, for $5,471,672 as compared with 549 sales, totaling $1,713,285.43 in 1936. This is more than double the number sold in 1936, and nearly three times the amount received. The total cash payments received in these sales was $578,896.74, also exceeds that of former years.

The rentals received for 1937, $1,008,246.16, averages, including all farms, $244.18 per farm, and 3.7% on the State's accrued investment in those farms. The total cash received in 1937, payments on loans, interest on loans, cash from sales contracts and rentals total $4,125,357.40, as compared with $6,176,178.19, the amount from the same sources in 1936. This decrease is due to the fact that fewer loans were refinanced in 1937 than in 1936.

The decrease in the number of loans refinanced in 1937 is due to inability of borrowers to qualify for loans through the federal lending agencies. During the years of 1935 and 1936 a large number of borrowers made application for refinancing thru the Federal Land bank and land bank commissioner. In 1936 883 loans, totaling $3,691,221.37 were refinanced. Many applications however were refused and were on the books for 1937. The year 1937 only 264 loans were refinanced or paid in full, a total of over one million dollars.

Another encouraging phase of 1937 activities was the large number of loans placed through private lending agencies. For the first time since 1929, rural credit borrowers were able to refinance through the insurance companies, mortgage companies, and other private lending agencies. This was due to the fact that borrowers had funds of their own from near normal crops and from sales of other property, and that farms as an investment is more attractive to private investors than in former years. Over 60 per cent of the loans were financed through private lending agencies.

The total loans and farms held by the department July 1, 1933, the date the conservator act went into effect, was 13,776. There has been, since that date, 2900 loans completely liquidated. In addition the department has on its books 2447 current loans and 2136 sales contracts which are assets to the State. There remained Jan. 1, 1938, 1,543 delinquent loans to be refinanced or reinstated and 4215 farms to be sold. The conservator has set as a sales quota for 1938, 2400 farms. The sales quota for 1937 was 1200. This quota was in reality exceeded because many of the sales were received too late for approval by the department court to be entered as sales on 1937 record.



TUBERCULOSIS Medical Science has made This Dread Disease Preventable and CURABLE
Such a short time ago Tuberculosis was one of the most dreaded of diseases.
Of course, it is yet a serious thing to allow one's self to become run down and infected with the "T. B." bug. But thanks to scientific and medical research, Tuberculosis is now CURABLE.
True enough, patience and full co-operation with Physician's orders is necessary, but what a blessed knowledge that another scourge of mankind is being conquered.
Tuberculosis is not stamped out by a very great deal, and it may take another century, but Medical Science is bringing that day nearer all the time. One of the very best possible ways you can help is to keep up your vitality — have a yearly examination, and insist on the same thing for every member of your family.
The early stage of any chronic, acute or wasting disease is easier to cope with, and most especially is this true of Tuberculosis.

GIRLS NOT TO STICK TONGUES OUT AGAIN

Canby— Five-year-old Frances Bultinck and six-year-old Ruth Reihe aren't ever going to stick their tongues out anymore—probably not even for the doctor when he wants them to say, "Ah". It seems the little girls stuck their tongues out one day last week and it wasn't easy to get them back into their mouths again. Ruth and Frances had been coasting down hill on the Jack Thompson farm, four and one-half miles south of Canby and then walked over to the creek nearby and stood on the steel bridge looking down at the ice. And then they stuck their tongues out at the cold steel bridge. Only for the benefit of those who in their childhood never sampled a grindstone or a doorknob on a cold winter's morning to discover if it really had a sweet flavor, it is necessary to explain that the girls' tongues were instantly frozen to the steel bridge. After long and painful moments, Frances succeeded in freeing her tongue. Ruth's, however, was stuck fast. A neighbor boy heard the screams of the frightened children and raced to their aid. By pouring warm water on the railing, he finally succeeded in freeing Ruth.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

The dinner given Governor Benson under the auspices of the State Farmer-Labor association in Minneapolis on Lincoln's birthday served to disabuse the minds of the conservatives that the state administration is waning in popularity. It put all such conclusions in the category of wishful thinking.

Even the conservative Minneapolis Journal was forced to admit that it was "an outstanding demonstration, one of the largest dinners ever served in this city.". The enthusiasm of the 7,000 persons assembled in the Auditorium and their warm response to the speakers told the story of a rousing campaign which is to come.

The record of the conservative-controlled state senate in both the regular and special legislative sessions in defeating liberal proposals gives Benson and the farmer-laborites a beautiful offensive weapon, which they are certain to make the most use of. That Benson will use it was plainly indicated when he said, "I will aid them (the republicans) in seeing to it that voters are made quite thoroughly acquainted with that record."

Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, after declaring that the same people who were shouting invectives at the late Floyd B. Olson and now that he is dead, are saying some nice things about him but that Benson is terrible, paid the following glowing tribute to the present Governor: "Elmer Benson has not swerved the breadth of a hair in his loyalty and allegiance to the masses of people of Minnesota.

The lowest wage upon which a working woman can subsist in this state is $13 a week, the Minnesota minimum wage advisory board held last week in submitting its recommendations to the state industrial commission. After an eight-months' study of living costs, the board recommended a minimum of $16 for a week of 36 to 48 hours in cities of 50,000 and over; $13.50 in cities of 5,000 to 50,000; $12 in cities of 3,000 to 5,000; and $11 where the population is under 3,000. For apprentices the recommended minimum rates ranged from $8.80 to $9.60 where the population is under 5,000, and from $12 to $13.50 in cities of 50,000 and over.

Harold Stassen, South St. Paul, who aspires to the governorship as a Republican candidate, stated last week that he would like to debate Governor Benson. Wouldn't that be a publicity break for him as against the other Republican aspirants to that position!

Governor Benson's reply to Mr. Stassen was short and to the point. "It would be highly improper on my part," the Governor stated, "to aid one Republican candidate for governor in the matter of publicity as against any other Republican candidate for governor.

"If and when the Republican voters of this state name you as their candidate for governor, I shall be most glad to discuss with you the question of arranging a debate upon my record and the Farmer-Labor record in office, and also the Republican record in office, including that of the Republican-controlled senate in the 1937 regular and special sessions of the legislature."

Such a debate would be highly worthwhile, inasmuch as the people would then become quite familiar with the progressive measure which the Republican-controlled senate killed in the last session.

If Minnesota farmers lose the benefit of a WPA weed eradication project they can thank State WPA Administrator Victor Christgau, Governor Elmer A. Benson said this week.

Christgau recently admitted his responsibility for disapproval of the project after charges by state department of agriculture officials. He maintained that it was not a proper WPA project.

Benson made his statement after his statement ter learning that President Roosevelt had approved a like project in Utah. He appealed over Christgau's head to U. S. officials in an effort to get the project allowed. Each Minnesota farmer loses $219 a year because of weeds.

More than twice as many farms were sold by the state rural credit department last year as in 1936, figures released by Theodore H. Arens, conservator, show. The state sold 1,129 farms in 1937, while in 1936 the number was 549. For the last five years the rural department has been in the process of liquidation and has completely liquidated 2,900 of the 13,766 loans and farms it held at that time. The upturn in sales Arens attributes to near normal crops and better times last year.

When a Republican governor such as Aiken of Vermont tells his fellow Republicans that Lincoln today would repudiate the Republican party, it is time that the Republicans themselves began finding out what is "rotten in Denmark" with the party, and our guess is that the trail would lead straight to Wall Street.

Minnesota farm income in 1937 was up 1 per cent over 1936 when government benefit payments are counted in, U. S. department of agriculture economists have reported. Except for higher payments, income would have been 2 per cent under 1936.

The figure compared with a 20 per cent gain in North Dakota, 7 per cent gain in Wisconsin, and a 5 and 9 per cent loss in South Dakota and Iowa respectively.

Department of agriculture officials have predicted a drop in income during 1938.

What does a prominent liberal think of Minnesota? Oswald Garrison Villard, one of America's best known fighters for civil liberties, when here last week declared himself "extremely impressed with the fine quality of the audience and the quickness with which they caught the points made by speakers" at the Lincoln's Birthday dinner given in honor of Governor Benson. Sharing the speakers platform at the Governor's dinner, Villard told Minnesotans: "You will hearten us in the East by returning Benson as governor."

Minnesota manages to collect a per capita liquor tax revenue that ranks with the highest in the nation, yet has the lowest cost of collection, Commissioner William Mahoney revealed last week. Liquor levy receipts for the last six months of 1937 amounted to $3,163,045.07. The liquor officials holds that a better quality of liquor can be bought for approximately the same price as "moon" due to an increased supply of the legal kind and therefore a reduced price despite a higher tax.

The modern, heavy-tonnage freight train and its origin in the evolution of the "Iron Horse"—bigger, more powerful, faster. But it also required better roadbeds, heavier rails, stronger bridges and longer sidings. The picture shows the Great Northern's first locomotive alongside of one of the modern engines.

It Can Happen Again

Of the many disasters that can befall a farmer, a car shortage, or an embargo perhaps cap the list. For if he raises a good crop and prices are up, the crowning misfortune is to be unable to ship it.

It has happened before. Elevators glutted. Warehouses bulging. Crops piled up in fields. Losses amounting to more than the cost of transportation.

Of course, that was a long time ago. With the increased efficiency of the railroads—mostly a matter of long, fast trains—you have taken it for granted that it could not happen again.

But it will happen again if Congress passes the proposed law to limit the length of freight trains to 70 cars.

Your crops, for the most part, move to distant markets over one-lane roadways—single track railroads. Trains have to meet and pass at sidings. The more trains, the more "meets," and the more delays.

Remember too that most of the crops in the territory served by the Great Northern ripen at about the same time. This results in a traffic peak each fall, when the railroad's main lines are taxed to capacity. Take for example, wheat. The Great Northern moved 45,000 carloads last year. One-fourth of this was loaded out in two weeks.

Most of the crops—last year, 145,000 carloads—were moved in trains of about 125 cars after reaching the main line. Empty cars—about 100,000—were returned in trains of similar size.

To have moved all of the Great Northern's traffic last year on 70-car trains would have required 22,000 additional trains. It would have been physically impossible to have moved last year's crops over the Great Northern's main line within the time shippers wanted their products moved.

Instead of your having the dependable transportation you are accustomed to, you could not have depended on anything between late August and sometime after the first of the year. That is what the Train Length Limit law will do to you.

The Train Length Limit bill—the real purpose of which is to create more jobs for trainmen—already has been passed by the Senate. It is now before the House of Representatives.

Unless you are willing to go back to the days of car shortages and embargoes, you will do well to find out how your Congressman stands.

It has happened before. It can happen again.

1ST ROUND OF CAGE INTRAMURALS END

Bombers Defeat Gophers by Score of 17 to 12

The first round of the intramural tournament has been completed and the latter part of last week introduced the second. In the first game of the tournament the Bombers, led by Tuney Carlson, eliminated Bob Hanson's Gophers, the score being 12-17. At the end of the first half, the Gophers led 10-9, but later in the game Bob Hanson went out on fouls and during the entire last half the Gophers scored only one field goal, while the Bombers began to click and made 8 points the last period. For the Gophers Bob Hanson scored five points making him high point man, while Wes Johnson dropped 3 field goals and a free shot giving him a total of 7 points to make him high point man for the Bombers.

The Alley Cats in the next game took their game quite easily. They are rated high and, of course, are expected to put up a good fight for the championship to be played approximately on Thursday of this week. The losers to this almighty team led by Clarence Haug were Jerome Salveson's Cornhuskers. The score at the end of the first half in this game was 18-9, with, of course, the Alley Cats in the lead. Haug made 10 of his 11 points in the first half but still remained the main scoring threat of the Alley Cats. Jerome was held down to [illegible] points this game although [illegible] earlier in the season [illegible] tremendously. The game ended 33-29 in favor of the Alley Cats.

As was expected, Kenney Jaranson led his team through the first round of the tourney as victors after a close game between his team, the Blackhawks, "the" Red [illegible] Gompers. The score at the end of the 3rd quarter was 13 all, and it looked for a moment that the favorites of the tourney were to be knocked off in the first round. But the last quarter's scoring showed the Gompers held down to but one point while the Blackhawks scored five, the game ending 18-14. Jaranson was high scorer for his team with nine points, while the Gompers had two high scorers, Red Eide and Tom Carlisle with four points.

The first round of the tourney continued with 2 games remaining to be played. The first of these was between the Panthers and Hawkeyes, the Panthers entering the game as underdogs, and the ending much as was expected, the final score being 15-8 with the Hawkeyes on top. Cliff Olesen, who, incidentally was high individual scorer of the season, claimed only 6 points this game, but backed also by O'Malley with six they still remained victorians. On the Panthers Wendel Olson was high point man with four points. Furuseth and Le Rue Anderson didn't seem to click that night.

In the last game of the first round, the No Stars lost to the Rebels. The no-Stars held a lead through the entire game, but little Ed Flasch, one of the mainstays of the No-Stars went out on personal fouls to leave his team holding the bag with only four players. The Rebels siezed this opportunity and brought themselves up from a ten point disadvantage to tie the game as the final minute ended, thus making it necessary to have an overtime period played. In the intramural tournament rules, the overtime was to be "sudden death," or in other words, the team scoring the first two points wins. Tunberg managed another two points in this period making his team victors. Tunberg was also high point man with ten points to his credit. Bredeson did the main plugging for his team having scored nine points with Ed Flasch following closely.

Thus the first round ended with the following teams going into the second: Blackhawks, Hawkeyes, Rebels, Bombers, Alley Cats.

In the first of these games the Bombers put down the fortunate Rebels by an 18-16 score. Carlson and Gustaphson were principal scorers for the Bombers, each with six points. Tunberg again was high point man, out with only seven points, compared to his 10 in the previous game. Therefore in the next game which will be played this week, the Bombers will have to defeat the favored Alley Cats to go into the finals.

In the second game of the semi-finals, the favorites, the Blackhawks again turned up as victors this time defeating Cliff Olesen's Hawkeyes by a score of 16-14. The game was very close throughout but the Blackhawks managed to pull their team through once more and the Blackhawks will thus go into the finals to play the winner of the Bomber-alley Cat game. Again Cliff Olesen and O'Malley each scored 6 points and so did Merle Carlson of the Blackhawks, all of these high point men for their respective teams.

Two games are now left to be played. The first of these is between the Alley Cats and the Bombers. The winner of this game consequently plays the Blackhawks in the finals, in which the winner will be the official champion of the 1938 intramural basketball season of L. H. S.

Miss Willing—Sarah, if Mr. Simpie calls while I'm out, hold him until I return.

Sarah—Oh, miss, sure I wouldn't like to do that.

PROWLING AROUND

Elongated Loren "Bones" Stadum, junior reserve center, deserves a pat on the back for his brilliant comeback in the scoring column with his thirteen points in the Cass Lake contest. (Don't try to tell "Bones" that thirteen is unlucky)

Stadum's scoring success may restore his confidence in his ability which is far above par when he is "right". He has displayed fine shooting form in many practice sessions but his success fell short when he was inserted in the line-up in games. He was always dangerous so his good work was merely what his boosters had been waiting for. When "Bones" gets his scoring range he is virtually unstoppable because of his height and his method of shooting. Keep up the good work!

It was like "the good old days" for Don Lorentson when he topped the Prowlers at Bemidji with eleven markers. For several early season games, Don was high point man, then he went into a scoring slump but by his recent success, one may be quite certain Don is not out of it.

Gordon Caldis watched the entire game as a sideline observer for the first time this season at Bemidji. Caldis has been ailing with a sprained ankle, but since then has recovered fully.

The Prowler Co-captains, Roy Lee and Don Lorentson are tied for high honors in the individual scoring derby with one hundred and fourteen points apiece. "Dynamite" Roy was the first to eclipse the century mark. Although the co-leaders are tops in the scoring column, no opposing team can concentrate their defense on stopping Lee and Lorentson for the Leemen have at least six other cagers who can change the tide of battle by scoring efforts as all of them are dangerous scorers.

Repeating the innovation which proved to be such a huge success last year, the four classes of Lincoln high, by competing in a series of pep fests, will attempt to build up the necessary enthusiasm which must be present to make the Prowler basketball season a success.

Last year during the regular season most of the students and local residents adopted a "lackadaisical" interest in the team, but by the time the district and regional tournaments rolled around, pep was evident here in capital letters. Whether or not the pep fest contest was a strong impetus for this pep, we are unable to discern, but we believe it was very influential toward the enthusiasm of the student body, at least. This year the process will be repeated and if the same results are obtained, all and sundry in Thief River Falls will be very happy indeed. As individuals we must all do our part in promoting this pep and to attempt to insure against the disappointment which would occur if the Prowlers should fail to be successful in the remaining games and in the all important district tourney.

By a bit of added effort outside of the regular pep fests, the juniors succeeded in staging an excellent pep rally which should (and can if people are willing) inaugurate one of the most showy series of pep exhibitions locals have ever seen.

The Prowlers intend "to go places" this year and if local fans can furnish the punch to drive them across they will be returned the winners. More than ever before, every Prowlers opponent will be lying in wait to upset the powerful local squad and will be backed to the ninth degree by ardent supporters who would like nothing better than to see their favorites knock the Prowlers from their lofty perch. The Prowlers boosters must equal or, if at all possible, exceed all the efforts of the opposing supporters if the work of Coach Lee and his squad is not to be in vain.

Let's make this another Prowler year and show that Thief River Falls is more than just another city on the map.

Reserves Lose To Climax 35 to 23 Mon.

Climax evened the count with the Prowler "B" squad by outpointing them 35 to 23 in a dull battle at Climax on Monday. The defeat was the second of the season for the Leemen.

The tall boys in white played a highly effective zone defense on the small floor to hold the visitors from obtaining their usual quota of baskets.

The losers played a brilliant game in the first quarter to snatch a ten to six lead but as Espenson and company began to connect with the basket the lead changed hands with the score at the half 14 to 17 in the home boys favor.

The Climax quint solved the Prowlers defense for eight points in the third stanza while holding the visitors to five to run the lead up to 25 to 19.

The locals finally conceded Climax the game as the Climax offense showed its greatest efficiency in the last quarter.

Wayne Bredeson led the Prowlers in their scoring efforts for the upsteenth time this season with seven points. Eide and Lunke tied for second high with five markers apiece.

Two tall forwards, Amundson and Espenson led the Climax offense with thirteen and twelve points, respectively. Captain Vraa played a strong floor game and was a bulwark on defense.

BAND NOTES

The band is enjoying vacation this week while their director is attending the National School Band and Orchestra Clinic at the University of Minnesota. This Clinic will be attended by school, city, and college band directors from the states of Iowa, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, and Minnesota.

Last Wednesday the band made an appearance at the basketball game between Warren and Thief River Falls.

NOONDAY WARFARE AT END

Please note—ping-pong fans, that King Ping-Pong is one Reuben Mickelson, who gained his title after a set-to with Chester Anderson in the finals, winning all five games. Those eleminated in semi-finals were J. Borreson and Rovert Althoff, both were very good artists in the paddle game.

Queen of the Paddles is Yvonne Anderson, who defeated Elaine Helgeson in the finals by taking all five games.

Doubles tourney starts today with some speedy competition expected.

"PROWLERS" ON SALE

The "Prowler" put out annually by the graduating class of the year will go on sale Wednesday of this week for the price of one dollar. The raise in price is due to the fact that it has sixteen additional pages. It is the largest Prowler, containing 72 pages, since 1932.

There will be a contest held among the classes in seeing which class is able to sell the most.

There will be more pages of features and the pictures of the faculty will be individual.

PROWLER SECONDS DEFEAT ALVARADO BY SCORE 31 TO 20

Reserves Only Drop One Game; First String Undefeated

The Prowler "B" squad notched up two more wins on their victory belt last Thursday by winning a doubleheader at Alvarado. The Prowler "B" seconds routed the Alvarado "B" five 22 to 6 in the preliminary.

Eide and Bredeson sent the locals off to a 5 to 4 and the Leemen ran it up to 13 to 9 at the half. The losers launched a powerful offensive campaign in the third quarter but it fell two points shy of tying the score as the Leemen led 20 to 18. Paced by Rob Kielty, the winners staged an outburst of their own in the final quarter and exhibited their best defense of the game to hold the highly regarded Wilson crew to three tallies.

Playing an outstanding game, Perry Pederson tied with sniper Wayne Bredeson for high scoring with seven points for the winners. Rob Kielty tied with "Red" Eide with six markers after having a bit of bad luck on his scoring attempts in the first three quarters.

Captain Joy Ready, the Alvarado one man team, led the losers with ten points, identical to his total in the previous tilt between the two rivals.

In the first game of the evening Prowler "B" second stringers comprised of Flasch, Carlisle, Connery, Furuseth, J. Stadum and Shanahan walloped the Alvarado seconds 22 to 6. The winners displayed an enviable defense which held the losers to only two field goals.

Little Ed Flasch, the crowds favorite, was high for both squads with seven points. Hard working Furuseth and the improved Jewell Stadum added to the rout with six and five points respectively.

An excellent Alvarado band playing a variegated assortment of numbers viel with the popularity of the cage squads.

Blue Earth.—Believe it or not, but William Merrick in the 35 years he has been in the employ of a local garage has never driven a car. But at the same time he has sold hundreds of new and used cars to other persons. Although Merrick's employer started to handle cars thirty years ago when the first model T Fords were offered on the market, he has not driven a car of his own or one belonging to anyone else. It is doubtful whether there is another man in the country who can beat or even equal such a record.

State Crow Hunt Event Extended to April 30, H. C. Wenzel Reveals

The closing date for the statewide crow hunting contest has been extended to April 30 to permit sportsmen in the northern sections of the state to take part, announces Conservation Commissioner Herman C. Wenzel.

The fox division of the contest closes as originally scheduled, at the end of Wildlife Restoration Week on March 26. The widespread interest in the contest is indicated by the scores of clubs that have entered the statewide contest and are conducting fox hunts.

That the fox is a definite factor in the depletion of game birds, as well as a menace to farm poultry, is the conclusion of many Minnesota communities, with reports of additional counties offering bounties on foxes.

In a recent tour of inspection, Game Warden Hans Kruger of New Ulm found a fox den containing 84 pheasant wings. This indicates that the den had contained a brood of young foxes, whose parents were feeding them pheasants.

TOMATOES THRIVE IN FURNACE ROOM

Buffalo Lake—Tomatoes in January? Sure, even in February! Sounds strange but it's true. Now don't crowd because there aren't enough to go around since they were grown only in a flower pot with the necessary warmth furnished by a furnace. Charlie Hammann, genial janitor of the local public school, brought a flower pot full of dirt from his home one day and set it down in the boiler room. One day he noticed several sprouts coming up. Interested in what might develop, Charlie faithfully watered and cared for the green plant. It soon began to look like a tomato plant, so it was coaxed along until it blossomed. Now Mr. Hammann has a ripe tomato in compensation for his efforts.

PLUMMER VS. ST. HILAIRE

In a not too interesting game Plummer defeated St. Hilaire 23 to 9, last Tuesday. Plummer's experience and reserve power represented too great a problem for the St. Hilaire quint.

The use of substitutes by Coach Jaspers kept the usual Plummer lineup pretty well broken up. Every man but one saw action in the game and he was held back because of a recent illness.

Plummer led throughout the game and at no time was it ever pressed to exert itself to any extent.

PLUMMER VS. BEMIDJI S. T.

The Plummer Cards went down to defeat at the hands of the powerful Bemidji State Teachers College reserve team last Friday.

The Cards tagged their more experienced rivals very well for the first half and trailed only by three points at that time. In the third quarter the experience, weight and strength of the Teachers began to assert itself and they forged ahead slowly but surely. Nice baskets by Eckstein put them well out in front never to be headed.

For the Cards, Langlie played good ball as did Turstvist who shows signs of returning to his old form. Brody, Hanson, Pahlen and Mack completed the Plummer lineup.

The last few moments marked the appearance of the ever-popular "Bombers" squad, who showed the Bemidji team what it means to have a little fellow virtually run between your legs while trying for the basket. If you have not seen the "Bombers" or the Cards in action this year we advise you to see the Goodridge game, February 25 at Plummer.

INTRA-MURAL GAMES

The Intra Mural game between the Giants and the Cubs which was replayed because of a tie the Friday before, was won by the Cubs 15 to 9. Inability to hit the basket consistently and to control their passing attack cost the Giants their chance to win. For the Cubs, Decoteau played good ball; abled by Hovland who did some fine basket shooting in the last half.

The Giants started with a rush and held the lad throughout the first half. The second half, however, showed the Cubs coming back in a determined effort to pull the game out of the fire. Hovland scored twice and Decoteau added another which put them in the lead. Fouls proved costly as the Cubs counted heavily on them.

In the Friday night's game the downtrodden Braves lost another game to the Cubs. The Braves, although beaten, showed they have the real spirit and beat by staying in the game to the end.

The defeat of the Braves brings together the Giants and The Braves in the semi finals of the tournament. We advise you to see these games for they are worth seeing. The next game will be held the night of the Goodridge game, Feb 25, at 7:30 in the evening.

In one of the most exciting ball games of the year the Plummer Independent defeated the Thief River Falls J. and B. team by a score of 19 to 20.

Plummer scored early in the game and continued in the lead for the first few minutes at which time Thief River Falls forged to the front. At half time Plummer held the lead 16 to 14. Plummer was out front until the fourth quarter when Thief River spurted ahead. A late rally put Plummer in the lead again and then held the lead till the close.

McCrady and Karlstad and Langlie led the Plummer scoring with Schoenauer adding some fine baskets. For Thief River [illegible] and Dahl led the scoring with Lee playing some defensive ball.

In a record of the games won the Plummer team ranks with an average of .770 for the season's play, having won 10 out of 13 games.

A game between these teams in the future is looked forward to. There are chances the game will be played either in Red Lake Falls or in Thief River Falls depending on arrangement made by the Thief River Falls team.

M'CALL REPORTS ON SUCCESS OF WINTER SHOWS

N. W. School Head Says Attendance Totaled Fully 23,000 Persons

The twenty-eighth annual Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston, which closed on February 11, was the most successful week experienced in years, according to T. M. McCall, superintendent of the School and President of the Winter Show Board of Managers. A combination of open roads, good weather, show buildings filled to capacity with the best livestock, poultry, and crops exhibits from the Northwest, and excellent speaking programs, all contributed to the success of the week.

The program in addition to bringing to the Red River Valley audiences the latest information on crops, livestock, poultry, and 4-H club activities assisted in launching drives against cancer, tuberculosis, and other public health measures, and also inaugurated the program of noxious weed control sponsored by the State Department of Agriculture.

A new high record of attendance was made at the 1938 Show. Figures released by E. W. Spring, superintendent of admissions, indicates that more than 9,000 admissions were received at the shows and evening programs during the week, which exceeds the attendance records made in 1931 and 1935, other high record years. Attendance to all morning and afternoon educational meetings for men, women, 4-H clubs together with admissions to the shows and night meetings, total approximately 23,000.

The dates of February 6-10, were fixed by the Board of Managers for the 1939 Show.

Roseau Creamery Makes 615,445 Pounds Butter

The Roseau cooperative creamery in 1937 churned a total of 615,445 pounds of butter, of which 298,848 pounds were in the Land O'Lakes grade, it was reported by W. J. Strandlie, operator, at the annual meeting of the institution Wednesday of last week. An average net price of 37.7 cents was paid for all butterfat delivered during the year. Among the speakers at the meeting were C. C. Brahs and B. O. Norby of Thief River Falls.

Accidents are decreasing motorists instead of motorists decreasing accidents.

It looks more like a wrestling match, but it was a real knock-em-out battle in the Golden Gloves tournament, that brought young fighters from all parts of the state. Lester Miller, Bemidji, is going up in the air from contact with Gordon Retike, Fairmont, who won the decision.

Arnoldy Renamed Head of National Committee

The leadership Minnesota has shown in traffic safety and its reduction in highway fatalities in 1937 were cited as the reasons for the reappointment of John P. Arnoldy, chief of the model highway patrol of the Minnesota highway department, to the chairmanship of the enforcement committee of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, for the third consecutive year. Ray Ingels, president of the organization, in announcing the appointment from his offices in Sacramento Cal. pointed out that enforcement of traffic laws is a big factor in preventing accidents and injuries on the highway and called on Chief Arnoldy to prepare for the 1938 annual meeting of the association a report on the Minnesota highway patrol and Minnesota safety methods in an effort to arrive at a uniform procedure for the patrols and safety divisions of other states.

Public Fur Sale in St. Paul Set for March 3

The Minnesota division of Game and fish will conduct its annual sale of confiscated raw furs at the state office building in St. Paul on March 3, at 10 a. m., Harry E. Speakes, director of game and fish, announced. The sale will be by sealed bids and all inspection will be on the day of the sale, with no previous inspection provided on account of lack of space. The lot consists of about 2,000 muskrat, some mink, beaver, and other miscellaneous furs. The sale is open to all licensed raw fur buyers.

MINNESOTA ROADS SPAN THE WORLD ALMOST 5 TIMES

State Has 118,330 Miles of All Types of Highways Says Elsberg

Minnesota's roads, state, county and township, would reach almost five times around the world at the equator. This startling fact was shown by a compilation, completed this week by the state highway department, of county and township road mileages reported by county officials.

Because of the vast reaches between its widely diversified areas and industries, Minnesota has 118,330 miles of all type roads—3.8 per cent of the nations 3,033,713 rural miles, in contrast to only 1.2 percent of the nations population.

Of the total of all roads in the state, according to N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner, the state-operated trunk highway system comprises 11,353 miles.

County roads total 37,448 miles and township roads, 69,529 miles. Of the total county roads, 14,680 miles are state aid roads, paid for and maintained by the one mill road tax. Gas tax roads, known as county aid highways, total 22,768 miles.

The Minnesota highway system is comprised of 6,768 miles of roads established by an amendment to the state constitution in 1921 and 4,574 miles of highways created by subsequent legislative acts. This system is financed by two-thirds of the total state gasoline tax (one-third reverts to the counties), the motor vehicle license fees (less the cost of collection by the secretary of state's office), and federal aid (which is a return to the state, in part, of federal gasoline and motor vehicle excise taxes paid by the motorists in Minnesota).

There are 3,020 miles of paved highways in the state system, the Highway department figures revealed, 2,757 miles of which are constructed of Portland cement, 101 of bituminous concrete and 162 miles of all-type paving within the cities. The state system also has 3,895 miles of bituminous surfaced highways, 3,997 miles of gravel and 441 miles of earth roads, of which 31 miles are graded and drained.

If the state highway system alone, Commissioner Elsberg said, was laid around the rim of the United States, it would encircle the country with enough mileage of modern, all-weather highway remaining to run from New Orleans to the Twin Cities to Winnipeg and thence to Sitka, Alaska. It costs Minnesota approximately $8,000,000 anually to maintain this system, which endures adverse conditions of temperature extremes, heavy snows and precipitation encountered in few if in any other state maintaining so large a mileage.

Red River Valley History

Norse Relics in America

Every so often the controversy about the Kensington runestone is revived. Some months ago a writer in Minnesota History, the quarterly magazine published by the Minnesota Historical society sought to discredit the claims made by H. R. Holand of Ephraim, Wis., in a recent book championing the authenticity of the Kensington find which, as most readers know, is a stone tablet bearing runic writing telling of the visit of a party of Vikings to a point near Kensington Minn., in the year 1362. It was found allegedly by a farmer near Kensington in 1898.

Now the writer recently came east from Louisiana only to run right into, so to speak, a new controversy about other Viking relics. Readers will recall recent articles in the press dealing with a sword, battle ax and the handel of a shield found in a mine near Beardsmore in western Ontario, about 125 miles northwest of Port Arthur. The relics now are in the Royal museum in Toronto, Ont. a few hours before beginning this article the writer interviewed Dr. C. T. Currelly, director of the museum, who purchaser the relics for the museum from R. E. Dodd, the original finder.

Dr. Currelly said there was no doubt as to the authenticity of the three pieces, but what he does not know is how they got to the place where they apparently were found. Readers may have noted that others at and near the scene of the supposed find contradicted the statements of Dodd, asserting they had seen the relics elsewhere before they turned up at the mine. Dr. Currelly said he believed they may have been seen only after Dodd had found them as he had kept the articles in his home and elsewhere about a year before making his find known as he had not known the importance of the relics.

But the writer was interested especially in the fact that the museum director is inclined to agree with Holand that the Kensington runestone is genuine. "From what he has told me", Dr. Currelly said, "the swords and other relics found by people in the Red river valley and localities in Minnesota east of the valley tend to very strongly support Holand's and those of others who believe the runestone was really left by Vikings. Dr. Currelly pointed out that certain "blunders" connected with the Kensington find tend to add support as to its authenticity. He said the improper made "N" could quite logically have been the work of a Viking as few of them were good scholars and they had few occasions to do any writing. A geologist, he added, might have been able to date the stone if the bottom had been wiped instead of scraped. He said the farmer finder and others apparently balked the geologists unintentionally when they scraped the bottom of the stone with knives to remove the earth clinging to it.

Dr. Currelly stressed the fact that he is not an expert on Viking archeology. He is an Egyptologist. He said, however, that he is keenly interested in the Vikings and has followed writings about Viking finds with interest. The only three Viking swords he ever saw, we understand him to say, now are in the Toronto museum. The writer saw them. They are about three feet long and are almost severely plain. Two are of the 10th and one of the 11th century.

The latter has an ornament like a rosette at the end of the handle. The writer learned that at first the Viking warriors carried blessed relics, lucky pieces or ladies' favors in a small bag tied to the end of the handle, but later had them fashioned on the handle by the craftsman who made the sword, the rosette being an example. These swords found in England are valued at several thousand dollars each.

Whether or not the Beardsmore find will have any important bearing on the Kensington stone controversy, it will at least prompt some of us to look into the significance of collateral Minnesota finds, including the sword found near Ulen, Minn., and now in the Moorhead museum, the fire steels and axes and other relics now in the possession of Holand and perhaps others still in the possession of the finders. It is an established fact that some axes of the Viking pattern were made in France in a later period, while others were made in England to be sold to the Indians in American and Canadian northwest regions in the early part of the 19th century. So those who have or find what appear to be early Viking axes, or even swords, are advised not to get excited.

Dear friends:

There is a natural tendency on the part of a bereaved family to express high tribute to the deceased. To urge an expensive selection, beyond the family's ability to pay, is certainly not a reputable practice.

We feel that the family should be permitted to make its own selections guided by such information and suggestion as the funeral director may be able to offer.

We avoid any possibility of "over-selling."

Respectfully,

Carl B. Larson

Advice on choosing a wife?

Don't take it! Choosing a wife is one thing every man should do for himself. It's the same with a brewmaster in choosing hops. No laboratory rule-of-thumb can guide him. Only skill and experience can distinguish between the mere fragrance of ordinary hops and the medley of exquisite and elusive aromas that exudes from truly fine blossoms. The costly imported Saazer hops used in brewing BUDWEISER are chosen only after three separate and distinct judgings. Hence the sprightly bouquet that hovers over each glass of BUDWEISER . . . and the distinctive taste that sets BUDWEISER so vividly apart.

NOTE FOR HOUSEWIVES: A glass of cold BUDWEISER is always a thoughtful compliment to a husband—especially in the evening. Has he ever expected it when there was none in the icebox? Hockey Play-offs Friday and Sunday

At a States-Dominion hockey league meeting in this city Sunday evening, Emerson chose Thief River Falls as its opponent in the semi-finals, Hallock and Roseau being automatically paired. The Thieves will play the first game at Emerson Friday evening, and the second will be played at the arena here Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The finals will be played next week.

It was announced that the games will be played regardless of weather conditions, and that the ice sheet will be protected with straw if the weather turns warm before the week-end.

The Thieves and Emerson are well matched in the semi-finals. In the six games played this season between the two clubs, Emerson has won three, Thief River Falls two, and one ended in an overtime tie. The Thieves have scored 15 goals to 14 for the Canadians.

That Thief River Falls will be a strong contender in the semi-finals was demonstrated last Sunday when the Thieves skated, passed and shot the league leading Emerson team into submission scoring a decisive 5-4 victory in one of the hardest fought games of the season. The Thieves still smarting under the defeat by Hallock Friday opened with too much power for the Canadians, scoring three in the first period, Beverly on a pass from Taylor, Sampson on a solo and Hassan on a combination with the Julien brothers.

Dionne opened the scoring for Emerson in the second period to cut down the Thieves lead 3-1 but Rube Julien put the Thieves 3 up again scoring on a pass from Hassan. Johnny Wightman of the Emerson club was injured near the end of the second when he collided with Clifton. Wightman received two scalp gashes but returned to the game in the third and finished the game in the net for Emerson.

Clifton ended the scoring for the afternoon receiving a pass from Beverly in front of the Emerson net and banged it home, the score ending 5-4. The game was exceptionally clean, but four scattered penalties were meted out by referee McBride. Tranmetin, Thieves goalie, turned in his best game of the season, being almost invincible in the net.

Playing at Roseau Wednesday evening, Hallock went down to defeat at the hands of the Cloverleafs 5-4 in the first game of the semi-finals to be played by the two sextets.

'37 FINANCIAL REPORT MADE BY CITY CLERK

LIGHT PLANT PROFIT SHOWN AS $48,566.93

Cost Per Kilowatt for All Electricity Reported at 1.85 Cents

That the affairs of the city of Thief River Falls constitute a big business enterprise is revealed in the annual report of P. G. Pederson, city clerk, completed this week, which shows that total receipts from all sources in 1937 amounted to $194,749.85, while disbursements aggregated $181,053.54.

Included in the receipts were $64,050.98 from taxes, fees and other sources; $112,213.68 from the electric light department; and $18,485.19 from the waterworks department. Offsetting these items were disbursements of $85,476.81 from the general fund; $78,511.22 by the electric light department; and $17,065.51 by the waterworks department. The year closed with a cash balance of $24,114.28 in the city treasury.

An important section of the report covers the operation of the municipal power plant. Out of its receipts of $112,213.68 the department yielded a profit, which was transferred to surplus, of $48,566.93, compared to $45,730.87 in 1936, the previous high mark.

The overall cost per kilowatt of all electricity produced in the plant was shown to be 1.85 cents, compared to 2.06 cents in 1936. The decline in cost was due largely to the more abundant supply of water in Red Lake river last year, which permitted much greater use of the water turbines than in recent past years. All units in the local plant combined to produce a total of 8,256,170 kilowatts in 1937, while fixed assets of the plant, after deductions for depreciation, were reported to have a value of $325,006.39.

The bonded indebtedness of the city at the end of 1937 was $230,000 compared to $261,000 at the end of the previous year. Bonds outstanding include Auditorium, $15,000; arena, $15,000; paving, $49,000; electric light, $121,000; and waterworks, $30,000.

Included in major items of disbursements during the past year are: Fire department, $6,173.04; police department, $6,054.89; street department, $10,453.72; municipal court, $1,310.40; garbage disposal, $1,830; employes' liability insurance premiums, $1,594.28; city parks, $3,713.01; permanent improvements, $6,258.32; Auditorium, $5,620.33; and poor fund, $8,155.05.

17TH DISTRICT L. O' L. SESSION ATTRACTS 1200

Large Gathering Wednesday Attends Convention in Auditorium

STUART McLEOD AGAIN IS ELECTED CHAIRMAN

Address by John Brandt Is Feature of Meeting in Afternoon

One of the biggest gatherings in recent years, aggregating more than 1200 persons, attended the annual meeting of Land O'Lakes District 17 in the Auditorium in this city Wednesday. The annual reports of John Lager, district field man, and C. C. Brahs, manager of the local Land O'Lakes plant, were presented at the morning session, while John Brandt, president of Land O'Lakes Creameries, addressed the afternoon meeting.

All district officers were unanimously reelected for the ensuing year, including Stuart McLeod, chairman; F. S. Erdmann, Red Lake Falls, first vice chairman; Elis Grahn, Roseau, second vice chairman; Elmer B. Lee, Fosston, secretary; and E. D. Rydeen, Clearbrook, treasurer.

In the course of the afternoon Mr. Lager presented awards to winners in the district efficiency and cream grading contests. Peter W. Rutkowski of Gully won the efficiency contest for the third successive year with a score of 99.60 per cent, while Raymond Gordon of the River Valley creamery, 99.43 per cent, placed second, and Lloyd Rydeen of Warren, 99.31, placed third.

The cream grading contest was won for the fifth time by Norman E. Olson of Leonard with a rating of 97.66 per cent, followed in second place by Mr. Rutkowski of Gully, 95.30 per cent, and in third place by Otto Bakken of Oklee, 94.81 per cent.

Mr. Brandt, in his address, paid tribute to the creamery operators in the district for their highly efficient operation, saying that this is characteristic of all Land O'Lakes creameries due to the complete system of checking up on operations.

Mr. Brandt deplored the action of the Thief River Falls creamery in withdrawing from the Land O' Lakes marketing organization. He pointed out what Land O'Lakes Creameries had done toward the development of this community as a marketing center thru the establishment of the poultry plant here. He stated that if the organization headed by him were to wind up its affairs today, it would be able to pay all its debts and return to the stockholders many times their original investment.

In the course of his address Mr. Brandt referred to national problems, and briefly outlined what he considered a good farm bill, the chief feature being provision for giving the American farmer the American market to the full extent of his ability to produce.

The afternoon program, over which Mr. McLeod presided, opened with welcoming remarks by Mayor W. W. Prichard. The St. Hilaire band gave a concert during the noon hour, other musical numbers on the program including songs by the Hruby sisters of Goodridge, the Greenbush male chorus and a group of seven girls from the Fertile high school who, garbed in Scandinavian costume, sang a group of songs, some of them in Norwegian.

Land O'Lakes Shows Big Volume in 1937

The annual report of Field Man John Lager covering the activities during 1937 of the thirty Land O' Lakes creameries in District 17 reveals the prominent part played by the dairy industry in Northwestern Minnesota, no less than 6,299,441 pounds of butter having been shipped from the district, a slight decline from the total of 6,375,617 pounds shipped in 1936. Of the amount shipped last year 61.77 per cent was of the Land O'Lakes grade.

The report gave an exhaustive analysis of the records of the member creameries, making comparisons of such factors as cream grading, distribution of moisture and salt in butter shipped, fat content of butter, status in respect to mold, starch tests on pasteurizing cream, and reports on weights and workmanship and operators' efficiency.

The district efficiency average for all member creameries was shown to be 98.61 per cent in 1937, compared to 98.39 in 1936, 98.44 in 1935 and 98.14 in 1934, the mark for the past year being the highest on record.

C. C. Brahs, manager of the local Land O'Lakes poultry plant, Wednesday morning also submitted his statistical report covering operations of the institution in 1937, revealing that the volume of business handled during the year aggregated $898,650.

Jesus knew how necessary it sometimes is to be alone if one is to meet God. The saints of all ages bear witness to it.—Abraham at Mamre, Jacob at Peniel, Moses on the mountain top, Peter on the housetop at Joppa, Paul away in Arabia, Augustine at Milan "in the little garden" to which he often retired. These and ten thousand more have proved the wisdom of the Lord's direction, "when thou prayest shut the door."

DEAD PIG GIVES MAN BLACK EYE

Arlington.—It's usually a "Door knob" which is used as an alibi when someone shows up with a black eye that can't be explained, but Theodore Thoele of Arlington has a new and much improved story of how it happened. Greeted by his friends who asked where he got the "shiner," Thoele responded seriously, "from a dead pig." It all happened when Thoele was butchering a pig at home. The pig, with a stick between his hind legs, was being hoisted by Thoele. The stick broke suddenly and one of the pig's legs struck him a hard blow in the face. The discolored eye was the result.

CITE REASONS FOR AUTO CASUALTIES IN NATION IN 1937

Insurance Company Blames Too Much Speed and Too Little Courtesy

Basic reasons for America's shameful automobile accident record in 1937 were "too much speed and too little courtesy" according to a new booklet entitled "Death Begins at 40" just issued by the Travelers Insurance Company. The booklet presents a complete analysis of last year's traffic accidents, based on official figures from the 48 states.

There is no intention in the booklet, according to the editors, to advocate 40 miles an hour or any other fixed speed as a top limit. To quote: "there are times, as in heavy traffic or heavy fog, when 30 miles an hour is suicidal; other times when 50 miles an hour seems reasonable. Every driver should know, however, that if he does have an accident it is more likely to mean death if he is going fast."

Many of the features in the booklet have been prepared especially to show what happens in the higher brackets of speed. It is pointed out, for instance, that a car is four times harder to stop at 50 miles an hour than it is at 25, and nine times harder to stop at 75 miles an hour than at 25.

Another set of figures shows that if you have an accident while driving under 40 miles an hour there is only one chance in 44 that somebody will be killed but if your accident comes while you are traveling faster than 40, there is one chance in 19 that somebody will be killed.

While the folly of high speed provides the main theme of the booklet, there is a secondary theme which runs consistently through the issue. It is the need for courtesy on the highway.

In the last fifteen years, 441,912 persons have been killed in the U. S. by automobiles. This is almost double the number of American soldiers killed in action or died of wounds in all the wars this country has engaged in since its birth.

The insurance company will distribute two million copies of the booklet this year in the interest of street and highway safety. Single copies or quantities may be obtained gratis by writing the company or any of its agents.

SPANIEL PUP IN ROSEAU RETRIEVES FALSE TEETH

"Sissie", the little black Cocker spaniel which has homesteaded in the Times-Region office since over a year ago, dragged in a set of false teeth Thursday evening, says the Roseau Times-Region. Yes, sir, "Sissie" is some pooch.

Township elections will be held next Tuesday thruout the state and in these elections the conservatives will win almost without exception. Which is an encouraging thought for those who still classify themselves as conservatives. In local affairs spenders are not popular. When officers are chosen to manage the townships, the schools, the counties, the smaller cities, the creameries or other small organizations, votes go to candidates who have a reputation for being prudent in the management of their own affairs. The closer to home the problem is, the more conservative is out attitude toward it. It is when distances grow great that we become liberal. And this is the best reason in the world for continuing our small units of local government. They are not always efficient but they are economical and they are seldom corrupt. The tendency in recent years has been toward a concentration of power and responsibility in the larger units of government. The time probably is not far distant however when the state and national governments will have to turn back to the smaller units many of these responsibilities. When we finally discover that we have to pay the cost of state and national government just as surely as we have to pay the cost of our local government then we will be conservative in our attitude toward the larger units as we are now conservative in our attitude toward the smaller units.

On several occasions lately we have heard complaints from owners of property just outside the city limits. There evidently are disadvantages in owning property on the outside as well as on the inside of the border line. Judging from what we hear, however, the advantages of owning a home inside the limits outweigh the disadvantages. The one disadvantage is the slightly higher tax on city property but in the course of a few years there probably will be little difference in this respect. The advantages are numerous, one in particular being the zoning ordinance that provides reasonable protection against undersireable commercial activity that might have a far more damaging effect on residence property values than a few mills in taxes.

There are two thrilling events ahead of us—the play-off for the States-Dominion league hockey championship and the basketball tournament. The hockey team plays Emerson there Friday night and here Sunday afternoon. The total points of the two games will determine the winner. The elimination contest for the basketball squad starts at East Grand Forks next week, the regional tournament to be played here the week following.

"THE PRESENT INCUMBENT"

(Montevideo News)

In the political campaigns about to break out in the open there are several things that should be understood from the start. One of them is how to use the word "incumbent" which means the person who is now holding the office that somebody else wants.

It has been noticed that some writers refer to a person in political office as "the present incumbent." The dictionary says "incumbent" means "a person who is in present possession of a benefice or of any office." So that word "present" is surplus.

Another meaning of incumbent is "lying, resting." That is rather pointed. Admitting that political opponents might say that is what an incumbent is, it does seem the dictionary should be nonpartisan.

From the same source of information it is learned that another meaning for incumbent is "busily engaged, assiduous." That's more like supporting the administration. But, the dictionary says, this meaning is obsolete; the word hasn't meant that for a long time.

TWO VIEWS OF AMERICA

(St. Paul Dispatch)

There follow two quotations, one a view of America by an American, the other one by an English magazine.

Governor Benson, in his Lincoln Day speech, said, "The danger of Communism does not come from the handful of Communists in this country, but rather from that group which seeks to perpetuate an order founded on injustice, cruelty and inhumanity."

The English magazine Sphere writes, "The United States contains 6 per cent of the world's area and 7 per cent of its population. It normally consumes 48 per cent of the world's coffee, 53 per cent of its tin, 56 per cent of its rubber, 21 per cent of its sugar, 72 per cent of its silk, 36 per cent of its coal, 42 per cent of its pig iron, 47 per cent of its copper and 69 per cent of its crude petroleum.

"The United States operates 60 per cent of the world's telephones and telegraph facilities, owns 80 per cent of the motor cars in use, operates 53 per cent of the railroads. It produces 70 per cent of the oil, 60 per cent of the wheat and cotton, 50 per cent of the copper and pig iron and 40 per cent of the lead and coal of the globe.

"The United States possesses almost 11 billion dollars in gold, or nearly half of the world's monetary metal. It has two-thirds of civilization's banking resources. The purchasing power of the population is greater than that of the 500 million people in Europe and much larger than that of the more than a billion Asiatics.

"Responsible leadership which cannot translate such a bulging economy into assured prosperity is destitute of capacity. But pompous statesmen looking over the estate, solemnly declare that the methods by which it was created are all wrong—must be discarded—that the time has come to substitute political management for individual initiative and supervision."

WHAT A BEAUTIFUL SITUATION?

(Morris Tribune)

The president is entertaining one business group after another, evidently with the hope that some group may give him something that he would like to take, but so far the prescriptions have not been tasty. Now comes the "small" business men, and the very first thing on their program is loans to small companies. That ought to make a hit with the president because he has been strong on getting everyone tied up to the government. When we get to the point where everybody owes the government and the government owes it all to the sixty families, what a beautiful situation it will be! Yet that is just exactly where Roosevelt's borrowing and lending policies lead us to.

EMERGENCY TAXES STICK

(Springfield Union)

A Pittsburgh tax expert expressed the obvious in saying that "the danger of all emergency taxes, including a sales tax, is that while the emergencies pass, the tax remains." With rare exceptions this is true. Once a tax is levied on something, it is worse than pulling teeth to get rid of it.

No matter how loud our legislators shout for economy and reduced taxes as candidates for office, once elected their principal concern seems to be to find new sources of revenue, new things to tax. Instead of lowering the level of expenditures, the idea is to increase revenue.

Under the pressure of an emergency one tax after another is added to the long and burdensome list of impositions. The emergencies pass, but the taxes remain. At each election, candidates pledge themselves to do something about it. Instead of keeping their promises, they proceed to find new ways of securing revenue by taxing something else.

The wide difference of opinion which developed during the passage of the new farm bill continues now that the bill has become a law. The five Farmer-Labor members of congress from this state voted for the bill, while the three Republican members and the two Farmer-Labor senators voted against it. In Wisconsin seven Progressive members in the House and LaFollette in the Senate voted against it. Such division appeared in most of the Northwestern states. One of the weaknesses of the law is the inclusion of hard spring wheat in the controls in spite of the fact that there is never a surplus of this kind of wheat. Another weakness is that the dairy farmer is not sufficiently protected against diverted land being used to bring new competition to his business. In both these respects, the South was "in the saddle" when the law was passed. The compulsory features of the law will cause more debate on the farm than they did in the halls of congress if the time ever comes to invoke them. Since the law is now a law perhaps the wisest thing to do is to reserve judgment until we all see how the new provisions work out.—Morris Tribune.

A statement published in Minneapolis this week refers to the astounding fact that public relief cost the city $153,000 ten years ago and the past year it cost in excess of 18 million dollars. But here's the pay off for you, Mr. Citizen—less than 6 million dollars of this was raised in Minneapolis, the balance came from the state and federal governments. That's where you come in. The relief load is being carried by all the people, which means Todd county people. This is another way of saying that you as a taxpayer are interested in how relief is administered outside your own community.—Long Prairie Leader.

PUBLIC OPINION

The following is quoted from a letter to the Times from V. C. Noper, written last week from Arizona: "We have had a wonderful trip so far, but Minnesota is still on the map. We visited with relatives and friends in Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado, then to Portland by way of Salt Lake, Pendleton and the Columbia river highway. The roads are so built over the mountains that you can drive them in high gear all the way. Anyone that can drive along Ditch 18 need not worry about driving in the mountains. We were in Portland three weeks at Mrs. Noper's folks, and also visited Mrs. Bamford and Laura and Ruby Conklin Bamford. Business in that city is at a standstill due to strikes. We took the coast drive to California thru the big trees, some 385 feet tall and from 10 to 15 feet in diameter. They certainly were a beautiful sight."

ANNUAL MEETING TO DISCUSS WEED CONTROL MAR. 15

Township Chairmen to Consider Problem at the Auditorium

The annual weed meeting for Pennington county, called by Chas. Ommodt, state commissioner of agriculture, will be held at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday, March 15th, in the Auditorium at Thief River Falls, word from the state office revealed today.

This meeting is that called each year so township chairmen, county officers, municipal chief executives and others interested in the weed problem can get together and talk over the state weed and seed laws, latest eradication methods, spread of weeds and other points connected with the problem.

"The seriousness of the state's weed situation can not be over-estimated," Commissioner Ommodt said. "Governor Benson is actively supporting the department's control program and fostering the 'Minnesota Plan for Co-operative Weed Control and Eradication.' This plan will be among those discussed at the meeting.

"A demonstration of the seriousness of the state's weed problem was the data drawn by our experts which showed that a fairly accurate estimate of Minnesota weed losses during 1937 reached $36,500,000!"

State inspectors in charge of the meeting are C. H. Schrader and Jens Anderson.

Pennington Sportsmen to Engage in Fox Hunt in County Next Sunday

Approximately 60 local sportsmen are expected to participate in a fox hunt Sunday, arrangements for which were made at a meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club Tuesday evening. The party will assemble at the Palm Garden cafe Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and will make their drive on a tract of land five miles by three miles in dimensions southwest of the city. Harold Olson and Sig Myrom are in charge of arrangements for the event. At the meeting Tuesday reports also were made on the successful operation of feeders recently set up for game birds in this vicinity.

Fire Alarms Come Often but All Losses are Small

Five fire alarms were turned in during the past week, but no serious damage resulted in any of the cases. Chimney blazes occurred Friday at the Charles Fisher home and at the Fritz Christianson home at 510 State av. N., while the same day a coat caught fire in a room in the Northern hotel, causing some damage to the door and walls of the room. The department was summoned to the J. J. Richter home Tuesday evening when papers near the furnace caught fire, and earlier in the day responded to a call from the K. Culver home in the Horseshoe district when some rags caught fire.

DRIVES TO FIRE STATION TO HAVE FLAMES PUT OUT

Walker.—The old saying "If the hill will not come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the hill" was dramatically enacted in Walker recently when a truck which caught on fire was driven to the fire hall to have the flames extinguished. Early one morning, when a large truck drove up to a service station for gas, Walt. Sanders, the attendant, noticed smoke coming out of the box on the truck. It was found that an exhaust heater in the box had ignited some supplies, and the fire alarm was immediately sounded. The truck driver drove his truck to the fire hall where firemen quickly quenched the flames.

Sheriff Arthur Rambeck was in this community last week, serving notices to property owners along trunk highway No. 59, of a meeting to be held with officials of the state highway department. Construction of the highway is scheduled to begin as early in the spring as weather conditions permit.

A real estate transaction of local interest was completed recently when J. W. Anderson purchased from the Department of Rural Credit, the farm formerly known as the Martin Helgerson farm and now being occupied by the H. T. Hovden family. The Hovden family expect to move soon to their new home west of Thief River Falls.

Mrs. James Evenson left Saturday evening to spend a week with her cousin, Mrs. Fred Fredrickson and family near Viking.

MAN DARES COMPETE IN WOMEN'S FIELD

Granite Falls.—Women who go out and take away jobs from men have nothing on Odin Berge of Granite Falls, who holds down a man's job and competes with the women on the side. He thinks nothing of turning out a hooked rug that any woman would be proud to own, and he can wield a mean crochet needle if he feels so inclined. Evidence of his accomplishments is shown by the fact that even women admit he is good, particularly in the field of rug making. The Berge households are strewn with his rugs. His masterpiece is a large rectangular rug done in soft wool, which critical visitors says is an exact replica of one priced for $290. With colorful skeins of wool all about him, Berge bends over a roll of burlap and rapidly sticks a specially designed needle into design in the wool. Care must be taken that the needle protrudes through to just the proper depth and that the wool is drawn thru the proper opening in the burlap. A mistake in either of these acts would cause an irregularity in the rug. When completed, the back of the rug is shellacked and lined.

Highway Conditions Service Is Expanded

So that the driving public may keep reliably posted each day on road conditions in all parts of the state, the Minnesota Highway department maintains a "road condition" unit whose information is available free to the public on calling the department's central office in St. Paul.

Each district maintenance engineer is now required to call the central office every morning and present a conditions map of his district. This map contains every state highway in his district and tells its exact condition.

The service is also given weekly to all state newspapers and during stormy periods the daily press asks for reports several times a day. Automobile and travel agencies in adjoining states also receive road condition reports from the department but are required to pay the cost of transmision.

In the opinion of N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner, the unit is actually a safety service because by informing the public of road conditions travel is reduced on days when highways are dangerous and because caution is invariably practised once a driver knows that the roads are hazardous.

Tall Tales

As told to: FRANK E. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

The Faithful Crutches

MOST people know about the loyalty of dogs and other dumb animals that serve mankind, but they do not realize that inanimate things are frequently just as faithful. So says Herbert Sharples of Montreal, Que., who tells this story of the faithful crutches.

One day he saw a traveling doctor in the market place offering for sale a marvelous salve which, he claimed, would cure all ills. One of the first purchasers was a man whose legs were so shriveled and twisted that he had to use crutches to get along. One minute and eight seconds after he had rubbed some of the salve on his legs they were so straight and strong that he cast away his crutches and started to walk home without them.

The doctor, having no use for the salve left in the box by the man, and noticing that the crutches were very dingy from long use, began rubbing some of the ointment on them to see if it would brighten them up. At once the crutches began to dance and caper around him, stepping now and then to admire each other.

Suddenly they paused in their antics and the next moment they were trotting gaily down the street until they caught up with their former master. After that they walked sedately at his heels, ready to come to his assistance if need be, even though he had cast them off without a single thought.

LONG DISTANCE "REUNION" HELD

Preston. — Talking to your friends a couple thousand miles away is hardly considered an unusual feat in this day of radio and telephone, but holding a "family reunion" with 2,200 miles separating members of the family is not exactly an everyday occurrence in these parts of Minnesota. When the children of Mrs. Julia Brokken gathered at the T. A. Brokken home in Harmony last week in honor of their mother's birthday, it was somewhat unusual when the telephone rang and over the wires from Phoenix, Arizona came the voices of two children not able to be present to join in the family conversation. The 2,200-mile conversation lasted for 22 minutes with each member of the family on both ends participating. Those on the Harmony end of the wire included Mrs. Brokken and her thirteen sons and daughters and sons and daughters-in-law. On the other end of the wire in Arizona were two more children.

$2,069 IN JACKPOT

Ortonville—Estates in Big Stone county have their missing heirs as a heading by that title shows in the county's annual financial statement and only one of the missing heirs has showed up to claim his share within the last several years, as far as records have been able to determine. Today money due missing heirs totals $2,069.06. The total represents a handful of estates, records of which are buried in old courthouse files until someone comes along to claim and properly identify himself. The one heir to claim part of an estate in 1937 was William Nordmeier, for 27 years a resident of Faribault. He put in his claim for $80.31 as beneficiary to the estate of Fred Nordmeier last January, 16 years after probation proceedings had been completed. In the usual procedure, if heirs are not found during a period of 21 years after notices have been filed, the estates revert to the state.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., March 1, 1938—After selling rather dependably on Monday despite a liberal supply, and also moving with ease today on the early rounds, the cattle market favored the weaker side in the afternoon session according to the Federal-State Market News Service. However, prices were not [illegible] to any measurable extent and are only a shade below the peak reached on recent upswings. A small lot of weighty fed steers topped at $8.15 with medium to good offerings largely [illegible]. [illegible] heifers to hold steady, indicating that the market [illegible] had a weak undertone. Cows also favored the easy side, and vealers, while steady as a whole, found buyers talking lower. Scant supplies enabled bull prices to hold steady. Stockers and feeders are slightly higher for the week to date with choice yearling stockers on Monday moving at [illegible]. Dairy cows held steady with bulk to all interests at [illegible], good shipper selections hitting [illegible].

Hog prices hit and surpassed the [illegible] mark all in one jump Monday when prices soared sharply. The peak level of $9.20, the highest since early last November, found buyers generally to a bearish attitude on the current session and the top sagged below [illegible]. However, the Tuesday $8.95 top found the general market 25-35c higher than a week ago. As compared with the close of last week, prices on 200 lbs up are 20-35c higher, with the lighter weights 5-15c up. Sows advanced 25-35c so far this week.

Lambs extended the rather sharp advance scored last week. Light supplies contributed as the chief incentive for gains which during the first two days of this week measured 25-50c. Top rose to $8.75, with both choice grade fat lambs at [illegible]. Good grade slaughter ewes on the current session made $4.00. Native feeding lambs sold within a spread of [illegible].

Battle of Kites

Japanese kites are flown by groups of boys in Japan in competitions, or "kite battles." All sorts of decorative kites are made, light but quite strong, with special lines treated with a ground glass and glue mixture which makes them very sharp. In a battle the idea is to see who can maneuver his string against the string of another kite, cutting it so that it will fall to the ground. The boy who causes the most kites to fall wins.

TAXPAYERS UNIT CITES TREND FOR APPROPRIATIONS

Says Legislature Spent Six Times as Much in 1937 as in 1907

Legislative appropriations of the State of Minnesota are nearly six times as high in 1937 as they were in 1907, thirty years ago, according to a compilation of revenue appropriations of the state, 1907-1937, issued by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association.

Costs of state boards and commissions have steadily grown from $934,000 in 1907, to $5,977,933 in 1937, the highest ever reached in Minnesota. Appropriations for this item cover many new commissions and departments established in the 30-year period.

Cost of legislative sessions are three and one-half times as great now as they were in 1907. Such appropriations amounted to $189,975 in 1907 and leaped to $689,000 in 1937, the report shows.

State aid for schools received legislative appropriations of $1,644,000 in 1907 and $14,825,000 in 1937, which is an increase of over 900 per cent.

State institutions required $3,613,500 in 1907 and $10,256,385 in 1937. National guard and naval militia appropriations jumped from $234,000 to $637,222.

No relief costs were appropriated by the legislature during the entire period, until comparatively recent years, since these costs were borne by local government. The 1935 appropriation for such relief was $2,000,000 and the 1937 appropriation was $11,774,000.

1915	18,019,503.60
1919	32,044,022.26
1923	40,278,669.88
1927	40,630,334.28
1931	43,208,320.68
1935	43,922,997.74
1937	58,515,352.00

Fox Stomachs Wanted for Research by State Conservation Division

Fox stomachs wanted! The department of conservation urges all fox hunters and trappers who are interested in furthering research on the predator problem to send the stomachs of these animals to the St. Paul office.

Hunters report that they often find two or three pheasants or other birds while following the fresh trail of a fox and if a large number of the stomachs of these animals can be obtained and examined, the collective results representing all parts of the state will help regulate necessary control.

Both red and gray fox stomachs are wanted for the study of food habits. Wrap them securely in heavy paper and send them to the Biologist, division of game and fish, state office building, St. Paul, or give them to the local game warden.

In sending in stomachs the announcement reads, include information of the kind of fox or other animal, sex, place and date taken, and the name of the sender.

NATIONAL USED CAR TRADE WEEK OPENS SATURDAY

To Stimulate Automobile Industry During Week of March 5-12

A national drive to sweep the American automobile industry out of the current recession and stimulate American business generally was announced in New York today by Alvan Macauley, speaking for every American automobile manufacturer and the nation's 46,000 automobile dealers.

The campaign, to be known as "National Used Car Exchange Week" and scheduled for March 5 to 12, is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry, Mr. Macauley said. The President has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first cooperative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part.

The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars usually begin to move in greatest volume, Mr. Macauley said. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used car stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

STATE HIGHWAY BRIDGES TO GET ANNUAL CLEANUP

Structures to be Inspected and Get All Necessary Repairs

Bridges on the Minnesota highway system are due for their semi-annual renovating, according to orders issued this week to all state bridge maintenance engineers by N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner.

It is a policy of the Minnesota Highway department to check all bridges twice a year and to then make all repairs necessary. The check-up crews are composed of two men each. These are men employed the year around by the department and, therefore, the spring and fall inspection does not bring the need of hiring additional help.

Each crew is assigned to specific districts and is armed with such equipment as push brooms, sidewalk scrapers, a pick axe, chisel pointed bars, wrenches, sledge hammers and paint. The crews minutely cover each bridge and correct plugged drains, bent railings, missing bolts in railings, loose nuts on railing bolts, loose expansion plates and the like. Where rusty spots appear on steel work they are painted, dirt and sand from bridge floors and truss members and from the bridge seats around roller or rocker bearings are removed. Channels under the bridges are cleaned and all brush and trees under or adjacent to the bridges are cleared away. Excess washing or cutting of banks under the bridges are corrected as well.

If a bridge is in such shape that the two-men crews cannot make repairs, this fact is reported immediately to the bridge division of the Department and special bridge crews do the work.

The semi-annual inspection, according to Commissioner Elsberg, is both an economy and safety measure. If a bridge, like anything else, is kept up its lifetime is doubled or trebled. Moreover it is obvious that run-down bridges are highly dangerous mediums for carrying transportation.

There are 2,500 bridges of all kinds in Minnesota's trunk highway system. In other words, Commissioner Elsberg pointed out Minnesota is proud of her hundreds of streams, and finds them profitable from the tourist-attractiveness standpoint, but she also finds that bridging them costs money.

Bell Telephone System Reports Lower Income From 1937 Operations

A reduction in net operating income in 1937 as compared with 1936, despite an increase in volume of business and resulting increase in total operating revenues was experienced by the Bell Telephone System according to the 1937 annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. This company is the parent company of the Bell System, of which the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company and its subsidiaries, the Tri-State Telephone and Telegraph company and the Dakota - Central Telephone Company, are a part.

Greater volume of business, the report points out, resulted in an increase in total operating revenues of $56,500,000 or 5.7 per cent over the previous year. Expenses, however, increased $69,000,000 or 8.9 per cent and the net operating income of $207,000,000 was $12,500,000 less than in 1936.

Referring to the increase in expenses, the report says, "of this increase, taxes charged to operation accounted for $19,600,000 and wages increases for $27,000,000, or a total of $46,000,000. Thus, over two-thirds of the increase in expenses was due to increased taxes and higher wage rates."

Bell System taxes for 1937, including taxes charged to construction, totaled $137,600,000 or $20,800,000 over 1936 and $47,100,000 over 1935—an increase of 46 per cent in 1937 as compared with 1935. Taxes in 1937, the report states, were equal to $9.21 per telephone in service, $7.64 per share of common stock outstanding, or $525 per employee.

The total payroll for the year, including payrolls of the Western Electric Company, Inc., and the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., was $560,200,000, an increase of $86,200,000 over 1936. More than one-half of this increase resulted from the effect of wage increases, the report states.

Nearly 1000 advocates of good roads met in Minneapolis last week and passed resolutions protesting President Roosevelt's proposal to divert taxes collected from automobile users to other purposes than road building. Red River Valley History

By Wm V. Working

The writer has before him as this article is being typed a large plat showing the trackage of the Great Northern railway system and the years in which the different lines and branches were built with the mileage of each.

The trackage and distances listed for 1888—just 50 years ago next year are: Hinckley to West Superior, 69.78 miles; Crookston Junction to Fosston, 44.69 miles; the Kettle river branch (Sandstone) 2.61 miles, St. Cloud mill spur to dam (off Osseo line), 2.61 miles in Minnesota; Churches Ferry to St. John, 55.21 miles, in North Dakota; Wilmar, Sioux Falls, 146.91 miles, in Minnesota and South Dakota, a 3 mile terminal at Sioux Falls, and a line from Watertown to Huron, also 69.84 miles in South Dakota.

Besides, considerable mileage was built in Montana. But a glance at a map will reveal that many towns in the four states have reason to celebrate next year. We note that Rolla, county seat of Rolette county, North Dakota and a leading city in that part of the state, plans to celebrate its birthday anniversary July 4 with two added fete days. It may be that Fosston and Sandstone in Minnesota will observe the anniversary with fetes and perhaps some South Dakota and Montana towns also will celebrate. We note that the line left Carmen in Polk County, Minn., for the western part of that county known as the Thirteen Towns in 1888 spurring to life such towns as Mentor, Erskine, McIntosh, Fosston and Lengby, which was reached later.

It is interesting to study the trends of settlement as revealed in the railroad map we have referred to. The first year recorded is 1862 when a line was built from St. Paul to Minneapolis, a distance of 9.90 miles. In 1864 the line was advanced to Elk River, Minn., 28.60 miles, St. Cloud was reached two years later and Willmar in 1868. The line reached Breckinridge in the Red river valley in 1871 and from a point 4.9 miles north of Barnesville, Minn., to 2.3 miles south of Warren, Minn., in 1872.

The panic of 1873 halted railroad building and the line was not projected from the site near Warren until 1878 when trackage was laid to St. Vincent, Minn., and the Canadian boundary. The road reached Grand Forks, N. D., in 1880 and Larimore in 1881. Of course, the early lines were not Great Northern roads as that system did not operate then under that name, but were Great Northern projects in fact if not in name. The original road was the old St. Paul & Pacific and some of the Northern Pacific and (small) lines was acquired.

For instance, we know that the line from Casselton, N. D. to Mayville, N. D., built in 1880, was originally a Northern Pacific project.

Hutchinson, Minn., was reached in 1886 and while branches were being sent out in various directions in Minnesota and other states we find that work of projecting the main line through North Dakota and building branches was begun. Devils Lake was reached in 1883 and Minot in 1886. A branch went into Park River in 1884 Langdon the next year. By that time parts of the Turtle mountains area were fairly well settled and the enterprising James J. Hill and his associates of the executive board of what soon was to become in name as well as in fact the Great Northern system were quick to realize the need and importance of a branch into that section. The line from Churches Ferry to St. John folowed, in 1888, as we have pointed out. The year before a branch has been built from Rugby Junction to Bottineau.

The same year in Minnesota, as we noted, the line was built from Crookston (Carman) to Fosston. In North Dakota a line was extended from Grafton to Cavalier in 1890. Ten years earlier from Fargo to Grand Forks had spanned Hillsboro and other towns on that line.

Thief River Falls in Minnesota was reached in 1892. Walhalla, N. D., welcomed the road in 1897 and Hannah, N. D., the same year. Other branches followed with incidental births of towns. The plat shows that trackage was built every year from the beginning in 1862 except 1863 and 1865, both Civil war years; 1873—1874, a panic period; 1915, when war clouds loomed, and the period from 1918 to 1921, inclusive, when the World war and its aftermaths probably interfered, and in 1933-34, when the plat record ends.

The trend of settlement of the Great Northern to this vast region is without question invaluable as a matter of history. Without the foresight and helpful cooperation of Mr. Hill and his colleagues progress would have been much slower. For that reason celebrating towns undoubtedly will give the Great Northern due tribute, especially since it serves a much greater area far more importantly today.

GRYGLA

The Pinochle tournament was held in Bagum's Cafe last Tuesday evening. The first round was the village vs the farmers team. The village team won. Then a team comprised of both farmers and villagers played the Goodridge team. Again Grygla carried off all honors.

On Wednesday, Feb. 23 the conservation club held their annual meeting. The local club elected C. Lunde as president, S. Bjertness as vice president and F. Brown as secretary and treasurer. The purpose of the conservation club is to help decide when game hunting should be allowed or curtailed and to rid the community of pests such as crows, pocket gophers, etc. Appropriate speeches were made by Paul Lundgren, Mayor W. W. Pritchard of Thief River Falls, J. Dobben, Dick Williams, forest ranger and Mr. Borchert, supervisor of Game Wardens for this district. Music was provided by saxophone and accordion players from Thief River Falls. Mrs. Ole Petersen and George Hanson sang a duet.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Newton pleasantly surprised the A. M. Lloyd family last Sunday. Mrs. Newton and Mrs. Lloyd are sisters.

Miss Nadine Maney is up after being quite ill the past week. Her mother, Mrs. John Maney is again confined to her bed with rheumatism.

Born, on Feb. 21, to Mr. and Mrs. Wulf Schiernbeck, a ten pound baby girl.

Have you seen Lian's new back bar. It was installed last week, is very grand looking, has two large mirrors and indirect lighting.

Mrs. Gust Austad broke her wrist while roller skating last week. Louis [illegible] also sprained his ankle quite badly.

Fire destroyed the August Heyer home at Carmel about 5 o'clock, Feb. 21. They barely saved the bed and bedding. Personal belongings and furniture were burned. Mr. and Mrs. Heyer and child are staying at the T. J. Berg home for the present.

H. J. Armstrong is probably the first person to use an eggshell as a lamp shade. He wired a seven watt bulb and socket to a large plug in and the half eggshell serves as a lamp shade. Half eggshells either colored or plain could well be used on Christmas tree lights.

The first signs of spring appeared on Sunday. Bicycles, tricycles, wagons and boys were out enjoying the bare strips of sidewalk down town.

A party of boys motored to Malung Sunday evening. They took in the dance in the new community hall at which the Sleepy Valley cowboys played. The crowd filled the hall.

Miss Todnem of Bemidji started something. This last winter the club projects were mostly on upholstery and refinishing old furniture. For those who have worked on their old furniture, results are entirely satisfactory, tables, dressers, chests, chairs, dining and library tables etc are already on the list of completed articles. Anyone who was not a member but would like information on redoing their furniture may get the desired information from any club member.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Holbrook and family visited at the Wm. Holbrook home last Sunday. Mr. H. M. Moser who founded and published the "Grygla Eagle" for many years is making his home with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Holbrook. His health continues about the same.

The fire siren has been purchased and also tried out. It is effective but instead of being at the telephone office as was planned it is placed on the outside of Lunde's Drug Store. It behooves everyone to take note of it.

March 12, the "Big Nite" for [illegible]. It will take place in the Grygla school auditorium. The "Big Nite" is sponsored by the P. T. A. and everyone is invited.

Officers were re-elected as follows: president, Selvert Askeland; vice president, Martin Sandsmark and directors, Mrs. A. Erickson, Art Norby and Sam Anderson. C. W. Sande from Thief River Falls and John Lager, the fieldman both gave interesting talks. The output for 1937 was a large increase over 1936 and the outlook for 1938 is wonderful. Free lunch tickets were given out after the meeting so everyone dispersed to the various cafes.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

PROWLERS DOWN BEMIDJI SQUAD FRIDAY EVENING

Cass Lake Also Falls Before Local Onslaught

Last week the Prowlers chalked up two more wins to their fast-growing string by downing Bemidji 33 to 27 and Cass Lake 37 to 26.

Also, the pre-game dope that had the Lincolnites and the Resorters rated nearly equal seems now to have been rather tipsy. The prowlers started out strong and, whether it was very poor defensive play on the part of Bemidji or exceptional offense on the locals part, when the first quarter came to an end the scoreboard showed 11 to 2 with the Leemen out in front. When half the second quarter had passed that lead had been increased to 18 to 2 and it began to look as though the Prowlers were on another runaway. However, from then on Bemidji started a gradual recovery and at the close of the first half their two points had changed to eight while the local's total stood at nineteen. Again in the third period the invaders outscored the home team this time ten to five to bring their advantage up to fourteen points, 29 to 15. The last canto was just as decisively in favor of the Lumberjacks when they suddenly went on a last minute scoring spree which netted them twelve points and at the same time stopping the Prowlers with four. This brought the final tally to 33 to 27.

Don Lorentson paced the locals in scoring with eleven points to his credit. Lee, Nicholson, and Clark Mickelson followed with seven each. Olson was high for Bemidji with eleven points.

In the second game of their stand in defense of their undefeated record, George Lee's high powered Prowler quint swamped a fighting Cass Lake five, Saturday evening, by a 37-26 count.

The "Bones" Stadum participated in a second half scoring spree that netted him 13 points to grab the evening's scoring.

Editors note: Because of an error, the above account of the Cass Lake and Bemidji games was not included in last week's Progress. We wish to apologize to our readers and the team for this regrettable mistake.

Rose-Noble, English Coin

A rose-noble is an English gold coin which was current in the Fifteenth and Sixteenth centuries. It was so called because it was of the same value as the noble, a money of account, and was stamped on one side with the figure of a rose. It ceased to be coined in the reign of Henry V.

Senior Aces Win Two B. B. Tilts Last Week

The Senior Aces improved their record last week by winning two basketball encounters out of three consecutive days. The Aces copped victories over St. Hilaire and Clearbrook, but bowed to Oslo.

In a fierce scoring encounter the Aces went down to defeat at the hands of Oslo Tuesday evening by a close 42 to 39 count. The winners were admittedly in their best form of the season and just couldn't miss the hoop. In fact, Oslo five from almost certain defeat. sults in relation to attempted shots your scribe has seen all season.

The Aces grabbed a quick lead and were tied by a 10 to 10 score at the quarter, led 21 to 20 at the half but later some sensational shooting by Johnson and Larson gave Oslo a commanding lead. The seniors waged a fast offensive advance of their own in the last quarter to narrow the big lead quickly but the final whistle saved the Oslo five from almost certain defeat.

Oleson with twelve points, Carlson with ten and Jaranson with eight were leaders of the Aces attack while Johnson and Larson who scored sixteen and eleven points respectively engineered the Oslo triumph while their team mates were held closely in check.

Playing their poorest ball of the season in the local gym Tuesday after school, the Aces walloped St. Hilaire 38 to 24 in a loosely played contest. After a slow start the winners built up an ever increasing lead in the last half after leading by a meager 15 to 12 score at halftime.

Oleson, Carlson and Jaranson were again scoring leaders for the Aces with thirteen, eight and six points respectively. Captain Carter, Kirkconnell and Prestby tied with seven points apiece for St. Hilaire honors.

The Aces played their best ball of the week in downing Clearbrook 32 to 30 Thursday evening there. The senior outfit played brilliantly in the first quarter to set up a strong lead but suffered a temporary lapse of consciousness in the second quarter to see it waste away into a 17 to 11 Clearbrook lead at the half. The Clearbrook margin widened early in the third quarter but the Aces regained their old time form to overcome the lead and stalled for time as the seconds ticked away to give the Aces their win.

Clarence Haug, erstwhile first team performer, showed his best form of the season, to score eleven points, intercept countless passes and break up Clearbrook plays before they were even started. Salveson with six and Oleson with four were next in line.

Tehennepe was Clearbrook's star and was top scorer for the losers with nine points followed by Bierbaum with seven. Berg, a former localite, played in the Clearbrook starting lineup.

The victory was the fourth in seven starts for the senior squad. Needless to say, the Aces were a tired lot after completing their third game, and for several the fourth game, in three days.

The Aces' next scheduled game was at Plummer last night.

GIRLS TUMBLING

The girls tumbling team made their first public appearance at the Warren game last Wednesday.

They wore their new outfits which were rompers of pastel colors.

The team is made up of the sixteen best girls out for the sport. Those on the team are A. Lund, M. Hellquist, D. Snelling, Arros, A. Hanson, Grinde, P. Simonson, Nopper, C. Engelstad, Ryan, Burrell, Dahlquist, Quist, Borgen, Lorentson and Helgeson.

They did the single forward roll down the mat, doubles, back, backward roll, down again, and the dives back. Several of the girls dived over as many as seven girls. The box was taken out and the girls hurdled it and then did the regular feller and dives.

Alvenda Lund, Helen Arros, Joan Dahlquist succeeded in doing the handspring over the box.

The team shows promising advancement in future tumbling. They received a large hand and we hope that they will make a second appearance soon.

SIMONSON, QUALE TAKE FIRST IN DECLAM CONTEST

Place First in Dramatic and Oratorical Divisions

Thursday, February 24, the Sub-district Declamation Contest for District 31 was held in the Alvarado High School Auditorium.

The three local representatives did excellent work and brought back high honors, with Robert Quale and Harriet Simonson winning in their divisions.

The results are as follows:

Oratorical division: "The Big Parade"—Robert Quale, first; "The Bargain"—Harweydale Muruska, Warren, second.

Damatic Division: "Eyes"—Harriet Simonson, first; "Turkey Red" Bernice Hoolo, Warren, second.

Humorous Division: "Punch, Brothers, Punch"—Helen Holmgren, Warren, first; "Tipping of Teacher", Mylah Sande, Alvarado, second.

The Brass Sextette and Clarinet Quartette of Alvarado each presented a number.

Tuesday, Harriet Simonson and Robert Quale went to Crookston for the District Contest.

A lot of credit goes to the assistance of the Coaches, Miss Stenerson and Mr. Peterson, for their work in coaching the contestants.

PROWLING AROUND

The intramural basketball season just completed is one of the most extensive basketball programs of its kind in northwestern Minnesota. Introduced last year by the talented Mr. Gabrielson, this new type of basketball competition has given almost one hundred boys the opportunity to participate in the winter athletics which would have been denied them but for this program. The intramural idea has been a great improvement over the one sided interclass schedule which was formerly used.

The intramural league has acted as a proving ground for second team players and has given freshmen and sophomores opportunity to gain more experience and has given the participants a lot of enjoyment on the side. This year's nip and tuck race found the top teams losing at least two games with the cellar teams winning three or more contests. Mr. Gabrielson deserves congratulation of the success of his program.

Seven of the Senior Aces are captains in the intramural league. Clarence Haug captains the league champion Ally Cats. Ken Jaranson leads the second place Blackhawks. Jerome Salveson captains the Cornhuskers; Cliff Oleson tops the Hawkeyes. Glenn Carlson's proteges are the colorful Bombers; Wallace Tunberg leads the Rebels, while the Gophers are tutored by Bob Hanson.

Roy Lee remains as scoring leader for the Prowlers while Wayne Bredeson holds a strong lead over his Prowler "B" team mates. Cliff Oleson tops the Senior Aces as well as being high scorer in the intramural conference.

Mahnomen is favored to clinch the district 30 basketball championship, Bemidji the district 29 crown, and Argyle the district 32 honors with Middle River, Roseau, the Lancaster also highly regarded. The Prowlers are slight favorites to repeat in the thirty first district with Warren as the next best bet. The Prowlers have whipped Warren and Bemidji twice and Mahnomen once. If the dope bucket is not tipped, these four favorites will be the squads participating in the Region 8 tourney here March 17 and 18.

Mr. Gabrielson's brothers, Stan and Milt, have been the recipients of much favorable comment in Twin City newspapers as coaches of the Austin and Rochester swimming teams, respectively, which placed high in the Minnesota prep meet in Minneapolis recently. Our own Mr. Gabrielson is no small shucks as a swimming coach himself as he has piloted his "dry land" swimmers in auspicious performances in the Crookston A. C. pond this winter. Give the local swimmers a pool to practice in and they will match strokes with the best of them.

With the regular basketball schedule completed, the Prowlers will now concentrate their efforts toward their next objective, the district championship. The remainder of this week and the beginning of next week will find Coach Lee and his proteges working on new strategy and perfecting the old to attempt to retain their district title of a year ago. Accordingly, Thief River Falls is casting its eyes covetously in the direction of East Grand Forks pondering over what the future holds for them and the local team. The downtown quarterbacks have joined the hot stove leaguers in predicting the possible results of this yearly classic.

The average concensus of opinion appears to give the Prowlers the advantage with Warren regarded as a serious threat to Prowler dominance. Crookston and East Grand Forks are regarded as dark horses with an outside chance of toppling either of the two outstanding teams of northwestern Minnesota.

In agreeing with most of our fellow townsmen, we also give the Leemen a slight preference over its rivals, if everything goes according to Hoyle.

In our final deductions, we reached several conclusions as to why the Lincolnites should cop the crown. The Prowlers will have the advantage over Warren in that the game will be played on the spacious East Side court whereas the Ponies play best on their own relatively small floor. We believe the Prowlers are in better condition than the average of their foes and undeniably have by far the strongest reserve corps in the district. If the Prowlers use their terrific speed and deception to the fullest degree, the opposition should succumb. Then again the comparative records gives the Prowlers the edge as they have defeated each of the three strongest contenders twice with no defeats. It is usually wise to pick a team to win until it is defeated. With these dominating factors in mind, we pick the Prowlers to triumph.

While reaching our decisions, we were a bit skeptical over the Prowlers chances mainly because of past history. This district is notorious for its destruction of tournament favorites and in past years the Prowlers have been the chief victims. Few will forget the 1935 "wonder team" which swept through opposition only to be tripped by Crookston in the semi-finals of the district chase. It may happen again.

The Warren squad showed Thief River Fans that the Prowlers are not invincible by losing a one point decision in what was anybody's ball game. One "off night" for the Prowlers and their chances for the 1938 honors will be gone.

"Uneasy is the head that wears the crown" is a saying that fits well with the situation at hand. Right now the Prowlers' crown is rather shaky with several foes straining to knock it off in no uncertain terms.

Despite the foreboding thoughts of past experience we believe the Prowlers will emerge as the 1938 titleholders after a close score. However, we must all remember that anything can happen in basketball, and that the Prowlers must win three more ball games before they are district champions.

TEACHERS TRAINING

The William Gilbertson home was the scene of a beautiful Valentine party on February 11. The Misses Myrtle Starr and Grayce Hofdahl were hostesses for the members of the Training Department, Miss Stapleton, and Miss Nelson.

Among the many interesting games was the profile game in which the students found out how they really looked. In another game some students made very good pigs and dogs. Prizes were awarded for various games.

A very delicious and appropriate lunch was served after the games. After lunch a very pleasant surprise was afforded the guests when Miss Nelson and Mrs. Gilbertson sang two very beautiful duets, "Rose of My Heart" and "Prayer Perfect". Miss Nelson contributed two humorous selections "Shortenin' Bread" and "Mumps".

The students have been preparing for their practice teaching in rural schools, which commences March 7.

Five students have taught singing games, while others ditto'd copies of songs to be used in rural schools. These games will be demonstrated at the Teachers' Institute to be held at the court house Thursday and Friday of this week. The students of the Training Department will attend both days.

Arithmetic was eliminated from the schedule by a final examination on Monday.

BAND NOTES

Thief River Falls may be one of the cities selected in Northwest Minnesota for a band clinic next fall. Director Riggs was appointed a member of the Northwest District Committee to plan three clinics for next year. T. W. Thoreson of Crookston is chairman of the committee. Other towns under consideration are Moorhead, Bemidji, and Crookston.

Mr. Riggs enjoyed a very instructive three day session at the Regional Clinic last week. His father, G. Oliver Riggs of St. Cloud is to be a member of the State Board of Directors next year, and will be in charge of Municipal Band affairs. Highlights of the clinic were the playing of the University of Minnesota and various school bands, and a rare opportunity to attend a rehearsal of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

The brass sextette and the clarinet quartette will give a performance at Grygla on March 4.

If Thief River Falls is represented in the finals of the district basketball tournament held at East Grand Forks, a twenty-five piece pep band will have the privilege of going there to play.

MARCH MEDDLING

By this time you've all seen that cute little clock Cliffy totes around—but will somebody please tell me what he sets the alarm for?

And what group of party-bound seniors bumped into what car mistaking it for what group of party-bound seniors at what place?

We think there's at least one advantage in not being able to skate over the week-end—it gives "Alfy" a chance to catch up on his studies.

And we wonder if three girls didn't develop a little muscle moving that shovel around about last Friday night. And they did push so hard too.

Gordon and Bum were quite the men of the evening last Saturday night with their choice of two parties. They finally chose Yvonne's tho, hmm I wonder why.

Wonder who Iva likes, Baldy or Cliffy, and Marj seems to have had her choice but we believe she has chosen a person she thinks is just ok ("Zip" M.)

And we hear that little Denny Baken was quite disgusted at those certain seniors who sat on the floor and played with his electric train and tractors. We don't blame you, Donny, and especially when they did it for two nights.

Mistaken Identity

Black—Hello Smith! You've sure changed since prep school.

White—My name's not Smith and I never went to prep school.

PROWLERS TRIP WARREN PONIES BY 32-31 SCORE

Local Quint Far Below Early Season's Form

A capacity crowd packed the Municipal Auditorium last week to witness a Prowler cage machine stage a last minute rally to edge out the highly touted Warren five 32-31 by virtue of a successful free throw by Earl Nicholson after the final whistle.

The encounter was an appropriate finale to the locals hoop campaign which resulted in six wins and no setbacks. Followers of the indoor pastime will recall that the other setto with Warren, played earlier in the season, also ended in a win for the Gold and Blue, that time by a 21, 14 count.

The men of Herschel Lysacker snatched an early one point lead as Ken Howe converted a try from Charity Lane. Nicholson put the locals into the lead a moment later via the same method. Messrs. Lee and Lorentson accounted for the scoring during the rest of the period.

Warren came back fast in the second quarter, finding the hoop for four tallies before the echo of the opening whistle had died away. Local supporters had to be satisfied with two baskets by Lee and Nicholson. The remainder of this and the third stanza was played on almost even terms. This portion of the game was marked by the inability of the Prowler sharpshooters to connect with the basket. The scoreboard at the end of the three-quarter way mark showed the Leemen to be at the short end of an 18 to 15 score, and the stage was set for the memorable fourth quarter.

Haughom decreased this lead by one point as he sank one out of two free shots. Lee repeated his tactics and the count was 18-17. Nicholson then contributed his part to the Prowler cause by sinking a toss from the center of the floor. Wilson retaliated by tallying from outside the free throw circle. Haughom failed to tie the score when his gift toss went amiss. Lee made up for this shortcoming, however, as he scored one more point. With less than a minute to go, Warren forged into the lead with a two point advantage. At this moment Reuben Mickelson, the Junior Lope, took the hero's role as he completed a try from far out.

Just before the final gun sounded, with the score tied, a foul was called on a Pony guard. Earl Nicholson proved his mettle in the tense situation by tossing a perfect gift toss through the hoop to prevent the tilt from going into an overtime period.

Most of the credit for the victory must be given to Reuben Mickelson and Nicholson for their work in the closing minutes of the ball game.

The Prowler "B" squad copped the first game of the double header as they took a 26-12 decision from the Warren "B's". In comparison, the reserves demonstrated far better form than the Prowlers according to their expected showing.

Eide paced the shotmakers with seven tallies. He was followed by Bredeson, and Jung of the locals, and Engelstad heros of the visitors.

Juniors Present Pep Fest for Warren Game

A very entertaining pep fest presented by the Junior Class was held last Wednesday prior to the Warren-Thief River Falls game. Much enthusiasm was created among the students when the Juniors displayed their class colors in snappy creations of maroon and gold. These hats were made by a special committee of girls.

To begin the pep fest, the Juniors headed by a student carrying the Junior flag, marched up the stairs from the gymnasium singing "The Old Grey Mare." A short skit was then presented in which Warren was depicted as a sick pony. Three veterinarians succeeded in removing various articles from the internal organs of the pony. Among these articles were a clock, a tin can, and a sign stating the final score of the game. The skit succeeded in bringing much laughter from the students.

Ten girls, dressed in short dresses to portray little girls, and carrying their dolls, then marched up on the stage. They appeared very shy and continually licked their suckers. They sang the popular song "Ten Pretty Girls" with many becoming motions while two comic policemen did their best to attract attention. The girls were accompanied on the piano by Daniel Gerstner.

After this, the two Junior cheer-leaders lead the students in many yells. Again the policemen tried to show their helpfulness.

The Junior class president, Loren "Bones" Stadum gave a short pep talk on the loyalty to the school song. He also asked the students to co-operate in singing it.

The pep fest ended when the students sang the school song while the basketball boys marched out. The students heartily enjoyed this pep fest given by the Juniors and are looking forward to the next one which will be presented by the Freshmen.

From The Little Black Book

Hmm—t'was a most hectic week end to be sure—there was a grand round of parties too—Take that blow-out at Bundy's—or that affair at Baken's—and possibly a minor hen party too—and this was all on Friday night—

And time wasn't wasted on Saturday night either—no need for it with an open-house at Yvonne's and a foursome at Jean L.? A fine time was had by all—playing pool, hearts 'literally or technically', and what not?

Imagine keeping out a little Freshmen girl until the wee hours of the morning—Jimmie B. seems to have had something to do with it.

And then that select (?) group of Jr. girls had themselves a super-colossal time at R. L. F. on Saturday eve.

Red's got a gurrul—she's a senior—very very short—and she lives on the East Side—and Red was over there Saturday night too—

Where was Hecky, that man of all men, on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday Eves? Hmmm—me thinks he's got a gal on his string.

I guess Baken and Bennes sure do rate—not satisfied with T. R. talent—they're escorted by Emerson lads, mind you—

Seen here and there on Sunday afternoon: Don L. with a carful of fems—can you imagine that? Bob and Keggar strolling around enjoying the weather (?); Evelyn and Add taking snapshots.

So we'll see you tomorrow at the Shriner's Circus—or possibly at the States Theatah—deah—deah—

"Lights Out" seemed to be the theme song at that Freshmen party Saturday eve—mmmm—such youngsters too—

ALLEY CATS TAKE CHAMPIONSHIP IN INTRAMURAL RACE

Blackhawks Lose in Final to Favored Team

The favored Alley-Cats led by Clarence Haug and Bob Kielty ran through strong opposition to win the intramural championship in convincing fashion last Friday, by tripping the Blackhawks 24-16. Although the opposing teams were primed for the dreaded Alley-Cats during the entire tournament, the champions won every game by a good margin.

At the end of last week, there were three teams remaining in the tournament; they were the Bombers, Alley-Cats, and the Blackhawks. Of these three teams, the Bombers had to play the Alley-Cats first, the winner then scheduled to play the Blackhawks, who automatically drew a bye in the semi-finals.

The Bombers went in as the underdogs, but showed a fighting spirit throughout the first half. Haug and Kielty were the main cogs in the Alley-Cat team, while for the Bombers "Tunney" Carlson and Melby did the most aggressive playing. At the half the Bombers led the favored Alley-Cats by an unsafe margin of 2 points, the score being 8-6. But in the third quarter the Alley-Cats fought their way up to 16-13 lead. They maintained this margin and while holding the Bombers' scoring to only 5 points in the last quarter compared to their own 9 points, they managed to live up to predications by defeating them by a final score of 25-18.

Thus the Alley-Cats went into the finals to play the Blackhawks. The Blackhawks and the Alley-Cats are both the favored teams of the league, and therefore everyone expected a real battle. The Blackhawks lacked one of their best men on their team, "Unc" Larson. The team showed his loss greatly, and together with that and also having hard luck on shots, the Blackhawks slumped in the entire first half. The score at the end of the first quarter was 11-2, and at the half, 12-3, in favor of the alley-Cats. The Blackhawks struggled hard to regain confidence and managed to drop in a number of field goals in the last half but handicapped by time, their come-back was of no avail, and the game ended 24-16, with the Alley-Cats victorious. Jaranson starred for his team, the Blackhawks, with 8 points, while the Alley-Cat's high point man was Jack Hess with 10 points.

With the tournament completed, the intramural basketball season is now at an end, the favored Alley-Cats having emerged champs. The league has had several good intramural teams which did not receive much credit, as they did not reach the latter part of the [illegible]. Anything can happen in basketball, and many of the teams were eliminated as results of minor upsets in the first round.

DEBATE

The Lincoln High school debate team bowed once again to a district rival, when a strong Twin Valley squad, gained a two to one decision over the local affirmative team.

Margaret McKechnie and Robert Smith upheld the stand for Thief River Falls in this close contest. An audience, rather small but larger than usual, witnessed the debate. Although the team was defeated, the decision was close enough to make it very interesting. The meet with Twin Valley closed the debate season for Lincoln High School and also closed the high school debate experience for the three senior debate devotees, Margaret McKechnie, Robert Smith and Gordon Holte. James Borreson, Sophomore, will strengthen Lincoln High School's team for an undefeated season next year.

FATE has a curious way of arranging things. For example, if Percy Longman hadn't written "The Turning Road," and if "The Turning Road" hadn't proved to be a best seller, and if Bert Mayfair hadn't been born in a little New Hampshire town called Carltonham—there would be no story. There is a little matter of shrewdness, too, to be considered, but that is incidental.

Bert was a prop boy for the Falmouth Films corporation, in Hollywood, and because he hailed from a hick town in New Hampshire his working mates were constantly kidding him.

Bert had been with Falmouth two years and was still a prop boy when Percy Longman's "The Turning Road" was hailed by the American public as a best seller, and Falmouth bought the screen rights.

Gene Sawtelle, Falmouth's ace director, was assigned the job of making the film, and Bert Mayfair was assigned to the Sawtelle lot. Before work was begun Bert read "The Turning Road" from cover to cover, and was quite thrilled to discover that the novel's setting was a small New Hampshire town. Instantly an idea occurred to him, a gleam of hope. Excitedly he went to Director Sawtelle and explained that as he was a native of a small New Hampshire town it might be possible for him to provide information that would assure accuracy in details regarding the new production.

Director Sawtelle listened and at the same time glanced through half a page of manuscript. When he had finished he smiled paternally and patted the young man's head. "Thanks, sonny," he said. "I'll tell the scenario writers about it."

Crestfallen, Bert turned away. Another hope blasted! Another of the few chances of attracting attention that had come his way gone up in smoke! He felt saddened and a little hurt, but he didn't waste time brooding and airing his feelings to his mates. Instead he continued to go about his work with the same interest and willingness as before.

And so work on "The Turning Road" was begun.

At last the thing was done and the first prints made. Directors, assistant directors, prop boys, writers, actors and dozens of others trooped into the projection room to witness the first run.

It looked good. Everyone said so, everyone agreed that the film was destined to have a big success. There wasn't a thing wrong with it. Not a thing. Or that is, everybody but Bert Mayfair thought there wasn't. Bert, sitting in the back of the room, watching alertly, suddenly sat upright in his seat and his pulse began to quicken.

After the lights came on he made his way to the group of smiling men which included Director Sawtelle, and waited patiently several feet away in the hopes that the great man would catch his eye and ask what he wanted.

But the great man didn't. Bert followed the group out into the open air and finally took his courage in hand and stepped timidly forward. "Mr. Sawtelle," he began. But Mr. Sawtelle merely smiled and moved off. "Some other time, Sonny. I'm busy now."

Bert hesitated and then for the first time a feeling came over him of reckless abandon.

"All right," he called bitterly. "If you want that picture to become an object of amusement to every one in the east, don't listen!"

Mr. Sawtelle swung around. He scowled, considered Bert's flushed face a moment and asked: "What was that, you said, young man?"

Bert gulped. "I said that unless you want your lousy picture to become a joke in New England, you'd better change that scene in which Miss Hemingway dials police headquarters."

Director Sawtelle was on the point of saying: "Listen you young upstart, you're fired!" But instead he came back and towered over the prop boy, and barked: "Yeah? Why?"

"Because," said Bert with a great deal more spirit than even he knew he was capable of mustering, "in Bellshire they don't have dial telephones. I know, because I was born and raised in Carltonham, which is the next village, and there isn't a dial phone within 50 miles!"

. . . That night Bert Mayfair wrote a letter to Agnes Hopkins, who was his sweetheart, residing in Carltonham, N. H. It read in part as follows: "And now that I have been promoted to assistant director, honey, you can come out and we will be married. I am going to ask you to do something that may arouse your curiosity, but please comply with my request without asking any questions. I will explain more in detail when I see you. What I want you to do is this: The next time you are in Concord go up to the State House and find out if there is such a town in New Hampshire as Bellshire. If there is, please find out for me what kind of telephone service they have. If you find that it is a dial service, please never mention the matter to anyone once you arrive in Hollywood. Of course I realize that dial phones have been installed in a few of our rural towns, but I am just anxious to learn if Bellshire is included in the list for reasons that are important to us both."

More Than 100 Clubs in State Predator Contest; Event to Close April 30

Over 100 Minnesota sportsmen's clubs organizations with an aggregate membership of better than 10,000 are now entered in the statewide predator control contest sponsored by the Minnesota department of conservation.

With the extension of the closing date of the entire contest to April 30, the entry date has also been extended to March 31, and the date for final reports to May 7. This step was taken primarily to permit northern clubs to participate in the crow contest.

The original closing date, March 26 at the end of the national wildlife restoration week, came earlier than the crow flight into northern sections of the state and the extension was granted to give these clubs an opportunity to compete, according to Commissioner Herman C. Wenzel.

The silver trophy, offered to the high gun in the crow division of the contest, is now on display in the conservation department.

State Brewing Industry Will Report to People

Through a series of advertisements to be published in weekly newspapers, beginning this month, the brewing industry of Minnesota will inform the people of the important part the industry plays in the social and economic life of the state.

The campaign, as outlined, will bring out the aims and policies of the brewing industry in Minnesota. It will seek to correct several misconceptions regarding the business and relate instances showing how the industry became a leading factor in the economic recovery of Minnesota from the depression of 1929.

When the depression was at its lowest ebb, in 1933, the passage of the law legalizing the return of beer immediately released millions of dollars for the purchase of machinery and equipment, for enlargement of plants, for transportation, for wages and for the purchase of barley and corn from Minnesota farmers which now amount to more than three and a half million dollars annually.

Earlier Care Cutting Maternal Death Rate, State Physicians Say

Eleven out of every one hundred mothers who might otherwise have died in childbirth were saved in 1937 as a result of a nationwide effort to cut down unnecessary deaths of mothers and babies last year.

This encouraging figure, taken from the reports of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, is cited today by the Minnesota State Medical Association's committee on public health education to show the effectiveness of public education in the attack on one of the gravest problems that has confronted modern America, the unnecessary loss of mothers and babies in childbirth.

The specific figures quoted apply only to industrial policy holders of the insurance company but the physicians feel that they are justified in expressing encouragement over the outlook.

They see it as a direct result of an increasing disposition upon the part of mothers of all classes to apply for examination and treatment early enough to prevent serious infections and grave emergencies.

The doctors themselves have given especial attention in their publications and meetings and in their postgraduate courses to the accidents and abnormalities of childbirth so that every mother who came to them for help could have the best possible care whether she lived in the great medical centers or in remote villages and on farms where hospital care is not always available or advisable.

It is interesting to note that Minnesota with the rate of 4.2 in every thousand is leading in this important effort.

1000 ADVOCATES OF GOOD ROADS AT MILL CITY DINNER

Hear Discussion Relating to Federal Highway Legislation

President Roosevelt's proposal to cut down federal expenditures for highway building and his "pork barrel" intimations, were attacked Wednesday night of last week by speakers at a dinner attended by nearly 1,000 advocates of good roads at the Nicollet hotel in Minneapolis. Among those in attendance were a number from the Thief River Falls community.

Colonel Willard T. Chevalier, New York, president of the American Road Builders Association, said federal appropriations for highways had been important far beyond the money spent, in that field regulations for construction of roads with federal funds, which have to be matched dollar for dollar by the states, have created good engineering departments in the states and better roads.

Colonel Chevalier said the President had intimated "pork barrel" methods have been employed in federal road expenditures.

Congressman Wilburn Cartwright of Oklahoma, co-author of the Hayden-Cartwright act, explained the measure provides that any state diverting any of its gasoline and other motor vehicle taxes to other than highway purposes would be subject to loss of one-third of its federal highway aid funds.

Colonel O. R. McGuire, counsel for the United States controller general, said George Washington early in his administration appreciated the need for good highways. N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner, pointed out curtailment of federal aid will greatly hamper the state's highway construction.

Quarterly Tax Returns Under Social Security

Arthur D. Reynolds, collector of internal revenue for the district of Minnesota, issued a statement today to all employers of one or more individuals calling their attention to the fact that beginning with January 1, 1938, tax returns showing wages paid to employees will be filed quarterly instead of monthly. The first quarterly period will cover the three months of January, February and March, 1938. The first return will be due after the close of the month of March, and before April 30.

Minnesota Hospital Assn. Stages Letter Writing Competition

Twenty five dollars in cash prizes and three trips to the Twin Cities will be awarded to student winners of the 500 word essay writing contest sponsored by the 260 hospitals in the Minnesota Hospital association as part of the advance program for Hospital Day, May 12.

Minnesota junior and senior high school students are eligible to submit essays on "What the Hospital Means to Me". Winners of the first three prizes of $10, $5 and $2.50 will also receive a trip to the Twin Cities May 7 and 8, when they will be escorted through several hospitals to see operating rooms, new laboratory equipment and other interesting features of the hospitals. Eight prizes of $1 will be awarded in addition to the first three prizes.

All essays must be typewritten, double spaced on only one side of the paper. Entries must be postmarked not later than May 1 and sent to the judging committee, 2388 University Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

All Minnesota school superintendents have received letters about the contest. All schools interested in participating will be sent material for student use as well as a bibliography of standard works which will be in most libraries. The contest is not open to students in Twin City or Duluth school.

REVOCATION OF DRIVERS' CARDS DOUBLED IN 1937

1392 Lose Licenses on Being Convicted of Drunken Driving

Out of a total of 1423 revocations of drivers' licenses in 1937, 1392 were lost because of convictions on drunken driving charges, according to the annual report of the drivers' license unit of the Minnesota highway department issued this week by Gil Carmichael, director.

The total revocations are almost double those of 1936, when 769 licenses were taken away by the courts. Suspensions during 1937 totaled 732, as compared to 877 in 1936. Speeding, reckless and careless driving, unsatisfied judgments and failure to file proof of financial responsibility accounted for the majority of the suspensions, Carmichael's report revealed.

During the year the licenses of only 14 women were withdrawn as compared to 1409 taken away from men. The "dangerous" age for drivers, which follows closely a recently announced national report, is from 15 to 25 years, as 437 licenses were revoked that were held by persons in that age bracket.

Hennepin county lead the field with 322 revocations, Ramsey was next with 224 and St. Louis third with 187, a ratio comparable to the counties' populations. Three counties, Clearwater, Hubbard and Murray, had no license revocations.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Minnesota farmers watched passage of the new farm bill with no great enthusiasm, willing to make the best of it, but recognizing its inability to bring to agriculture the standard of living it deserves.

Prevailing sentiment of North Star state farmers is for a guaranteed price program backed by mortgage refinancing, a strong anti-tenancy program and an end to the food monopoly. Aware that farm legislation is secured by constant effort, they are glad to be out in front pulling for improvement.

Minnesota's liberal congressmen aided in a two-year extension of the Frazier-Lemke farm moratorium. The measure would have become inoperative March 3. About 500 Minnesota farmers have taken advantage of the measure's provisions since the U. S. Supreme court declared it constitutional a year ago.

Sometimes we are tempted to write a paragraph in praise of reactionaries. They aren't always so dumb.

Take, for instance, the skillful way they went to work to get the whole machinery for a fascist dictatorship voted into law. First they had the War Department prepare details under the guise of an "Industrial Mobilization Plan for the Next War"—a reasonable seeming thing to do. Next the plan was brought before Congress under the attractive title of "A Bill to Prevent Profiteering in Time of War and to Equalize the Burdens of War,"—an untrue and misleading title, which won for the bill the friendly interest of some World War veterans who still get hot under the collar when they remember how in the last war men were drafted but not capital and industry which were left free to be used for tremendous private profits by a few corporate overlords posing as patriotic dollar-a-year men.

Unfortunately for the plotters, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom maintains a Washington office just to watch legislation of this sort. It didn't take the WIL long to rouse key people throughout the country about the true nature of the Sheppard-May bill, which embodies portions of the fascist plan.

Governor Benson threw himself into the fight with telegrams to representatives in Congress asking that the public be given an opportunity to discuss and debate the proposed measure and express itself before it becomes a law. The bill, he pointed out, does not prevent profiteering and equalize the burdens of war, but "actually establishes a military dictatorship to protect war profiteering, wipe out progressive social legislation for men, women, and children, and destroy labor unions." He wired Representative Andrew J. May, who introduced the bill into the House, and in a telegram to the WIL asked them not to relax in their efforts to block enactment of the vicious measure.

The 50,000 new income tax payers brought under the provisions of the state income tax law, last year through lowering of the exemption will net the state just $7,500. This is the substance of figures issued last week by the state income tax division.

Thus comes positive proof of what Governor Benson has been contending ever since he refused to sign the income tax law last summer—that the revenue to be collected would eat up the cost of administering the tax. The division says that of the expected $37,560 to be collected from the new classifications of income tax payers, at least $30,000 will be spent in collecting the tax.

If for no other reason, then (and of course it remains a fact that the present income tax covers persons receiving hardly more than WPA wages), it is no wonder that Benson recently declared one of the first acts of the 1939 legislature should be to amend the income tax law in order to take the low-income groups out from under its provisions.

School Notes

Plummer was victorious over Oklee in a basket ball game Monday night, the final score was 16-12. It was a very interesting game and both teams put up a good fight. The Pep Squad accompanied the team to Oklee and there they demonstrated some of that which the people who have seen it perform here had especially enjoyed.

Plummer defeated Goodridge by a score of 43 to 8. In the first half of the game when the score was [illegible] Coach Jaspers put in almost all of the substitutes. They showed a lot of pep and plenty of fight and managed very well to hold Goodridge, but as the regular players again stepped in they piled up the score and made it a grand victory.

As in all the previous games the pep squad performed but this time it was exceptionally good. In addition to the different drills and formations it starred Jeanne Pahlen and Eileen Peterson in a very well liked tap dance. It was so well liked that they are to perform again between halves of the games between Thief River Falls and Plummer, assisted by the pep squad Wednesday night.

The six weeks tests are again under way. The honor roll will be published next week.

The P. T. A. which was supposed to be on Wednesday March 9th has been postponed until March 16. The entertainment of the evening will be mostly a movie on Yellowstone National Park.

Thieves Tie Emerson 5-5 in Final Contest

J. O. YOTTER

Who, following his recent retirement from the post of conductor on the Soo Line, with which he has been associated the past 32 years was honored by the Order of Railway Conductors Sunday in the Odd Fellows hall.

The 1938 hockey season was brought to a close here Sunday when Emerson and Thief River battled to a 5-5 draw at the arena. Emerson won the first game of semi finals at Emerson Friday taking a 6-2 victory over the Thieves and will go into the finals with Hallock who eliminated Roseau by a 3-0 score at Hallock Sunday.

Sunday's game was a thriller, both teams working at top speed for the full sixty minutes of play, closing the season with one of the most sensational games played here in the last two seasons. The one thing that marred the game somewhat was the accidental injury received by Ducky Skinner of the Emerson team, who received a badly wrenched back when he collided with Frank Clifton and Snooks Julien near the Emerson net. Skinner has earned the admiration of hockey fans around the league by his brilliant playing and fine sportsmanship and it is hoped that his injury will not keep him out of the finals with Hallock.

The first game of the finals will be played at Emerson this evening with the second at Hallock Sunday afternoon. If a third game is necessary it will be played at Hallock the first part of next week.

The players have left for home, Hassan and Beverly to Winnipeg, Sampson and Taylor to Hibbing, Frank Clifton to Kenora, Ontario, Tramontin to Chisholm and Phil LaBatte to Minneapolis.

Resolutions were adopted supporting the stand taken by the Eastern Marshall County Protective association on the flood problem in that area; endorsing the administration of Governor Elmer Benson; favoring a one-house legislature; urging use of income tax proceeds for school purposes only; and opposing an amendment to the constitution of the state Farmer-Labor association which would provide a drastic penalty for party members who oppose endorsed candidates.

VARIED ITEMS COME BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

Ordinance Regulating Used Car Sales Given Second Reading

ASK BEAUTIFICATION OF SOUTH APPROACH

Nels Myrin Claim for Flood Damages Is Settled for $550

Giving the second reading to the proposed ordinance regulating used car dealers in this city, settling another long-standing claim for flood damage along Thief river north of the city, and delaying action on the inclusion within the city limits of an area north of the boundary constituted the principal items to come before the city council at its March session Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Gaston Ward, representing the Woman's club, was present at the meeting to urge action toward beautifying the tract of land between the river bank and Highway 32 at the south approach to the city. Her request was supported by Mrs. Claude Evenson, appearing in behalf of the Garden club. Members of the council stated that condemnation proceedings are being instituted to acquire title to land involved in the project.

Mrs. Jeanette Wright and Mrs. J. N. Nesse asked if it would be possible to secure a small amount of financial assistance from the city's music fund to provide necessary instruction for the corps to September 1. Council members indicated favorable action would be taken.

Jorgen Austad, living north of the city in the area proposed to be included in the city limits, stated that only about half of the residents of the district had petitioned to be included, and that others were opposed, fearing an increase in taxes. Following statements by Mayor W. W. Prichard and F. A. Rinkel, an affected property owner, suggesting that action be deferred until a considerably larger area could be added at one time, the council laid over the original petition for further consideration.

The proposed used car dealer ordinance, designed to control the activities of "fly by night" operators, was given its second reading after being amended to fix the license fee for such sellers at $300 a year and requiring the posting of a $5,000 bond for the protection of purchasers of cars.

The council approved an application for a building permit submitted by H. H. Van Pelt, covering construction of a residence on Crocker av. near Taft st. at an estimated cost of $1,600. Olaf C. Dahl was granted a permit to remodel his dwelling at a cost of $400, several neighbors supporting his application.

The claim of Nels Myrin for flood damage to his property along Thief River north of the city, which has been hanging fire since the new city dam was constructed some years ago, was finally disposed of when the council and Mr. Myrin agreed on an award of $550. The council had first offered $500, while Mr. Myrin asked $700. The tract represented in the claim is approximately five acres in extent.

By a vote of four to two the council acted to issue to Tom Christo a license for the sale of beer at his establishment on Main av. N. after having rejected his application for renewal at the February meeting. Mr. Christo promised to observe faithfully all regulations governing the operation of the place.

Fire Chief Leonard Hanson was authorized to proceed with plans for surmounting the department's whistle with a metal dome approximately eight feet in diameter in an effort to increase audibility of the alarm thruout the city. Mr. Hanson reported that at present the whistle is heard more plainly some distance in the country than within the city limits.

Owls That Are Beneficial

The owls of the country that have once and for all been set aside as beneficial, according to a writer in the Detroit News, are the barn owl, the eastern screech owl, the snowy owl, the western burrowing owl, the northern barred owl, the great gray owl, the long-eared owl, the short-eared owl and the saw-whet owl. Only one has been adjudged—by painstaking investigators as inordinately harmful, namely the great-horned owl. This owl is found in greatest numbers along the borders of the northern tier of states. They have a record for destroying vermin that is little less than amazing.

Growing With Your Child

(University of Minnesota Institute of Child Welfare)

"Easy" Learning

How does it happen that the baby who by some random movement chanced to get his thumb in his mouth, so soon has what we call a "habit of thumb-sucking?" That question has puzzled many a mother who has found that her children are not nearly so quick to pick up some of the habits she has wanted them to acquire. The explanation is simple, and should tell us a lot about how to help in establishing good habits. When the baby sucks his thumb, he gets an immediate sensation of pleasure, partly because his lips and mouth are acutely sensitive to feeling, and partly because sucking is associated with his greatest pleasure in life, that of eating. It takes very little practise to establish a habit in connection with which there are strong satisfactions. If we want a habit to grow fast, we have to see that there is pleasure connected with its performance.

A boy learns very quickly to drive a car—because it is so much fun to feel so powerful, to move so fast. Not so speedy is his learning to keep his hands clean—for as a general rule he experiences no particular delight in having them clean. Comments and criticisms are probably lavishly made when he comes to the table with grimy hands—but seldom do we remember to praise him and make him feel happy when he comes to the table immaculate. When does he begin to take pride in his appearance? When he begins to have an interest in girls, and is anxious to secure their approval! There is no mystery about the changes in boys' neatness and cleanness at this time—it is merely a question of there now being some pleasure or satisfaction derived from the habit.

And so it is with whatever habit we are trying to encourage. Sometimes it requires ingenuity to think of any way to connect up a pleasure with the child's learning, but it will be worth the effort.

This law of learning explains why the practise and repetitions that we have so often depended on for habit training doesn't always secure the desired results. Mere repetition alone won't necessarily build up a habit. In fact, too much repetition, to the point of boredom, is a great drawback. Not so much depends on the actual amount of practise as on the child's attitude. This is noticeable in connection with piano practise. Modern teachers no longer insist on their pupils' spending a long, dreary hour at the piano each day, but encourage them to put in short regular periods instead; or to start in by spending the first part of a practise period in doing just what they like to do. "Let him do drumming or strumming," suggests Miss Getz of Winnetka, "if he cares for playing by ear." The pleasurable association, you see, certainly is better than having him learn to dislike music, which boring practice is going to make him do.

Tall Tales

Beating the Drouth

IT WAS the drouth year of 1934. Day after day the sun blazed down from a cloudless sky. Scorching winds blew across the western plains. Wells went dry and rivers became mere trickles.

Down in Oklahoma, Al Gotlieb, owner of the J-R ranch, looked at his herd of 400 prime steers. They were growing thinner every day because they would not eat the brown, dry grass. Unless he could fatten them he was ruined.

One day a peddler stopped at the ranch house. "Better buy a pair of these green goggles to protect your eyes from the glare of the sun," he said. The ranchman took one look through them, then exclaimed, "How soon can you get me 499 more pairs?"

A week later the 499 pairs arrived. The ranchman fitted them on his steers. They saw broad fields of rich, green grass and began to graze eagerly. But when it came time to drink from the river they refused. Animal instinct told them that green water is often poisonous. There was only one thing to do and the ranchman did it.

A telegram brought 499 more pairs of goggles—only this time the lenses in them were blue.

Of course, it was a lot of trouble to change the goggles—first green, then blue, then green, then blue, etc.—on 400 steers every day. But that fall the J-R steers topped the Kansas City market because they were in such prime condition.

GUN BARREL EXPLODES HITS SCHOOL JANITOR

Braham—While attempting to fix over an old gun which had not been in use for several years, Robert Falk of Grasston, janitor of the Grasston consolidated schools, was seriously injured when in some manner the barrel of the gun exploded, tearing the flesh from the palm of his left hand, his wrist and forearm. The accident occurred in the furnace room of the school. Mr. Falk was burning off the stock from the gun preparatory to making an article for use at the school, when, for no explainable reason, the barrel exploded resulting in rather severe injury. The accident necessitated Mr. Falk's being taken to University hospital in Minneapolis for treatment.

Out of Holland

Edam is a Dutch skim-milk cheese, made in cannonball shape, and is covered with a red rind. The texture is hard, the flavor is similar to that of Cheddar, but is slightly sweeter and more nut-like. The name is derived from the name of the Holland city, Edam, center of production.

Houston Club Leads in Predator Contest

Taking the lead in latest reports to the statewide predator control contest sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Conservation, the Houston Rod and Gun club has taken 33 fox and one wolf, for a score of 28.

The Caledonia Rod and Gun club, with 31 fox holds second place at the moment, with the North Shore Game and Fish club of Long Lake and the Milaca Rod and Gun club in third and fourth places with 27 and 26 points respectively.

The North Shore club has taken 27 fox, while the Milaca club reports 21 fox and 1 wolf, for a total of 26 point. One wolf counts for five fox in the contest.

117 clubs from all parts of the state are entered in the contest, in both fox and crow divisions, and with the extension of the closing dates to April 30, more of the northern Minnesota clubs are entering, and will take advantage of the contest when the crows begin flying north in April.

Nearly all clubs are planning to enter their high guns in the individual contest for the trophy, while a number of sportsmen are entering this phase of the contest independently.

FINDS NEW WAY TO FORECAST WEATHER

Luverne.—The groundhog, thermometers, barometers, and all other weather forecasting standbys are scorned upon by Julius Brown, a highway engineer in Rock county, the new weather prognosticator. You can give the man a snow plow and he'll tell you whether to get out your snow shoes or your rubbers. Julius can scent a snowstorm several days before it happens without even glancing at the thermometer or squinting his weather eye skyward. He hasn't missed foretelling a snow storm this winter, and recently announced mournfully to the world in general, "Doggone it! We're going to have a bad snow storm tomorrow!" And the next day there was a snow storm. Although it sounds rather silly to forecast the weather with a snow plow, Mr. Brown explains it's an very simple. Every time one of the plows breaks down, Rock county has a snow storm the next day. "It never fails," the prognosticator predicts with a sigh. "Every time something happens to one of the plows we have a heavy snow before the plow is fixed. The plows will be running like clockwork, but just as soon as a little snowflake begins to think of falling, one of the plows acts up."

Survey of 1000 Persons Shows Nearly 13 Per Cent Are Trichinosis Victims

Trichinosis, the disease that comes from eating infected and insufficiently cooked pork, is much more common in the United States than people used to think.

Post mortem studies in trichinosis have now been made of more than 1000 persons in various parts of the United States, including St. Paul and Minneapolis. These studies show, according to a bulletin issued today by the Minnesota State Medical association's committee on public health education, that nearly 13 per cent of the population has had trichinosis.

This astonishingly large percentage is quoted by the doctors to emphasize the ever-present danger that lies in consuming under-cooked pork, since there is no way of knowing definitely whether or not any pork is infested with the trichina worm.

Trichinosis is a serious illness. It is sometimes fatal and its symptoms resemble so many other acute illnesses that it is easy to mistake it for other diseases.

The first stage is usually an acute intestinal upset caused by the development of the trichina worm from the dormant stage in which it is taken into the stomach into the mature worm. After that the larvae are carried in the blood stream to other parts of the body, lodging eventually in muscle tissue. This stage is accompanied by muscular pain and swelling. Finally the larvae become encapsulated and inactive and the inflammation subsides. Even when the result is not fatal, it is likely to involve a long and exhausting illness.

The only way to be certain of avoiding trouble, according to the doctors' bulletin, is to cook all pork thoroughly. Salting and pickling, alone, will not kill the trichina worm.

Billion Fish Will be Planted in State Lakes

Fish propagation plans for the 1938 season will place over one billion fish in Minnesota waters, according to J. O. Nelson, superintendent of fish propagation.

With a good trout and whitefish winter spawning season over and field crews preparing for the spring pike spawn taking operations in several new stations as well as old ones; with plans for new rearing ponds and pool hatcheries, present indications are that the 1938 season will be the biggest in the history of the Minnesota Conservation Department.

Work is well under way at the new muskie hatchery at Nevis on Belle Taine Lake and this plant will be ready for operation and experimentation in the spring.

Game wardens have reported at least 25 sites for rearing and hatching ponds and these are being investigated and surveyed with a view of using every one that offers proper water, soil, food and drainage conditions.

Plans are being prepared for the establishment of two large pike rearing ponds one on Ottertail lake and the other at Walker, where pike fry, instead of being released as minute babies, will be reared to fingerling size and distributed in lakes with a much better chance of survival.

WOMAN, 79, HAS 96 DESCENDANTS

Northfield—If there should ever be a contest as to who had the largest family and number of descendants in this section of the country, Mrs. Anna Vandenheuvel would undoubtedly be the winner. Mrs. Vandenheuvel, who has been a resident of Dundas for many years, and is 79 years of age, has had 14 children, all of whom are living. She has had 79 grandchildren of whom 62 are living; and 22 great grandchildren, 20 of whom are living. This makes a total of 115 descendants, with 96 living. That should make quite a record. And aside from raising her own husky troop, she is now bringing up two grandchildren, aged eight and ten. At the age of 79 Mrs. Vandenheuvel does all her own work.

Chapels in a Tree

An oak tree large enough to contain two chapels stands in the village of Allouville - Bellefosse, France and a family of the town has for generations been "custodians of the key of the oak." With an estimated age of 1,200 years the tree is so large that nine men with extended arms can scarcely encircle it.

GRYGLA

The regular "first Thursday of every month" meeting of the Farmers Club was opened by reading the minutes of the meeting which were followed by an interesting, lively discussion pro and con appropriating money to the Protective League fund.

The Eastern Marshall-Western Beltrami Protective League was organized to fight against having so many dams built on the reserve which lies next to profitable farming land; Also to try to prevent the state from reclaiming some of the richest farm lands around here for Game Refuge.

A. C. McMillan is president and Ole Eastly, secretary of this organization. One argument against appropriating Farmers club funds was that it would only benefit a few but isn't it a fact "that conditions affecting one section of a country always indirectly and sometimes directly affect all other parts."

Arguments presented for were that this is a community project and that funds given to the Protective League (if used successfully) would help this whole section. The farm lands between here and the refuge are of the richest and should not be allowed to be flooded by unnecessary damming. They, of course, should not be added to the Game Refuge which would not only affect the farmers on the land but would hurt the business of this community.

The discussion ended by voting to give $50 to the Protective League.

The following program proved popular: two accordion solos by Miss Clara Lillevold, reading "Lena Buys a Hat", by Mrs. Clarence Anderson. (She demonstrated buying hats so hat problems of the listeners should practically be solved), reading "Teacher Has a Beau" by Marion Bush; two duets by Mrs. Ole Peterson and George Hanson. As usual President Robert Thorson had some advertising to do. Application was made by Curtis Norby for "help". Wanted a girl between 18 and 38, must be neat and good looking, college graduate preferred, attractive figure and personality required, mild tempered, to help with the milking. P. S. I'll pull the separator myself.

The play "Wanted a Cook" which was given at the last P. T. A. was repeated. The program ended with another duet by Mrs. Ole Peterson and Geo. Hanson. Lunch was served by Rube Sandberg and Sofus Bjortness.

After the sleigh riding Mrs. Maney served a lunch to the group. State Gun Sale to be Conducted Next Fall

Harry E. Speakes, director of the division of game and fish, announces that the conservation department sale of confiscated guns will be held in August or early part of September. The sale formerly was held in March, but this year is scheduled for the later date, which is more seasoned for hunting equipment, and weather and road conditions will permit rural residents to attend the sale. Persons from whom seizure is made may make application to the division of game and fish and redeem their seized equipment at the appraised value. Redemption may be made at any time after appraisals are made.

BUCKET OF WATER FATAL FOR CHILD

Madelia—Cleon Herbert Petterson, small son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Petterson of LaSalle, died eight hours after having fallen backward into a pail of boiling hot water. Burns were so deep that the nerves were burned and the child suffered no pain after the first shock. Mrs. Petterson had heated water in a boiler on the kitchen stove to wash clothes. While dipping it out, a pail full at a time, and carrying it to the basement of her home a neighbor called and the two women stepped into another room to visit. Just then the children ran into the kitchen. Cleon backed and fell into the pail of boiling water.

Turning Her Coat Once Saved Margaret of Kent

In olden days in Britain, Queen Margaret of Kent, the first Christian queen to teach her people that religion, was imprisoned in a tower by her cousin Frith, who wished to rule Kent himself. Queen Margaret longed to escape to join her soldiers, who were gathered across the river, afraid to attack the tower.

Margaret saw them from her prison and knew she must reach them some way to inspire their flagging courage. But if she tried to cross the river, which was frozen solid and white, her many colored cloak of bright patches would be easily seen by Frith's men.

However the gallant queen made the attempt, relates a writer in the Washington Star, and escaping the tower, had an inspiration at the river side. By turning her cloak inside out, its white lining protected her from sight on the ice as she braved the crossing and joined her men on the other side, undiscovered. The next day Kent was in her power again and Christian rule restored.

Early times in Britain were dangerous, indeed. Every town was surrounded by a deep forest for protection. If a stranger entered here, he was compelled to announce his coming by blowing continuous blasts on a horn. Otherwise he would be speared on sight if discovered. "Skulking strangers come for no good," was the belief.

Bear Season Closed by Executive Order

An order closing the spring bear season was signed on March 2 by Governor Elmer A. Benson, according to the recommendation of the division of game and fish, department of conservation. Surveys conducted by the department have shown that the bear population is in danger of undue depletion if there is an open spring season, and inasmuch as the bear season is automatically opened with the deer season, there was virtually a six day open season last fall, according to Harry E. Speakes, director of game and fish.

Civic Groups Work to Boost Tourist Trade

Minnesota's "Tribe of the Loon," recently formed as an organization to dramatize the state's 10,000 lakes and drew nationwide attention to them, has established permanent headquarters at the Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis, it was announced today by H. W. Ralph, chairman of the executive committee. The purpose of The Loons is to establish Minnesota as the "Playground of the nation" in the minds of tourists. In order to unite and co-ordinate the efforts of every community in the state towards carrying out this program, a conference has been called for Thursday, March 17 at the Nicollet Hotel ballroom. Civic organizations throughout the state have been asked to send one or more delegates to attend this conference and to take active part in development of the program. Several civic associations in the state have promised active support to the Loons.

Historical Inconsistency

History is anything but logical or consistent. The Pilgrim fathers, for instance, originally sailed for the Hudson and found themselves at the end of their voyage on the Massachusetts coast. Their destination was the Hudson, then Dutch, because they had come from Holland, whence they had sailed from England seeking religious freedom. But in Holland, life was so good that the little band of Pilgrims, seeing absorption imminent with so many intermarrying with the Dutch, determined to keep themselves separate by journeying to the New World.

War Against Germany

The United States declared war against Germany a few minutes after 3 o'clock on the morning of April 5, 1917, when congress passed a resolution "that the President is hereby authorized and directed . . . to carry on war against the Imperial German Government and to bring the conflict to a successful termination." Thus empowered, the President, April 6, issued a proclamation that "a state of war exists between the United States and the Imperial German Government."

Renamed Bay of Paria

When Columbus discovered Trinidad in 1498 he called the Bay of Paria the Gulf of Pearls, because of the quantities of oysters attached to the trunks of the mangrove trees rooted in the waters there. It was his belief that when the oysters opened, drops of dew fell from the trees and eventually became pearls. He hoped to find enough to make a necklace for Queen Isabella, but enemies sent him home in chains without the pearls.

Iris, Snake Bite Cure

Iris typifies wisdom, faith and courage. Its early medicinal value, according to doctors of the time, was as a cure for snake bites, fits, dropsy, bruises, anger and coughs. Some doctors went so far as to say that if petals of the iris were placed on a black and blue spot for five days the flesh would assume the natural color. The roots of the iris were used as teething rings for babies and are used to this day in some countries. The iris was used by Louis VII in his crusades in 1137.

During the conference the board agents were told the situation is being somewhat cleared up by activities during the past week.

FRED SCHILPLIN QUITS

Fred Schilplin of St. Cloud settled his status Saturday by resigning as federal housing director for the northwest and announced he will concentrate on his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor. He assailed rumor mongers for the gossip that he was resigning earlier, and said he had hoped to continue with the work another month or so. Washington dispatches earlier in the week said the housing administration had called for his resignation if he proposed to continue in the political campaign.

OLIVER ROW CROP 70

See for Yourself What It's Like to Cultivate with the "70"

Seeing is believing when you ride high down the cotton rows with an Oliver Row Crop "70" centrally mounted cultivator, on Tip Toe Wheels that tread so lightly they actually cultivate.

Once around and you know the "70" has everything, does everything and is a beauty in far more than looks. Watch it cultivate easily at 4½ m.p.h. . . . straight on the rows . . . 2 or 4 rows at a time, according to the planting . . . working close up to the fence lines . . . There's just a second's pause at the end of the rows as the gangs come up. You whip the wheel around and the automatic steering brakes speed the turn . . . you straighten on the line as the brakes let go and the gangs drop. Back you go down the new rows with a running start. You can use the "70" the same way for hoeing, running middles and planting, too.

That's cultivating as only the Row Crop "70" Cultivator does it. That's smooth, lively 6-cylinder power under finger-tip control from the comfortable driver's seat—automotive steering with steering-braking on turns—the Oliver Variable Speed Governor Control that enables you to use only the fuel needed to do the work—speed that gets cultivating done when it will do the most good.

The "70" is built in two fuel types: the "70" HC with high compression engine for gasoline and the "70" KD with engine designed for kerosene or distillate. Pick your fuel and your "70" and get modern low-cost tractor power. See us about a demonstration today.

IMPROVE THE WATER SUPPLY

Principle topic of conversation around town these days is the city's water supply — if the fluid that gushes forth when you turn the tap may properly be called water. And the question one and all ask is, "What are they doing about it?" The "They" presumably refers to the city officials. The answer to the question is simple. The city officials are doing what all the rest of us are doing—they are talking about it. And that's about all they can do at the present time.

As we understand the situation, there is nothing that can be done to correct the bad condition that exists at the present time. The most that can be hoped for is that something will be done in the near future so that such a condition will not develop again. Some say wells should be dug. Others maintain that improvements to our water treatment system would be the proper solution. What the right answer is we do not know. We do know this, however, that merely grumbling about the bad water each spring is not going to improve the condition. In another month the water will be drinkable again. If at that time we do as we have done each year in the past, forget the problem, then we can look forward to a repetition of the difficulty again a year from now. Let's not forget it this time.

While writing this we have been interrupted by visitors. A. C. McMillan, Ole Eastby and John Kast, who farm northeast of town, just brought in a sample of our drinking water, taken at one of the sources of supply, Thief Lake. We still have the sample on our desk, a quart jar that is tightly sealed for two reasons. One reason is that we want the sample to retain its native vigor. The other reason why we have it tightly sealed is because we still have to work in the office. One whiff from that jar makes the dying gasp of a kerosene stove smell like a bed of roses.

That the Thief Lake water is rotten is not to be wondered at. When the old lake bottom was flooded last summer, thousands of acres of rank vegetation were submerged. During the fall and winter months that vegetation has decomposed. Sealed in with a layer of ice, there has been no aeration of the lake water and it has become heavily charged with foul gases. In recent weeks this water has been released because of the lowering of the dam and this is the water that we are now getting from the Thief River.

This is a condition we probably will not have to experience again in future years. Such a combination of circumstances is not likely to repeat itself. As soon as the ice goes off the lake, much of the foul odor of the water will disappear. By the time it reaches us, moving rapidly down more than fifty miles of river channel, it probably will have lost its offensiveness. We offer this only as a consoling thought, not as a reason for inaction.

We still need action. Under more normal conditions, the water probably will not be as bad next spring as it is now. But it will still be bad. It is every spring. So let's set up a good water supply as the most urgent need of the city and make the the number one project of all necessary municipal improvements.

BAD NEWS FOR THE FARMER

An increase in freight rates of five per cent on farm and forest products and ten per cent on practically all other freight was authorized by the interstate commerce commission this week. This isn't good news for the farmer or the railroads, and we seriously doubt that the increases will prove beneficial to the railroads themselves. No one will deny the fact that the railroads are in bad condition financially. [illegible] however that what the railroads need more than increased rates [illegible] their service [illegible] their volume of business. Under the circumstances, increased rates is probably the only answer from the standpoint of railroad management. The government has forced operating costs up. The higher operating costs imposed by the politicians make higher rates necessary. If the railroads were forced to operate as other business are operated the tendency would now be the other way. As it is, the farmer is the goat. Every cent that this or any other farming community pays for freight comes out of the check the farmer gets for what he sells. We all live off of what the farmer gets for his products. The more we take the less there is left for him.

The county's financial statement is published in this issue and shows that we owe about twenty thousand dollars less than we did a year ago. That isn't as great a cut when you consider the size of the debt but it is moving in the right direction and those who manage the county's affairs should be told that that's very good. Maybe if we let them know that we really would like to see the debt whittled down they will produce an even better record this year. Most of the people who talk to them want them to spend money. It doesn't do any harm to let them hear occasionally from those who must pay the bills.

According to city clerk Pederson's annual report our city is in excellent condition financially. We have a cash balance again and our indebtedness is getting down to small figures compared with what it was a few years ago. This is one unit of our government from which we can expect a substantial reduction in taxes during the next few years. We should try to bring our mill rate down below the hundred mark.

Vice President Garner turned down an offer of a thousand dollars a week for radio talks a couple of years ago because, as he said, "what the vice president thinks is not for sale." President Roosevelt has a different idea of things apparently. He is now picking up a little side money by selling his staff, the first President in the history of our nation to accept money for the by-products of his office. Taking the family as a whole, the Roosevelts have done pretty well by themselves during the last five years.

These are long days for basketball fans who hope to see the local team go to the state tournament again this year. They are experienced fans, however, and know that the path is an uncertain one. But they are hopeful. By the way, if you can't get over to see the district tournament, tune in on KFJM and hear the broadcast of the games. Next week you will be able to see your favorite team in action on the home floor we hope.

A HORRIBLE LESSON
(Rock County Herald)

Prominent in the long fight over President Roosevelt's attempt to "pack" the Supreme Court, were contentions by his supporters that the Supreme Court ought not have the power to invalidate laws passed by Congress. This contention found considerable support, even among persons who opposed Mr. Roosevelt's scheme to control the courts.

The passage of the new Agricultural bill offers a [illegible] example of [illegible] by those who believe that the acts of Congress should not be subject to judicial review. This bill contained approximately 10,000 words and was [illegible] through both houses of Congress under gag rule. Few members of either house had opportunity to read it, and still fewer could have understood it if they had read it, because even many of those who drafted the bill later admitted they did not understand all of its provisions. It is reliably reported that only [illegible] of the 435 members of the House had read the bill when it was voted upon.

Notwithstanding that only three hours for debate was allowed in the House, and four hours in the Senate. Under gag rule it was forced through at the demand of the President. The leaders did not dare allow time for the members to study the bill, nor time to debate its provisions for fear it would be defeated.

When laws are passed by Congress in such manner, and the practice is not unusual, how can any sensible person defend the contention that the Supreme Court should not have power to pass upon the legality of the laws Congress enacts? [illegible]

PUBLIC OPINION

Red River Valley History
By Wm V. Working

SCENIC ADVANTAGES

Having traveled extensively in recent years the writer has learned at first hand much about attractions offered by various districts to the tourist. Contrary to what seems to be a general opinion lakes and mountains do not have a general monopoly on these attractions. The truth is that almost any section of the country properly publicized appeals to tourists which proves that after all the entire world has its appeal. Trees, flowers, rolling country or level land, it does not make much difference, all have their attractions.

While it might not be advisable for every part of the country to stress its scenic beauties and other characteristics likely to please tourists, it is certain that no harm can come from such a practice and that the best interests of everyone concerned would be served in this way. We know that it is just as true that nature loves beauty as that it abhors a vacuum. That is why we all strive in our different ways to attain beauty or create beauty in one form or another.

So in summer time when tourists visit this section the more that can be shown them that will enhance the attractiveness of the community the more they will be pleased and the more the community itself will be benefitted. It happens that this section is well favored in scenic beauties and also in historical interest. There is much to interest tourists here and there is every reason why they should find a visit to this neighborhood worth while. Unfortunately, in earlier years everyone was too busy trying to make a living and acting in building for the future of the community that the possibilities in summer travel were overlooked or perhaps discounted. In fact, it was long before even the most popular resort areas of the region were really appreciated by residents and visitor alike. Then for a long time the more outstanding places received virtually all the attention.

But times have changed and apparently have the preferences of tourists. It is possible to get too much of anything and so when tourists become bored with what is [illegible] something different and that is where localities not as well favored [illegible]

An unusual fact of history is that the first white visitors to the [illegible] the explorers gave more attention to its scenic attractions than [illegible] visitors. It was not always [illegible] to which a comparatively few were able to go that women and girls enjoyed bathing except in the bathtub at home—and many did not even have tubs. In truth, it is probable that only about one home in 20 or so had bathtubs 40 years ago; that is, in small villages and in the country. The "old swimming hole" often replaced the Saturday night bath for the boys, but the girls in lieu of a bathtub often used the wash tub.

Today most communities can offer not only scenic beauties but bathing facilities in artificial lakes. As for scenic attractions the trick is to emphasize the best points just as a woman does when she dresses up.

Inflation and Deflation

There are many definitions of inflation, but one on which most experts agree is, "The placing in circulation of more money, in the form of either bank deposits or currency—at a rate faster than the increase in trade requirements." Deflation is the reverse of inflation. It means the contraction of the amount of currency and bank deposits outstanding at a rate faster than the decline in actual trade requirements for credit or money. In a period of deflation the banks liquidate their investments—that is, they call loans or do not renew them when they mature, and they sell investments.

CLIMAX IS WINNER OF SUBDISTRICT 31 CAGE TOURNAMENT

Goodridge Loses Consolation to Alvarado Team Last Friday

Turning in a consistent game, Climax upset Fisher, 25-15, to win the sub-district 31 high school basketball title Friday night in the East Grand Forks gym.

Friday morning Fisher gained the final by whipping Oslo, 36-22. Climax beat St. Hilaire Thursday to enter the final. Both Fisher and Climax will play in the district tourney next week.

Alvarado won consolation honors by beating Goodridge, 33-12. Alvarado defeated St. Hilaire Friday morning, 26-18, to gain the semi-final.

Oslo, Fisher and Climax won top-sided victories Thursday night as the sub-district tournament opened.

Oslo, using its second team more than half the game, walloped Goodridge, 35-8, in the opener Thursday.

Fisher had little trouble with Alvarado and won, 26-13, in a slow game.

Climax, after allowing St. Hilaire to grab an early lead, marched on to a 43-15 triumph, scoring heavily in the second half after holding a 17-6 edge at the intermission.

Consumers' Co-op. Group to Stage Program Monday in the Odd Fellows Hall

A saga of the Great Plains area of the United States in the form of a musical movie—The Plow that Broke the Plains—is coming to Thief River Falls Monday evening March 14. Dramatized in ten sequences, the film traces the story of the plains country during the past 50 years.

This panorama of American history surveys the various movements in the Great Plains area, the passing of the buffalo, the successive invasions of range cattle, the homesteader, and the large scale wheat farmer.

In addition to this main picture the program will include a talk The Farmer and Cooperation—and two short films one on Sweden and the other a comedy.

The meeting is scheduled for 8 o'clock in the Odd Fellows Hall and is free to the public. The Consumers Co-operative association is sponsoring the program.

Gets Many Endorsements

ARTHUR CARLSON

Arthur H. Carlson of Plummer, Red Lake county, traveled a long ways toward endorsement for railroad and warehouse commissioner at the Farmer-Labor State convention to be held in Duluth on March 26th, when the 9th district congressional convention of fifteen counties, unanimously endorsed him for this office.

Mr. Carlson organized the first Farmer-Labor club in Red Lake county and served as its first president, county chairman in 1934 and 1935, county campaign manager in the elections of 1932, 1934 and 1936; and at the annual county convention was selected without opposition as county chairman, which office he now holds.

Mr. Carlson was a candidate for railroad and warehouse commissioner at the convention of two years ago in St. Paul, withdrawing in order to insure party harmony.

Lake Trout Season Will Open in State April 15

Minnesota waters will be open to lake trout fishing on April 15, when these northern beauties may be taken with hook and line, according to Harry E. Speakes, director of the division of game and fish.

Governor Elmer A. Benson, on March 2, signed an executive order opening the season in all Minnesota lakes as well as on boundary waters, for the fishing of lake trout on April 15. Lake trout, it is pointed out, is the only game fish that is affected by the order.

The lake trout or landlocked salmon is a cold water spawning fish and the roe is hatched during the winter time. Whitefish and all varieties of trout spawn in the fall and winter, while other Minnesota game fish, such as pike, bass, crappies and sunfish spawn in the spring. For this reason the season for fish other than trout is delayed until after the spawning season.

PEDESTRIAN IS LEADING VICTIM IN ROAD DEATHS

Lack of Care on Part of Those Walking Along Highways Is Blamed

Almost unbelievably, recently surveys conducted in the east and in Minneapolis show the amazing fact that it is the pedestrian who contributes most heavily to the nation's horrible traffic fatality toll—and it is largely the pedestrian who is to blame for his own death on the streets and highways.

The United States department of agriculture conducted research into 892 traffic accidents in eight states and eight cities. Of this total, its findings showed that 60.4 percent of the accident total was the result of collisions between persons on foot and motor vehicles. Only 20.4 percent of the accidents covered was the result of collisions between motor vehicles. In the matter of total fatalities, 57.5 of the persons killed were pedestrians, 16.3 percent drivers and 22.4 percent passengers.

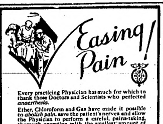
The Minneapolis police department's analysis of traffic fatalities in that city in 1937 bore out the agriculture department's findings. In 61 deaths, 45 were pedestrians. And of the 45 pedestrians killed, evidence disclosed, 33 were caused by the pedestrians' own carelessness, nine were due to drivers' carelessness and three were caused by streetcars and railroad trains. Of the other deaths, eight of the victims were killed in car collisions, two were killed in what was classified as unavoidable accidents, two died due to careless operation of motorcycles and one person plunged to his death from the top of a truck.

The pedestrian must educate himself to the habit of caution in use of streets and highways and must get rid of the feeling that traffic must, and will, miss him—in this age of heavy and fast traffic, when on foot he must be as alert as when behind a wheel, in the opinion of N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner.

The safety division of the highway department points out, however, that in Minnesota as a whole the pedestrian death rate will run lower than in Minneapolis as traffic, both foot and motorized, is lighter in the rural district.

TRUCK UNDAMAGED CRASHING GARAGE

Mapleton—When a truck knocks a building to pieces and emerges without a scratch it's a "Believe-it-or-not" and a "Strange-as-it-may seem", all in one. Such a spectacle, comparable to state fair feats when a car crashes a heavy board wall, was enacted on the local streets recently. Down about the truck clattered the empty building, roof and all, a complete ruin. Out of the heap came the driver and truck—without a scratch or dent. All this believe-it-or-not and strange-as-it-seems occurred when a beer truck made a delivery in the rear of a local cafe. That done, the driver began to turn around in the alley by backing. In some way the truck slipped and struck a brick garage, crashing into the building. Icy conditions of the alley is thought to have caused the truck to slip.



Easing Pain!

Every practicing Physician has much for which to thank those Doctors and Scientists who perfected anaesthesia.

Ether, Chloroform and Gas have made it possible to abolish pain, save the patient's nerves and allow the Physician to perform a careful, pains-taking, thorough operation with the smallest amount of danger.

What a humane boon to the race anaesthesia has proven to be. Contrast the quick, clean, painless hospitalization of the operative case today, and the terrible ordeals of an amputation, operation or child-birth before anaesthesia.

Physicians are truly thankful for anaesthesia and what it has made possible in medical practice.

STASSEN ATTACKS BENSON'S RECORD IN TALK MONDAY

Governor Aspirant Assails Administration for Racketeering

Harold E. Stassen, Republican candidate for governor, opened a forceful attack on the Benson administration before a capacity crowd at the Stassen-for-Governor dinner at the Ryan Hotel in St. Paul Monday night.

Stassen declared, "If we are to have sound future progress in Minnesota, we must tear off the false mask of liberalism put on by the present administration."

He characterized the record of the administration as "a strange mixture of the three 'R's'—Reactionary, Radical and Racketeering."

"It is reactionary in the killing of civil service, the strangling of loan shark legislation, the iron-handed control of its own party machinery, the ruthless attitude toward the true liberals and sound labor leaders who founded the party."

"It is radical in its encouragement of violence in strikes, in its inciting of class hatred and intolerence, in its formenting of a disrespect for law, in its attitude of opposition to all private business, and in its cooperation with radical activities from New York to California."

"It is racketeering in its attempt to place the state in the liquor business, in the toll that it levies upon the employees of the state, in the collections that its 'kept press', the Minnesota Leader, makes from those doing business with the state."

He also pinned the responsibility for the present income tax rates in the lower brackets on the Governor's friends in the House of Representatives and stated that the delay in the payment of unemployment compensation was due to petty politics in that department.

Kaiser, field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the farm credit administration. The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1938 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock, and the amount which may be loaned to any one farmer in 1938 may not exceed $400.

WANT AD SELLS FARM NOT SEEN

Fairmont—A Canadian became a Martin county farm owner and operator early this month. The man is M. O. Orson of Saskatchewan, Canada who, it appears, had never seen the place he bought through an advertisement in a newspaper he never saw. A small classified advertisement in the local paper brought about the long distance deal in a rather peculiar way. Mr. Orsen, the purchaser, has a brother-in-law, Oscar H. Hanson, farming in Faribault county. Last summer Mr. Hanson's son had work in Fairmont and while here was a casual reader of the paper. He noticed this farm for sale advertisement, and knowing his uncle was looking for a place in this section, correspondence followed. Last week Mr. Hanson, acting for Mr. Orsen in Canada, closed the deal, the papers were signed, the money paid over.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

Liberals in Minnesota and throughtout the nation are rallying to the fight against the Sheppard-May bill now before Congress. The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, for example, is conducting a nation-wide campaign to tell America the truth about the Sheppard-May bill—that it is "a blueprint for fascism." Other groups, labor organizations, farm bodies, and liberal societies have also joined in the effort to bring down under a rain of adverse Congressional votes this infamous measure.

Nebraska reports indicate, is following the lead provided last summer by Minnesota in making homestead tax exemption a prime desire. Like Minnesota, Nebraska is a great farm state and the tax burden has proven heaviest upon Nebraska's farmers. One candidate for governor in Nebraska, Charles Bryan (brother to the late William Jennings Bryan) has already taken the stump for homestead exemption, his proposal being that the first $5,000 valuation of a farm or city home should be exempt from state property taxes. He would make up the loss in revenue by income, estate and luxury taxes, Bryan says. That too sounds strangely familiar.

It is generally the local officials who criticise the state most for spending money for relief purposes that are the first to put pressure on the state for increased relief allowances for local communities.

Reports of income tax returns for 1936 reveal that the highest paid man in Minnesota is E. L. King, the president of the Watkins company in Winona. Yes, Watkins is the very same gentleman who has been reported for years declaring that he will move his firm out of Minnesota.

A test case under the 1937 income tax law appeared on the horizon last week as Minnesota's building and loan association, meeting in Minneapolis, decided to contest their inclusion on grounds that the law discriminates against them in favor of other cooperatives and of federal chartered associations. The conference voted to advise the state commission that their refusal to pay the tax to clarify the law, and that the action is a friendly one. The conference also approved recommendations of the state banking department for revision of state laws governing administration and operation of building and loan groups.

A survey of dormant bank accounts which have lain idle for 20 years or more has revealed that $107,359.50 is being carried by 106 Minnesota banks in abandoned deposits. The report is the result of the Abandoned Bank Deposit act passed by the last legislature, under which all banks are required to report to the attorney general all accounts of $10 or more which have remained inactive for 20 years. Besides the accounts containing $10 or more, banks reporting to Attorney General William S. Ervin listed thousands of accounts having less than $10 on deposit. Reports submitted by the banks are on file in Attorney General Ervin's office and open to public inspection for all those interested in locating abandoned accounts.

ROAST CHICKEN 100 BIRDS BURN

Detroit Lakes— Nearly 100 chickens were burned to death and approximately a $700 loss was caused when fire destroyed the poultry building of W. C. Stephen. The fire, discovered at 4:30 one morning, left only one wall of the poultry barn standing. After the blaze was extinguished by the fire department, the seared bodies of a 100 odd chickens could be seen littering the water-drenched ashes. Nearby buildings were sprayed by the fire fighters to prevent the blaze from spreading. The fire, believed to have been started by a stove used to heat the poultry building, resulted in a substantial loss to Mr. Stephen who was just getting started in the poultry business.

Chukar Partridge

The chukar partridge is a native of Asia, ranging from India north and [illegible] Himalayas and into China. There are some 12 species of the birds, all closely related, but suited to different environments. They range from the lowest valleys to the highest mountain peaks, and those that have been brought to America came from all varieties. The birds are large. Their size is between a Hungarian partridge and a pheasant. The average adult weighs 19 ounces, but these birds tip the scales at 29 ounces. They are a dove gray, with black bands across the chest and on the tail. The beak and small wattles are blood red. The birds covey very much like a quail, being gregarious. In the spring, like quail, they pair off and build nests.

Famed Tower of London

Nothing in Britain has a history to compare with the famed Tower of London. Some contend that the fortress on the ruins of a tower first constructed by Julius Caesar's legions. It has served since as the royal palace, a prison, and, finally, as a sort of an historical museum and treasure place for the crown jewels. Until 1834 it also housed the royal menagerie. [illegible] persons believe it still is an impregnable fort guarding London, though its weapons are no [illegible] value.

Dolls of the Ancients

"All the world loves a doll," [illegible] places for a doll in [illegible] America it's a [illegible]. Boys and girls in Asia Minor play with dolls [illegible] Ancient Greek [illegible] of old Egypt had clay heads [illegible]. Cortez, on his first conquest trip into Mexico, says the Washington Post, found [illegible] and his Aztec court playing with elaborate dolls.

Chair, Symbol of Authority

In ancient times the chair was a symbol of authority, common persons using [illegible], benches or stools as seats.

Lemons Source of Electricity

Experiments have demonstrated that a lemon is a source of electricity. "Spades" of copper and aluminum were inserted in a lemon and attached to instruments, and the fruit yielded a current of about one-half volt and .0002 ampere. The strength of the current varied in other lemons. A curator of electricity and communications at the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, estimated, taking into consideration the internal resistance of the lemons and other factors, it would require 639 lemons to light a two and one-half volt flashlight bulb.—Popular Mechanics.

Early English Pipes

The first English pipes were made of silver, wood, or porcelain, some of the latter being beautifully painted and now very valuable. Instead of a lighter, the Elizabethan gentleman carried a little pair of bronze or silver tongs for picking a live coal out of the fire to light his pipe. The clay pipe, which soon became the most popular form of all, was introduced from Holland, and the long "churchwardens," were provided in all the London coffee houses. In the Eighteenth century, says London Answers Magazine, pipe smoking went completely out of fashion in London society, where the dandies considered snuff-taking much more elegant than smoking. The working classes, however, still remained faithful to their clays.

House Once a Fortress

Not far from Yeovil, in the depths of agricultural Somerset, rises a conspicuous pointed hill which the Normans called Mons Acutus, or sharp mountain. It seems to hold the little village and great house of Montacute within its shadow and it has bequeathed to them its antique and curious name. The house was built by Sir Edward Phelips, Queen's sergeant under Elizabeth, and in the next reign speaker of the house of commons. The building was going on while Shakespeare's plays were being written. One date, 1599, appears on the chimneypiece of the small dining room.

Lake Erie's Width

Due north the distance across Lake Erie is about 51 miles; to the northwest, at right angles with the shore line it is more than 52 miles. The maximum width, more than 57 miles, is in the vicinity of Cleveland.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

LOCAL QUINTET TROUNCES STRONG BEMIDJI TEAM

Prowlers Show Best Form of Season Wednesday

Demonstrating an offensive bombardment which has never been paralleled here in recent years, the undefeated Prowlers routed the Bemidji Teachers College Beavers by an almost unbelievable score of 54 to 32 in a basketball game here last Wednesday evening. The smashing victory ended the regular season for the year with nineteen wins and no losses which is the most successful since 1932 when the undefeated squad of that year annexed the first state championship for Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers who were originally scheduled to play the Bemidji reserve team which they trimmed 41 to 23 earlier in the season, played next years edition of the college first team which excluded only the four seniors on this years first team. Four full time varsity performers and the pick of the reserve team made up the powerful squad which went down to defeat before the Prowler who played their best game of the season.

The undaunted Prowlers forced the milling against the confident collegians in the first quarter but were forced to concede the lead as the quarter ended 12 to 9 in the visitors favor by virtue of Eckstein's three field goals which were the deciding factors although he was almost equaled by Nicholson.

The insertion of the Prowlers high scoring brothers, Clark and Reuben Mickelson appeared to give the Leemen new vigor in second quarter as the Prowlers speeded up their game to steal the collegians "thunder" and hold a 23 to 17 lead at the half. One of the highlights of the contest occurred in this quarter as the Prowler sniper, Reuben Mickelson, found the net on two consecutive attempts near the center of the floor immediately after entering the contest. Brother Clark cleverly eluded his man to receive a pass and scored on the only Prowler "cinch" shot of the first half.

The crowd was somewhat pessimistic on the Prowlers ability to continue their first half fusillage of baskets in the third period. Apparently the Leemen didn't share the same opinion as they immediately set to work on their siege gun tactics in the third quarter to leave the befuddled Beavers farther behind in the wake of some basket shooting that had the crowd literally pop eyed.

The Prowlers held a 76 to 27 lead at the quarter.

Attleson was removed from the Teachers lineup in the last quarter on personal fouls and the Bemidji defense lost its usual strength as the Prowlers pierced it often. Although the winners scoring was keen, Bemidji displayed the strongest defense of the season against the Lincolnites in the first three periods with the exception of the Prowler distance shots, with which they continually peppered the basket with unerring accuracy. Caldis, Stadum, Lee, Lorentson, and Haughom gave the winners its highest scoring quarter with eighteen pointers. Haughom scored on one of his pet break shots under the basket. Stadum also came through with effective work under the bucket.

Lee was high scorer for the evening and led the Prowler with fifteen points followed by Lorentson with eight.

"Eagle-Eye" Eckstein led his team with fourteen tallies with the burly center, Attleson, next in line with twelve.

The Prowler "B" squad closed the season with twelve wins and two losses by defeating Red Lake Falls 26 to 22 in a close but drab game in the curtain raiser.

Flasch led the winners with six points while K. Brown was high for the losers with nine.

BAND NOTES

There have been complaints made that band disturbs basket ball games by blowing horns and making other noises disturbing to the audience and the basket ball players. The band denies this accusation and is not to be blamed for this disturbance. These noises evidently come from some other source than that of the band, for no band member is allowed to blow on his horn during the game until it is time to play during the intermission. Please do not blame the band for what it is not responsible.

Rapid progress has been made lately by the band members on the Prescott system. Ralph Gustafson, who is farther advanced than any other pupil, has almost two years to his credit. Others who are far advanced and have passed over one year on the Prescott system are Elinor Erickson, Gloria Quist, Marjorie Helquist, Lorraine Amundson, Donald Peterson, Palma Jahr, Charles Gustafson, Peggy Jacobson, Gerald Evenson, Mae Wilson, Tommy Carlisle, Jimmy Skarstad, and Martha Havel.

Aces Lose to Plummer 31-23 Wednesday Night

After their usual last half rally fell short, the Senior Aces bowed before the Plummer Cardinals 31 to 23 in a basketball game there last Wednesday night.

The two squads matched shot for shot early in the game to keep the crowd in tense excitement, but the Aces were struck by a scoring drouth while the Cardinals began clicking with their shots to leave the colorful Aces behind 19 to 8 at the half.

The seniors outplayed their adversaries by a fine brand of ball in the second half but the lop sided Plummer lead and the presence of Gordon Langlie in the winners lineup were too much for the Aces to overcome.

Salveson was high point man for the visitors with nine points while Langlie engineered the Plummer attack and also was tops in the scoring column.

Mr. Gabrielson officiated the game with the approval of the teams and fans alike.

With the regular schedule completed, the Aces have a final record of four wins and four losses against varied competition.

Following the completion of the season, the Aces, including Glen "Tuney" Carlson, coach, and Ted Helle, manager, selected an all-opponent team for the season.

Clayton Angell of Lancaster, a former local boy, R. Halquist of Middle River and Gordon Langlie were unanimous choices for post on the all-opponents five. Johnson of Oslo and Torstveit of Plummer were selected for the remaining two positions after a close tally. Anderson of Newfolden, Isaacson of Middle River, Westrum of Clearbrook and Lund of Lancaster were others who received votes.

PROWLING AROUND

Immediately following the district meet, the editor, sports editor and assistant sports editor will select an all-district squad from the teams in the tournament. A first string five and an alternate quint will be chosen on a basis of tournament play alone.

The Prowlers can claim their [illegible] Bemidji Teachers Captain, last Wednesday. The [illegible] Witham is the team's top scorer and is third high in the scoring of the Minnesota Teachers College League. Witham [illegible] a regular outfielder of the Winnipeg Maroons in the Northern Baseball League.

An item in the Minnesota Daily, the University of Minnesota official [illegible]

The twelve leading Prowler "B" players selected an all-opponent team for the season recently completed. All of the reserves were unanimous for the choice of Joy [illegible] one man [illegible] for one position while Eaton [illegible] of Climax also received a high poll on the reserves choice. Wikstrom of Strandquist, M. Anderson of Newfolden and Vraa of Climax captured the remaining three vacancies in a close vote over K. Brown of Red Lake Falls. Climax was thus awarded two positions on the mythical quint.

Pilon of Newfolden, Amundson of Climax and Gullickson of Red Lake Falls were others prominent in the voting.

Difference in Counsel

There is as much difference between the counsel that a friend giveth and that a man giveth himself, as there is between the counsel of a friend and of a flatterer; for there is no such remedy against flattery of a man's self as the liberty of a friend.

This week end the Prowlers face their most difficult obstacle of the season to hurdle when they attempt to gain their second successive district championship. East Grand Forks will be the scene of one of the most hotly contested tournaments in the northwest. This district boasts the classiest team in this region, and the Prowlers are doped to win.

For these reasons, we believe every Lincoln high student, alumnus and all Thief River Falls boosters in general should attend as many of these games as is at all possible. Be there to cheer the Leemen on to victory.

In last week's editorial, we predicted a close victory for the Prowlers, and a fair possibility for an upset. This fact should immediately prompt Prowler supporters to do their utmost to give Thief River Falls a convincing victory in every detail. The Prowlers have but one [illegible] and that is to show once and for all that they are district champions in every sense of the word.

If Prowler supporters are up to their usual standard for the district tournament, they are going to be made to appear very feeble, indeed. In all probability, East Grand Forks will be the semi-final foes of the Prowlers. The Prowlers should win, but their fans will probably reverse the decision in the cheering laurels for East Grand Forks has the peppiest cheering section in this district not excepting Thief River Falls, neither Warren nor Crookston need bow to the locals in this division, either. The Prowler supporters, in our estimation, are capable of equalling or surpassing their adversaries in pep and support, but have yet to demonstrate that ability. The district tourney would be an excellent place for the localites to show their pep. Prowler fans have yet to show that they really appreciate the efforts and success of Coach Lee and his proteges. Let's show it at the district tournament, and make this another Prowler year in every way.

DISTRICT DOPE

The editor, sports editor and assistant sports editor of the Progress staff have collaborated on predicting the outcome of the district tournament played in East Grand Forks.

The scribes were unanimous in their choices which gave the Prowlers the nod for the crown, Warren to take second place and Crookston to outscore the East Grand Forks five for consolation honors.

The three writers submitted their choices and prospective scores and the choices were then averaged.

The final averages and choices are given below:

Semi-Finals: Prowlers 39; East Grand Forks 21; Warren 31; Crookston, 24.

Consolation: Crookston 28, East Grand Forks, 20.

Championship: Prowlers 31, Warren 25.

INTER TOURNEY PREVIEW

Since the intramural season has terminated, there has been and will be for sometime, a decided slack in interclass sports, particularly boys' sports. Interclass sports however, will again be resumed after the state high school tournament. After the tournament is completed, a local high school interclass tournament will be held in the auditorium where both boys and girls will participate in athletics and stunts in attempts to win glory for their respective classes. The grade schools will also have a small hand in this affair. This program is but the second of its kind ever to be presented in L. H. S. and is expected to equal or more likely surpass last year's record.

The procedure will follow after that of last year, with medals being awarded the classes with the best basketball teams and the classes presenting best stunts.

The Concord Grape

The grapes from which the Concord descended were in this country when it was discovered. In Concord, Mass., is a stone bearing the following inscription: "Ephraim Wales Bull planted seeds of a wild Labrusca Grape found growing on this hillside, which after three generations, through his work and wisdom, became in this garden in September, 1843, the Concord Grape."

SENIORS WHO'S WHO

And we have a new Senior who goes by the nickname of Dan (Daniel Kotlan to you) and he's at the ripe old age of 17. The main substance of his existence is nothing better than a well-made fruit salad. And loyalty blossoms here because his favorite music-rendering body is the Lincoln Band. He slaves at physics but detests falling asleep in class. Dan's main ambition is to be in command of that worthy occupation, farming.

Novelty Pep Fest Given by Frosh Before Game

All the high school students thoroughly enjoyed the pepfest given by the freshman class on Wednesday, March 2, prior to the game between the Lincoln Prowlers and the Bemidji Beavers.

The pepfest began with a song by a group of mountain singers, accompanied on the piano by James Skarstad. Following this was a presentation of the ever famous "Romeo and Juliet", but was, of course, modified to meet modern conditions. The scenes, setting, et cetera were introduced by means of placards. Romeo was quite skillfully enacted by Charles Gustafson while Johnny Parbst was the lovely Juliet. During the intermission between Acts I and II the two freshman cheerleaders, Dorothy Borgen and Marjorie Helquist, gave several yells for the team and James Skarstad played "Nola" as a piano solo.

At the conclusion of the play Coach George Lee gave us a pep talk and as the M. C. Buster Anderson, said, "Crack a few 'puns' ".

MARCH SLUSH

Even though we are purty near all messed up this year. This year's cus-or is it just an excuse to get out of town? Well, anyhow Thief River was quite well represented in Grand Forks Saturday.

And what were Bea P. and Eileen B. doing around town at 4:30 Sunday A. M.?

The Lane home was quite a lively place last Friday, with some 30 or 35 kids running hither and yon, to and fro, and all over the place.

The lower classmen are doing their share of party-throwing too—with that scavenger hunt of Bugs', the Stenberg hen-party, and that little Saturday-nite affair of Buster's.

And Tommy has finally decided to forsake all others, and play Romeo to Marty. They seem to be doing alrite, too, for freshmen.

And weren't we all surprised at Baldy's puzzle genius.

Wally T. and Zipper M. do a wonderful jig. Don't you, boys?

Lorraine B. may be a pretty school girl, but her heart does not turn to one, since those boys from Emerson and Grand Forks came to town.

NOON-DAY SPORTS

The Anderson-Oen combination are most certainly entitled to the weighty title of "Ko-King-Ping-Pongers". The finals, which were played with Borreson and Robert Althoff, were not decided until Anderson and Oen took the first game—thus winning three out of a total of five games played. Both duos played excellent ping-pong, as did the suprise combination of Merle Carlson and Alfred Klein, semi-finalists who lost to Borreson and Althoff.

Then up came two "dark horses" who challenged the winners to a friendly game one noon. Result—our kings toppled a bit when they lost three straight games to the wizards of the paddle—Si Kompelin and Palmer Ramsey. So-maybe we have The Four Horsemen instead of a couple of Kings—or do we?

LOCALS FAVORED TO WIN DISTRICT TOURNEY AGAIN

No Upsets Expected in Heavy Meet Schedule This Week

The district basketball tournament, now in progress in East Grand Forks, with teams from Crookston, Warren, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Plummer, Fisher, Climax and Red Lake Falls competing for the district crown will enter the second night of play this evening.

Barring any radical upsets in Wednesday's games, the teams playing tonight will be Crookston vs. Warren and East Grand Forks vs. Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers, defending champions in district 31, entered the tournament with the odds slightly in their favor with Warren as second choice. However, a recollection of the Warren game played here a few weeks ago is proof enough that Coach Lee's boys will have to play their best games of ball to fulfill all expectations and to emerge once more on the top with the right to go on to the regional tournament.

In the other game, Warren against Crookston, the former team is given a bare edge. But—if the Ponies should go into a slump and let Jessen and other Buccaneers get basket-conscious, well, an upset would be possible but not very probable.

The finals to be played Friday evening will be between the winners of the two games tonight to decide the champion, and the consolation game between the losers.

If all goes as doped out the Prowlers will again be on top. If they are, they won't be there without a fight so let's all be in East Grand Forks to help them out.

A prediction of the results of the various games appears elsewhere in this issue.

From The Little Black Book

Methink there's a romance sprouting from last Friday Social gathering—and it concerns two Seniors and she's the gal what put the blowout on and he's a tall orator and he wears glasses.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

Prowlers Show Best Form of Season Wednesday

Demonstrating an offensive bombardment which has never been paralleled here in recent years, the undefeated Prowlers routed the Bemidji Teachers College Beavers by an almost unbelievable score of 54 to 32 in a basketball game here last Wednesday evening. The smashing victory ended the regular season for the year with nineteen wins and no losses which is the most successful since 1932 when the undefeated squad of that year annexed the first state championship for Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers who were originally scheduled to play the Bemidji reserve team which they trimmed 41 to 28 earlier in the season, played next years edition of the college first team which excluded only the four seniors on this years first team. Four full time varsity performers and the pick of the reserve team made up the powerful squad which went down to defeat before the Prowler who played their best game of the season.

The undaunted Prowlers forced the milling against the confident collegians in the first quarter but were forced to concede the lead as the quarter ended 11 to 9 in the visitors favor by virtue of Eckstein's three field goals which were the deciding factors although he was almost equaled by Nicholson.

The insertion of the Prowlers high scoring brothers, Clark and Reuben Mickelson appeared to give the Leemen new vigor in second quarter as the Prowlers speeded up their game to steal the collegians "thunder" and hold a 23 to 17 lead at the half. One of the highlights of the contest occurred in this quarter as the Prowler sniper, Reuben Mickelson, found the net on two consecutive attempts near the center of the floor immediately after entering the contest. Brother Clark cleverly eluded his man to receive a pass and scored on the only Prowler "cinch" shot of the first half.

The crowd was somewhat pessimistic on the Prowlers ability to continue their first half fusillage of baskets in the third period. Apparently the Leemen didn't share the same opinion as they immediately set to work on their siege gun tactics in the third quarter to leave the befuddled Beavers farther behind in the wake of some basket shooting that had the crowd literally pop-eyed.

The Prowlers held a 36 to 27 lead at the quarter.

Attleson was removed from the Teachers lineup in the last quarter on personal fouls and the Bemidji defense lost its usual strength, as the Prowlers pierced it often. Although the winners scoring was high, Bemidji displayed the strongest defense of the season against the Lincolnites in the first three periods with the exception of the Prowler distance shots, with which they continually peppered the basket with unerring accuracy. Caldis, Stadum, Lee, Lorentson, and Haughom gave the winners its highest scoring quarter with eighteen pointers. Haughom scored on one of his pet break shots under the basket. Stadum also came through with effective work under the bucket.

Lee was high scorer for the evening and led the Prowler with fifteen points followed by Lorentson with eight.

"Eagle-Eye" Eckstein led his team with fourteen tallies with the burly center, Attleson, next in line with twelve.

The Prowler "B" squad closed the season with twelve wins and two losses by defeating Red Lake Falls 26 to 22 in a close but drab game in the curtain raiser.

Flasch led the winners with six points while K. Brown was high for the losers with nine.

BAND NOTES

There have been complaints made that band disturbs basket ball games by blowing horns and making other noises disturbing to the audience and the basket ball players. The band denies this accusation and is not to be blamed for this disturbance. These noises evidently come from some other source than that of the band, for no band member is allowed to blow on his horn during the game until it is time to play during the intermission. Please do not blame the band for what it is not responsible.

Rapid progress has been made lately by the band members on the Prescott system. Ralph Gustafson, who is farther advanced than any other pupil, has almost two years to his credit. Others who are far advanced and have passed over one year on the Prescott system are Elinor Erickson, Gloria Quist, Marjorie Halquist, Lorraine Amundson, Donald Peterson, Palma Jahr, Charles Gustafson, Peggy Jacobson, Gerald Evenson, Mae Wilson, Tommy Carlisle, Jimmy Skarstad, and Martha Havel.

Aces Lose to Plummer 31-23 Wednesday Night

After their usual last half rally fell short, the Senior Aces bowed before the Plummer Cardinals 31 to 23 in a basketball game there last Wednesday night.

The two squads matched shot for shot early in the game to keep the crowd in tense excitement, but the Aces were struck by a scoring drouth while the Cardinals began clicking with their shots to leave the colorful Aces behind 19 to 8 at the half.

The seniors outplayed their adversaries by a fine brand of ball in the second half but the lop sided Plummer lead and the presence of Gordon Langlie in the winners lineup were too much for the Aces to overcome.

Salveson was high point man for the visitors with nine points while Langlie engineered the Plummer attack and also was tops in the scoring column.

Mr. Gabrielson officiated the game with the approval of the teams and fans alike.

With the regular schedule completed, the Aces have a final record of four wins and four losses against varied competition.

Following the completion of the season, the Aces, including Glen "Tuney" Carlson, coach, and Ted Helle, manager, selected an all-opponent team for the season.

Clayton Angell of Lancaster, a former local boy, R. Halquist of Middle River and Gordon Langlie were unanimous choices for post on the all-opponents five. Johnson of Oslo and Torstveit of Plummer were selected for the remaining two positions after a close tally. Anderson of Newfolden, Isaacson of Middle River, Westrum of Clearbrook and Lund of Lancaster were others who received votes.

PROWLING AROUND

Immediately following the district meet, the editor, sports editor and assistant sports editor will select an all-district squad from the teams in the tournament. A first string five and an alternate quint will be chosen on a basis of tournament play alone.

The Prowlers can thank [illegible] Witham the Bemidji Teachers Captain, last Wednesday. The bespectacled Witham is the team's top scorer and is third high in the scoring of the Minnesota Teachers College League. Witham [illegible] a regular outfielder of the Winnipeg Maroons in the Northern Baseball League.

An item in the Minnesota Daily, the University of Minnesota official paper and world's largest [illegible] [illegible]

The twelve leading Prowler "B" players selected an all-opponent team for the season recently completed. All of the reserves were unanimous for the choice of Joy [illegible] the Alvar [illegible] man [illegible] for one position while Estenson of Climax also received a high poll on the reserves choice. Wikstrom of Strandquist, M. Anderson of Newfolden and Vraa of Climax captured the remaining three vacancies in a close vote over K. Brown of Red Lake Falls. Climax was thus awarded two positions on the mythical quint.

Pilon of Newfolden, Amundson of Climax and Gullickson of Red Lake Falls were others prominent in the voting.

Difference in Counsel

There is as much difference between the counsel that a friend giveth and that a man giveth himself, as there is between the counsel of a friend and of a flatterer; for there is no such remedy against flattery of a man's self as the liberty of a friend.

This week end the Prowlers face their most difficult obstacle of the season to hurdle when they attempt to gain their second successive district championship. East Grand Forks will be the scene of one of the most hotly contested tournaments in the northwest. This district boasts the classiest team in this region, and the Prowlers are doped to win.

For these reasons, we believe every Lincoln high student, alumnus and all Thief River Falls boosters in general should attend as many of these games as is at all possible. Be there to cheer the Leemen on to victory.

In last week's editorial, we predicted a close victory for the Prowlers, and a fair possibility for an upset. This fact should immediately prompt Prowler supporters to do their utmost to give Thief River Falls a convincing victory in every detail. The Prowlers have but one aim in mind and that is to show once and for all that they are district champions in every sense of the word.

If Prowler supporters are up to their usual standard for the district tournament, they are going to be made to appear very feeble, indeed. In all probability, East Grand Forks will be the semi-final foes of the Prowlers. The Prowlers should win, but their fans will probably reverse the decision in the cheering laurels for East Grand Forks has the peppiest cheering section in this district not excepting Thief River Falls, neither Warren nor Crookston need bow to the locals in this division, either. The Prowler supporters, in our estimation, are capable of equalling or surpassing their adversaries in pep and support, but have yet to demonstrate that ability. The district tourney would be an excellent place for the localites to show their pep. Prowler fans have yet to show that they really appreciate the efforts and success of Coach Lee and his proteges. Let's show it at the district tournament, and make this another Prowler year in every way.

DISTRICT DOPE

The editor, sports editor and assistant sports editor of the Progress staff have collaborated on predicting the outcome of the district tournament played in East Grand Forks.

The scribes were unanimous in their choices which gave the Prowlers the nod for the crown, Warren to take second place and Crookston to outscore the East Grand Forks five for consolation honors.

The three writers submitted their choices and prospective scores and the choices were then averaged.

The final averages and choices are given below:

Semi-Finals: Prowlers 39; East Grand Forks 21; Warren 31; Crookston, 24.

Consolation: Crookston 28, East Grand Forks, 20.

INTER TOURNEY PREVIEW

Since the intramural season has terminated, there has been and will be for sometime, a decided slack in interclass sports, particularly boys' sports. Interclass sports however, will again be resumed after the state high school tournament. After the tournament is completed, a local high school interclass tournament will be held in the auditorium where both boys and girls will participate in athletics and stunts in attempts to win glory for their respective classes. The grade schools will also have a small hand in this affair. This program is but the second of its kind ever to be presented in L. H. S. and is expected to equal or more likely surpass last year's record.

The procedure will follow after that of last year, with medals being awarded the classes with the best basketball teams and the classes presenting best stunts.

The Concord Grape

The grapes from which the Concord descended were in this country when it was discovered. In Concord, Mass., is a stone bearing the following inscription: "Ephraim Wales Bull planted seeds of a wild Labrusca Grape found growing on this hillside, which after three generations, through his work and wisdom, became in this garden in September, 1849, the Concord Grape."

Dan's main ambition is to be in command of that worthy occupation, farming.

Novelty Pep Fest Given by Frosh Before Game

All the high school students thoroughly enjoyed the pepfest given by the freshman class on Wednesday, March 2, prior to the game between the Lincoln Prowlers and the Bemidji Beavers.

The pepfest began with a song by a group of mountain singers, accompanied on the piano by James Skarstad. Following this was a presentation of the ever famous "Romeo and Juliet", but was, of course, modified to meet modern conditions. The scenes, setting, et cetera were introduced by means of placards. Romeo was quite skillfully enacted by Charles Gustafson while Johnny Parbst was the lovely Juliet. During the intermission between Acts I and II the two freshman cheerleaders, Dorothy Borgen and Marjorie Holquist, gave several yells for the team and James Skarstad played "Nola" as a piano solo.

At the conclusion of the play Coach George Lee gave us a pep talk and as the M. C. Buster Anderson, said, "Crack a few 'puns'".

MARCH SLUSH

Even though we are purty near all snowed up, we still love a sleigh ride—or is it just an excuse to get out of town? Well, anyhow Thief River was quite well represented in Grand Forks Saturday.

And what were Bea P. and Eileen B. doing around town at 4:30 Sunday A. M.?

The Lane home was quite a lively place last Friday, with some 30 or 35 kids running hither and yon, to and fro, and all over the place.

The lower classmen are doing their share of party-throwing too—with that scavenger hunt of Bugs', the Stenberg hen-party, and that little Saturday-nite affair of Buster's.

And Tommy has finally decided to forsake all others, and play Romeo to Marty. They seem to be doing alrite, too, for freshmen.

And weren't we all surprised at Baldy's puzzle genius.

Wally T. and Zipper M. do a wonderful jig. Don't you, boys?

Lorraine B. may be a pretty school girl, but her heart does not turn to one, since those boys from Emerson and Grand Forks came to town.

NOON-DAY SPORTS

The Anderson-Oen combination are most certainly entitled to the weighty title of "Ko-King-Ping-Pongers". The finals, which were played with Borreson and Robert Althoff, were not decided until Anderson and Oen took the first game—thus winning three out of a total of five games played. Both duos played excellent ping-pong, as did the suprise combination of Merle Carlson and Alfred Klein, semi-finalists who lost to Borreson and Althoff.

Then up came two "dark horses" who challenged the winners to a friendly game one noon. Result—our kings toppled a bit when they lost three straight games to the wizards of the paddle—Si Kompelin and Palmer Ramsey. So-maybe we have The Four Horsemen instead of a couple of Kings—or do we?

LOCALS FAVORED TO WIN DISTRICT TOURNEY AGAIN

No Upsets Expected in Heavy Meet Schedule This Week

The district basketball tournament, now in progress in East Grand Forks, with teams from Crookston, Warren, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, Plummer, Fisher, Climax and Red Lake Falls competing for the district crown will enter the second night of play this evening.

Barring any radical upsets in Wednesday's games, the teams playing tonight will be Crookston vs. Warren and East Gand Forks vs. Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers, defending champions in district 31, entered the tournament with the odds slightly in their favor with Warren as second choice. However, a recollection of the Warren game played here a few weeks ago is proof enough that Coach Lee's boys will have to play their best games of ball to fulfill all expectations and to emerge once more on the top with the right to go on to the regional tournament.

In the other game, Warren against Crookston, the former team is given a bare edge. But—if the Ponies should go into a slump and let Jessen and other Buccaneers get basket-conscious, well, an upset would be possible but not very probable.

The finals to be played Friday evening will be between the winners of the two games tonight to decide the champion, and the consolation game between the losers.

If all goes as doped out the Prowlers will again be on top. If they are, they won't be there without a fight so let's all be in East Grand Forks to help them out.

A prediction of the results of the various games appears elsewhere in this issue.

From The Little Black Book

Methink there's a romance sprouting from last Friday Social gathering—and it concerns two Seniors and she's the gal what put the blowout on and he's a tall orator and he wears glasses.

Hmm—Why don't Erling's folks go away more often?

From hotel-clerk to fraternity member—yeas-yea, there's nothing small about that Bennes girl.

Who says Seniors aren't talanted—judging from the pep-fest I mean. Isn't Floyd the darlingest girl you ever saw?

Beer Is Very Old

Historically, beer is of great antiquity. It was manufactured by the Egyptians and by the Greeks, Romans and ancient Gauls. The Romans are supposed to have introduced the art of brewing into Britain, the only intoxicating beverages used by the Britons previous to the Roman conquest being mead and cider. Ale seems to have been the current name in England for malt liquor in general before the introduction of the use of hops from Germany about 1524.

NEW GROUP TAKES LEAD IN CAMPAIGN FOR U. S. ROAD AID

Seven States Unite to Form Northwest Good Roads Association

Chance of victory in the federal highway aid fight, on the outcome of which depends approximately $10,000,000 in federal funds for highway improvements in Minnesota during the next three years brightened considerably this week, in the opinion of N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner.

Commissioner Elsberg based his opinion on the spontaneous and unanimous action taken last week by 1,200 good roads advocates from seven northwest states, who, following a dinner in Minneapolis banded themselves together in the formation of the Northwest Good Roads association.

The seven states united their strength in making a demand on the President of the United States and the members of congress that federal aid for trunk highways, county secondary roads and grade crossing elimination be continued in full on its present basis. This would mean defeat for the program proposed in Congress last December that federal aid funds be curtailed and the highway users' tax money, which in the past has been in large part allocated to the states, for highways, be diverted to other federal government purposes.

Minnesota's stake in this issue is almost $5,500,000 a year, or slightly more than $16,000,000 for the fiscal years ending July 1, 1939-40-41.

The formation of the Northwest Good Roads association was a spontaneous action taken on the motion of Rep. Carl Eastvold of Ortonville after the 1,200 dinner guests hailing from all sections of Minnesota and the delegates from neighboring states had heard discussion on the subject by Col. William Chevalier, president of the American Road Builders association, Congressman Wilburn Cartwright, of Oklahoma, chairman of the house committee on roads, Col. O. R. McGuire, counsel to the comptroller general of the United States, Congressman Dewey W. Johnson of Minneapolis, Commissioner Elsberg and other authorities.

The seven-state gathering forwarded to the White House and to the members of the roads committees of the United States senate and house a resolution condemning the proposal to cancel or curtail federal aid as a move which would disorganize the highway program of the nation and disrupt "one, national defense; two, universal transportation, including farm to market roads; three, the employment program; four, public safety programs; five, the tourist industry; six, the general economic welfare."

The resolution commended governmental economy but vigorously denounced diversion of direct federal levies on highway users to any other than highway purposes, and pointed out that the federal government has prohibited the states from doing the very thing that such a program would effect.

Built Replica of Versailles

Mad King Ludwig of Bavaria took great pleasure in having magnificent castles built in various parts of his realm. On an island in the midst of Lake Chiemsee in the Bavarian Alps he ordered built in 1878 a spectacular replica of Louis XVI's chateau at Versailles, and even planned to outrival the original in sumptuousness of the furnishings and decorations.

One of the freaks of nature was born on the farm of Cody Hill, near Tomah, Wis. It is a calf which is perfectly normal in every way except that it has four mule feet. The hoof, instead of being cloven is solid and pointed.

Failure to Report Traffic Accidents Might Prove Costly

Unless drivers involved in traffic accidents responsible for personal injury or total property damage of $50 or more report immediately to the safety division of the Minnesota highway department, St. Paul, W. F. Rosenwald, state traffic engineer, is going to order some arrests. While reports are coming in at about the rate expected for an institution so recently inaugurated, said Mr. Rosenwald, there are still hundreds of accidents unreported. The division is checking with local police departments to obtain the names of drivers in accidents which should be, but have not been, reported. The Minnesota uniform traffic code act requires such reports. The findings are used to eliminate and rectify conditions which may lead to accidents in the future. The reports are confidential and not available for use in civil or criminal prosecutions.

Augustana Luther League Camp Set for June 12-18

The Luther Leaguers of the Red River Valley Conference of the Augustana Lutheran synod will meet in their fifth annual Bible camp at Fair Hills resort June 12 to 18, according to plans announced by the executive committee headed by Rev. Sven Swenson of Evansville, Minnesota.

The executive committee recently announced that the camp will open in the afternoon of June 12 and close at noon June 18. Chester Kaldahl operator of the resort, assures the Leaguers the usual fine accommodations. It was also announced at a recent meeting of the committee that Rev. Albert Loren of Rockford, Ill., will be the Bible teacher and Rev. Wilton Bergstrand, executive secretary of the Synodical Luther League will conduct studies in Luther League work.

It is expected that a number of the young people of the Augustana Church parish of this city, Rev. C. W. Erickson, pastor will attend.

Easy Winter Reduces Snow Removal Costs

Nature, the earlier part of this winter, has been kind to the taxpayers' pocketbooks by withholding the fierce storms that tore across Minnesota a year ago and caused the Minnesota Highway department's snow removal fleet to turn up d[illegible] to keep the trunk roads clear.

In November, December and January, this winter, snow removal costs totaled $231,018.02, the Highway department's books revealed, as against $727,169.70 for the same months last winter.

One storm in April last year alone cost the department's maintenance division $191,116.91 in snow removal costs, an occurrence which, the highway department fervently hopes, may not be repeated for another 20 years.

SCHOOL NOTES

The Plummer Cardinals stepped out and covered themselves with glory last Wednesday when they defeated the Thief River Falls High school Senior Aces. Both teams set fast pace and kept it throughout the game. The Aces scored the first on a free throw but the Cardinals came back with their "shooting caps" on and scored two baskets quickly. At the quarter turn Plummer led and was going better and better then slowed down a trifle for the half. At the start of the third quarter Plummer came back like a flash, scored thrice in succession on nice baskets and then continued to hold the lead till the end of the game.

The whole Plummer team played fine ball and really looked like a real winner. Baskets [illegible] work was good. Against opposition the caliber of the Aces, it was pleasing to see the fine offensive power of the Cardinals as they worked in for their many short shots.

It would be hard to pick out any one player but mention should be made to the fact that this was the last game for three of the boys, Gordon Langlie, Russell Pahlen and Lester Hanson. All of them played a good ball and acquitted themselves very well in their final battle on the home floor.

Howard Toulouse, Robert Houle, James Mack and Lester Norby will have to take over the positions left by these men and we will see more of them next year.

Clean Seed Pays

Have your seed cleaned by our modern gravity separators, and increase your yield by sowing thoroughly cleaned seed. You can not expect good crops from poorly cleaned seed. Bring your wheat, flax, barley, sweet clover and alfalfa and have all foul and poor seeds removed. Our gravity weighs out the poor immatured and foul seed. This cannot be done with a fanning mill.

FARM SECURITY PROJECT GOES FORWARD SOON

59 FARMS ARE SOLD TO PURCHASERS TO DATE

Ten Farms Yet Available in Neighborhood of Thief River Falls

Fifty-nine farms in the Thief River Falls Farms project sponsored by the Farm Security administration, formerly known as the Resettlement administration, have been sold to purchasers, 41 of whom have already moved onto the farms, John W. Taylor, project manager, announced today. The remaining number will occupy their farms this month in time to start spring work.

The 16 farms in the Warren territory have all been sold, Mr. Taylor said, as have been the 12 farms in the Oklee territory. A total of 27 farms have been sold in the Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire, Hazel, Steiner and Silverton localities, and two applications for farms in the Goodridge area have been accepted, but these have not yet selected their tracts.

Mr. Taylor said ten farms are yet available for sale in the Thief River Falls district, while the 17 at Goodridge and Highlanding will be leased for 1938 operations, and will be sold this spring and summer with possession given next fall, at which time construction of buildings will be completed. The 21 in Grygla, Gatzke and Middle River territory are all leased for the 1938 season with the exception of two, and will be sold this spring and summer with possession given in the fall.

The construction program will be resumed about April 1 and will terminate on or about June 1. There are 45 farms to be fenced, about 50 sets of buildings that require some painting, and 41 on which buildings are to be completed. Foundations are all in, barns erected and materials largely delivered to the units.

The applicants are all from this immediate territory, three or four each coming from Clearwater and Polk counties, and the remainder largely from Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake counties. Several hundred applications have been received for farms, said Mr. Taylor, but so many are in such financial straits that an injustice would be done them if they were put on the farms with a large burden of indebtedness.

Pile up 111 Points in Three Games to 38 for Their Opponents

Racing thru the District 31 high school basketball tournament at East Grand Forks late last week in inspired fashion, the Thief River Falls Prowlers captured the district championship in their stride. The local quintet is one of four to enter the Region 8 tournament at the Auditorium in this city tonight, the goal being participation in the state tourney in Minneapolis next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In the first round games this evening Thief River Falls is slated to play at 9 o'clock against Erskine, winner in District 30, while the opening contest at 8 o'clock is scheduled between Bemidji, District 29 champion, and Middle River, winner in District 32. While the seating capacity at the Auditorium is being extended to the limit, interest being manifested locally in the event indicates that standing room will be at a premium.

Displaying a powerful offensive drive and nearly perfect defensive play, the Prowlers in their three games in the district tourney last week piled up a total of 111 points to 38 for their opponents, only ten field goals being scored on Thief River Falls in the three games, five by Fisher, two by East Grand Forks in the semi-finals and three by Warren in the championship tilt.

Several hundred Thief River Falls fans packed their way into the East Grand Forks gymnasium Friday evening to see the Prowlers retain district honors by crushing Warren 34-12. The Prowlers led at the end of the first quarter 9-5, at the half 14-8 and at the end of the third period 22-8, Warren being held scoreless in that quarter. Nicholson led the scoring for the locals, accounting for a total of 16 points, followed by Lee with seven, Lorentson with five and Caldis with four.

Playing in the semi-finals against East Grand Forks Thursday night, the Prowlers staged a splendid exhibition of basket-shooting and nearly perfect floor work, winning handily by a score of 41 to 12. The East Siders trailed 15-5 at the end of the quarter, 25-7 at the half and 33-10 at the end of the third period. Scoring by the Prowlers was well distributed among the ten players who took part in the contest.

WHAT ELEMENTS WILL THE FAITH OF JESUS BRING INTO OUR LIVES?

The Apostle Paul claimed to have the faith of the Son of God and that faith changed him from a sinner to a saint, from a persecutor to a preacher of righteousness. What will the same faith do for me? Many interesting experiences from actual life will be related in this spiritual discourse.

Three File for Office in Marshall County

Politics for the 1938 election opened up in Marshall county Tuesday when three filings for county offices were made with Levi G. Johnson, county auditor. The first filings were Evald E. Erickson of Wanger township who filed for sheriff and H. M. Hanson and C. G. Swedberg of Warren who filed for register of deeds. With the first official announcements, additional filings may be expected during the next few weeks, with candidates for the county office having until May 11 in which to file for office.

If Secretary Wallace wants his department to do something really worth while he might try plowing under the Big Apple."

HITLER EXPANDS NAZI EMPIRE TO INCLUDE AUSTRIA

Germany Absorbs Neighbor Country, Overthrowing Government

Adolf Hitler proclaimed Tuesday in Vienna the creation of an expanded Germany as "the greatest achievement of my life."

Applauded as if he were a liberator, he spoke to frenzied thousands in Heroes' square outside the imperial palace of the Hapsburg's and ended his four days of triumph in Austria by flying back to Munich.

As Hitler announced "the entrance of my native land into the German reich" in one of his shortest addresses, Germany took over the Austrian government, lock, stock and barrel.

Austria Tuesday was merely a gau (district) of the German realm. Chancellor Arthur Seyss-Inquart was addressed by Hitler as "governor of Austria." Vienna, once capital of the Austro-Hungarian empire, was a provincial German city.

The German treasury absorbed the Austrian treasury. Hitler's foreign minister, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, took over direction of Austria's foreign affairs. The war department, the interior ministry and other parts of the Austrian government were placed in charge of German officials.

The new government announced that Jews no longer could vote.

Hitler rode through cheering hundreds of thousands to the square where he declared that Austria now was "the most thoroughly German outpost of the German people."

Middle River Grasps District Cage Title in Spite of Handicaps

It took more than an outbreak of chicken pox, lack of a gymnasium, showers and other conveniences to keep little Middle River high school from the 32nd district high school basketball championship.

With only twelve male students in the entire enrollment at the school, eight of them are listed on the team roster, which won twenty of its twenty-three games under direction of L. M. "Zook" Iten, former St. John's University athlete, who is in his first year at Middle River.

"They won their games the hard way," Coach Iten said, "for chicken pox crept into the squad and the greater time they played with one or two members of the first five out of action."

Playing all games away from home because of lack of a suitable gymnasium, the Middle River team was forced to practice in the small, low-ceiling town hall, which Iten said, is about one-third the size of a regulation floor.

He saw the welcome sight in his yard Tuesday morning. A considerable number of crows also have arrived from points south, local observers report.

WORST ENEMIES OF SOCIETY

Another crisis has come and gone in Europe. This probably is not the one that will result in the big explosion. The time is not yet ripe. This crisis will hasten the ripening process however. The time is drawing nearer.

The present situation in Europe is an awful thing. Great nations, so-called civilized nations, are directing all of their energies toward the creation of larger and more destructive war machines. The people in each of these nations are inspired by what to them is a great national ideal, the ideal of liberty. They have been taught to fear their neighbors and to hate them. Clever politicians have played upon their emotions. Three of the great nations are completely dominated by power-drunk dictators who have silenced all opposition. It is not reasonable to hope that this condition can continue for long without resulting in another major disaster for civilization.

Perhaps we are prejudiced but as we see it this world of ours would be a lot better world if the power of the politicians could be checked more effectively. As a class we believe politicians are society's worst enemies. There is an occasional statesman among them but as a class they are people of abnormal ambition, gifted with the power of words but unwilling to apply themselves to any of the less dramatic but more useful occupations.

Our country is dominated by men of this type. We are getting to the point where, instead of our public officials working for us, we, the people, are working for a group of professional politicians and their armies of underlings. In this country we still have a few liberties. In most of Europe the individual exists solely for the state and the state, in most cases, is the plaything of the politicians. The politicians are preparing for war. War seems to be inevitable. And millions of the rank and file of the people will be slaughtered before the futility of war is finally rediscovered.

If the people of Europe today could get their politicians out of the way for a few months we have no doubt but that the differences that now seem so serious could be quickly adjusted. And if the energy and the wealth that is now being dissipated in the maintenance of large armies and navies were directed into peaceful pursuits, it wouldn't be long before the common people of Europe would be driving automobiles instead of riding bicycles, and the Germans and the French and the Italians and the English would all discover that their neighbors are pretty decent people after all.

Maybe we are wrong, but as we see it, as a class politicians are society's worst enemies.

From our standpoint, one good result of the trouble they are having in Europe is that we now know where Czechoslovakia is on the map. We also know where Yugo-Slavia is and Lithuania and Latvia. Now that we have discovered where they are we like to talk about them. One of these days we are going to learn the names of the capitol cities of these countries. With that information we should be able to dominate the conversation in almost any group.

Thirty-two district champion basketball teams thruout the state will battle this week for regional honors and the eight regional winners will meet next week in Minneapolis in the state championship playoff. In the regional tournament being played here tonight and tomorrow night, Bemidji and Thief River Falls are veteran contenders for the title. For Middle River and Erskine it is the first chance for the regional crown. Naturally neither of these teams is favored to win but either of them may surprise the dopesters. According to the season's records Thief River Falls has the best chance to come through but season's records don't win tournaments. Buck Robbins and his Bemidji team discovered this fact last year. Our guess is that the team Buck Robbins puts on the floor in this tournament is going to be a better team than the one Thief River Falls defeated a few weeks ago. We're still picking the Prowlers however.

Martin Nelson of Austin is back in the race for governor, having filed for the Republican nomination Monday. Nelson has impressed us very favorably in previous campaigns. It has seemed to us that he has conducted himself as a candidate for high office should conduct himself. The fact that he has been defeated twice should not discredit him in the ranks of conservative voters. In the last election he proved himself to be a strong candidate, nearly a half a million Minnesota voters supporting him. No Republican candidate could have made a better run than he did in 1936. He has made many friends thruout the state and Republicans will make no mistake if they select him as their standard bearer in the coming election.

THE JOURNAL CANNOT
(Faribault Journal)

A Journal reader, who requests that his letter not appear in print writes, "Since you continue to proclaim yourself a Democratic paper, why do you criticize President Roosevelt?"

In the first place, The Journal places country above parties and persons. In the fall of '36, it definitely decided that the Roosevelt Administration just didn't know where it was going. For any newspaper worthy of the name to stand by and blindly shout party loyalty in times such as these could be termed treason, but to say the least, its acts in so doing would certainly amount to nothing less than the wilful misleading of its readers. The Journal wants none of this.

Furthermore, from the standpoint of good sportsmanship, an ardent supporter of Mr. Roosevelt who is fair must admit that the many criticisms aimed at President Hoover in '32 can now very justly be repeated and directed at Mr. Roosevelt. In fact, Mr. Roosevelt's own utterings of 1932 and prior years condemn his acts of the last two years.

To refresh memories: Mr. Hoover was criticized because he had a weak cabinet and do nothing policies (Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet is probably weaker than Hoover's, no one has been definitely able to determine just what the Roosevelt policies now are, they seem unknown to even the President); Hoover was abused by all of us because of government expenses (it has taken the Roosevelt Administration to show us what expenditures and deficits really are); Hoover was taken to task for his commissions and bureaus (we hadn't seen anything then; the New Deal has given us the greatest crowd of bureaus and senseless bureaucrats that the world has ever known and it has now on the government payrolls something over 1,000,000 office holders drawing salaries from the people's treasury); 'twas said that Mr. Hoover made the depression (now we have a Roosevelt-made depression which may be more serious than Mr. Hoover's for Mr. Roosevelt has doubled our national debt and has scared the people by his crackdown, confidence breaking harangues); and so on, and so on.

So, for any self respecting newspaper to stand idly by and refrain from just criticism because of party politics first now constitutes an [illegible] able act of which The Journal just cannot be guilty.

The Journal sincerely hopes that Mr. Roosevelt makes himself immortal by now bringing this country out of the Roosevelt Depression and into real prosperity, but unless the Administration's policies change completely he just cannot do it and we are due to suffer much for errors committed on the demagogic course which he has pursued.

HOW CONFESSIONS ARE OBTAINED
(Fergus Falls Journal)

H. R. Knickerbocker in discussing the present Russian trials, in the Minneapolis Star says:

"The question most frequently asked about the present trial is: why do the accused confess?

"The answer is, first, because they probably are all guilty of the highest crime possible in the Soviet Union, namely, opposition to Stalin.

"Once having been driven to confess that, it is easy by the methods of the NKVD to force them to confess to everything else in the indictment, including the most fantastic charges.

"Each man is kept isolated and told that each of the others already has confessed all.

"Each, being a genuine old Bolshevik, [illegible] is compelled, in the loneliness of a cell lit 24 hours a day by a blinding incandescent lamp, to think perhaps he was wrong in opposing Stalin who, after all, was titular head of the church of Communism.

"Months, even years, of [illegible] interrogation, [illegible] without allowing the victim to sleep for many days, usually brings confession of most of the victim's real [illegible].

"[illegible] details is to [illegible] the prisoner's [illegible] the Soviet Union provides [illegible] be done.

"If [illegible] already have [illegible] own life [illegible] to confess further details for the sake of saving the lives of one's wife, children, brothers, sisters, and every friend.

"It works so well that there is no victim left but the executioner. That is the past, present and future of the red terror of Russia."

LAND O'LAKES IN ANNUAL MEETING IN MINNEAPOLIS

Assets of Big Cooperative Institution Fixed at $7,155,498

BOY SCOUT WORK IS DISCUSSED AT C. AND C. MEETING

Action Deferred on Voting Funds to Make up Deficit

At the Civic and Commerce association luncheon last Thursday Robert J. Lund and Supt. Morris Bye led a discussion of the objectives of the Boy Scout movement and means of financing the activity in this community.

Mr. Bye stated that Scout work satisfies the gregarious tendency of boys to form groups, and provides them with something to do under proper leadership. He also cited the need of maintaining the district organization so that members of the local troops may obtain proper recognition.

Mr. Lund revealed that this city is $300 in arrears in fulfilling its pledges to the district organization and requested the financial support of the civic group, which has been a contributor in past years.

After some discussion pro and con, it was decided to ask the committee to ascertain what funds would be available from other local groups, and then to report back at a later meeting at which time definite action will be taken.

Also starred in the film is Joan Blondell, who helps Howard over the hurdles. The cast includes Humphrey Bogart, Alan Mowbray, C. Henry Gordon and Marla Shelton.

New York's famous night club sector provided the inspiration for the film musical, "52 Street", which will be the offering at the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday. Red Lake County Man Dies While Seated in Automobile in City

Frank Ford, age 70, of the Red Lake Falls community died of a heart attack late last Friday afternoon while seated in an automobile on LaBree av., while he was awaiting the return of other members of his party. A physician was summoned but Mr. Ford was already dead. The body was taken to Red Lake Falls, where funeral rites were conducted Monday morning from the Catholic church. Born in Hastings, Minnesota, in 1868, Mr. Ford had been a resident of Red Lake county the past 57 years.

Dr. E. S. Amesbury has recovered from injuries sustained in his recent automobile accident and has resumed practice.

TAYLOR REPORTS ON PROGRESS OF FARM SECURITY PROJECT

It is felt by the local office, Mr. Taylor said, that such families should be selected as have a reasonable chance of remaining on the farms thru possessing a considerable amount of security over and above their debts on livestock and machinery. A large percentage of clients, he added, have no livestock and machinery debts whatsoever.

A survey of the first 40 cases approved indicate the following status of families selected: Average age of head of family, 38 years; average size of family, 4.2; average education, 7.7 grades; and average net recoverable equity, $1,100. Of the 59 purchase contracts made out, only 14 cases have had any refinancing on livestock and machinery, and the greater number of these are former rural rehabilitation cases.

The lease and purchase contract provides that the equal annual installments vary somewhat depending to some extent upon prices and yields of various farm crops and livestock products marketed. If a purchaser desires later on to check out, Mr. Taylor said, he may withdraw deposits that he has paid in on principal, less depreciation, and plus the value of any and all improvements he may have made that are appraised as valuable to the farm.

Corporation loans have been granted to 23 settlers of the Mud lake area who have lost their farms as a result of condemnation proceedings by the state department of conservation, and these are located largely in the vicinity of Holt and Middle River, with a few near Gatzke and Goodridge. Three of these families have moved into Pennington county.

Farm record account books have been distributed to 40 purchasers of farms, inventories have been taken, and assistance will be given from time to time so that they can turn in books at the end of the year giving a full account of their year's operations. Purchasers have shown a cooperative spirit in this enterprise, Mr. Taylor said.

Miss Edna Olson, home economics specialist, has been assigned to the Thief River Falls farm security office to assist both with the project and rehabilitation cases in giving suggestions, and assistance in home economics work, such as canning, gardening and poultry work.

CO-OP. CREAMERY, GOODRIDGE, SHOWS GAIN IN BUSINESS

Directors are Reelected at Annual Meeting Held Saturday

In spite of unfavorable conditions late last summer which hampered the dairy industry, the Goodridge cooperative creamery in 1937 enjoyed an increase in the volume of business, it was reported by Floyd Olson, buttermaker, at the annual meeting held Saturday afternoon in the high school gymnasium.

A total of 146,666 pounds of butterfat was purchased during the year at an average price of 36.59 cents a pound, and 181,477 pounds of butter were manufactured, the overrun being 23.54 per cent. The creamery showed net earnings for the year of $1,067.06, and the service station showed an increase in net earnings of $300 over the preceding year.

Reelected to the board of directors were Albert Wilkins, Andrew Wells and Oleander Uglem. Talks were given by County Agent Howard Grow and by Frank Shelston of the Midland Cooperative Wholesale of Minneapolis. Musical selections were provided by the Hruby Sisters trio, and Miss M. BIGGEST CLASS TO GRADUATE AT N.W. SCHOOL MARCH 24

Nearly 150 Diplomas Will be Awarded at Exercises Next Thursday

The 28th annual commencement of the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston will be held on Thursday evening, March 24. Ninety-eight seniors, forty advanced and ten in special business training will receive diplomas and certificates according to superintendent T. M. McCall. The class this year, Superintendent McCall states, is the largest class in the history of the school and is the outgrowth of the steady climb in enrollment over the past several years.

Commencement activities began with the presentation of the Senior Class Play on March 6 and 7. Activities marking the close of the school year include: public speaking contest, March 12; the awards assembly, and the inter-class field meet on March 19; commencement sermon by Pres. C. L. Wallis of Wesley College, Grand Forks March 21; Superintendent and Mrs. T. M. McCall, reception to the senior class, March 21; Music Recital, March 22; senior class day exercises, Thursday, March 24, followed by commencement exercises on Thursday evening.

Highway Deaths Rise in Minnesota in January

There were 36 deaths on Minnesota streets and highways in January. The traffic toll for that month, according to the records of the safety division of the Minnesota highway department, was an increase in number of 9.1 per cent over January, 1937, when 33 persons died in road accidents.

W. F. Rosenwald, state traffic engineer, stated however, that the January total represented a decrease in the fatality rate per mile traveled of 7.5 per cent because in January, 1937, only 21,-706,261 gallons of gasoline were consumed as against 29,167,311 gallons burned in January this year. The death rate per 10,000,-000 gallons of gasoline used, was 12.3 persons this January compared to 15.3 persons in January a year ago.

Several accidents responsible for "wholesale" killings also helped raise the fatality total in January this year, in the opinion of Mr. Rosenwald.

Governor Benson Urges Public Observance of Wild Life Week Mar. 20

Designating the week of March 20 to 26 as Minnesota Wildlife Preservation Week, Governor Elmer A. Benson made an appeal to all citizens to cooperate in this worthy endeavor, and to recognize the importance of the problem of conservation.

"Only through the full cooperation of all can wildlife be restored for the present generation and perpetuated for posterity", said Governor Benson in issuing the proclamation.

Minnesota, in observing Wildlife week, is cooperating with the national movement sponsored by the General Wildlife Federation and a recent proclamation by President Roosevelt designating March 20 to 26 as National Wildlife week.

The Minnesota department of conservation, besides its sponsorship of the predator control contest, is inaugurating the most extensive wildlife conservation and restoration program in the history of the state, according to conservation officials.

POPCORN FISHED FROM TOT'S LUNG

Farmington—A kernel of popcorn lodged in the lung recently threatened the life of year-and-a-half Patsy Ann Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Fischer residing on a farm west of Rosemount. The child had eaten popcorn one afternoon and that evening her mother heard a wheezing sound in the child's chest. She consulted a Lakeville physician who applied the stethoscope but detected no signs of pneumonia. He said it sounded like a foreign body in the lung and an x-ray examination revealed the kernel of corn. Using a new kind of tube the kernel was removed in a dangerous and difficult operation.

LOOK FOR WATER UNDER SIDEWALK

Springfield—Under a sidewalk is a queer place to look for water, but that's the place water is being looked for these days. An ice cream company here had a well machine boring for water on the new creamery premises, but last week the rig was moved after failure to strike the vein. The city council granted permission to bore a hole through and under the sidewalk at one corner of the property and the rig now stands there while the diggers continue to seek the elusive H2O so necessary in the buttermaker's art.

$4,037,171 OF '38 ROAD FUNDS PAY OLD BONDS

Big Share of Funds Needed to Pay Principal and Interest

More than $4,000,000 of Minnesota's 1938 highway revenues have already gone to pay for improvements long since completed on the state's trunk highway system.

The state board of allotment, meeting last week at Rochester, was faced with the necessity of voting $4,037,171.71 to pay for interest and principal on bonds issued and spent in the past. Of this total, the allotment board, consisting of State Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg, State Auditor Stafford King, and State Treasurer C. A. Halverson voted to place $2,267,000 in the trunk highway sinking fund to meet principal and interest on the state bonds.

At the same time, $1,770,171.71 was placed by the board in the county highway bond reimbursement fund for payment of principal and interest on bonds issued by the various counties for road improvements prior to the time these roads were taken over and operated by the state highway system. This bond load is removed from the shoulders of the counties and assumed by the state.

These funds all must come out of revenues the Minnesota highway department receives from two-thirds of the gas tax and from the auto license fees net.

At the board's meeting, it was also voted that the remainder of the moneys in the trunk highway fund, and moneys accruing to that fund during the current calendar year, shall be available for construction and maintenance purposes in 1938, and for equalling the total sum of regular federal aid which may be received for road purposes.

Final allotments of roads and bridge funds will be made at a continued meeting, which will follow closely Mr. King's release from the hospital.

Grygla Sportsmen Lead in State Predator Hunt, Game Department Says

Taking 13 wolves, for a total of 65 points in the statewide predator control contest, the Grygla Sportsmen's club holds first place this week, with the Houston Rod and Gun club in second place with one wolf and 42 fox for 47 points, according to the predator control contest committee of the department of conservation.

The Caledonia Rod and Gun club holds third place with 42 fox. Fourth is Chicago Lakes with 37; Milaca and Strandquist are tied with 31 each; LaCrescent has 28; The North Shore club of Long Lake reports 27; the Owatonna chapter of the Izaak Walton League 23; St. James 21; Stephen 18; Wadena, 5 fox and 2 wolves for 15 points.

Others of the 118 clubs entered in the contest report from the 14 fox of the Madison Lake Conservation Club on downward to several clubs reporting one fox each.

Week-end reports indicate that 319 fox and 20 wolves have so far been taken in the contest.

Fox Stomach Analysis Reveals Varied Diets

Burlap bags, snake skins, pheasant feathers, poultry skeletons, crickets, pig bristles, hazel nuts, as well as dozens of other articles, have been found in studies of the first 38 fox stomachs examined by the department of conservation in its survey of the animal's food habits.

In connection with the statewide predator control contest, the department has asked that fox stomachs be sent to the Division of Game and Fish Biologist, State Office Building, St. Paul, together with data as to where the fox was taken, and by whom sent.

Sportsmen have so far responded admirably; however, at least 500 stomachs are wanted to make the study the most thorough that has been conducted anywhere in the nation, says Harry E. Speakes, director of game and fish.

DRIVES SAME CAR 20 YEARS, NO ACCIDENT

Clarissa—A record for most automobile drivers to shoot at is reported in the short short story, that's taken 20 years to write. It concerns Peter Hultgren, pioneer resident of this community and his record in driving which can be told concisely in one sentence. Mr. Hultgren will soon be 85 years old, has driven the same car for 20 years and has never had an accident. Twenty years ago Mr. Hultgren bought a 1918 model T Ford touring car. He used it for pleasure purposes and for work on the farm. He has driven it on state highways, county highways, city streets and farm roads. But in all these years Mr. Hultgren and his Ford have managed to keep out of the way of other cars and dodge obstacles to set an accident-free record.

Capitol News Review

By A. I. Harris

News of the increase in freight rates granted to the railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission was not received in Minnesota with any jubilation by either industry or agriculture. Industry already suffers in Minnesota because of discriminatory freight rates as compared with other sections of the country and the increased freight rates makes an additional burden for Minnesota manufacturing concerns who compete with manufacturers of other states, especially those which ship their products a shorter distance to the market. In the case of agriculture it is a particularly severe blow because the farmer cannot pass on, as does industry, the increased cost. In addition the increased freight rates mean to him an increase in the cost of virtually everything he buys.

Governor Benson scored the action of the Commerce Commission, declaring that this is virtually a subsidy of "the most highly subsidized private business we have in this country." Continuing he said, "There would be no criticism if railroads were to charge adequate rates to give a fair return on an honest investment, with railroad labor receiving just remuneration in comparison. Coming at this time, with the current economic recession, the freight rate boost is most unjust and uncalled for, and will mean that much more of an obstacle to some semblance of returned prosperity."

AAA officials are busy tailoring the new farm plan to Minnesota's agricultural needs. Township, county and state representatives are explaining the program in preparation for the season's planting.

Harry Muir of Winnebago, state chairman of the soil conservation committee, said he expected a considerable increase in number of cooperators this year. Sixty-five per cent of Minnesota farmers complied with the 1937 program.

Muir believes that if 80 per cent participate, prices can be stabilized and the economic position of the farmer materially improved.

Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., held its seventeenth annual convention in Minneapolis with 8,000 farmers in attendance. John Brandt, president, reported a total business for 1937 of $37 of $37,378,486.

Governor Benson, guest speaker, complimented farmers on the organization which has grown to a three-quarters of a million dollar concern.

After housing its cash and securities in a "crackerbox" vault for 30 years, the state of Minnesota now has a brand new sterilined vault equipped with a modern sound wave burglar alarm to guard its valuables. Remodeling activities of L. A. Johnson, capitol custodian, have resulted in additional vault space and modern protective devices in the state treasurer's office. The modernization, initiated by State Treasurer Halverson, aside from increasing efficiency will return to the state the installation cost through reductions in burglary insurance premiums.

Gross earnings taxes from railroads to the tune of nearly six million dollars ($5,990,736.95 to be exact) poured into state coffers last year, topping the amount for the previous year by $669,649.70, according to State Treasurer C. A. Halverson. Nineteen out of the 29 railroads which paid gross earnings taxes into the state treasury during the last six months period showed a gain, while ten showed a loss in their gross earnings. Treasurer Halverson ascribes the increase in gross earnings levy receipts mostly to gains made by the two roads whose shipments are chiefly iron ore.

TWO ROAD PROJECTS FOR SIBLEY COUNTY

N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner, this week awarded contracts for grading and a monolithic culvert in Sibley county on a stretch of 8.5 miles on T. H. 5 between Arlington and Green Isle. The grading job went to G. J. and Henry Van De Reit, Raymond, for $57,635.70 to be paid out of matched federal aid. Teberg and Berg, St. Paul, were awarded the contract for the monolithic culvert on a low bid of $3,279.80 to be paid out of matched federal aid. Work will start May 1.

What You Should Know About the SALVATION ARMY

The GREATEST need of the Salvation Army is a better and more general understanding of its work. In the feeding of the hungry, housing the homeless and serving the poor and this organization dedicated to salvation has practically no contact with the general public. So questions are often asked about the Salvation Army.

Q. What is the Salvation Army?

A. It is a Christian organization entirely nonsectarian in character, whose members are banded together to preach the gospel and to aid the most unfortunate everywhere.

Q. When was the Salvation Army founded?

A. The Rev. Wm. Booth opened the East London Mission, later known as the Christian Mission, on July 5th, 1865.

Q. In how many countries does the Army operate?

A. In 92 countries and Colonies.

Q. Just what is the purpose of the Salvation Army?

A. To aid in the uplift of humanity, to a better moral and Spiritual standard in life. And to point them to an eternal Salvation and a better land.

Q. From what sources does the Salvation Army receive its money?

A. Important is the offerings of the members. The Army has many activities and services. Such as meetings on the street and the meetings at the halls. However, most of these activities are made possible by the generosity of the general public. The necessity of passing the tamborines and the putting out the kettles at Christmas time and other times of he year. A Self Denial Effort is launched in the spring of the year for the purpose of raising money for the Mission Fields both foreign and home. And in larger centers the Salvation Army draw some of their support from the Community Chests Funds. But in the smaller places a Drive is put on once a year by the Advisory Board and others of the city where the Salvation Army operate and have a Post. Thus the funds are raised. It has been deemed advisable for the Salvation Army to withdraw from many chest funds as they were better to put on their individual drive for funds. In some places the amounts were doubled as a result.

The sale of the War Cry is always supposed to be a benefit to the local post, but this does not in most cases any more than cover the cost of the papers, to say nothing about making a profit for the Salvation Army.

Q. How is the money received accounted for?

A. All accounts are examined regularly. In Minneapolis is the head office for the Northern Division which comprises Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, with 42 Corps in operation in these three states. And an outside auditing firm is called in to make a complete audit of all the books and accounts twice each year. Besides the auditor's from the Territorial Headquarters at Chicago have an oversight of all the books and monies that are brought in from any source.

Q. Are the Salvation Army people well paid?

A. They are an army of regular but unpaid soldiers. More than 100,000 bandsmen and songsters work exclusively for the love of their work.

And the officers who must give full time to the work have no guarantee of their salary, but are allowed some support, depending on rank. This support ranges from $7.00 to $11.50 per week for unmarried officers and from $13.00 to $22.50 for married officers. And all bills are supposed to be paid before the officers are paid.

The books of the Salvation Army are open to public inspection or anyone who properly question and who is properly interested in the workings of the Salvation Army.

Q. What is an Advisory Board?

A. An elected group of business and professional men and women in any community interested in the Salvation Army activities. The board follows the work closely through the year meeting at intervals with the officers. And as a group and as individuals assist and advise the Army in every way possible.

Q. Are the operations of the Salvation Army confined to the cities where they operate?

A. The Salvation Army is organized and operating in nearly every rural township in Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

Q. Has the Salvation Army any imitators?

A. Yes indeed they have. In Chicago alone they have some twenty other groups with some kind of an insignia, such as R. A., R. A. Then the worst imitators we have in these parts is the so called Samaritan Volunteers represented by men from Northfield, Minn. very often asking people to help the ARMY. This is truly imitating and also is very misleading to all those who are confronted by them, as they knock at the doors and quite frequently ask for help by saying "Would you help the Army." And then too the other most bothersome is the Good Samaritan Army. They will insist upon infringing on the territory worked by the Salvation Army and pass as much as possible, until questioned very closely, for the Salvation Army. We would advise the public in general to beware of such as they are imposters and working somewhat under a falsehood. Any suspects should be reported to the authorities at once.

Q. Does the Salvation Army do any local work other than their regular routine of meetings?

A. The following is a report from the Local Corps at Thief River Falls.

SOO LINE TRUSTEE HEARING IS HELD IN MINNEAPOLIS

Organized Labor Objects to Selection of Joseph Chapman

The interstate commerce commission last Wednesday in Minneapolis took under advisement the question of confirming appointment of Joseph Chapman and George W. Webster as co-trustees in bankruptcy of the Soo Line railway, at the close of a two-day hearing devoted mainly to opposition to selection of Mr. Chapman, by spokesmen for organized labor. The final broadside was fired at him by witnesses representing railroad labor organizations, who asserted that confirming Mr. Chapman as a trustee would be unpopular with union workers on the Soo Line to such an extent that it would have a definitely demoralizing effect.

There was no opposition to Mr. Webster, who is president of the Soo Line. Both he and Mr. Chapman were named trustees by Gunnar H. Nordbye of the United States district court, subject to approval of the ICC, as required by the railway section of the federal bankruptcy act.

The hearing was adjourned by R. T. Boyden, ICC examiner, after some strong statements in support of Mr. Chapman had been made by witnesses. Mr. Chapman himself declared that, contrary to evidence submitted by opponents of his confirmation, he never has been hostile or even unfriendly to organized labor and would not be if made a Soo Line trustee. He said he had not solicited or sought the appointment.

MICHIGAN BARS DRINKS NEAR CHURCHES, SCHOOLS

Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan has ordered the Michigan Liquor Control Commission to keep drinking places away from churches, schools, and colleges, according to a recent issue of the War Cry. This is part of a program to tighten liquor licensing rules throughout the state.

The state liquor control law prohibits issuance of licenses for by-the-glass sales of beers or spirits within 200 feet of a church or school, but the governor said, at the annual meeting of the liquor control commission, that this distance was not enough.

He declined to say how far away from churches, schools, and colleges liquor licenses could be granted, but indicated that the commission would lean to the conservative side, in its decisions.

DRUNKEN PEDESTRIANS ARE ROAD MENACE

Another traffic authority joined the repeatedly heard chorus of three days when Captain George Young, of the state highway patrol of Columbia, South Carolina, recently termed drunken pedestrians "an even greater source of highway fatalities than the drunken driver."

Captain Young has ordered his officers to "keep a more watchful eye on the pedestrian travel on our highways." Thirty-one per cent of highway fatalities for 1937 in the state were pedestrians.

A LOT OF CAR

The Standard Tudor Sedan

The Ford effort to make your dollars buy a constantly better car is well illustrated in the Standard Ford V-8.

It has all the basic Ford advantages. It is built on the same chassis as the De Luxe Ford V-8. It gives you a choice of smooth 85-horsepower or 60-horsepower V-8 engines. But it sells at low prices, and includes bumpers, spare tire, cigar lighter, twin horns and other equipment that make it a still bigger bargain.

With the thrifty 60-horsepower engine, the Standard Ford V-8 is priced especially low and gives the greatest gas mileage in Ford history. Hundreds of owners report averages of 22 to 27 miles a gallon — or even more.

Your pocketbook will approve of the Standard Ford in every way. And so will you when you drive it!

MARTIN A. NELSON ENTERS HIS NAME IN GOVERNOR RACE

Austin Man Files Again for Republican Nomination for Post

Martin A. Nelson of Austin, twice before the Republican candidate for governor, filed Monday for the party nomination and issued a statement outlining the points of his personal platform.

He said he believes there is a strong shift in sentiment, "a return from radicalism."

Mayor George E. Leach already has filed for nomination, and Harold E. Stassen plans to follow suit. There may be others.

Nelson stated as his program:

There must be economy in state government. Excessive taxation and spending "have begun to dry up the sources of taxation, have begun to destroy the ability to pay taxes." He is opposed to the sales tax he said.

State agencies must be revamped and consolidated, and more closely checked.

The Big Three must be scrutinized to determine whether it shall be abolished or retained.

Control of state institutions must be returned to the board of control in fact as well as in name.

Welfare agencies should be consolidated under one commissioner.

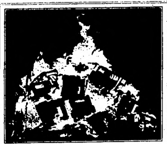
There should be a controller-general, with a term long enough to keep him free from politics.

Functions of the state executive council should be limited and a limit placed on funds it can spend.

There must be a civil service system. He opposes forced political assessments on state employes.

Pepys Painted True Picture

Pepys, the famous English diarist, was a twaddling old gossiper, but he sets down the circumstances of the events as they transpire with such clear and accurate detail, utters no feelings but in a word or two introduces us to a scenery of both the out-of-doors and in-doors life of the time.



Thousands of Minneapolis people watched a bonfire in which over a hundred used cars were destroyed in celebration of the National Used Car week.

Educational Drive to Remove Fear of Cancer to be Started in State

The same regard for human life that prompts people to teach children to swim, to mark exits in red and to arrange fire drills at school should also prompt early and adequate teaching about the facts of cancer.

According to a bulletin on the subject issued by the Minnesota State Medical association today, cancer is as ruthless a killer as fire or waves and a much more frequent cause of death. More than 150,000 people died from it in the United States in 1937 and approximately half of them could have been saved if they had known the simple facts about cancer and acted upon them promptly.

As a routine life saving measure, therefore, members of the committee on public health education of the Association today endorse the campaign carried on annually during the spring months by the women's field army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer to extend cancer education and secure members in Minnesota.

The youngest children are being trained today in what to do in case of fire or accident in order to avoid panic and save life. People of all ages should also be taught to report for a careful examination as soon as the slightest lump or unusual discharge or bleeding occurs to find out if the cause is cancer; if it is, and it is treated immediately, a life may be saved just as definitely as when a man is rescued from drowning. In addition, cancer panic will be avoided.

Physicians urge the interest of everybody in the spring educational campaign by the women's field army about cancer.

Farmer-Labor Women to Honor Pioneers of Party at Convention in Duluth

The ninth biennial convention of the Farmer-Labor Women's federation of Minnesota will be held at the Spalding Hotel, Duluth, Thursday March 24th at 10 a. m.

Resolutions intended to influence the party platform, plans for organization looking toward a national Farmer—Labor party speeches by Farmer-Labor women officials and pioneer leaders, election of officers and a banquet in honor of the early pioneers make a full program for the convention.

The gala occasion will be the state banquet at Hotel Duluth on Friday night the 25th where the pioneers in the movement will be honored. Mrs. Helen Smith of Hibbing will preside as toastmistress. Mrs. Chas Lundquist of Minneapolis, retiring state chairman, will introduce the new officers and members of the Farmer-Labor administration. The pioneers will be introduced by Mrs. Susie W. Stageberg. Following are some early crusaders who are expected to be present:

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Vollom, Erskine; Mr. and Mrs. Magnus Dahl, Gully; Judge and Mrs. M. A. Brattland and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harris, Thief River Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Berg, Erskine, and Mrs. Laura Naplin, St. Paul.

BENEFIT CHECKS TO BE SPEEDED BY SHORT-CUTS

Unemployment Compensation Division Makes Changes in Procedure

Two important steps which will result in prompt payments of benefits to unemployed workers were taken this week by the Minnesota unemployment compensation division. One will make possible the clearance of accumulated check orders for thousands of claimants through lump-sum payment of benefits. The other will make it possible to pay benefits on the basis of tentative determinations in the cases of claimants whose previous employers have failed to completely furnish earnings records. The improvements in procedure will be in effect by March 21.

Both steps were sought as short-cuts by the Minnesota Industrial Commission, administrators of the division, at a conference in Washington. Approval of the procedures, which was necessary from the Social Security Board, has just been announced, Frank T. Starkey, commissioner in charge of the division, said.

Operations of the division will be speeded up greatly under the lump-sum payment plan, which will make it possible to issue one check to a claimant for two check for one week of unemployment can be written at one time, regardless of the number of accumulated weeks of benefits. By writing a single check for all accumulated weeks it will require but one operation to bring an account up-to-date.

Claimants who will be mailed notices of tentative determinations will be informed that the amount of benefits they will be paid under the arrangement will be subject to increase when all missing records are obtained from former employers. The plan, Mr. Starkey, explained, is being adopted solely for the purpose of paying benefits to these claimants promptly, even though not in full. When missing records are obtained these claimants will be notified and adjustments made, so additional benefits due them can be paid.

MONGREL DOG BECOMES PAL

Battle Lake—Dogs are usually more or less ignored, being considered as useless animals, but once in a while some unusual performance brings them to the public eye. Rex, owned by Chester Pederson, has become well known in this village of late through just such a manner. Rex, who is a mongrel of mixed breeds, can boast of no pedigree, but he has shown he is easily trained. Every morning Rex is seen, dressed up in a harness, pulling his master, Chester, to school. At noon and after school hours Rex is at the school house waiting and the two pals return home together, Chester on his sled and Rex, at a rapid gait, pulling the boy on the sled. Not only does the dog take his master, who is still a youngster in grade school, for rides, but he takes Chester and his little sister both at the same time.

PROGRESS

What has been done this year in Medical Science of which we may be proud?

Much, we would say — but the work never lags. The scientist, the research chemist, and the regular practicing Physician are unceasingly working toward the elimination of human suffering.

Cancer, asthma, hay fever, tuberculosis, the common cold, neuritis — and all the other physical ills that have not been fully conquered — are having millions of dollars, and untold scientific energy expended on their eventual extermination. From one end of the world to the other this progress in health goes on, but no greater service is being accomplished than the gradual awakening of men and women to the good sense of PREVENTION of disease and ill-health.

Taking care of, and preserving good health, and building walls of energy against invasion — much has been accomplished along these lines of education this last year. Let's keep up the good work.

Red River Valley History

WATER SUPPLY

Recently the writer received a copy of a report on the water supply of this region from H. W. Riley Grand Forks city chemist. Since in the old days there was too much water in this area, it is interesting to note how the three great water basins in the northwestern part of the state are described. They lie in an area roughly bounded on the south by a line running due west from Bemidji to the Red river, north along the Red river to the Canadian line, east to the Lake of the Woods and Rainy river and in a curved line southeast and then southwest to Bemidji.

Thief river and Thief lake form the basin of that name and Upper and Lower Red Lake constitute the Red lake basin. The third basin is that of the Clearwater river in the southern part of the tract.

Here are some interesting paragraphs from Riley's report:

"The Red Lake river has its source in Lower Red lake in northern Minnesota, 130 miles by road from Grand Forks and with its tributaries drains an area approximately 5,700 square miles in extent.

"Topographically the watershed of the Red Lake river is principally level prairie land unrelieved by hills or valleys of any consequence and shows most of the major aspects of extreme geological youth. It is divided into three major parts each of which extends along an east and west axis covering an area shaped roughly like a leaf. The northern salient is drained by the Thief river system, the southern third is drained by the Clearwater system and the eastern sector by the two Red lakes which overflow into the Red Lake river from a point on the western-most extension of Lower Red lake.

"The Red Lake river flows west from the lakes through the middle third of the basin, joins with the Thief river at the city of Thief River Falls, 45 miles directly west of Lower Red lake, south from Thief River Falls to Red Lake Falls, where it joins the Clearwater river; thence in a broad loop southwest, west and finally northwest to its junction with the Red River of the North at Grand Forks. A greater part of the total watershed includes marshy or boggy land which is permanently waterlogged under ordinary conditions of rainfall and run-off.

"Geologically the ground formations consist almost entirely of undifferentiated glacial debris lying on sandstone and archaen strata 100 to 400 feet below the surface, overlain with a layer of water-deposited silt and loam from one to three feet thick in places. The region now drained by the Red Lake river and its tributaries is said to have been covered by the post-pleistocene lake, Lake Agassiz. Mineral distribution is such that water from marshes in the Thief river region is more highly mineralized than that from either the Clearwater river basin or the Red lakes basin, though in this latter runoff from previously dried swamp lands in either of the three regions is much more highly mineralized than water in permanent lakes in the same area."

The chemist then explains that because of the runoff we get some of this mineral in our drinking water. We have heard complaints about the water used for drinking and cooking purposes at Grand Forks, filtered from the river. In his discussion of treatment of the water Riley tells of using lime and soda ash and also chlorine and charcoal, the latter two to eliminate unpleasant odors and taste.

Many years ago in Grand Forks people bought ice from Maple lake to put in drinking water because they believed it was purer than that from the Red river, which probably was true. We do not know much about the water used at Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls but we have found that at Crookston and Warren satisfactory.

Of course, deep water wells in this region would be far purer than the lake or river water in a natural state. Judging from this article and the map accompanying it, neither of which has been published, it should not be difficult to find water underground in any part of the area drained by the three great basins.

In some parts of the country water wizards are employed to find water underground by walking about with a willow wand. When the wand turns toward the earth as if drawn by magnetic force, the "wizard" announces water is to be found beneath that spot. Of course that is silly, but some people believe in it. However, the pioneers who were glad to drink from rivers and lakes seem to have survived the experience, but these waters were much purer then.

"U" Students Will Edit Papers During Vacation

Thirteen University of Minnesota journalism students will put into practice their textbook and laboratory knowledge of rural journalism during the week of March 20-26, when they will publish five well-known weekly newspapers in the state, Professor Thomas F. Barnhart of the journalism faculty, has announced. Each spring, through the courtesy and cooperation of editors and publishers of weekly newspapers in Minnesota, University students of rural journalism are given the opportunity to actually run a paper. Groups will "take over" two papers at Benson, the Granite Falls Tribune, the Le Sueur News-Herald and the Wadena Pioneer-Journal.

Wednesday evening the Grygla P. T. A. met at the school auditorium. Lillian Sorenson was "Eating Money by the Sweat of Her Brow" which won second place in the declamatory contest at Goodridge. "Happy" Nesland and son played some musical selections, the father playing the mouthorgan and accordion and his son at the piano. Lunch was served and Bunco played. Every man present, but one, had a former schoolteacher for a wife. Good or bad—you guess.

A declamatory contest was held at Fourtowns Saturday. Winners were: Joyce Ross, written spelling; Ervin Jelle, oral spelling; Lillian Zavoral, declamatory. They will compete in Bemidji Saturday, March 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Magnuson and daughter Violet, Fred Mune and John Murdock motored to Minneapolis to attend the annual state convention of the Land O'Lakes. Among the speakers were Governor Benson, and R. W. [illegible].

The Grygla Penoche team played the Goodridge team in a tournament held at Goodridge last Wednesday night. Grygla won by a large margin.

Mrs. P. Maney, Mrs. Wm. Holbrook, Geo. Holbrook, Mrs. Harold Bush, Mrs. Lloyd and Mrs. Cronlinger were shopping in Thief River Falls Thursday.

Lisa's Cafe has purchased and installed a new all-hole [illegible].

A party in honor of Marvel and Ronnie Grovum was held at the Grygla school Thursday. Lunch was served and the pupils presented Marvel with a Brownie Camera and Ronnie a billfold as remembrances.

P. B. Nelsons moved from east of Grygla to a farm 2½ miles from [illegible]. This farm was Mr. Nelson's home place.

John Nelsons also from east of Grygla are moving to a farm around Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Beyum moved into the Gunder Grovum home March 9.

Irene Haftseth began working in the Telephone office last Monday. Helen Moran who resigned is now employed at Beyum's Cafe.

R. Sandberg and A. Bjertness purchased a new Chevrolet pickup.

John Frassman, Sr. is very seriously ill. H. M. Mussey is not so well either.

Mrs. Wm. Holthusen's tomatoe plants are just ready to sprout their third and fourth leaves.

Mrs. Geo. Anderson had her tonsils removed Saturday.

The soil conservation meeting was held in the R. N. W. Hall Friday.

Mrs. John Maney's arm is again bothering badly.

The "Big Nite" Show

Riggs Band opened the evenings entertainment with three numbers. Then came Elmer, a schoolboy, excellently played by Gordon Englebretson. Miss Penney (Fay Bucholtz) was the family dressmaker and champion for Elmer when he tries to help his sister Susie (Marvel Grovum) keep her first new evening coat just here. The twins Jeanie and Janie (Doris and Myrtle Newton) seemed to get all the breaks in the Collier household. Mrs. Collier (Lorraine Bucholtz) has her hands full with the above mentioned children. Elmer Peterson played the part of Hubert Brown, fiance of Janie. Russell Jasheson (Douglas Miller) a friend of Hubert doesn't come near soon enough to suit Hubert. Fannie Belle, the negro maid played by Dorothy Miller was frightfully afraid of the dark. Jim Wilson's day Beane played the part of Pansy.

Reading "The Morning After" by Francis Stuart who won second place in the Thief River Falls contest.

Part of Riggs band played another set of varied classics.

A short play "Cornfed Babies" was next. Clarence Dotan was the successful business man as Leslie Baker. Clara Lillevold played the part of his wife. Why was Leslie so successful and promoted raises in his salary? Because he told the boss he had children that never existed. The fun begins when the boss, Mr. Bernard (Otto Johnson) comes over to see the children. Lulu (Mrs. O. P. Armstrong) furnishes a doll stuffed with cornmeal for the baby. The situation gets more than serious when the cornmeal leaks out of the doll while Mr. Bernard is telephoning. All ends well when Mrs. Baker's mother, played by Minnie Lutem appears and makes known that she and Mr. Bernard are planning to be married.

Roy Johnson then read "It's a Wise Brother That Knows His Own Sister". He won third place in Thief River Falls contest.

G. Lunde was then called to pay tribute to Mr. and Mrs. G. Grovum and I. Helle who have moved to Thief River Falls. A fern and fernery was delivered to the G. Grovum home, 501 Main Ave. N. as a remembrance from the Grygla community. I. Helle received a very nice leather bill fold and key holder.

FIRST MAN FILES IN FORTY YEARS

Litchfield—With the filing of James R. Elliott of Dassel, Meeker county has its first man candidate for county superintendent of schools in 40 years. It was before 1900 that a man last occupied this position. The present candidate, clerk of the Dassel board of education with eight years teaching experience, is opposed by five other candidates, all of whom are women. The sixth filing for the county superintendent brought the total list of all county office seekers this year to 40. Four years ago when the same offices were at stake, the first candidate here filed almost two months later than the first person filing this time.

Habits of Geese

When wild geese fly above, honking and inviting barnyard fowls to go along northward to mate and brood, they become very excited. But time and lack of flight has lost for them the ability to fly any great distance. Occasionally a flock of domestics call down a weak wild brother to their own life.

Attitude for Oath

An oath may be lawfully taken by one sitting and raising his left hand. While one who is being administered an oath should raise his right hand or place it on the Bible and should perhaps stand, it is necessary only that he means to assume the obligations involved in swearing.

REGION TOURNEY TO BE HELD AT AUDITORIUM HERE

Thief River Squad Is Favored to Win Meet

The 1938 Region 8 basketball tournament will open at the municipal Auditorium tonight with Bemidji, district 29 winners meeting the surprise district 32 winners, Middle River at eight o'clock. At nine o'clock the favored Prowlers will go to the post against another surprise winner, Erskine of the thirtieth district. A capacity crowd tow night as local fans should come early to witness the tourney which Thief River Falls has been so highly honored in having here.

Bemidji is favored to tumble Middle River to advance to the finals with the Prowlers who should win over Erskine. The Prowlers are doped to win again and advance to the state tournament by trimming Bemidji in the finals Friday evening. The Erskine and Middle River game is regarded as a tossup if the expectations run true to form.

Because of their undefeated season's record and their beautiful form in the district meet, the Leemen are the dopesters choice to win, but Bemidji's steady team may upset them if the two squads advance to the finals despite two previous whippings at the hands of the Lincolnites 33 to 22, and 33 to 27.

Although Erskine is an unknown quality, the fact that they are district champs in their hotly contested district show they have "something on the ball." They may give the Prowlers a stubborn struggle but if the locals are in top form they should triumph by a fair margin.

Middle River, which has only twelve boys enrolled in its school and is handicapped by an insufficient gym to practice in, may give Bemidji a struggle as it boasts in its lineup Corriere, an all-district guard, Halquist and Isaacson, both high scorers, plus several other dependables.

Bemidji has the sensational Dick Olson as the spearhead of its variegated attack, supplemented by a host of strong team mates, who are capable of giving any tournament team a terrific struggle.

The Prowlers are favored to win by the greater reserve strength, its speed and superior defensive record.

A. C. Van Wyk and Clarence Omarht of Dilworth are scheduled to officiate for the tournament. Van Wyk refereed in the district meet at East Grand Forks last week.

The admission for the tournament for both nights is fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for students.

The popular Gabrielson tumblers will perform at least one evening of the tournament with an increased number of acts to their already long list.

"They came, they saw, they conquered" might aptly be applied to the case of the determined Prowler outfit that invaded East Grand Forks last week, played three tilts, and returned with the District 31 basketball crown. The Leemen, who had compiled the amazing record of 19 wins against no defeats during their regular schedule, were unbeatable as they toppled Fisher, East Grand Forks and Warren.

The Blue and Gold opened up the first evening's play [illegible] they copped from a fighting Fisher quint, "Bones" Stadum accounted for the greater portion of the team's tallies as he chalked up 13 points. Roy Lee snatched second place scoring honors with six markers and also came through with a fine brand of defensive ball.

The second member of the "Big Four" also triumphed as Plummer's frantic last quarter rally fell short, and the Cardinals dropped a thriller to the host team, East Grand Forks, 29-22.

The fans were treated to further thrills in the hoop-the-loop pastime as the Warren aggregation pulled out a decision over the [illegible] Vikings in the best ball game of the day.

In the night-cap Red Lake Falls was unable to compete with the superior reserve power that the Crookston Pirates could muster and bowed to the latter.

The semi-final encounters ran true to form as Thief River and Warren each downed their foes.

In the first game Earl Nicholson et company put on a display of basket-shooting that netted them 39 points in three quarters and a 41-12 win. The afore said Earl Nicholson contributed nine points to the scoring column.

The Warren Ponies supplemented this exhibition as they galloped rough shod to a victory over a stubborn Crookston Pirate that staged a last quarter flurry that pulled them within 4 points of the lead.

Snow White-Seven Dwarfs Presented at Pep Fest

The Senior class presented a very entertaining Pep Fest last Wednesday prior to the Fisher—Thief River Falls game at the District Tournament being held in East Grand Forks. They used the Walt Disney movie "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" as their main theme. The master of ceremonies was Gordon Holte. The cast was as follows: Floyd Melby as Snow White, Erling Mellby as the Queen and Witch, and Clarence Mattson as the prince. Seven Senior girls took the parts of the seven dwarfs. Between acts one and two a piano solo was presented by Ileen Hoffseth. She played the school song. During intermission Jerome Salveson played "Saxophobia" on his saxophone. Ileene Hoffseth accompanied him.

Ted Helle, when not holding the magic mirror, gave a short pep talk for the game.

AG NOTES

The first local chapter of the FFA (Future Farmers of America) was organized under the direction of Mr. Harrison last Monday evening. The FFA which is a nationwide organization of long standing, although relatively new in the northwest, is comprised mainly of farm boys, and other boys enrolled in agriculture and interested along any agriculture lines.

Plummer and Warren are the two nearest schools which have FFA chapters in their schools. The Warren unit was organized just recently.

The first meeting dealt with the election of officers and the appointing of the various committees to determine the plans for the year. The FFA principles and early plans for the local unit were met with much enthusiasm by those who attended. Karl Sundberg was elected president; Theodore Helle, vice-president; Harry Oen, secretary; Elmo Magnuson, treasurer; and John Lillevold, reporter.

The Ag IV group was greatly honored recently by the presence of Mr. Lusk of the State Resettlement Department. Mr. Lusk gave a very informative and entertaining talk on the "poor white trash of the South". The Ag classes wish to extend their full appreciation to Mr. Lusk and all who have come with the same purpose of extending their information and broadening the knowledge of the students.

A crop judging team will be selected to go to compete in the Crop Judging Contest at Crookston sometime in April.

The Ag I class are now studying small grains.

The Ag II group is finishing up the drawing of barn plans.

The Ag III classes have started judging grains and weed seed identification.

Last week Mr. Stuart of the state bureau of the extermination of the barberry bush gave a talk to the Ag IV class on this dreaded weed of the farm which results in tremendous losses in wheat crops by black stem wheat rust. His talk was illustrated by colored slide pictures showing the nature of the rust, its effects, and method of destroying the bush.

Powder Mill Built in 1822

The Du Pont powder mill at Hagley, Del., was built in 1822 and is one of the outstanding early specimens of industrial architecture in America. It was probably patterned after powder mills in France.

Progress Editors Choose All District Aggregation

The Prowlers were awarded three positions and Warren two on the Progress all-district team for 1938. Co-captains Roy Lee and Don Lorentson were unanimous selections for a guard and forward position respectively, while Earl Nicholson who was little short of a sensation in the East Side tourney at the other flank position.

Freeman Haugo, the hard working Warren center was a slight choice at his position over Gordon Caldis of the Prowlers. Caldis cleanly outplayed the highly regarded Haugo in the championship game, but Haugo's superior performances in the two previous nights play gave him the call over Caldis. After much dissention of opinion Ken "Stub" Howe of Warren was awarded the remaining guard post by a slight margin over R. Mickelson of the locals. The first five has three fast rangy boys in the forward line, all of whom are dangerous scorers. Lee and Howe at the guards give the all-stars two short, aggressive, and dependable ball hawks.

The Prowlers again were top in the second or alternate team with two placing while Warren, Crookston and East Grand Forks each placed one.

Johnson of Crookston, a potent scorer, was a heavy choice for a second team forward post with little Harvey Hanson of the East Side Green Wave copping the other position. Caldis of the Prowlers was unanimous for the second team center slot after being edged out in the first team voting. Reuben Mickelson's superb defensive work won him a guard post opposite Wilson of Warren who won out after a very close tally.

The Prowlers are thus awarded five positions on the mythical first ten, followed by Warren with three and Crookston and East Grand Forks with one apiece.

Captain Reuben Carlson of Warren, Captain Pershing Raymond and Don Hiney of East Grand Forks, Bud Turnquist of Crookston and Kenny Brown of Red Lake Falls were others who were prominent in the voting with Carlson receiving the most recognition outside of the selected ten.

The same three journalistic moguls, Jerome Salveson, Ted Helle, and Gordon Holte who selected the Progress all-district squad will again pick an all-star team at the termination of the regional tourney here when an all-region first and second fives will be picked.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL ENDS

With the play-off of the final game between the Addettes and the Midgettes Tuesday night, the girls' league basketball dropped into the dim past as the Josies look forward with interest to class basket ball.

The twelve league teams played off their tournament games last week with the following results:

Addettes surprise win over the Fab-Huskies 10-6.
Midgettes from the Cagers 12-4.
Sizzlers from Peppers 16-8.
Hot Shots over Slick Shooters 12-4.
Tung Twisters over Tailspin Tommies 8 to 5.
Guinea Pigs from Basketeers 12-5.

In the second round, the Addettes again emerged victorious with a score of 6-2 over the Tung Twisters. The Midgettes took a harder fought game from the Hot Shots 18-14 and the Guinea Pigs upset the undefeated Sizzlers with a 10-8 score. The Addettes drew a bye which placed them in the finals with the Midgettes, who won a tooth and nail tussle with the Guinea Pigs 12-6. The score was 6-5 for the Guinea Pigs through one and a half quarters, when the Midgettes made a rally in the fourth with three book shots and a free throw.

The winner of the tournament was determined in the final game last Tuesday night when the Midgettes took the Addettes in an evenly matched game, score 11 and 9.

At the individual class meetings last week, the following captains were elected:

Freshmen—Alverda Lund
Sophomores—Viola Jorgenson
Juniors—Adeline Lorentson
Seniors—not yet elected.

With three more victories added to their unbroken chain and district crown safely tucked away, the rampaging Prowlers return to their home battlegrounds tonight and will attempt to go on to win a second successive regional championship and another crack at the state title.

Coach George Lee's squad demonstrated their superiority over a crack field of the thirty-first district teams last week and by their superlative performance in this meet and their past season's record they will be favored to win the title of this region again. However, with the lucrative award of the state trip offered to the winner, all of the squads will use every ounce of effort to win and inasmuch as all of the four contenders are district champs, a battle royal is expected for tonight and tomorrow night. None of the teams capable of being the cream of the crop in the northwest districts, can be regarded as setups. Thus, we believe the Prowlers will have stouter opposition in the regional meet than in the unexpectedly one-sided district race.

Thief River Falls will be hosts for the regional tournament for the first time in several years and also will have its own representative playing at home in this meet for the first time. With prospects bright, and with such convenient accommodations at hand, it is only natural to expect a capacity crowd to witness the colorful Prowlers and the other contenders who are intent on tripping the Prowlers for the first time.

Thief River Falls should show its appreciation of the awarding of this tournament to our city and should show the visiting aggregations courtesy and sportsmanship to make their brief sojourn here as enjoyable as possible. Not only do we wish to show that Thief River Falls is the home of an excellent basketball team, but that our school and city abound with every virtue of a true sportsman. If the Prowlers are victorious in this tournament, be a modest winner, but if they lose, be a good loser.

BAND NOTES

Last Friday night the high school band had the honor of playing at the district basketball tournament at East Grand Forks. It was counted a privilege to be able to play at the game and to be included in the broadcast of the game over the radio. The band, in white sweaters and band caps, gave a fine performance. One number they played, that was especially liked by all, was "Let's All Sing Like the Birdies Sing". While this number was being played, all the people in the audience sang and swayed from side to side. Bands from East Grand Forks and Warren also performed. The band enjoyed the trip very much and everyone had a good time—some band members especially, had an exciting time. Imagine Vernon Ostrum being stopped by a cop because he was blowing a horn on a street. Poor Vernie got his horn back after a long lecture of two minutes by the policeman. And weren't Charles Gustafson and Irvin Wilson surprised to find themselves accosted by some East Grand Forks boys. They each received bruises on the face.

Last Saturday night, the brass sextette and clarinet quartet went to Grygla where they contributed to the entertainment of a program which was held in the school auditorium. These groups each played three numbers, and at the end of the program they got together and played some German band music which entertained the audience very much.

"MARCHING" THRU

Poor Charles sure got messed up by some E. Grand roughnecks - but we guess Mary still thinks he's a bit of allrite from the pretty smiles he gets in Latin class.

And was McKechnie's face scarlet when she came to band Friday nite minus her sax!

We hope that the visitors attending the regional tournament here will be received with as much cordiality in the classes as the L. H. S. gang was at the district tournament.

And after being politely removed from a couple hotels, sleeping in the fire hall or on the floor or ten in a bed, or wandering the streets all nite, or dancing 'till the wee small hours, some people have the colassal stupidity to ask if they're tired!

The time is growing short and it appears as tho we'll all have to start hoarding shekels for another journey to State. Look out Minneapolis, here we come!!

Greetings

Servant (to lion tamer in cage): "Sir, your tailor is here with his bill."

Lion Tamer: "Tell him to come in."

No Stealin'?

Grand Pianist (to niece)—You say you like the piano? That's fine, but why?

Niece—Because I can stand on the stool and reach the cookie jar!

EXCHANGE

From the Crookston High Pepster we find that May 3 will be set as college day as an aid to those Crookston seniors who are undecided as to what school they would like to attend.

Invitations have been issued to fourteen different colleges and tentative acceptances have been received from all. The morning will be devoted to discussions on general topics by several representatives. In the afternoon, parents, and students will have the opportunity of interviewing particular representatives about the school they are most interested in.

A Hawaiian operetta, "Love Pirates of Hawaii" will be staged at Willow River on Friday, April 1.

On Tuesday afternoon, February 22, the senior class of Willow River High School was excused to visit the State Hospital at Moose Lake, as it was public inspection day. A guide led all visitors through the building, explaining how a person would be treated and what rooms would be used from the time he came until he would be cured. The tour proved educational as well as enjoyable to the students.

From the Bemidji High School News we receive the "Athelete's Alibi" which goes like this—

Can't study in the fall—gotta play football
Can't study in the winter—gotta play basketball
Can't study in the spring—gotta play baseball
Can't study in the summer—gotta girl.

TOURNAMENT DOPE

The three Progress basketball prognosticators Ted Helle, Jerome Salveson and Gordon Holte for the second successive week are predicting tournament choices and scores for each game. The scribes batted a perfect record in the district choices and were very close in several instances with the prospective scores.

The Prowlers are favored to cop the tourney with Bemidji taking second place, and Middle River to top Erskine for consolation honors. The [illegible] scores for the games are given below.

Thursday:
Bemidji 22—Middle River 20
Prowlers 28—Erskine 18
Friday: Consolation
Middle River 24—Erskine 19
Championship:
Prowlers 28—Bemidji 24.

SPORT SHORTS

Freeman Haugo, rangy Warren center, who was a Progress all-district selection, led the scorers in the district 31 tourney with thirty five points. He counted fourteen first night, sixteen Thursday, but was held down to five by Caldis of the Prowlers in the final night. Johnson of Crookston and Nicholson of the Prowlers were both distinct surprises in the meet by scoring thirty and twenty-seven points respectively, for second and third place honors. Next in line were Raymond E. G. F., 21; Dahlof, Warren, 18; Lee and Lorentson, Prowlers, and Jensen of Crookston, 17 each; Hanson, E. G. F., 16; and Caldis of the Prowlers and Crookston's Lundberg, 14 apiece.

Lorentson and Lee of the Prowlers and Dick Olson of Bemidji loom up as the strongest contenders for top scoring honors in the regional tournament.

Reports wafted westward from Bemidji state that the Lumberjacks are working like Trojans preparing to upset the Prowlers and confidence is running high in the Lumberjack's camp.

THE MELTING POT

Ted Helle reports that he encountered two, Gordon Caldis and Bones Stadum in G. F. with pants rolled high and a beautiful display of varicolored sox "that would dazzle the sun." Such brass.

One Tommy Carlisle made himself very conspicuous by maintaining a stiff and sober countenance for each basket made during the game.

I wonder why class distinction doesn't mean anything anymore.

And furthermore, we'd like it known right here and now that the famous hen parties aren't what the boys think they are, 'n thass all.

PROWLING AROUND

Mr. Gabrielson's tumblers who performed at the district tournament Thursday evening received quite a round of applause after their little tumbling act. One customer (not a localite) said their brief act alone was worth the price of the admission. The Gabrielson troupe will also be on exhibition here this week at the regional tournament.

The plucky Plummer squad, always a tartar in tournament play, gave the highly favored East Grand Forks five a strong fight before succumbing 29 to 22 in the first round at the East Side last week.

J. Young, forward, and Attelson, center, of the Bemidji Teachers squad who lost to the Prowlers here recently were accorded honorable mention in a selection of the Association Press of State Teachers College players. Young tallied three points against the Leemen and Attelson twelve. Captain, Jimmy Witham, a senior who was not included in their lineup here, was awarded a first team position on the mythical squad.

The Prowlers set up a defensive record last week that probably has not been equalled and may not be equalled for many a year in tournament play in this district. In three games, the tenacious ball shacks allowed their opposition only thirty-eight points or an average of about twelve points per game with Fisher scoring the highest in a Prowler tilt, fourteen. Only ten field goals were registered against the Prowlers. The point-a-minute Prowlers, on the other hand, scored one hundred and eleven points or an average of thirty seven points a contest, only one less their opponents total for three games. The Leemen will go into the regional meet boasting an average of thirty-five points per contest against their foes eighteen for the past season, a ratio of almost two to one.

The two Warren games and the Roseau contest of the regular season are the only three games in which the Prowlers have failed to connect with less than thirty points. The Prowlers have reached the forty mark seven times.

The selection of East Grand Forks for the district tournament was almost perfect in your columnist opinion. The floor was the best in the district, excellent broadcasting and announcing facilities were available and the teams were treated hospitably. The only regret was in the lack of seating capacity for the fourteen hundred persons who crammed the gym for the final games.

PROWLERS KEEP RECORD CLEAN BY CAPTURING DIST.

Warren Bows to Local Squad in Battle for Crown

The consolation game played Friday evening between Crookston and East Grand Forks resulted in a win for the Pirates. After trailing the East Siders through most of the fracas the Queen City boys finally snapped out of it enough to land on top. The Little Green Wave had their opponents outclassed until their two stars went to the bench, first Don Hiney and then little Harvey Hanson. Johnson, at forward, led the Pirates in scoring floor play.

The championship contest between Warren and the Prowlers, however, was a different story. The Gold and Blue grabbed the lead at the opening whistle and from then on there was no doubt as to who would be the next district champion. The final score, which could now be classed as ancient history, was 34 to 12.

The locals outplayed their rivals in all departments of the game. Their shooting, although not what it has been was good; their passing and team work under the hoop was just short of dazzling. As for defense, the Warren box score will show you that the Ponies netted a total of three field goals for the whole game—no more need be said.

Earl Nicholson, who was chosen as a forward on the Progress All-District team, was the outstanding scorer of the evening ringing up sixteen points to his credit. Roy Lee and Don Lorentson getting seven and five points respectively shared honors with Nicholson.

The Warren team is to be congratulated on the splendid sportsmanship which they showed through the entire game.

PROWLER DEVELOPMENT

The features for the Prowler will be in this week and all the activities of the seniors are completed. The sales campaign ends Friday, and if you want one, pay either 50c down or one dollar by that time. Group pictures are being taken that can be at this time. Nearly all the teachers' pictures are taken, and there are approximately fifty seniors who haven't had theirs taken as yet.

The first sixteen pages are now nearly ready for press. The salesmen have sold up to the present time, one hundred eighty five Prowlers.

SOIL PROGRAM MEETINGS SET FOR NEXT WEEK

Agricultural Conservation Group Will Explain Plans for 1938

FIRST MEETING SET IN THIS CITY MONDAY

County Agent Howard Grow Explains How Payments are Arrived at

Every person interested in the Federal farm program for 1938 as set up by the AAA and carried out in Pennington county by the Agricultural Conservation association will have an opportunity to hear it explained at a series of meetings next week. Following these meetings the community committees will meet in each township for the purpose of working out the maximum payments for each farm and all farmers are urged to sign up at that time, said County Agent Howard Grow.

Following is the schedule of meetings: Monday, March 28, 1:30 P. M., court room, Thief River Falls; Monday, 8:00 P. M., gymnasium at Goodridge; Tuesday, March 29, 8:00 P. M., Jackson's hall, St. Hilaire; Wednesday, March 30, 8:00 P. M., Community hall, River Valley; Thursday, March 31, 8:00 P. M., Civic & Commerce room, Thief River Falls.

In the 1938 program allotments of soil depleting acres are assigned to each farm along with a maximum payment for the farm, Mr. Grow stated. Deductions will be made from this payment for over seeding the allotted acreage or for not carrying out the soil building practices. Following is an example of how the payment is computed along with the acreage allotment for a farm. This example is for a farm without a wheat or potato goal:

Acres in cropland	230
Total soil depleting allotment	120
Non depleting acres in farm	110
County rate of payment per acre	$1.10
120 (soil depleting allotment) x $1.10 (rate per acre) is	$132.00
110 (non depleting acreage) x 50c (rate per acre) is	$55.00
Maximum payment for the farm	$187.00

Deductions would be made from the maximum payment if this man seeded more than 120 acres to soil depleting crops, or if he did not carry out 86 2-3 units of soil building practices on the farm.

"The above example," said Mr. Grow, "does not fully explain the program but gives only an idea as to how payments will be computed. Attend one of the meetings to hear it explained further."

Grygla and Strandquist Sportsmens Clubs Lead in State Predator Contest

The Sportsmen's Conservation Club of Grygla holds its lead in the statewide predator control contest, with 19 wolves and 6 fox for 96 points.

Standing in second place in the North Shore Game and Fish Club of Long Lake with 51 fox. The Strandquist Rifle Club is in close third place with 40 fox and 2 wolves for 50 points.

Little Falls, Caledonia, and Houston have each reported 42, with Chisago Lake at 41 and Milaca at 37. From that point, the reports indicate that clubs have taken from the 28 of La Crescent downward to one and some have none.

DIAMONDBALL TO GET UNDER WAY IN THIS CITY SHORTLY

WPA Recreation Division Is Now Organizing Two Local Leagues

The work of the organizing junior and senior diamondball leagues in the city for the coming season is now under way, it was revealed today by Richard Dablow, leader of the WPA recreation project, which is sponsoring the organization work. He is now signing up local stores to sponsor the various teams.

If weather conditions are favorable, practice sessions will get under way next week at Lincoln athletic field and on the east side playground. Mr. Dablow asked that anyone interested in playing communicate with him or appear for practice at either playing field.

Mr. Dablow added that marble tournaments are also being organized for the grade schools and for Central school under the sponsorship of the recreation division. The finals will be run off sometime during the month of May.

SPRING FIELD WORK STARTING AT EARLY DATE

County Farmers Expected to be Busy Seeding by Next Week

ICE IS GOING OUT OF RIVER POOL THIS WEEK

City Water Supply Reveals Marked Improvement Recently

If the present mild weather, which has prevailed the past month, continues into next week, field work on farms in the Thief River Falls area will become general before the end of March, fully two weeks earlier than in the average season, it was indicated today.

Work has already been started on a considerable number of small tracts, particularly on sandy soil in the western part of Pennington county. Where the soil is heavier the low places had not dried out sufficiently to make seeding operations practicable.

Farmers in this locality look back to 1918 as the last spring in which conditions for getting the crop seeded at an early date were more favorable. In some districts there is a lack of sufficient subsoil moisture, but it is hoped that normal spring rains later on will supply this deficiency.

Reports at Warren Wednesday indicated that wheat seeding was well under way early this week in Western Marshall county, and promised to become general by the end of the week.

As further evidence of the early arrival of spring, the ice in the river pool here is disintegrating this week, more than two weeks earlier than the average date, April 10. The water broke thru the ice March 17, and this fact, together with the fresh water added by the run-off from melting ice and snow, has resulted in a marked improvement in the quality of water in the city mains. The supply is now palatable for drinking purposes, and Supt. Ole Legvold reports that the hardness of the water late last week dropped from 70 to 20 degrees. Both water turbines in the power plant have been in use since March 17, in addition to which a gate has been open in the dam.

ROAD DELEGATIONS PRESENT PLEAS TO THE COUNTY BOARD

Definite Action Deferred by Commissioners on All Requests

Anticipating the time when the Pennington county commissioners will map their program of road work to be undertaken in 1938, fully a dozen delegations representing all sections of the county occupied the attention of the county board at its meeting Monday with requests for construction projects and designation of additional county aid roads. The board indicated that it will make no new designations until it has first inspected the sections of road affected, and that it will take no action toward new construction until the amounts of state road allotments to this county are made known. At its session the board also acted to advertise for bids on the year's supply of culverts, and bids to be opened April 18.

CIVIC GROUP TOLD OF ROAD PROJECTS PLANNED IN 1938

Chairman Rinkel Tells of Improvements Planned on Highway 1

At the Civic and Commerce association luncheon last Thursday, F. A. Rinkel, chairman of the road committee, stated he had been informed by district officials of the highway department that Highway 1 between this city and Warren was slated for improvement this year.

He said it is planned to apply a stabilized base treatment on the first six miles west of Thief River Falls and to oil the remainder. Mr. Rinkel added that he had also been assured that the highway east from this city to Goodridge would be improved during the coming season.

Senator E. L. Tungseth, who recently returned from a tour of the West Coast, gave an interesting account of his trip, stressing the attractions offered by San Francisco, which he termed the outstanding city on the coast.

At the Regional Tournament

Before the championship game started Bemidji and Thief River Falls school officials enjoyed themselves with a few free shots at each other on the side lines. Both sides did some fancy word passing and both sides scored heavily. As this picture was taken Buck Robbins was consoling George Lee on his impending defeat and Lee was staging a vigorous counter attack by producing a bundle of letters which he claimed contained reservations for his team in Minneapolis during the state tournament. Left to right are Buck Robbins, Bemidji coach, J. W. Smith, Bemidji superintendent of schools, George Lee, Thief River Falls coach, and, looking down from the corner, Morris Bye, Thief River Falls superintendent of schools.

LOCAL POSTOFFICE PLACES $258,250 IN SAVINGS BONDS

More Than Billion and Half in Bonds Sold Thruout the Nation

The Thief River Falls postoffice has sold to March 1, 1938, a total maturity value of $258,250 of United States savings bonds, Postmaster Andrew Anderson announced today. The monthly peak was reached in May, 1935, when $20,350, maturity value, of the bonds were sold at the local office.

The maturity value of the bonds sold locally during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, was $75,425; and for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937 the maturity value of sales amounted to $66,200.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has announced that the total maturity value of United States savings bonds sold through the close of business March 7, 1938, amounted to $1,581,462,875. This total was purchased by more than 1,260,000 investors, and represents an average sale for each business day since March 1, 1935, when these bonds were first sold, of $1,720,375.

A record for one day's sale of Savings Bonds was set on Monday, January 10, of this year, when $10,029,775, maturity value, of these bonds were reported sold on this single day. The sale of savings bonds for the calendar year 1937 was 34.2 per cent greater than for 1936, and the year 1936 exceeded the ten months' sale of these bonds in 1935 by 82.8 per cent.

APPLICATIONS FOR SEED LOANS MUST BE MADE SHORTLY

Date of Payment of Soil Conservation Payments Is Indefinite

Seeding time is drawing near and that means that seed is necessary. Any person who had planned on buying seed grain with the money received for participating in the 1937 Conservation Program, had better make other arrangements according to Howard E. Grow, county agent. It is uncertain when the payments will be made in Pennington County and it is known that it will not be in the near future. Federal seed loan applications are being taken in the county agent's office. It is the advice of Mr. Grow that anyone needing money to buy seed, should make a seed loan application immediately as it takes some time to have them approved.

Prowlers are Matched With Faribault at 4 This Afternoon

COME FROM BEHIND TO DEFEAT BEMIDJI

Grasp 35-32 Victory Friday With Only Three Minutes of Play Left

The Lincoln high school quintet of Thief River Falls, only undefeated high school basketball team in Minnesota, is one of eight teams to enter the state tournament in the Minneapolis Auditorium today, being paired with Faribault in a contest scheduled for 4 o'clock this afternoon. The semifinals are to be played Friday evening, while the championship contest is set for Saturday night.

The Prowlers won the right to participate in the state meet by virtue of having come from behind to score a spectacular last-minute victory over an inspired Bemidji team in the Region 8 finals Friday night in the Auditorium, jammed with enthusiastic fans who saw Thief River Falls win the contest 35-32.

Bemidji opened the first period with a barrage of successful field goals shot from all parts of the floor, and the quarter ended 17-6 in their favor. The Prowlers overcame part of the lead in the second period, which ended 23-16, while the score at the end of the third quarter was 30-22.

The Prowlers, never losing their fighting spirit, held the visitors to two free throws in the final period, three Bemidji players having been sent to the sidelines for too frequent fouls. With only three minutes left to play, a basket by Nicholson tied the score at 30-all, after which he and Roy Lee each made another field goal, and a free throw brought the final score to 35-32 in favor of the Prowlers.

Featuring the game were recurring fouls committed by the Bemidji players, and the phenomenal free-throw record of Don Lorentson who shot successfully for nine out of ten chances. Olson, Bemidji forward, led the scoring for his team, accounting for a total of 17 points, followed by Sladky with eleven. Roy Lee turned in nine points for the Prowlers, Nicholson six and Mickelson five.

In a hotly contested consolation game Middle River defeated Erskine 44 to 29 after leading all thru the contest except at one stage in the second quarter when Erskine was ahead 20-19.

At the close of the title game Supt. C. D. Hollister of Roseau, chairman of the regional committee, presented the championship plaque to Prowler Co-Captains Roy Lee and Don Lorentson and Coach George Lee.

In its first round tilt with Erskine Thursday Thief River Falls had no trouble holding the visitors in check, the final score being 44-18. The score at the end of the first period was 5-1, at the half 13-4, and at the end of the third quarter 30-10. Clark Mickelson and Haughom with nine points each and Stadum with eight led the scoring for the locals.

The Bemidji-Middle River game was a closer contest, Bemidji leading at the quarter 7-5 and at the half 15-13. Bemidji then showed its superior strength by leading 29-19 at the end of the third period, and the final score was 44-29. Numerous fouls were called on Bemidji in this game also.

Senator V. E. Lawson Announces Plans for Swedish Tercentenary

Plans for Minnesota's participation in the Swedish Tercentenary celebration to be held during the coming summer were announced recently by Senator Victor E. Lawson, chairman of the Minnesota commission for the celebration. The festivities will mark the three-hundredth anniversary of the arrival near the present site of Wilmington, Delaware of a party of Swedish settlers on March 29, 1638. There they established the first Swedish colony in America.

The celebration will open on June 27, when an official party from Sweden, including the crown prince and princess, government and church leaders, educators, and others, will arrive at Wilmington on the "Kungsholm," the flagship of the Swedish-American Line. On the same day a monument designed by the great Swedish sculptor, Carl Milles, to mark the spot where the first Swedish pioneers landed will be unveiled. Participating in this ceremony will be President Roosevelt and the governors of many states, including Governor Benson of Minnesota.

On June 28 the visitors will go to Philadelphia to attend the dedication of the new American-Swedish museum at that place. A banquet which, it is expected, will be attended by ten thousand people, and a concert in which all Swedish singing societies in America will take part will follow. A parade of the states and a pageant have been arranged for June 29.

Upon the conclusion of these ceremonies in the East, visitors from abroad will turn to other parts of the nation. It is expected that Crown Prince Gustaf Adolph and his party will spend two days in Minnesota, where they will attend a huge celebration in the Minneapolis auditorium. Plans for local celebrations are being made in many Minnesota communities having large Swedish populations.

PROPERTY LEVIES 2 MILLION HIGHER THAN YEAR AGO

Latest Tax Levy Reports Reveal Increases Thruout Minnesota

Compilation of the 1937 tax levy reports for all units of government in Minnesota disclosed that the new levies are $2,172,941 higher than a year ago, although they are still $8,882,598 below the high year of 1930, according to the latest comparative report just issued by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association.

Commenting on the total rises of more than $2,000,000 during the year, caused by increased local levies, Norman A. Borgen, secretary of the association, said: "It is a good rule for levy boards to take into consideration that value goes out of property when no one wishes to invest. Buyers check up on tax costs before buying property these days. I believe, therefore, that the biggest boom that property could have today would come from substantial tax reduction. High taxes scare off prospective property investors. As taxes rise, property values will decline. Lower taxes would speed up the demand for property and would raise land values."

The total levies for 1937 are $115,012,975 as compared to $112,840,573 in 1936, an increase of $2,172,941. The levies back in 1930 were $123,895,573.

A comparative tabulation of property tax levies for the past two years is as follows:

	Year 1936	Year 1937
State	17,381,370	13,490,680
County	27,530,513	29,645,470
City-Vill.	31,646,298	33,892,828
Township	5,538,024	5,888,400
School Dist	30,736,829	32,095,597
Total	$112,840,034	$115,012,975

County and state levies are the only two that are higher today than in 1930, although all units have shown sharp increases the past year.

The state levy shows a reduction due to the limitation for the year of 10 mills, passed by the legislature. Other tax sources of the state, however, were increased.

School levies increased during the year while other school sources, such as legislative appropriations and the state income taxes, also brought in many millions more to local school funds.

Alfred Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nels A. Nelson, arrived Saturday from Minneapolis, where he is a student at the University of Minnesota, to spend spring vacation.

Young Republican Unit Favors Candidacy of H. Stassen for Governor

The older leadership of the Minnesota republican party, Monday in St. Paul was confronted with a forthright demand from the young republican league for congressional district indorsing conventions.

The league's entire program, adopted in its state convention over the week-end firmly implied a desire for a stronger, more positive stand by the party on issues and candidates, although the league redrafted a resolution directly censuring the state central committee.

The league's straw vote on candidates gave Harold E. Stassen, former league chairman, 82 votes for governor, compared with five for Mayor George Leach of Minneapolis, four for Martin A. Nelson of Austin, one for State Senator William B. Richardson of Rochester and one for a "Mr. Anderson."

Receipts of Federal Income Taxes Reveal Increase Over 1937

Recording breaking income tax collections, reflecting last year's business boom, brightened the federal budget outlook into last week.

Telegraphic reports from internal revenue collectors throughout the country showed that income tax collections in the first 15 days of March totalled $615,917,718 an increase of 18 per cent over the same days last year and an all time high for any corresponding period.

Although it was hoped that March collections would approximate $370,000,000 there was a likelihood that for the entire month they would be in excess of $800,000,000. In the past, approximately 75 per cent of the total receipts for March was collected in the first 15 days. By this ratio the aggregate this year should be $820,000,000.

This unanticipated increase was especially welcome to the federal budget-makers. It will provide a cushion against the drop in other revenue sources, such as manufacturers' excise taxes and customs receipts.

Military Training Camp Quotas Being Filled up

Fifty per cent of the quota of young men to be trained at the Citizens' Military Training Camps in the Seventh corps area next summer have already applied, according to an announcement made today by Major General Stanley H. Ford, commanding the area.

"In view of the fact that the recruiting campaign only opened on March 1st," said General Ford, "I believe the receipt of such a large number of applications indicates an unusual interest in these camps this year, and all young men who wish to attend should apply at once."

The Seventh Corps Area consists of the states of Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, and Arkansas. The nearest camps will be held from July 7 to August 5 at Fort Snelling, Minnesota. Young men between the ages of 17 and 24 are eligible to attend the basic, or first year's, course.

IT WILL NEVER BE OTHERWISE

Public confidence in business was not strengthened by the news of the Whitney case in New York. For many years Richard Whitney was a respected member of the New York Stock Exchange and for a number of years had served as its president. Under the pressure of financial reverses he used funds that had been entrusted to him to cover up his own losses. If the market had strengthened he probably would have been able to pull through and repay what he had misappropriated. It didn't work out that way however and now he must suffer the consequences. Unfortunately he is not the only one who must suffer. All business, the good as well as the bad, is penalized because of his misconduct.

From the city of Cleveland come reports of a somewhat similar nature but affecting a different group of people. In this case organized labor is the loser. Two labor leaders have been sentenced to indeterminate terms in the Ohio penitentiary for extortion. They controlled the building trades union and used their power as a racket. Legitimate business was forced to pay a tribute to racketeers who had muscled their way into labor unions, terrorizing both employees and employers. It is a story that breaks down the confidence of the public in all labor organizations and the result is that good labor organizations are penalized along with the bad.

Perhaps all this is as it should be. As a result of the Whitney incident it may be that steps will be taken to make it more difficult for others who hold positions of trust to misuse their power. And as a result of the facts revealed in the trial of the Cleveland labor racketeers some of the abuses in this field may be eliminated. It is by the process of trial and error that we make progress. No system will ever be evolved that will be perfect. The human equation must necessarily be an important consideration in any arrangement of human affairs and human shortcomings will always lead us into some difficulties. It would be wonderful if it were otherwise. But it will never be otherwise.

Now that the city's water is drinkable again it isn't going to be popular to keep on yelping about the need for improvements in this department. It probably will cost quite a few thousand dollars to secure water that is both good and soft. This is one time, however, when it is real economy to spend. We are now paying a tremendously high price for poor water. The saving in soap alone would go a long ways toward offsetting the cost of any improvements that might be made and those who understand the principles of heating tell us better water would result in a substantial reduction in fuel costs. From a strictly dollars and cents standpoint we can't afford to delay longer in making the necessary changes in our system.

Doped to win the state championship, the Prowlers are carrying a heavy load in the tournament that gets under way in Minneapolis this afternoon. It would be easier for them to perform if they went into competition without the feeling that something almost superhuman was expected of them. Experience is in their favor however and also temperament. Five of them have appeared in the big show before. All of them have been under heavy pressure. For a group of youngsters they are unusually well balanced. We agree with Twin City sports writers that they are the best bet to win.

If the Prowlers win their game with Faribault this afternoon there will be a lot of Thief River Falls people in Minneapolis on Friday and Saturday. If they survive the second game we are afraid the service is going to be a little bad in some of the local stores on Saturday.

We hope the law of averages doesn't work this year as far as the weather is concerned. If it does we certainly have a lot of rough going ahead of us. Up to the present time the weather record of the year 1938 is perfect.

In spite of the fact that business thruout the country is at a low mark there is much to justify a feeling of optimism for the future. Congress continues to assert its independence and most observers are inclined to agree that the federal government is reversing its attitude toward business. With just half a chance, business would go forward and it wouldn't be long before unemployment would be nothing but a memory.

THE NAVY PROGRAM
(Baltimore Sun)

Leaving out Alaska and our island possessions, there are 12,877 miles on any foot of which an enemy boat, theoretically, might touch American soil. Take in Alaska and the islands — including the Philippines—and the total rises almost to 30,000 miles. This is the tidal shore line, following all indentations of the coast. But the general shore line of the continental United States—that is, the line omitting small sinuosities—is 4,862 miles and that of Alaska 6,640 miles.

The task of defending such a coast line is prodigious, and in our case it is complicated by the fact that the line is not continuous, but faces two oceans with, in some places, 3,000 miles of solid land between them. This means, according to the naval experts, that there should be two battle fleets, one in each ocean. And the only sound reason for not acting on expert opinion would be the assurance that war is a remote contingency.

No such assurance exists at this moment. The world is arming furiously, and there is no reason for arming except to fight. It is a condition and not a theory, and if the civilians in congress who still have the final word, realize the condition they will probably reach a reasonable decision. The danger is that they may be betrayed into thinking that a nation may be justified in arming for some other purpose than to fight—to stimulate the steel industry, to create jobs, to restore prosperity. Arming means economic loss. Arming means money gone down the sewer. It may be necessary. A certain amount of it, at present, obviously is necessary. But as we go about it, let us remember that every dollar spent for arms is a dollar lost to industry and we shall proceed with due conservatism.

The division of forestry is urging the development of municipal forests, and points out that a municipality may acquire land for such purposes either through purchase or donation and that tax-reverted lands may be developed into county forests in cooperation with the state. In European countries, such community forests are an old institution and revenue producers, but not much along that line could be hoped for here for a generation or two. But in the neighborhood of nearly every town there are tracts of land which are neither residence nor agricultural property (often tax delinquent) and these tracts could with great advantage be converted into just plain "woods" and would be a great source of delight to the youth of another generation.—Morris Tribune.

A lot of local men have suddenly discovered that they have urgent business in the Twin Cities. Incidentally, Thief River Falls today enters the state basketball tournament in Minneapolis.

Local receipients of big incomes heaved a sigh of relief when they learned that those earning not more than $75,000 a year will not be publicized.

They're telling about the speeder who appeared in court and talked so much that the judge had a hard time getting in a short sentence.

Sex appeal isn't a necessary adjunct to success in the movies, judging by the acclaim greeting "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

The headline, "Northwest Gets Big Soaking", we read, appeared after last week's rain, and also just after income tax payday.

With his wife and nine children, Mr. Kennedy, new American ambassador to Great Britain, should be well versed in the ways of diplomacy.

If the builders of the Auditorium had had basketball tournaments in mind, they would have equipped the structure with rubber walls.

Television has its drawbacks, says Billy Noonan. It's hard enough to listen to politicians without looking at them.

Now it comes out. Hitler explains that he took over Austria to avert bloodshed.

Some people, says an observer, have a veneer that comes off easily with a little alcohol.

Simile—As active as Prowler Mascot Pepper Lee at a basketball game.

With the frost going out of the ground, farmers are again getting that seedy feeling.

We are informed that 17 wars have been fought since the world engaged in the "War to end war".

Speaking of New Deal achievements, we read that Washington, D. C., has the highest per capita liquor consumption of any area in these United States.

We'd better not take this early spring too much for granted. Last year on April 23 this locality got the heaviest snowfall of the winter.

It seems unnecessary for Hitler to conduct his projected plebiscite in Austria when the world can tell him today just how it is going to turn out.

Responsibility and Failure

Side-stepping responsibility would make a fitting epitaph for most of the people who fail to get on in the world, to contribute anything to society—people who never achieve independence, never make anything of themselves.

Learn to Get Out of Auto on Right Side

A study of traffic accidents in Minnesota and other states shows that the simple act of getting in or out of a car is responsible for many an unnecessary death, according to W. F. Rosenwald, traffic engineer of the Minnesota highway department.

"It is the advice of authorities on safety methods," said the traffic safety chief, "that one should acquire the habit of entering and leaving a motor vehicle on the right hand side. It is obvious that opening a door on the left and backing out greatly heightens the chances of being struck by a passing car. By leaving a vehicle in that manner one steps out on the side of the traffic stream. At the same time he is cutting down, by the width of a car door, the space available for passing traffic. Too, such practice distracts passing drivers."

Plant the Modern "70" Way for Ease, Speed, Economy, Profit

Drive one round on an Oliver Row Crop "70" with centrally mounted check row planter and you'll be convinced that the "70" has everything, does everything and is a beauty any way you look at it. Perfect checking with accurate seed drop and uniform depth means a proper start for the crop and easier cultivating later on. Central planter mounting enables you to watch the planting operation closely without strain, and to work up to short headlands. The Tip Toe Wheels never run in the planted row and do not pack the soil—in fact, they help cultivate it.

You'll like the way the "70" handles—smooth, lively, 6-cylinder power under finger-tip control from the comfortable driver's seat—automotive steering with automatic steering braking on the turns—Oliver Variable Speed Governor Control that enables you to use only the fuel needed to do the work—speed that cleans up planting in a hurry.

Pick your fuel and your "70". For gasoline, it's the specially designed "70" HC with high compression engine—for kerosene or distillate it's the "70" KD. Get a "70". See us for a demonstration of America's newest tractor—now!

PUBLIC OPINION

Saturday, 3-19-38

My dear Editor:

You certainly relieved yourself of a belly-ache in your editorial of last week. It couldn't be that this Republican righteousness of yours was generated by the fact that Republican politicians have not been very successful these later years in persuading the voters that they, the Republican politicians, are honorable men and statesmen, and NOT politicians.

And what made this scat editorial of yours so useless, and only so much carping criticism, was the fact that you submitted no alternative to this political system. Or should one vote the straight Republican ticket?

The essence of a fundamental democracy is the free and uncontrolled election of the representatives that are to govern and if these representatives are merchants of evil the fault and the remedy lies with the electorate. The alternative is to bend our backs to the lash of a dictator and be directed as to how to vote, or, as is more often the case, be entirely deprived of the right of franchise.

Our politicians may be the public enemies that you charge them of being; but in Russia and Germany and Italy there are thousands of citizens who would welcome these politicians and the type of government they represent.

Your editorial smells of [illegible] fascism or maybe that [illegible] of Republican sour apples.

Sincerely yours,
Russell Olson

RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

The Pennington county rural electrification project received its early promotion in 1935. Since then, it has not progressed as rapidly as it should have done. However the matter is not a dead issue [illegible] are more interested than ever in having the project put over. The major difficulty so far has been to secure a sufficient number of patrons per mile of line. It may be that the route for the main line will have to be readjusted. If by any such readjustment the project can receive a sufficient number of supporters, it should be done.

There are now, according to the information I have, fourteen such projects in Minnesota. While the overall comparatively new, it [illegible] too early to attempt any conclusions as to their eventual success. The reports that we have so far are encouraging and speak well for all the projects. Certainly the time is here when rural communities should have electric service. No one needs current more than does the farmer. He can apply it to good advantage in so many ways. I know of no better way to obtain such service than what is offered of rural electrification projects by the Federal government.

The following is gleaned from the Rural Electrification News and from "Minnesota Bond [illegible] [illegible] of the Meeker County Light and Power Association [illegible] Mr. Albright [illegible]

Marshall Co. to Build Thirty Miles of Roads

A highway construction program consisting of approximately 30 miles of grading under contract is in store for Marshall county during 1938 as a result of action taken by the county board of commissioners at their session in Warren last week when it was voted to call for bids on April 5 for the proposed work, according to H. T. Swanson, county highway engineer. The construction program proposal calls for grading up to standard grade of 11.18 miles of state aid road and 18.6 miles of county aid roads. The new construction is placed in various parts of the county. The state aid roads will also be graveled later during the season.

GEORGE E. LEE

Coach of the Thief River Falls Prowlers, only undefeated high school basketball team in Minnesota, who this afternoon is leading his proteges into action against Faribault in the first round of the state tournament in Minneapolis. This is the second successive year Mr. Lee has taken his team to the state event during his three years of service here, the local quintet last year having won third place in statewide competition. Mr. Lee won added laurels last fall when his Lincoln high school football team came thru the season with an unbroken string of victories.

John Henry Seadlund, Kidnaper-Slayer, Will Die in Electric Chair

John Henry Seadlund, 27-year-old Minnesota mechanic, Saturday was sentenced to die in the electric chair April 19 for the kidnaping of Charles R. Ross, 72-year-old retired greeting card manufacturer.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes passed sentence after denying motions of defense attorneys Frederic Burnham and Floyd Thompson for a new trial and arrest of judgment.

Seadlund, manacled to two deputy marshals, was then led before the bench at the direction of the court.

"Have you anything to say before sentence is pronounced?" Judge Barnes asked the defendant.

"No", Seadlund answered in a weak voice, shaking his head.

Judge Barnes then read the formal sentence directing that Seadlund be held in the custody of the United States marshal and that "on the 19th day of April the defendant shall be put to death by electrocution."

BIG NAVY BILL IS PASSED BY LOWER HOUSE ON MONDAY

Measure Providing for Huge Expansion Now Goes to Senate

The house Monday in Washington passed and sent to the senate a bill authorizing the greatest fighting fleet in the history of the United States. The vote was announced as 291 to 100.

Designed to carry out President Roosevelt's request for a 20 per cent increase in America's naval fighting strength, the bill authorizes additions to raise United States fleets to a total of 1,500,000 tons at a cost of $1,121,546,000. Passage followed a house vote of 276 to 111 defeating a motion by Representative Ralph Church, republican, Illinois, to recommit the bill.

The measure sponsored by Chairman Carl Vinson, democrat, Georgia, of the house naval affairs committee, specifically authorizes 46 new combat ships, 22 naval auxiliaries to bring the navy's aerial army to 3,000 fighting planes. The 1,500,000 tonnage falls just short of maintaining America's share of the 5-5-3 naval ration among the United States, Great Britain and Japan under the announced and reported building programs of the three great naval powers.

While it projects this nation into the international armaments race, the measure carries a statement asserting the United States would welcome a disarmament conference. It also specifically authorizes the president to suspend construction to carry out the terms of a possible treaty.

Regional conventions are held annually by the company for star salesmen who qualify on the basis of yearly personal production.

Cathedral, Portable Chairs

The word "cathedral" is derived from the Greek "Kathedra," meaning portable chairs from which the philosophers delivered their orations.

Basketball Sidelights

The Prowlers left Tuesday evening with Coach George Lee for Minneapolis, where they will make their headquarters at the Curtis hotel. Arrangements had been made for the quint to practice sometime Wednesday in the Minneapolis Auditorium, scene of the state tournament.

The tourney opens this afternoon at 3 o'clock with the game between Virginia and Crosby-Ironton, followed at 4 o'clock by the Thief River Falls-Faribault contest. In the evening at 8 St. Paul Central meets Luverne, and Minneapolis North high plays Appleton an hour later.

At the regional tournament in this city Friday night, the Auditorium was packed to capacity by 7 o'clock, and it was necessary to stop selling tickets a full hour before the games got under way. A crowd of several hundred disappointed fans, including many from neighboring communities, were unable to gain admission and milled around outside the Auditorium, being informed of the progress of the game by the "grapevine" route.

The strong team from Virginia, which last year eliminated Thief River Falls in the second round of the state tourney by a score of 37 to 17, is again entered in the Minneapolis meet this year. Nick Pepinjack, who won all-states honors in 1937, is a member of the team.

Restaurant facilities were overwhelmed following the games, crowds lining up in the streets in front of the various eating places.

Entertainment at the regional tourney included music by the Thief River Falls and Bemidji bands, performances by the high school boys' and girls' tumbling teams and by a group of girl baton twirlers, and tap dancing by Jewell Helen Warner.

That the Auditorium is substantially constructed was proved when, with three minutes to go, Thief River Falls came from behind to tie the score with Bemidji and then went on to clinch the victory to the applause of the frenzied

Twin city sports writers have been speaking well of prospects for Prowler success in the tourney, and appear to have been impressed by the fact that the local quint in 24 games have scored an average of 36.6 points to 20 points for its opponents.

The team was given a rousing sendoff Tuesday evening, a parade forming at the Auditorium and proceeding to the Soo station. The players rode in gaily decorated new cars, headed by the high school band, fire truck and a large delegation of high school students.

The well-drilled Lincoln high school band, directed by R. G. Riggs, will be in the Minneapolis Auditorium Friday evening to encourage the Prowlers provided the team comes successfully thru its contest with Faribault this afternoon. All arrangements have been made for the band to go, and the musicians are plugging hard for a Thief River Falls victory today.

Jaybee Independents Win Title in District

The Thief River Falls Jaybees, independent basketball team sponsored by the J. & B. drug store, can claim the mythical championship of Northwestern Minnesota as a result of winning the independent tournament held last week-end in the community building in Red Lake Falls.

In the first round Saturday the Jaybees met their hardest competition, defeating Greenbush 45-34. High point men included Lee with nine points and Helquist and Gabrielson with eight each, while for Greenbush Frangsrud and Swanstrom each accounted for nine.

In the semi-finals Thief River Falls scored a one-sided 67-21 victory over the Gary team, while Plummer nosed out Mahnomen 35-32. Leading scorers for the Jaybees were Lee with 13 points, Kielty 10, and Ade Lorentson and Dablow, seven each.

Other first round results included Mahnomen 38, Fertile 30; Gary 37, Red Lake Falls 23; and Plummer 58, Newfolden 20. Mahnomen won the consolation game from Gary 28-10. Alvin Karlstad of Red Lake Falls served as tournament manager.

MISSION SECY. OF LUTHERAN CHURCH TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Will Tell of Hundredth Anniversary Celebration of Church

The Reverend John C. Gronli, mission secretary of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, will preach in Trinity Lutheran church Sunday, March 27. He is to present the appeal of the church for support of the plans for the coming celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America.

In 1943 the church will observe this anniversary at Muskego, Wisconsin, where a hundred years before the first congregation was organized by the Norwegian settlers. Starting with two pastors in that year, the church has grown to over a half million members, with 1300 pastors and 2000 congregations.

As part of the preparation for these festivities, the church in general convention in 1936 decided on a campaign to raise $1,500,000 for the threefold purpose, to pay all past indebtedness, to build a library for the Luther Theological Seminary at St. Paul, and to increase the pension fund. The campaign has now started, and it is expected that the fund will be raised by 1943.

The Reverend Mr. Gronli has been in active missionary work both in China and in Zululand, South Africa. He will speak at St. Hilaire in Reverend M. L. Dahle's church in the afternoon on Sunday, and in Holt, Reverend T. C. L. Hanson's church, in the evening.

WEDDING CAKE IS UNCUT 44 YEARS

Dawson—Ed Hastad of this village didn't eat his cake, but, he still has it. And it is his wedding cake which has remained uncut for a period of 44 years. Displaying it recently, the cake still holds its original shape although it has lost its pink and white colors. The bride and bridegroom's initials in candy decoration still stand out. When Mr. and Mrs. Hastad celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary the cake was proudly displayed. Then with 19 additional years, the Hastads must certainly have a record of some sort.

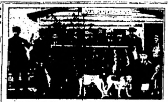
At a meeting last week of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club the organization took action to send in to the state department of conservation a request for the restocking of Red Lake river with pike, pickerel and sunfish.



Great sport and fine for small game that's attacked by predatory animals, but very tough on Reynard, the Fox! As part of the state conservation department's predatory control contest, members of the North Shore Game and Fish club at Long Lake have caught and killed 43 foxes, of which 15 are shown above.

CHURCH GETS NEW ALTAR

A new, more beautiful altar has been given to the Bethel Lutheran church in Grygla by John Fransman, Sr. The altar that was in the church, also made by Mr. Fransman has been sold to the Lutheran church in Goodridge. Mr. Fransman has made many altars in his lifetime, having made altars in Germany as well as here. The one point that makes the altars especially beautiful is the piecing together of different colored wood to make a panel. He designs as well as finishes them. Mr. Fransman was some better. He was up and supervised the moving of the new altar out of his workshop.

Agnes Croninger is helping Mrs. Maney this week because Mrs. Maney's arm is still bad.

Mrs. Ervin Nelson returned to her home at Grygla after visiting with her folks at Clearbrook.

Messrs. Art and George Skeldrew had word from Idaho that their brother Victor had passed away suddenly from heart trouble. He leaves a wife and two grown sons to mourn him besides his brothers.

Mr. Massey celebrated his [illegible] birthday at the Wm. Holbrook home March 18. He was able to be up at the table and enjoyed the party immensely. Those at the party were Mrs. P. J. Maney, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Holbrook and family, Mrs. Harold Bush and Marjorie Bush, Mrs. J. Croninger, Mrs. Ferdie Brown, Mrs. Cora Bush, Eileen Maney and Helen Moran. A big four layer cake with mounds of white frosting featured the lunch.

Mrs. Dahl, who lives south of Grygla celebrated her [illegible] birthday March 15. Friends and relatives had a party on her.

LeRoy Maney was quite sick last Friday nite. Too much water leaked in at the top of his boots.

Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Armstrong and son Jimmy visited at the John Armstrong home at Fergus Falls over the week end. Most farmers have started spring work and some had their wheat planted. The winter rye was up and showed definite green color. Detroit Lakes and other smaller lakes were still frozen over. Ducks, meadow larks, [illegible], red winged blackbirds and a robin were seen, but no geese.

Again the Grygla neighborhood has a cause for strutting. Helen Rasmussen who attends school in the Sandemark school won first place in declamation in the contest at Bemidji. She gave "Twelve Little Tin Soldier". In September she will compete at the Minnesota State Fair for state honors. The winners at Bemidji receive free transportation and expenses to the State fair, which is paid by the Beltrami county Teachers Association. Congratulations, Helen.

Carl Hope, Ed Mattson and family motored to Cumberland, Wis., Wednesday for a visit with Mr. Mattson's folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bush and family and [illegible] Holbrook motored to Warren Sunday. They visited Walter Holbrooks and Gordon Bush.

Geo. Holbrook and family spent Sunday caring for Wm. Holbrook and Mr. Massey while Mrs. Holbrook was gone. Mrs. Cora Bush and Mrs. Louis Peterson also visited at the Wm. Holbrook home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Petrie and son Roland of Puposky and Mr. and Mrs. H. Day spent Saturday night and Sunday at H. Days.

All the 4-H club members of Grygla have joined the Benville 4-H which is already organized.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunder [illegible] of Thief River spent last Tuesday in Grygla.

Harold Erickson came to Grygla after his furniture which he had stored there since he moved. He now lives at Karlstad. Mr. and Mrs. Nels Folkedahl nee Margaret Johannson had their wedding dance at Fourtown on Saturday, March 19.

SMALLPOX Still A Menace
Before vaccine that protects against smallpox was discovered, the disease was one of the worst scourges of mankind. Gradually, since vaccination has become so universal, smallpox is being stamped out.
However, smallpox is still with us and is unexpectedly bobbing up from time to time. Wide travel and crowds that bring people into such close contact, make it necessary to be protected.
Today vaccination is simple, practically painless, and ill-effects are extremely rare. The vaccination should be done by a reputable physician and the same care exercised against infection as with any other skin abrasion.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

Prowlers Capture Region Title From Fast Bemidji Quint

Middle River Noses Out Erskine for Third Place

Approximately 5,900 fans last week saw a constellation of stars that outshone any ever seen through the largest telescope that science has yet devised. This galaxy of luminaries composed the band of some thirty-two basketeers that invaded Thief River Falls to vie for honors in the Annual Eighth Regional Tourney.

Pre-tournament dope indicated that Thief River and Bemidji would hurdle the first evening's obstacle and square off Friday evening for possession of the 1938 Regional crown.

However, these prognostications almost went amiss as little Middle River High, whose male enrollment totals 12, presented a serious first half threat to the Resorters. It took exactly 32 minutes of actual playing time to decide the outcome, but when the smoke of battle had cleared away and the resin had finally settled, the Red and Black held a 44-29 decision. Maijula, elongated center for the men of Coach Iten paced the shotmakers with 15. He was closely followed by Deutsch who marked up 10 counters.

In the finale, despite a ragged exhibition of basket technique in the first half George Lee's Prowlers downed a fighting Erskine aggregation 44-18.

Three reserves for the local outfit contributed the major share of the markers in the scoring side of the ledger, with Clark Mickelson and Mel Haughom each accounting for nine tallies, and Stadum bagging 8. Anderson led the Erskine scorers with 9 points.

These top-notch encounters were merely indicative, however, of what was to come the following evening. Robed followers of Doc Naismith's brain child assent that at no Regional tournament in Thief River Falls have there been so many thrills and chills as the Erskine-Middle River and Bemidji-Thief River games afforded.

In the prelude to the championship setto, Middle River and Erskine paced off to decide the third place tournament team. The Iten men went into the fray as the underdog, but nevertheless managed to pull out a 44-29 win. Maijula supplemented his fine performance of the preceding evening by bagging 17 points for top scoring honors. Anderson of Erskine found his opportunity vulnerable to the extent that he tallied 18 markers.

With the consolation winner crowned, the stage was set for the memorable championship fray that brought together the Lumberjacks, Bemidji and the Thief River Prowlers.

In view of past-season performances, the Lincolnites were rated as rather decided favorites. However, this is what happened.

It seems that a certain Dick Olson now residing in the city of Bemidji held the singular opinion that a Bemidji team could throw the sphere through the loop a greater number of times than Messrs. Lee, Lorentson company were capable of doing. In fact he was so convinced that his hypothesis was correct, that he set out to prove it in a very decisive and convincing manner.

And in doing so he accumulated the amazing first quarter total of 10 points that put his team out in front 17-5. Never before have the locals been so completely outscored and outplayed as during this first quarter. However, they came back strong in the second quarter and pulled up at the end of the first half at the short end of a 16-23 count. The third quarter was played on almost even basis, the Prowlers perhaps displaying a more finished job of floor work but still were 8 points behind as the gun sounded.

In the final quarter the Blue and Gold staged the greatest comeback ever seen here. The Lumberjacks were held to only two points while the Leemen made a belated shooting spree. Nicholson after an ordinary exhibition in the earlier part of the game, rose to new heights to score two field goals, the first of which tied the score and the second giving the locals a two points lead. Lorentson added a free shot before the final whistle.

Local DeMolay Team to Enter State Meet

The Thief River Falls DeMolay chapter in its first year of organization will be represented in the annual State DeMolay tournament held in the new sports building in Minneapolis the latter part of next week.

The newly organized squad is comprised of seven Lincoln high cagers and two former local high school athletes. Co-Captains, Don Lorentson and Roy Lee of the regional champion Prowlers will form the nucleus of the squad. Orville Eide, a member of the Prowler first ten and Loren Jung, of the Prowler "B" squad are also on the DeMolay contingent. Cliff Oleson, Wallace Tunberg, and Jerome Salveson of the Senior Aces round out the high school complex of the team. All three Lincoln high teams are represented on this team.

The sharpshooting Leny Helquist, a regular guard on last year's Prowler state third place winners, and stocky Bruce Prichard, a steady performer, complete the tentative squad. A tenth member may be chosen at a later date. Roy Oen, former Prowler athletic luminary and more recently a regular center on the Minnesota Gophers football squad will act as coach.

Although the team is not especially well balanced and will not have the opportunity to practice together they are expected to make a good showing in the Mill City.

Bemidji is expected to have a powerful entry in the tournament.

Rifles Used in Civil War

A great variety of arms were in use during the Civil war. The percussion principle was applied to many of the flintlocks in the possession of the government, and the muskets and rifles made in the government armories were adapted to that style of ignition. Breechloading rifles, carbines, several types of repeating arms and foreign weapons were also used.

Mrs. McIntyre Speaks to School Assembly

Mrs. W. A. McIntyre from Grand Forks, N. D., spoke to the students of Lincoln High School on Wednesday morning, March 16. The basis of her talk was a trip in Europe.

Some interesting facts which she gave us are as follows: The whole of Belgium can be seen from a hill top. If Austria could be placed in Minnesota, there would be fifty-two thousand square miles left. In Italy she had interviewed a member of Mussolini's "Black Shirts." He told her about the loyalty of the members of the organization. She gave an interesting account of the days before the coronation and things of interest in London. In France all pupils are studying on exactly the same page. No one may visit the schools during class hours. In Italy small boys wear aprons, and all children are sent away to the mountains at least a month of the year.

Sophs Give Pep Fest Before Erskine Game

The sophomore class presented their pep fest Thursday afternoon prior to the tournament game between the Prowlers and Erskine. The main theme was the Charlie McCarthy act in Hawaii. In this scene Charlie is surrounded by hula hula girls costumed in grass skirts and blue and white lays. Elaine Rambeck, the local Dorothy LaMour sang "Blue Hawaii" to the accompaniment of Mr. Harrison.

The program began with a sort of "man on the street" with James Borreson as master of ceremonies interviewing Loren Jung, Lucille Welch, and Kevin O'Malley. The Sophomore cheer leader Elaine Douglas led several yells between skits.

The program was enjoyed by all.

PROWLING AROUND

Your columnist is going out on the smallest limb on the tallest tree he can find by selecting the winners in the state tournament. In a tournament which should be regarded as a tossup yours truly is picking the Prowlers to win the state championship by the margin of a cat's whisker. The basis of such a conclusion, if there are any logical ones, are the past season's records, the characteristics of the team itself and its coach, and mainly playing a few hunches and hoping for a bit of luck. It would not be a great surprise, but a shock nevertheless, to see the Prowlers lose, but neither would it be a great surprise to see them win. Yours truly will strain this limb a bit further by picking the placing of the tournament teams in this order: Thief River Falls, Minneapolis North, Virginia, St. Paul Central, Crosby-Ironton, Faribault, Appleton and Luverne. The Prowlers, Virginia, North and Central are doped to win in the first round although Crosby-Ironton is conceded the best chance of staging a minor upset as it defeated Virginia 30 to 25 earlier this season. We see a close North victory over Central and also a close Prowler win over Virginia in the semi-finals with the Prowlers topping North in the finals. Nothing but the top play of the Prowlers throughout the meet will achieve the crown and they will have to show a wide reversal of the form they displayed here in the regional tourney to win.

If the Prowlers and Virginia survive first round matches, the Prowlers will seek to avenge the blistering 37 to 17 defeat they suffered at the hands of the range boys last year in the state meet. If this occurs they will have to face Nick Pepelnjack, all-state selection who scored fourteen points against the locals. Pepelnjack is an all-region guard choice this year along with team mates, Clayton Erickson, a guard, and John Norlander, a high scoring center. Pat Dolan who gave the Leemen a lot of trouble last year is also returning.

Three teams and their coaches are returning for their second successive state tournament try this week. They are the Prowlers, Virginia, and Crosby-Ironton, and their respective coaches are George Lee, Archie Skalbeck, and Herman Wosek.

The inter-class tournament next week ought to furnish a lot of fireworks with the seniors, juniors and sophomores rated almost on a par, and an improved frosh team also in the race. The seniors, who will present almost the same lineup as the Senior Aces, are slight favorites. If the on-and-off seniors are not in top form, an upset is probable. Some of the star high school performers who will probably see action are Ed Flasch, Loren Jung, Rob Kielty, Kevin O'Malley, Wayne Bredeson, Leonard Furuseth, Orville Eide, Perry Pederson, Cliff Lunke, Austin Shanahan, Jewell Stadum, Glenn Carlson, Cliff Oleson, Lynn Bostrom, Clarence Haug, Ken Jarnason, Jerome Salveson, Wallace Tunberg, and Bob Hanson.

For the fourth time in the history of Lincoln high school, the Prowlers will enter the annual Minnesota state high school basketball tournament. The Prowlers, undefeated in twenty-four games will attempt to emulate the record of the State Champion 1932 squad which went through the season undefeated. Prospects for the realization of that lofty goal again are fairly good.

Last year when the Prowlers weren't even conceded a good chance at the beginning of the season to win even the district championship they went on to win third place in the state league which includes more than six hundred schools, many of which greatly exceed our institution in size. Possibilities for this year's quint were almost unlimited and still remain so.

This years undefeated outfit is regarded even superior to last years team because of its superior record and its stronger reserve strength, plus added experience to the remaining five members of last years third place winners.

This state meet is expected to be one of the most hotly contested races of its kind in recent years. No team is expected to make a runaway of the meet as Edison High of Minneapolis did a year ago. Neither does there appear a team such as last year's Virginia team who will be a standout for second place. All these factors point to a hectic three day tourney and give the Prowlers an excellent chance of winning the coveted crown.

The local team which has five seniors in its lineup is going to make a desperate attempt to win the championship this year, their last in high school competition.

With a lot of vocal support, the top form throughout the tourney, the "never say die" spirit the Prowlers exhibited in the final regional game, and a bit of luck, the Prowlers may win the tournament. This is a large order to fill, but it must be remembered the other teams will have to run the same gauntlet to win the state crown.

Girls' Tumbling Team Performs at Regional

Thursday night during the half of the Bemidji-Erskine game, our tumbling "stars" of tomorrow, namely the girls' tumbling team, gave a grand performance in their pastel colored outfits.

These girls are coached by Miss Helquist and assisted out on the floor by Evelyn Tungseth. Due to the absence of one of the regular tumblers, Cleo Mae Engelstad, Frances Stenberg took her place in the group to 16.

Their entrance was made by a flip followed by the elephant roll. Frontward rolls were done by all and then dives over from one to six girls. The box was put in use by dives, headstands and regular fellows, after which the spring board was used. A few of the girls dived over the box with an additional piece added to it to give the box more height. A grand finale in the manner of a pyramid climaxed the performance. These performances were received with much applause by the spectators.

GIRLS' CLASS BASKETBALL

The first round of class practices last week brought out a good many jodies we did not expect to see on the court this year. A thousand welcomes!

As usual, the freshmen list is longest, with thirty-three girls answering roll-call. Competition for regular positions on the team will be unusually keen. These girls are the eighth graders who won the girls' trophy in tournament play a year ago. Sophomores are next in number with twenty-one players, juniors with eighteen, and seniors with ten, headed by Evelyn Tungseth, captain.

Eighteen eighth graders are out every Monday night practicing diligently in an attempt to ditto the performance of last year's graders. All power to them, we say.

Practices will be as follows:

Eighth graders—Monday at 4 o'clock.

Frosh—Tuesday at 7 o'clock.

Sophs—Tuesday at 8 o'clock.

Juniors Thursday at 7 o'clock.

Seniors, Thursday at 8 o'clock.

Old Glass Easily Imitated

Ancient glass is rather easily imitated by various processes, and can be turned out to order by the ton.

IN THE PASTURE

Parent—Can you support my daughter in the way to which she has been accustomed?

Suitor—Yes, indeed, I live in the biggest and muddiest pond around here.

From The Little Black Book

And I guess all our home town boys were left out in the cold last week-end—Little wonder with all the outside talent in our fair city.

Jean and Iva got boy friends and not only that but they're only soph's mind you—for shame girls.

What Jr. girl is very interested in a certain Senior boy, a B. B. player—Incidentally what Sr. boy is very very infatuated with a Soph. girl?

Marky and Joyce are two Jr. girls who had themselves a swell time Fri. Eve—Little wonder with all the Bemidji clan around.

Taney has definitely proved he can be a fancy-free even with Blanche around, as you may have noticed last Sunday.

And how we do hope those flashlight pictures Erling took out at Hansen's turn out as well as is expected—and also those taken down in the park Sunday by one Clarice Berg.

And we wonder why Jane E. doesn't write her own letters instead of asking Miloy—especially when they're to a certain out of town boy named Glenn.

The Bemidji boys must have been in their second childhood last Friday, judging from the way they took to playing with trains, toy guns, tractors, dolls, etc.

And don't tell me you haven't seen those letters Taney gets! Careful, Blanche, don't lose your grip.

Arline P.'s brother is quite a guy at towing four senior girls down to Red Lake Falls to meet twelve Bemidji boys. More fun out of town "eh?"

And when we spotted Tubba and Dorothy B. sitting on the front steps of good old L. H. S. industriously tugging on roller skates, it was just about too much for our dignity.

You've seen a lot of long faces about, haven't you? Maybe the little affair down South that's put the long sour faces on ordinarily the smily faces.

Well, boys, you've got it coming to you each and everyone of you. Now that Spring's here you've gotta watch your girl or soon there will be no one for you.

Formerly Same Letter

U and V were formerly uncial and capital forms of the same letter.

MISSED AGAIN

Sensitive Golfer (who has foozled)—Did you laugh at me, boy?

Caddie—No, sir; I was laughing at another man.

Golfer—What's funny about him?

Caddie—He plays golf like you, sir.

INTERCLASS B. B. TOURNEY TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Numerous Awards to be Presented to Teams at Tourney's Close

Another interclass basketball tournament, even surpassing last year's will be held in the city auditorium Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. The teams are now practicing for this tourney; each class determined to put the other out of the running. The championship of the boys' teams is expected to be taken by either the Sophomores, Juniors, or Seniors, while the freshmen class is somewhat the dark horse again, as last year. The boys' teams and their respective coaches are as follows: Freshmen, Mel Haughom; Sophomores, Don Lorentson; Juniors, Reuben Mickelson and Earl Nicholson; and Seniors, Roy Lee. The referees will be Gordon Caldis and "Bones" Stadum. Clark Mickelson will be timekeeper and Ted Helle will be score-keeper.

The classes will also be represented by girls' basketball teams, advised by Miss Helquist.

The following awards will be presented after the final game on Wednesday night. A trophy to the championship girls' high school team, the championship boys' high school team, the boys' grade school champions, and the Central Junior High champions. The Central School teams are coached by Mr. Tvedt and Mr. Schneider. Other class awards will be presented to the class displaying the best sportsmanship, the class performing the best stunt, and the class with the best cheering. The cheer leaders of the class winning the latter trophy will have their names inscribed on that trophy. The last of these awards will be judged upon first by the faculty. Medals will be presented to the individual boy and girl who score the most points during the tournament. Last year's identical awards were won by Earl Nicholson and Mary Ann Morben.

The admission will be: Afternoon, students, 5c, adults, 10c; evening, grade school children, 5c, students, 10c, adults 25c.

The sophomores and then the Juniors will present their stunts between the halves of the championship game of the girls contest at 7:30 Wednesday evening. Between the halves of the boys' championship game at 8:30 the freshman and seniors will present their stunts.

An all-tournament team will be selected from both the boys' and girls' teams by the varsity basketball players.

In last year's interclass basketball tournament the faculty played the senior boys in a especially interesting exhibition game. The faculty whipped the seniors last year and intend to trim the losers of the junior-senior game this year. Among those who may play this year are: Coach George Lee, Mr. Gabrielson, Mr. Claffy, Mr. Pope, Mr. Dye, Mr. Schneider, Mr. Tvedt, and Mr. Riggs.

The schedule of the tournament is as follows:

Tuesday, 4:00—7th grade girls vs. 8th grade girls.

Tuesday, 4:30—Junior girls vs. senior girls.

Tuesday, 5:15—Freshman boys vs. sophomore boys.

Tuesday, 7:00—Central School boys' championship

Tuesday, 7:45—Freshman girls vs. Sophomore girls.

Tuesday 8:30—Senior boys vs. Junior boys.

Wednesday 4:00—Championship grade school game.

Wednesday, 4:30—Faculty women vs. Senior girls

Wednesday 8:00 — Exhibition game, Faculty men vs. losers of Jr.-Sr. game.

Wednesday, 8:30—Boys' championship game.

Wednesday 9:30— Presentation of trophies.

Prowler Sports Writers Pick All-Region Team

The editor, sports editor and assistant sports editor of the Progress have made their selection of the 1938 all-Regional team after much deliberation. The selections were made difficult by the acute inconsistency of play of the teams and especially of several of the topnotch players.

Three Prowlers were awarded posts on the mythical first five. Don Lorentson was a unanimous choice but was shifted to center because of his versatility, and the dearth of centers, who the scribes believed merited first team posts. Clark Mickelson the ambidextrous forward who shares his post with Nicholson was also a unanimous selection at his position with a brilliant comeback. Although his play was not up to his usual standard little Roy Lee was awarded the third Prowler post after a close tally at guard where there was a scarcity of star players. The sensational forward Dick Olson of Bemidji, probably the tourney's outstanding player, and his team mate, Johnny Deutsch, a guard were unanimous choices to finish out the first string five.

Roger Isaacson of Middle River and Anderson of Erskine were unanimous choices at forward on the second five.

Sladky of Bemidji eked out a second team center post after much competition from the high scoring Ray Maijula of Middle River, Caldis and Stadum of the Leemen, and Skogerboe of Erskine.

The muscular Boyle of Bemidji was an unanimous choice for the first guard position with the artful Mel Haughom winning out the remaining post by virtue of his excellent work the first game when he was the outstanding player of the evening.

The unorthodox Ray Maijula of Middle River was the high scorer of the tourney counting thirty points in only two games followed by Olson of Bemidji with twenty-six. The remaining high scorers are as follows: Anderson, Erskine, 25; Isaacson, Middle River, 23; Lorentson, Prowlers, 18; Sladky, Bemidji, 17; C. Mickelson, Prowlers, 14; Deutsch, Bemidji, 13; and Lee, Prowlers, and Skogerboe, Erskine, 12.

Habits of Chiggers

Chiggers do not actually burrow into the skin. They attach themselves to the skin and suck blood. Although of minute size, the chigger can inject a large quantity of poisonous material into its host and this causes the persistent itching.

PROWLERS VIE FOR STATE BASKETBALL HONORS IN CITIES

Local Squad Meets Team From Faribault This Afternoon

The Prowlers will enter the state basketball tournament for the second time in two years when they face the Faribault aggregation winners in region one, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Coach George Lee's undefeated squad is slightly favored over the southern Minnesota five but as choices can be based only on past season records, no accurate conclusion can be reached.

Faribault reached the state meet by an impressive regional final win of 51 to 24 over Canton and is expected to give the high riding Leemen a lot of trouble. Faribault is coached by Mal Elken, recent University of Minnesota cager and reserve halfback on the immortal Galloping Gopher gridders.

The foe of the winner of the Prowler-Faribault clash will be determined at 3 o'clock today when Virginia collides with the perennial powerhouse Crosby-Ironton. Virginia, participating in the state meet for the third straight year, is favored to win. Coach Archie Skalbeck of the iron range entry has only three veterans back from last year's team which routed the Prowlers 37 to 17 last year in the state semi-finals, but included in this three is Nick Peplenjack, all-state forward.

The St. Paul Central will open this evenings cage attraction when it tangles with Luverne's plucky representatives at eight o'clock. The tall, deliberate boys from the capitol city who are Twin City titleholders are doped to win and will face the winner of the Minneapolis North-Appleton contest in the semi-finals to be played Friday.

Coach John Jacobi's Mill City boys are expected to triumph over the Appleton quint, third region champs in the final first round tussle. The North Polars have a small, speedy aggregation built around Jerry Goodman, Dick Hallman, and Bob Brody, augmented by several other high class players who make up one of the strongest defensive units in the state. North high has been plagued all season by numerous injuries but they are expected to be in fine fettle by tourney time.

The Prowlers who are the only undefeated quint in the state classic appear to be co-favorites along with Virginia to take the crown, but are placed in the same bracket, so even if these two squads win in the first round, one of them will fall by the wayside.

BAND NOTES

The twirling class, under the instruction of Mrs. Wright, made a public appearance at the regional tournament last Thursday and Friday evenings. Accompanied by the band, playing "Military Escort," they exhibited extraordinary skill at both marching and twirling. Immediately after their performance, Jewel Warner tap danced to the tune of "On Wisconsin" played by the band. Cleo Monson and Bernice Larson twirled while Jewel danced.

The band in full uniform did a great deal of playing on both nights of the tournament. The Erskine band, which greatly added to the entertainment Thursday evening was followed by a performance by the Bemidji band on Friday evening.

Larson Funeral Home
MIDDLE RIVER — HOLT,
MINNESOTA

Dear friends:

Do you know that the funeral director violates the ethics of his profession if he makes a friendly call upon the sick?

Neither can he send flowers to those who are ill without exposing himself to criticism.

Our profession frowns upon anything which smacks of commercialism. And that is as it should be.

Respectfully,

Carl B. Larson

222 Rural Credit Farms Were Sold During January and February

That the demand for farms, on the part of bona fide farmers especially, is well above last year is clearly indicated by the report of Kent Holen, head of the sales division of the department of rural credit to the Conservator T. H. Arens and made public today.

According to this report the department sold during the months of January, and February, 222 farms, a total of 30,000 acres for $1,200,000. Cash and down payments are also in excess of last year's. While over one-half of the sales were to former owners, for the most part crop pay, there were sold to other Minnesota buyers a total of sixty farms, on straight contracts and in several instances for cash. These sales indicate perhaps more clearly than the total, an active market.

"Our sales are more an index of demand than of prices", said T. H. Arens in commenting on the report, "and this demand in the majority of cases comes from former owners who realize that land prices will not be any lower and who are anxious to regain their farms before land prices rise again.

However, speculative prices for land are a thing of the past. There are very few straws in the wind that indicate improved conditions for 1938. The demand, however now is not equal to the demand before the break in farm commodity prices in the late summer of 1937. On the whole there is a greater demand and a slightly better market than last year."

WPA Districts Reduced From Seven to Six to Cut Overhead Charges

WPA district offices in Minnesota on April 1 will be reduced from seven to six to promote efficiency and economy in operations, it was announced this week at the St. Paul office of Victor Christgau, state administrator. District accounting and clerical work that has been carried on at Brainerd will be transferred to other districts. An area office in charge of construction operations will be continued at Brainerd.

The consolidation includes the transfer of A. T. Gilbertson, formerly at Brainerd, to Duluth as district director.

Details of the change were worked out at a conference of the district directors affected, held Tuesday of this week in St. Paul. The change will in no way affect the practical operations of WPA locally, Mr. Christgau said.

"It may take a week or ten days to perfect the new procedure, but we hope there will be no inconvenience to either workers or project operations. The change is the result of the constant effort to increase the efficiency of WPA as the agency grows in experience," he said.

STORE AT MARINE IS 100 YEARS OLD

Forest Lake. A grocery store in Marine has operated for nearly a hundred years. It is now owned by R. E. Strand, whose father conducted the business before him. Founded in 1839 in the days of the St. Croix river logging boom when such items as whalebones were regular stock, the store is still doing business. Although it has not always been in the same building and has not always operated under the same name, but so far as records show there has been no break in the operation since it was established in 1839. A daybook of sales lists a bottle of hair oil that sold for 25 cents and two pair of patent leather shoes. These items were sold in 1857 along with coffee at 20 cents a pound and raisins at 30 cents a half pound. Fifteen years later the price scale had shifted considerably, shirts being priced at four and five dollars and socks at 85 cents a pair.

RAIL ROAD CROSSING

Grade crossings are the second most prolific source of fatal accidents and serious injuries in which trains are involved, being exceeded only by accidents to trespassers on trains and rights of way.

A Matter of Life or Death

1,700 persons met death at grade crossings in the United States last year. 5,000 more were injured.

The more trains that run over these crossings, the more accidents there are bound to be.

Yet Congress has before it a bill that would compel the railroads to run 600,000 additional trains a year. This bill, called the Train Length Limit Bill, already has been passed by the Senate and is now in the House of Representatives. It limits the length of freight trains to 70 cars.

Paraded as a "safety" measure, its real purpose is to make more employment for train crews.

To cloak its true purpose, it is represented that the "slack" between the cars in long trains results in excessive "shock," particularly when starting or stopping suddenly. It is claimed that this is an unwarranted hazard to train crews.

What are the facts?

The Great Northern's accident reports for last year show that not a single trainman was killed or permanently disabled in an accident of this kind. Twenty-one sustained injuries which kept them out of service for more than three days, these accidents occurring on short trains as well as long trains.

Accidents from other causes were more numerous and much more serious. Six members of freight crews were killed—3 on short trains and 3 on long trains. Two were permanently disabled—both on trains of less than 70 cars. Forty-four sustained injuries which kept them out of service for more than three days—37 on short trains; only 7 on long trains.

The Great Northern ran 29,000 trains of more than 70 cars last year. If a 70-car limit had been in effect, it would have been necessary to have run 22,000 additional trains. Accidents to trainmen would have increased proportionately.

More trains would have meant more accidents to maintenance men and workers in the railroad yards. The 22,000 additional trains would have increased the possibility of disastrous collisions involving passenger as well as freight trains. Accidents at grade crossings would have increased in the same ratio as the increase in the number of trains.

This is the price—in life and limb—proposed to be paid in order to create wasteful employment.

Fighting Prowlers Bring Home State Title

$45,000 DAMAGE TO WAREHOUSE IN CITY SUNDAY

Heavy Loss Is Sustained on Seed Stored by Land O'Lakes Plant

SHORT CIRCUIT HELD TO BLAME FOR BLAZE

All of Loss on Building and Contents Covered by Insurance

The heaviest fire loss sustained in this city since the disastrous Oen Mercantile company fire in October, 1936, was suffered Sunday afternoon at 3:30 when a blaze attacked the Land O'Lakes seed warehouse located on the Soo tracks at Atlantic av. and Fourth st., inflicting damage of more than $40,000 to stocks of cleaned seed stored in the building.

The fire, which originated in the east end of the structure apparently as the result of defective wiring, was confined largely to that portion of the building, and much of the seed in the west portion which escaped water damage will be salvaged. The loss is entirely covered by insurance, Carl Braba, manager of the local Land O'Lakes plant, stated.

The warehouse, a sheet-iron-clad structure owned by the Minnesota Cooperative Wool Growers association, was damaged in its eastern portion to the extent of approximately $1,500, this loss also being covered by insurance. That the blaze originated in the wiring was made evident when it was discovered that the electric meter and switch boxes had been melted.

The large amount of smoke from the burning seed, together with the fact that the structure is steel-sheated made it difficult for the firemen to combat the flames effectively. They played five streams of water on the building for several hours.

Stored in the warehouse and ready for shipment were several carloads of alfalfa seed, in addition to large quantities of sweet clover, millet, wheat, oats and other field grains.

Earlier Sunday the fire department was summoned to the mill yard where a grass fire spread and destroyed a quantity of cedar poles and posts stored there. Another call was answered at the south edge of the city on Highway 32 where the automobile of Father A. I. Merth caught fire from a hot exhaust pipe, a seat cushion being damaged. A brush fire at Bridge st. and Kneale av. brought out the firemen for the fourth time Sunday after it had spread over several lots. No damage resulted.

[illegible]ler Quintet Wins [illegible]o Places on All-Star State Tournament Team

A coaches committee selected eight players on the all-star team of the annual state high school basketball tournament Saturday night. ~~Thief River Falls, which won the~~ title, placed two men while North, the runnerup, had three awarded to it. Richard Burk and Richard Hallman, both forwards from North, won positions at the post with Nick Fepelnjak of Virginia.

Loren Stadum of Thief River Falls, and Edward Trumper of St. Paul Central were named as centers, while guards were Jerome Goodman of North, Clarence Martin of Crosby-Ironton and Roy Lee of Thief River Falls.

Local fans agree that the committee was guilty of an oversight in neglecting to include Don Lorentson, stellar Prowler guard in its mythical team.

SCHOOL BOARD TO SEEK AID OF WPA ON NEW BUILDING

Several Alternative Plans Considered Monday Evening

At a special meeting of the board of education Monday evening, called to consider several alternative plans for the proposed junior-senior high school submitted by Gerald Anderson of Toltz, King & Day, St. Paul architects, no definite action was taken other than to instruct Mr. Anderson to present the plans to WPA authorities to ascertain how much financial aid may be available from that source.

The board needs this information, it was explained, before it can reach a definite decision as to how large a building it will be possible to erect. Mr. Anderson is expected to submit a report at the regular meeting of the board April 11.

The several proposed layouts as submitted to the board Monday called for an expenditure in some cases reaching as high as $300,000, and in others considerably lower. The next step after deciding on the amount of money needed to carry the project thru to completion will be to submit the matter to the voters of the school district at a special bond election. If the necessary bond issue wins approval, it is anticipated that work could start by the first of July.

FARMER-LABOR ASPIRANTS GET O. K. AT DULUTH

Slate of Candidates Win Endorsement at State Convention

PAUL HARRIS AGAIN HEADS ASSOCIATION

Atwood Gets Endorsement for Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner

The farmer-labor party this week stood committed to defeat of two major measures pending in congress—the naval appropriations bill and the industrial mobilization plan—as a part of its 1938 platform, adopted in a convention in Duluth that ended early Sunday morning, after a slate of candidates had been endorsed. In the platform also were recommendations affecting taxation, agriculture, labor, education, general welfare, social security, conservation and civil liberties.

The party also went on record as favoring enactment of the Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing bill, a wage and hour bill, an anti-lynching bill, and nationalization of munitions plants and drafting of wealth in time of war.

In addition to endorsing Governor Elmer A. Benson for reelection the party endorsed: Representative John J. Kinzer, Cold Spring, for lieutenant governor; Paul A. Rasmusson, Moorhead, state budget commissioner, for secretary of state; John T. Lyons, Lecenter, for state auditor; C. A. Halverson, incumbent, for state treasurer; William S. Ervin, attorney general, for re-election; Harold E. Atwood, Winona, for re-election as railroad and warehouse commissioner and I. C. Strout, highway department statistician; for clerk of the state supreme court.

Paul A. Harris of Thief River Falls, who presided at the state convention, was reelected president of the state Farmer-Labor association without opposition, while Edward Hagen of Milan was named vice chairman and Harold Peterson of Willmar was reelected secretary-treasurer.

By close vote Minnesota Farmer-Laborites early Sunday restored Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner Harold E. Atwood of

Whole Town Turns out Monday to Welcome Prowlers on Their Return

With the greater part of the population of the city participating in a heart-warming reception Monday morning, the Thief River Falls high school basketball team, after being crowned state champions in the Minneapolis Auditorium Saturday night, returned home to receive convincing testimony that their home town was deeply appreciative of their valiant and successful efforts to return the state title to Thief River Falls after a lapse of five years.

A delegation of local citizens escorted the returning heroes from a Pullman car, which had been set off from the morning Soo train, to the Evelyn hotel where they were guests of Mayor W. W. Prichard at breakfast.

After breakfast the team members and Coach George Lee were escorted in a gaily decorated truck to the Auditorium, the procession including the American Legion color guard, the city band, Auxiliary drum corps, Lincoln high school band and the fire truck.

Paul A. Lundgren presided ably as chairman of the Auditorium program, at which members of the team, Mayor Prichard, the city council and the board of education and parents of the young athletes were seated on the stage. The program was enlivened by band selections and by frequent cheering demonstrations led by the three high school cheer leaders.

Mayor Prichard opened the series of brief speeches by thanking members of the team for the high honors they had brought to Thief River Falls, and his statement was seconded by C. D. Gustafson, president of the Parent-Teacher association, who expressed appreciation to the boys in behalf of the organization headed by him.

W. G. Claffy, high school principal and faculty manager of athletics, gave some interesting sidelights on the state tournament, saying that representatives of many other schools had commented to him on the poise shown by members of the local quint as well as their ball-handling ability.

Walter Jung, president of the Civic and Commerce association, cited the great value of the publicity received by the city thru the efforts of the boys, and also commended the Lincoln high school band and tumbling team for their excellent performances at the Minneapolis tourney. Similar praise was voiced by H. O. Norby, president of the board of education, who also alluded to plans to provide adequate high school gymnasium facilities. Clarence Sande, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, also added a word of tribute.

Chairman Lundgren then read off a list of the 27 consecutive victories scored by the Prowlers during the season, the score for each game being announced by a different pupil, following which Mr. Lundgren introduced the players and their parents, the cheer leaders pinning a rose on each of the guests of honor.

CITY READY TO GO AHEAD WITH WPA SIDEWALK PLANS

Offers Opportunity to Get Work Completed at Small Cost

The city council met in informal session Monday evening to discuss projects that might be set up to provide additional work for WPA crews in the city. The group favored getting a start on the WPA sidewalk, curb and gutter project under which five-foot sidewalks could be installed for approximately 50 cents a running foot, and curbs and gutters at 20 cents a foot. The council indicated that it would like to hear from property owners who desire to have such work done with WPA crews supplying the labor. Also approved in the discussion was a proposal to set out native elms along the streets of the city, using them in some cases to replace old boxelder trees. It was indicated that the city would supply small elm trees free of charge, and that they would be set out by WPA workers.

SOIL CONSERVING MEETINGS HELD IN COUNTY THIS WEEK

County Agent Lists Sessions Scheduled for Next Few Days

The attendance at the Agricultural Conservation meetings held in the county this week has been very good as reported by Howard E. Grow, County Agent. At these meetings a complete discussion of the 1938 Farm Program was given, including establishment of allotment acres, maximum payments, marketing quotas, and definition of a farm. Perhaps the one thing that will cause more confusion than anything else is the definition of a farm.

Under the new program each piece of land owned and operated by different people will be considered as a separate farming unit and compliance will be checked on each piece of land separately. Acreage allotments for each piece of land applies only to the land to which it is assigned and cannot be transferred over to some other farm.

For those who have not signed up, meetings will be held by the committee as scheduled below:

LOCALS TAKE 3 GAMES TO WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Lee Scores Winning Basket in Last Minute of the Title Contest

NARROWLY NOSE OUT MINNEAPOLIS QUINT

Spectators Thrilled to See Prowlers Beat Crosby-Ironton

Displaying what seasoned Twin City sports commentators termed the most remarkable exhibition of courage, poise and stamina in the long history of the state high school basketball tournament, the stout-hearted Thief River Falls Prowlers this week were acclaimed as the new champions of the state of Minnesota by virtue of battling their way successfully thru three grueling contests in the tourney in the Minneapolis Auditorium last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Approximately 800 rabid Thief River Falls fans, together with 10,000 others from the Twin Cities and communities thruout the state, experienced the thrill of a lifetime Saturday night tensely watching the championship tilt with Minneapolis North high school, in which the Prowlers fought an up-hill battle most of the way.

North high jumped into an early lead in the game, the score at the end of the first period being 10-6, and the Minneapolis team increased its lead two points in the second quarter, the half ending 21 to 15. In the third period the Prowlers showed they had mastered the Minneapolis team's style of play by cutting down their advantage to one point at the end of the quarter, 27-28.

With the score standing 29 to 30 and with seconds to go before the final gun, Co-Captain Roy Lee, dropped in an accurately thrown long basket to give the Prowlers a two-point lead, which they maintained to the end by an effective stalling game with North battling for possession of the ball.

Loren Stadum played the most brilliant game of his career, accounting for a total of 12 points, including three field goals and six free throws. Roy Lee followed with a total of seven points.

Perhaps even more thrill-packed than the championship contest was the semi-final game with the rugged Crosby-Ironton team, in which the Prowlers came thru to victory as the result of a field goal scored by Earl Nicholson after one minute and 28 seconds of "sudden-death" overtime play.

The fourth period had ended 27-all, the tying basket having been shot by Roy Lee with only ten seconds of the final quarter remaining. At the opening of the extra period Crosby-Ironton made a free throw, giving that team a one-point advantage; but this was im-

HOSPITAL WEDDING FOR REMER COUPLE

Grand Rapids—Being confined to bed is not enough reason to keep one young man from being married and his wedding in a local hospital caused so much excitement that the priest departed for home wearing the best man's hat. The unusual wedding took place when Miss Lillian McGinde of Remer became the bride of J. Ward Orban, also of Remer. The ceremony was performed in the [illegible] hospital with the groom in the bed to which he has been confined for the last two months suffering from severe burns. The couple planned first to be married in January, but the event was postponed because of the accidental burns suffered by the bridegroom. An effort to have the marriage on the date first selected, but in the hospital, was prevented because of Mr. Orban's serious condition. Now that he is recovering from his injuries, it was decided no more time should be lost. So with Mr. and Mrs. Swentkofske of Remer as attendants and the Reverend Father Spellman of Federal Dam reading the ceremony, the two were wed.

Northern Minnesota Baseball Loop Formed

F. J. Kofoed?, of Red Lake Falls was elected head of the Northern Minnesota Baseball league at the annual meeting of the organization at Plummer. The [illegible] Melby, of Oklee, was named vice president, and M. M. Jackson, of St. Hilaire, secretary and treasurer. Plummer, Warren and Warren are also expected to have teams in the league this year.

State Tourney Slants

Sports editors of the Minneapolis papers, reviewing the tournament in Monday evening editions, were lavish in their praises of the fighting spirit displayed by the Prowlers. They commented on the competitive spirit, stamina and poise displayed by the local quint, and marveled that the team could come thru to victory over North high in the finals after its grueling battle with Crosby-Ironton Friday evening.

A writer on the Minneapolis Star merits the prize for his accurate prediction as to the outcome made in advance of the state tourney. He forecast that Thief River Falls and Minneapolis North high would be in the finals, and that the Prowlers would win by two points, which is exactly what happened.

Probably the busiest men in Minneapolis Friday and Saturday were Supt. Morris Bye and Principal W. G. Clafy, who had the job of selling tickets in the Thief River Falls section at the tournament in the Auditorium. They sold more than $500 worth of tickets to present and former residents of Thief River Falls, and received many requests from throughout the state for seats in the Thief River Falls section.

There was much comment on the fact that all of the thousands of Minneapolis fans at the Saturday night game aside from the North high students, cheered for the Thief River Falls team, which won the sobriquet, "Sweetheart of the tournament."

Supt. [illegible] of the Henderson, Minnesota, school, who coached the 1932 state champion Prowlers, was an interested spectator at the tournament.

More than 50 members of the Lincoln high school band, directed by R. R. Eggers, were on hand to encourage the team with their music Friday and Saturday evenings. The local music was compared very favorably with other high school bands that performed at the tourney.

Ten members of the high school tumbling team, directed by B. W. Gabrielson, received a big hand when they performed at the tournament. The boys stayed at the YMCA in Minneapolis, and made liberal use of the swimming pool that is a feature of the building.

Gordon Caldis, Prowler [illegible], reached the age of 18 Saturday, and received the best possible gift in the form of his team's winning the title from North high. His birthday was celebrated at a dinner with his teammates in the Curtis hotel Sunday, an elaborate birthday cake sharing centerpiece honors with the state championship trophy.

While the Prowlers were the most popular team in the tourney, their mascot, four year old Pepper Lee, nearly stole the show from them. He was a favorite target for cameras of Twin City newspaper photographers.

A feature exhibit at the homecoming reception in the city Monday evening was the loop and backboard on which [illegible] developed his basket shooting ability in the back yard at his home over an extended period of time.

All radio sets in Thief River Falls were tuned in on Station KFJM Friday and Saturday nights to hear the broadcast of the games supplied thru the cooperation of local business firms and individuals. The business district echoed to the sound of dozens of automobile horns following the Prowlers' victory in the championship contest.

"I'm Building up for an Awful Letdown" was the theme song of school pupils Monday morning following Superintendent Bye's announcement at the Auditorium program that classes would be resumed at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Testifying to the local following of the Prowlers, the team and Coach Lee received during the progress of the tournament more than ninety telegrams extending good wishes, in addition to dozens of congratulatory messages that have arrived since.

Minneapolis fans were wondering what stuff George Lee is made of. The coach maintained, outwardly at least, his characteristic calm demeanor thruout the last two nerve-wracking contests which decided the state title.

Winona to party state for the 1938 campaign, but at the same time ditched one of their office holders, Russell O. Gunderson, supreme court clerk, to make room for one of their wheelhorses, L. C. Strout of Brainerd.

A long and bitter argument preceded the acceptance of Atwood despite an agreement he made with Governor Benson's backer, to support the governor for re-election instead of his friend, Commissioner Hjalmar Petersen, who is after the governorship nomination in the June primaries. The final roll call gave Atwood [illegible] votes for endorsement to [illegible] for his opponent, Adolph Solem of Norman.

Atwood's opponents had nominated Solem and Arthur Carlson of Plummer, explaining that these men have stood in good party stead for years where Atwood's term with Petersen cast a doubt on his allegiance to the endorsed ticket. Atwood, who earlier in the day said he would support the ticket [illegible] renewed the pledge during the arguments and went so far as to say he would support the ticket even if not endorsed.

Carlson withdrew from the race when it became apparent that the fight was between Atwood and Solem, but threw his strength to the latter. This move, appearing to give Solem the advantage and to wreck the pact made by Atwood earlier, spurred Twin Cities labor representatives to action.

County Agent Outlines Position on Mineral Feed Recommendations

Reports have been coming to the county agent's office that the extension service of Pennington County is recommending the use of certain brands of mineral feeds. This is erroneous, and the following recommendations are made by Howard E. Grow, county agent.

"The only minerals that are lacking in feed in Pennington county are phosphorus and iodine. The best and most economical way to supply these minerals are by feeding steamed bone meal for the phosphorus and iodine should be fed to pregnant females by adding a small amount of potassium iodide to the salt that the stock eat."

More detailed discussion of mineral deficiency and feeding may be obtained at the county agent's office for a copy of Special Bulletin 94 entitled "Minerals for Farm Animals."

Those introduced included Roy Lee and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lee; Don Lorentson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lorentson; Gordon Caldis, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Caldis; Loren Stadum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Stadum; Earl Nicholson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Mickelson, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mickelson; Melford Haughom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Haughom; Orville Eide, son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Eide; Perry Pederson, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Coach George E. Lee was given an ovation when he arose to pay tribute to the players, saying they were the finest group of boys he has ever worked with. After commending each of the boys in turn, he announced that Earl Nicholson had been selected by his teammates to serve as captain of next year's team. Mr. Lundgren then introduced Mr. Lee's little son—Pepper, team mascot, who had been on hand in Minneapolis, as at all other games this year, to see the quint come thru with the championship.

A delegation of three Warroad young men, including Jack Mavin, Donald Toulouse and Donald Dumas, then came forward to extend an invitation in behalf of their town to members of the team and Coach Lee to be their guests this summer at an overnight boat trip on the Lake of the Woods. Appreciation of their kind invitation was expressed, and the local boys no doubt will make the trip.

The program closed with a brief statement by Supt. Morris Bye, who paid high tribute to the boys and their coach, pointing out that it took more than merely a knowledge of basketball to achieve such an outstanding record in and preceding the state tournament. The boys, he said, came successfully thru a test that called for real manhood, and he added that this quality had been instilled in the players thru the precept and example of Coach Lee. Mr. Bye closed by thanking the public and various civic organizations for manifesting in a tangible manner their loyal support of the team.

FARMERS RECEIVE VALUABLE DATA AT INSTITUTE MAR. 24

Hanson and Morris of University Farm Speakers at Meeting

The farmers' institute held in Thief River Falls last Thursday, March 24, was attended by about 100 people, who were given useful information relative to dairy and sheep production by E. A. Hanson and W. E. Morris, both from University Farm. Mr. Morris also discussed sleeping sickness in horses and C. E. Brown of the Farm Credit administration discussed the use of credit.

In their discussion of dairy and sheep production both Mr. Hanson and Mr. Morris stressed the use of alfalfa and sweet clover as hay and pasture for the most economical production. Another point that was emphasized was the use of minerals. They told that the only minerals that are needed in this territory are phosphorus and iodine. The phosphorus can best be supplied by feeding steamed bone meal. Iodine should be supplied by adding some iodine to the salt that is kept before the stock at all times.

The main point to remember in feeding minerals, they stated, is that a complicated mineral mixture is not necessary. Farmers will find that by feeding bone meal and salt that they will receive more return for each dollar expended than if that same dollar were used to purchase a complicated mineral mixture.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

WE PRESENT TO YOU—

We know of no more appropriate way of putting really worth while reading matter into the column this week than by reproducing a few of the many interesting comments of northwest sports writers on the state basketball tournament. So here they are:

Says George Barton of the Minneapolis Tribune:

It will be a long time before state high school basketball fans will see a harder fighting team, with competitive spirit and courage of a higher type than that displayed by Thief River Falls in winning the Minnesota championship last week. The Prowlers were battlers from the word "go" and it made little difference how great the odds were against them, they never for a minute lost their poise.

Here was a team that didn't know the meaning of the word defeat. It came down to the state meet with a record of 21 consecutive victories and it kept that unbroken string intact through one of the hardest fought state tournaments ever witnessed.

Thief River was a favorite only in its first game, against Faribault, and it won rather handily. But, against Crosby-Ironton it was on the short end. That made little difference to this courageous band of athletes. It matched the bigger Crosby quintet basket for basket nearly the entire game. Trailing in the final seconds, it stayed in there to cage the tying basket and then went on to win in the overtime, outfinishing a sturdier Crosby team.

That game made Thief River the "darling" of the crowd. It had showed the fans the fiber of which it was made. The same determination and fighting spirit was carried into the championship game and the ovation the lads received when they came onto the floor for the start of the struggle with North high reverberated through the entire building.

The Minneapolis representatives were champions worthy of the name. They presented a well balanced and smooth combination. They swiftly went into the lead. They increased it as the game moved into the early stages of the third period. Then the new champions asserted themselves. They slowly but surely cut down the North advantage and near the finish went out ahead for the first time. And once they assumed the lead they never relinquished it so savagely did they fight to stave off North's advances.

Says Joe Hutton, Hamline Coach:

The 26th annual Minnesota state high school basketball tournament is now history, but the deeds of the 1938 champion Thief River Falls quint will not soon be forgotten.

Coming to the state meet with a record of 21 straight wins through the regular season, district and regional play, many questioned the caliber of competition encountered in marking up such an enviable record. But the doubters were convinced that the Prowlers' season's achievements rank with the greatest in the history of state high school basketball after witnessing them wade through the cream of the state's prep fives.

I take off my hat to a great, courageous Thief River Falls team that just would not admit defeat though it was imminently staring them in the face twice, against Crosby-Ironton in the semi-finals and again in the North high championship tilt, which they won, 31-29.

Says George Edmund of the St. Paul Dispatch:

There could have been no more generally popular victory in the state high school basketball tournament than that of Thief River Falls which, with flaming spirit, came through three games to capture the title from North in the finals battle Saturday.

The Thief River boys captured the fancy of the crowd in their first game and held it to the end. That they edged out Crosby-Ironton in overtime and downed North by only two points in a grand finishing spurt adds, rather than detracts, from the honors they won. They won the hard way, but they wouldn't be denied.

North was favored for the finals on greater stamina, but no such physical handicaps could crimp the winning determination of the team from up-state, which always will rank the worthiest of state champions.

Says Charles Johnson of the Minneapolis Star:

Those Prowlers deserved their well earned honors. They are the gamest bunch of kids we have seen in competitive athletics in many years. They were played out by the backbreaking duel with Crosby-Ironton Friday night. They had to get along without a regular. They had to come from six points behind to win. They had to defend a two-point lead through the last four minutes of that nerve-tingling encounter. Weary, they carried on with courage alone during that uphill encounter. And they won.

It's easy to second guess and there was plenty of it after the dope on the championship game had gone awry again Saturday night. But the best answer is that Thief River was the team of destiny in that colorful event and its title simply wasn't to be denied.

Where those Thief River Falls boys ever got the physical stamina and courage that they showed in that second half always will remain a mystery.

Through the first two quarters, it was most apparent that the Prowlers were spent. They weren't up to the form of their first two games. They had lost most of their speed. They had lost some of their coolness. They had let down to the point where North's lead could just as well have been 10 points as six at the rest period.

Then followed the most amazing comeback we have ever seen in a prep basketball encounter. Those game Prowlers did an about-face in form that amazed and thrilled the capacity throng. The boys seemed to get a second wind or an inspiration between halves for they came back to overcome what looked like a hopeless lead and won. And they won on their merits, through pluck and courage. Those boys proved themselves real champions.

Says Dick Cullum of the Minneapolis Journal:

It is probably true that the fight the Thief River Falls boys made for the state basketball championship Saturday night was the pluckiest fight state tournament crowds have ever seen.

When the fight was over and the victory won every person in the Auditorium had a feeling he would like to know those boys better, yet had a feeling he knew more about them than he knows about most boys. They had to show a great deal of what they really were to take that victory, and what they showed was enough to capture everybody's affection.

Early in the game they were up against a situation in which they must certainly have faltered and given up if there had been an ounce of give-up in the whole town of Thief River Falls.

They were clearly tired from first and second round games which had been considerably more wearing than the games their opponents had had to play, and they were clearly being outplayed in the early stages of the final game. North was showing them such basketball as few high school teams had ever had to face, was dealing one stunning blow after another to a tired outfit; but that tired outfit refused to be stunned.

There came the moment when, by all the standards of competition, the Prowlers should have abandoned hope; but that was just the time at which, instead, they started to play basketball.

They gradually worked themselves out of the fatigue in which they had started the game, caught their second wind or may be it was their fifth or sixth wind—and began to move up.

The pure pluck and poise of the Thief River Falls boys would not have been so notable if they had just happened to be seven points behind an erratic opponent early in the second half; but they were seven points behind a team that was playing smart, steady, hard fighting basketball, a team that had a reputation of its own for being able to play under pressure, a team with a good deal more poise than any set of high school kids should be expected to have.

The Prowlers could not expect to win by North's mistakes, could not expect North to become panicky. They had to come from behind a fine team playing its best basketball, a team that would exact a price for every point they made.

In fact the best evidence of the Prowlers' courage was the quality of the opposition.

North had had its slump two weeks earlier, had been coming up ever since and had reached its peak. The basketball it showed the Prowlers through most of the first half was enough to break any opponent's heart.

It only inspired the Prowlers to say, quite casually, or so it seemed, "Well, we're up against something extra good here. We'll have to be a little better than usual ourselves. We'll have to play ourselves a perfect game of basketball. Let's get going."

So they did get going and, without wasteful haste, without panic or extravagant showiness, settled into steady, relentless stride which deliberately hacked away point after point of the North lead and put themselves in command of the game with a little time to spare.

THE SAME OLD STORY

(Long Prairie Leader)

The administration of the state's unemployment insurance department has broken down and officials were summoned to Washington last week to defend themselves against charges of inefficiency.

The department which is of the mushroom-political variety has 780 employees and is costing $85,000 a month to operate or more than one million dollars a year.

Over six months were spent getting ready for the system which went into effect January 1, but notwithstanding the preparation and the great army of employees, the department was in hopeless confusion before the end of the month and at the end of the second month, the federal officials stepped in to try and find out what the trouble is.

The department collects taxes from employers to pay employees who happen to be out of work. Up to January 1 over $11,000,000 had been collected from the employers in the state and shortly after that date, which was the first date for employees out of a job to file their applications, upwards of 65,000 applications were filed.

Notwithstanding this enormous flood of applications which completely bogged down the office, officials went on the radio and urged everybody who thought they had a claim to hurry in with their applications. "The money is yours, it is not charity and you should come and get it," was the radio appeal.

This had the effect of adding to the confusion and helped to tie the office up tighter. Unemployed persons, listening to the appeal, naturally thought they ought to apply for the checks if the money was to come as easy as the invitation intimated, and so they rushed in their filings. Thousands of persons, who under the law had no claim to the monthly checks, flooded the department with their demands and under the deluge the bureau foundered and sank.

The trouble with the department appears to be that those in charge of it conceived it to be a sort of political pie counter and a splendid thing for a campaign year. Hundreds were given jobs in the office itself and then a hunt was started to round up thousands to draw the compensation checks. The scheme seems to have failed for the ridiculous reason that the office personnel could not make out the pay checks fast enough. The jobs were created and the public were brought in to apply but the check issuing department broke down. The yells of the disappointed brought down the wrath of the Washington department that was being criticized for the situation and there you are.

The trouble will doubtless be straightened out and those who deserve the compensation and who ought to have it regularly and promptly in conformity with the fine spirit that prompted the law, will get it ultimately.

In the meantime, Minnesota citizens who gave any one seven one percent a job must [illegible] equal to two percent of the wages paid over to be scrambled for at this the newest pie counter.

OF, BY, AND FOR THE SOUTH

(Fergus Falls Journal)

The administration farm bill, that is being [illegible] through congress, is a sharp piece of legislation. The Roosevelt men figure that it offers northern farmers enough in government payments for "soil conservation" to keep them quiet and voting, but the big benefits go to the South. Thus the cotton growers are now to have the loans on their cotton raised to 10c a pound, which simply means that the government is buying their crop at a price well above the world market and besides this, they are to receive all of the payments that the northern farmers receive for soil conservation. Then they can turn around and go into dairying, using the land that they are being paid for "conserving," for this purpose. There is not a line in the bill that is of any benefit to the northern dairymen or poultry raisers and in the meantime, the administration is letting down the bars for eggs, butter and cattle to pour in from other countries.

The new bill is primarily a measure "of the South, by the South and for the South" and it is no wonder that the Progressive Wisconsin delegation voted against it to a man. The so-called "progressives" from Minnesota didn't have the nerve.

The trouble with the present method of trying to end the present depression is that when it is over, which we all hope will be very soon, we shall feel its effects. In a case like this one where the country has gone so rapidly and so substantially in debt, we will still have the debt to pay when all other conditions are favorable towards ending the trouble. The fact that we have this debt to pay will keep the depression going just that much longer. We have been unwilling to take our troubles as they come. We have been postponing the evil day.—Glenwood Herald.

PUBLIC OPINION

Dear Editor:

Well, here we are again with a little more grasshopper news, if you want to print it. I took a walk out about a mile south of town a week ago last Sunday to see if I could find any grasshoppers and see how they stood the winter and how many eggs I could find. I found they stood the winter very well and if you want to see some of the eggs and young grasshoppers hatched you can stop into the Times office and they will be glad to show them to you.

I dug in one place and in a piece of ground 2½ by 3½ feet I dug up 5 coons of eggs and each coon contained 60 to 90 eggs and all of the eggs look to be in number one shape, for hatching. I mean by that, that they all have a very good color and shape and are smooth. I put some of the eggs in a glass jar and set them in a window in the sun and in 10 days some of the eggs had hatched and they sure came out very lively and could fly almost as soon as they came out of the egg. They come out of the egg all shaped and are ready to hop and fly and they can sure go some. They are shaped like a full grown grasshopper when they are hatched.

I would like to have some more people write in and tell what they have found in different parts of the county in regard to the grasshopper menace and I think now is the time to get the machinery oiled up ready to fight them and not wait till they are fighting us.

I hope that I have aroused some interest in the grasshopper menace and to see some more letters appearing soon.

By A. I. Harris

Ruinous farm prices, careless and unscientific tillage practices, unsound tenure systems, a heavy debt burden, inadequate acreage, and a long continued wastage of our farming capital by soil erosion have all combined to bring agriculture to its present sad condition, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace told a senate committee last week.

Appearing to explain the New Deal's rural relief policies, Wallace declared it is necessary to provide aid for 1,000,000 destitute farm families, many of whom have lost their land, their savings, and their farm equipment and are in urgent need of food and clothing.

Another witness, Assistant WPA Administrator Corrington Gill, told the committee that 25 per cent of the farm population had at one time or another since 1933 been forced to accept rural relief.

Iron ore royalty tax receipts collected from fee owners last year were more than double those of 1936, according to figures released last week by State Treasurer C. A. Halverson. In 1937 the state received $1,298,359.23 in royalties, $762,848.63 more than the year before, for which the total was $535,290.70. The rise in royalty income, which goes into the general revenue fund, Treasurer Halverson attributed to the boost in the levy rate ordered by the last legislature, and to increased output of iron ore.

Foresters have overlooked a large block of population the farmers who are already forest managers on a small scale and who, with proper guidance, may become the backbone of constructive forestry in Minnesota, Dr. Raphael Zon, director, and R. N. Cunningham, senior forest economist, of the Lake States Forest Experiment station point out in Special Bulletin 191 of the University agricultural extension division, just off the press.

Increased public aid should be given the farmers in building up the farm woodlands, which contain 27 per cent of all forest land in Minnesota, according to these federal forest experts. To a large extent this [illegible] acres of farm woodland is of better quality than the woodland not in farms, and therefore it represents more than 27 per cent of the total forest land value, the report says.

A campaign against the forest tent caterpillar is promised for next summer throughout an area which has felt a noticeable infestation of the pests the northeastern sixteen counties. Thor L. Aamodt, acting state entomologist, points out that while actual damage to trees has been small in recent years, the effect of the caterpillars upon the tourist trade has been distinctly detrimental. It is going to take a vigorous poison campaign in the sixteen counties from Lake to Beltrami counties and south to Aitkin county to bring the insects under control. Meetings will shortly be held over the affected district in order to acquaint residents with the methods of battling the obnoxious but persistent caterpillars.

The silly notion which the Twin City Dailies are trying to instill in the minds of the public that Farmer-Labor rule would chase industry out of the state was refuted by none other than the Minneapolis Tribune last week.

In a front page article the Tribune quotes Congressman Henry Teigan, third district representative, as asking the subcommittee on appropriations of the House of Representatives to approve a project to construct the North Minneapolis upper river harbor for the benefit of trade and industry.

Congressman Teigan asked that the full appropriation of $1,779,000 be approved. The project already has the approval of army engineers. "If Mississippi river navigation is to be of any practical value to owners of industry in Minneapolis, development of the harbor above St. Anthony falls is essential," he declared.

A. L. Janes of St. Paul, counsel for the Great Northern Railroad, opposed the harbor project.

The state tax commission's suit against the railroads to put railroad right-of-way that is used for industrial purposes on the tax rolls subject to the general property levy, was dropped by the courts last week. What the valuation or the amount of tax receipts to be derived from this new source of revenue will amount to will not be known until near the end of the year, according to George Wallace, member of the tax commission, but in North Dakota a similar suit some years ago resulted in $30,000,000 added valuation being placed on the rolls. Until now, right-of-way property has been used as location for elevators, warehouses, bulk stations, and in some cities even for retail stores, without being subject to the property tax.

GETS DRIVER LICENSE AT 90 YEARS OF AGE

Grand Rapids—Having issued a driver's license to a man 90 years of age, inquiries are made here whether or not this record has been duplicated anywhere in the state. John H. Richardson of Morse township, west of Deer River, appeared at the office of John E. McMahon, clerk of court to secure a license, and not until he put down his age as 90 did the clerk begin questioning him. Strong and straight standing six foot or feet tall, Mr. Richardson looks more like a man of less than one of four score and ten years. He had not applied earlier for a Minnesota driver's license because he had not needed to drive a car. This year finds him without a driver, so he proposes to do his own chauffeuring and in a legal manner has provided with a license.

'MINNESOTA' DIES AT KIMBALL HOME

St. Cloud—One of the last few remaining Maine Prairie township residents who were refugees in the old log stockade of the pioneers in the Sioux outbreak in 1862, Mrs. Minnesota Cornell died last week at her home in Kimball. Mrs. Cornell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Caldwell came to Minnesota and Maine Prairie in 1857 and were some of the first settlers on the prairie. She was the first child born into their family after arriving and her parents named her "Minnesota" because of their love for their new home. In 1862, when the Sioux outbreak threatened the lives of the settlers, Mrs. Cornell, then only an infant of one year, was taken behind the hastily erected stockade and remained there until the Indian menace was gone.

JUNE 20-26 FIXED AS DATES OF BIBLE CAMP AT BAUDETTE

Rev. R. M. Fjelstad of This City Will Again Serve as Dean

The organization and plans for the 1938 session of the Lake of the Woods Luther League Bible Camp were made at the meeting of the Bible Camp Association held in Bethel Church in Greenbush Monday. The dates for the camp will be June 20 to 26, beginning Monday evening and closing Sunday afternoon.

This will be the sixth year that the camp has met. Last year the fifth anniversary was celebrated with the erection of a fine chapel and kitchen. Previous to that time there were three fine cabins for girls, two smaller cabins, a boys' dormitory, and a combination office and canteen. The camp is located at the confluence of the Rainy River and Wabanica Creek, about seven miles northwest of Baudette. The seventy acre site, most of it covered with virgin timber, is owned by the Bible Camp Association.

The camp administration for 1938 includes the following: Rev. R. M. Fjelstad of Thief River Falls, camp dean; Rev. H. O. Aasen of Baudette, general manager; Rev. T. C. L. Hanson of Holt, housing manager; Rev. H. O. Petersen of Viking, canteen manager; and Rev. L. M. Larsen of Stephen, waterfront director. This will be the third year that Rev. Fjelstad has served as camp dean.

VISITORS INVITED SUNDAY TO MIDDLE RIVER C. C. C. CAMP

Officers and Enrollees to Show Achievements at Thief Lake

The period of March 31st to April 6th has been designated as Open House Week, for the Civilian Conservation Corps in commemoration of the 5th anniversary of the founding of that organization. During this time CCC companies throughout the entire nation will select one or more days for conducting an open house, which will enable the public to inspect the camps and learn something of the work projects on which enrollees are engaged.

The public is invited to visit Company 710, located at Thief Lake, near Middle River, on Sunday, April 3rd, that date having been selected as official visitors' day by the camp. During the past year this camp has been engaged in the restoration development of the Mud Lake migratory waterfowl refuge, under the direction of the United States bureau of biological survey.

Guides will be available to show visitors about the camp premises as well as work projects on the Mud Lake Area. The hours of 1 to 3:30 p. m. will be devoted to inspection of the barracks, educational exhibits, work shop, recreation hall, mess hall, and other camp buildings. From 3:30 to 6 p. m. a tour of the work projects on the Mud Lake area will be conducted under the guidance of the Camp superintendent and assistants. Two Local Men Injured in Car Mishap Saturday

Anthony Wilson and Walter Halvorson were reported today to be in fair condition in a local hospital following injuries sustained when their car rolled over several times while rounding a curve at the Aubol school on Highway 32 north of St. Hilaire late Saturday evening. The mishap was apparently the result of a broken steering rod. Wilson suffered a broken leg and head injuries, while Halvorson sustained a lacerated ear and cuts about the face.

March Gives Promise of Going out Like a Lion

The month of March this morning gave promise of going out like the proverbial lion, with snow flurries driven by a high north wind, bringing to a halt field work which was just getting into full swing in this section. Ideal spring weather had prevailed up to today, with moderate temperatures. A substantial shower of rain fell locally Monday night, and also extended over the greater part of the state.

mediately offset by a free throw made by Don Lorentson, Prowler sharpshooter. Under high school rules the team that first scores two points in overtime is the winner.

No more than three points separated the rivals at any stage of the first half, the score at the quarter being 6-5 in favor of the Iron Range team and 15-12 in their favor at the half. During the third period the score was tied 20-all, but before the end of the quarter Crosby-Ironton tallied three more points. The battle continued on even terms in the fourth period until the game reached its thrilling climax.

Lorentson, with eleven points, led the Prowlers, accounting for three field goals and five free throws, followed by Nicholson with six points, Stadum and Roy Lee four. Due to a knee injury sustained by Nicholson in the first minute of play, he was out of the game for the remainer of the first half and part of the second, returning to the game in time to play the hero's role.

The Prowlers had less difficulty in their first-round match with Faribault, winning by a score of 37-29 after leading 13-5 at the end of the first period and 26-14 at the half. In the third period they eased up on their attack, and during most of the final quarter chose to play a stalling game to protect a fairly comfortable margin. Scoring honors were equally divided among the Prowlers, while Bruce Smith, Faribault center, led for his team with eleven points, including two field goals and seven free throws.

Third honors in the state tourney went to Crosby-Ironton by virtue of a 40-35 decision over St. Paul Central. Virginia won the consolation championship by defeating Appleton 33-24.

Box scores of the three games in which the Prowlers participated in the state tourney are published on the High school Progress page in this issue.

Coach Lee Issues Call to Candidates for 1938 Lincoln Football Team

Coach George Lee no sooner finished the task of guiding the Lincoln high school basketball team thru to the state championship than he issued a call for candidates to turn out next Monday afternoon for spring football practice. He has nine lettermen returning to serve as a nucleus for the team, and he has extended an invitation to freshmen, sophomores and juniors to try out for vacancies in the regular and reserve positions.

FARM COMMODITIES RATES CUT TO AID SMALL TRUCKERS

Railroad and Warehouse Commission Announces Reductions

To meet the protest of livestock haulers and small truck operators that a recent increase in truck freight rates has jeopardized their "return haul" business, a revised schedule of rates, covering certain farm commodities, has been released this week by order of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission.

The new schedule authorizes a fourth class rating for such commodities as farm implements, petroleum products; certain varieties of farm seeds, fertilizer, flour and feed to meet the objection of many of the smaller carriers that the higher rating on these items would prevent them from picking up return loads while hauling livestock and other farm products to market.

Under the revised schedule a new rate basis is also established for truckers operating between certain points where the rates have hitherto been based on railroad mileage, rather than highway mileage. This was obviously an impediment to the truck operators as the railroad mileage, in some cases, was almost twice that of the highway mileage between the same points and the truckers were placed in the position of apparently charging excessive fees for their services.

The commission, in granting a general rate increase some time ago, to correspond with a similar raise in railroad freight rates, was impelled to do so by the necessity of protecting the trucking industry, generally, but it was anticipated that minor changes in the rate schedule would have to be made to meet the requirements of the various classes of carrier.

Commissioner Harold Atwood, junior member of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, said today, that a stabilized rate structure, not subject to frequent revision or changes, would serve the best interests of all transportation agencies, but it is conceded that exceptions are sometimes necessary as in the present instance. It is the earnest desire of the Commission to maintain a rate basis that will be as equitable and fair as possible for all types and classes of carrier.

With Arrival of Crows Interest in the State Predator Contest Grows

With the spring flight of crows moving northward and with the snow all gone in most sections of the state, the interest in the Minnesota Predator Control Contest turns to crows.

Approximately 125 sportsmen's clubs throughout the state are entered in the contest, besides many individuals competing in the individual crow shooting class, according to Conservation Commissioner Herman C. Wenzel.

Predator control, according to Wenzel, is only one phase of the wildlife restoration program in Minnesota. Other activities of the department include increases in both game and fish propagation, restoration of water levels, reforestation, the establishment of natural game cover and game food planting.

MAN IN HURRY, MAILS CARDS AT A FIRE BOX

Moorhead—He was in a hurry and the route from Iowa to North Dakota is long. This tourist had a couple postcards he wanted to mail, so he stopped his car in the local business district, ran to a box on the corner and deposited the cards. Then he drove on, little knowing what excitement he had caused. Within a few minutes a fire truck, siren screaming, dashed to the corner. P. N. Pederson, a local fireman, had heard all about it, however, and walked nonchalantly to the box, pulled out the cards, closed the door, and the fire truck returned home. Thanks to the fireman who took the postals to the postoffice, the traveler's wife in Iowa will hear that her husband is fine and nearing the end of his journey, but she won't know the messages were mailed in a fire alarm box.

RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR HIGHWAYS COSTS MILLION IN 1937

Direct Purchase Proves Less Costly Than Action by Condemnation

Analysis just completed of all expenditures for right-of-way during 1937 for the state highway department indicates that acquisition of land by direct purchase has generally proven some $30 an acre cheaper than acquisition by condemnation, N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner, disclosed this week.

Necessary rural acreage for right-of-way for essential relocations, widening of narrow and dangerous roads, straightening of perilous curves, construction of new roads, and the carrying out of federal projects such as grade crossing eliminations, costs the state slightly more than a million dollars during the year.

The average cost per acre for rural land acquired by condemnation was $185.09, whereas the average cost of acquisitions by direct purchase, was $153.44 per acre.

Acquisitions by condemnation included: 3,123 acres obtained through commissioners' awards at a cost of $431,387.16; 887 acres acquired by stipulations, settling appeals, $295,460.92; and 137½ acres acquired by judgments settling appeals at a cost of $40,868.08.

The total acquired by condemnation was 4,148 acres, costing $767,716.16.

In addition to the cost of the land itself, condemnation proceedings called for the expenditure of $15,305.65 for commissioners' fees and expenses, and court costs including sheriffs' fees, clerk of court fees, staking right-of-way, and court exhibits, totalling $30,704.24.

The rural acreage acquired by direct purchase by agents of the Right of Way division totalled 589½ acres acquired by deed for $110,781.87, and 925½ acres acquired by easements at a cost of $121,652.88, or a total of 1,515 acres that cost the state $232,434.75. In addition to rural acreage acquired for right of way but incomparable in regard to the question of acquiring by direct purchase or condemnation, there were expended for platted property $368,643.73 through condemnation proceedings, and $182,434.60 by direct purchase.

The drastic policy of the state in acquiring right-of-way follows the rule of paying just and fair compensation for all acquirements. If property cannot be acquired at a reasonable figure, the state then starts condemnation proceedings. If commissioners' appraisal figures are deemed excessive appeal is taken. The state always attempts to purchase or to stipulate for reasonable settlement without incurring courts costs, except in cases where condemnation is necessary to take advantage of the state law permitting construction to begin immediately after condemnation is begun.

MUSKIE HATCHERY PLANT COMPLETED

Buildings have been completed and equipment installed in the new Minnesota muskie hatchery at Nevis on Belle Taine Lake, according to Harry E. Speakes, director of the division of game and fish. The new plant is ready for the spring spawning season, and while muskie propagation is as yet largely in the experimental stage, the department of conservation is determined to do everything possible to increase the supply of these splendid game fish in our northern lakes, commented Mr. Speakes.

PNEUMONIA
PNEUMONIA is a germ disease that develops quickly. Pneumonia does not always follow influenza or a cold, but lowered resistance may give pneumonia germs a better opportunity to lay hold. Pneumonia is an infection resulting from the pneumonia germ, in the lobes of the lungs.
Because, almost entirely, this pneumonia germ is combatted by a substance manufactured in the body to resist this poison, maintain bodily resistance during winter months. If below par physically, consult your physician, for underlying organic causes. Healthy, full-blooded, nourished bodies rarely contract pneumonia, so the chief method of prevention is to keep up the blood count and bodily resistance, get plenty of rest, stay away from those who have "flu," colds or pneumonia and avoid allowing the body to become chilled.
The Treatment of PNEUMONIA calls for constant supervision of a competent physician, and experienced nursing.

By Wm V. Werking

Great Northern Booklet 6

In the Red river valley section of a booklet recently published by the Great Northern Railway Co. there are statements that are of great significance in connection the study of agriculture in the valley. All parts of the area in Minnesota are covered. For the benefit of those who have not and probably will not see the booklet we present a few paragraphs:

"Thief River Falls is a fine little city of more than 5,000 persons; modern, and has all the business enterprises and facilities, municipal improvements, environment and atmosphere of cities several times its size. It is the metropolis and business center of a large territory in an agricultural empire, the resources of which are only partly developed. The size of the town, stability and character of the improvements and business establishments give a good idea of the extent and resources of its territory. Its agriculture is founded on dairying and similar activities with a stable income."

The article reveals that the Thief River Falls creamery led its Land O'Lakes district in 1936 with 696,917 of butter in the year. But what we are interested in is the fact that in 1916 and in other earlier years railroad and real estate booklet and newspaper editions proclaimed the potentialities of the Thief River Falls district. Apparently, all of the claims made so enthusiastically have been more than realized and it would appear that those who followed the example and advice of the experts of the earlier periods profited greatly. The truth is that they did. Where success in agriculture was not crowned with financial success other factors intervened.

This is true of other sections. Here is what we read about the Warren-Argyle, Stephen-Hallock country:

"The section of the Red river valley along the St. Vincent line of the Great Northern from Crookston to the Canadian border, 90 miles, includes the following cities, Warren, about 1,700 people; Argyle, about 800; Stephen, 500, and Hallock, about 900 in addition to several smaller towns.

It has long been the 'breadbasket' of the valley; and the growing of wheat and flax still occupies an important place on the farms. But the extent of livestock raising is indicated by the fact that approximately one-half of the farm income is derived from livestock, and each community has a good, active creamery.

"The influence of the Northwest School of Agriculture and the Crookston Winters Shows is evidenced in the character of the farming operations, quality of products and the breeding and type of the farm herds and flocks."

The article adds, "The teaching of agriculture is an important branch of public school work. The leading article of the Red river valley section of the railroad booklet contains these paragraphs:

"In the pioneer days the productivity of the Red river valley earned it the reputation of being the breadbasket of the world. Later years of abundant crops have proved it to be one of the best farming sections of the world.

"Why is this limited area so especially favored. What is its secret?

"The Red river valley as generally considered from an agricultural standpoint extends from a point near Big Stone lake on the Minnesota-South Dakota border along the Red River of the North to Lake Winnipeg in Canada. From east to west it widens to the north but in general is from 50 to 100 miles wide and is over 300 miles long. Geologists tell us that during the glacial age a barrier was formed by retreating ice, damming the water produced by the glacier to form Lake Agassiz."

We skip paragraphs dealing with the glacial lake, climate and growing conditions in the valley which are much like statements made as early as 1878 and begin again at:

"The original settlers found the vast level plains ideal for tremendous stretches of wheat which earned the valley its early fame. More intensive settling fostered smaller farms and more intensive farming. At the same time, crop rotation urged diversification so that today the valley, although still majoring in small grains, is a typical diversified farming region producing paying crops of all farm crops, common to the northwest."

To the writer the striking similarity of these paragraphs to the earlier ones is interesting and tends to prove that people are slow to realize changes or to recognize opportunities. While in most cases the advice given was done with a selfish purpose, the statements were true and were valuable advice to those who heeded them.

There are more families in California and elsewhere this winter enjoying sunshine—and probably dodging flood waters, in California at least—on money earned by dirt farming than many readers may realize.

Load Restrictions Guard State Roads in Spring Breakup

Load and weight restriction warnings were being posted this week on gravel and lighter surfaced routes in preparation against the inevitable "spring breakup" that annually wreaks havoc with hundreds of miles of Minnesota state trunk highways.

This spring, according to N. W. Elsberg, Minnesota highway commissioner, the highway department is offering an expanded road information service which will give greater protection to highways in danger of break-up, yet which will, at the same time, guard highway users against unnecessary inconvenience.

Under the new set-up, the central office of the highway department in St. Paul has available 24 hours in advance the highways which are to be posted against load limits. This means that farmers, truckers, bus companies, school bus drivers and the like can learn which highways will be restricted the next day by calling at their own expense the central office anytime after 10 A. M. daily.

The posted roads again this year will have minimum restrictions of four tons. Positively no permits will be issued to anyone at anytime for movement of loads exceeding the posted limit. Restricted roads are posted at both ends and at highway intersections in between. Dual tires or additional axles will not be an excuse for weight movement in excess of the posted limit.

L. L. Allen, maintenance engineer of the department, has also advised his district engineers to mark all rough sections of road where frost boils and bumps may develop. All hazardous sections of the Minnesota highways will be posted with "Caution" signs preceded by "Slow" signs. All dangerous bumps will be marked by the usual "Bump" signals. Such signs are posted to give the driving public a maximum of highway safety.

Not only do restricted stretches of highway save the taxpayer money by preserving road surfaces, but in the end they save time and money for highway users by shortening the period any stretch might have been closed in case a total breakdown made the highway impassable, according to Commissioner Elsberg. The four-ton limit, he said, is liberal enough not to halt completely any traffic.

District engineers have available information 24 hours in advance as to what roads in their areas will be restricted. Road information bureaus in a number of the larger cities receive daily information for public use on highway conditions from the state department.

4-H CLUB MEETING

The local River Falls 4-H club held their first meeting of the year at the Herman Jepson home on Thursday evening. The meeting was called to order by president Raymond Bothman. 4-H club pledge and several songs by the club, discussion by the 4-H club and leaders, talk by Howard Grow, county agent and talk by Margaret Gunstenson, county 4-H club leader of Thief River Falls. Joining the St. Hilaire club to make a larger club was discussed and it was decided that it will remain the River Falls club. Lunch was served by several of the women after the meeting.

Many people of this vicinity attended the auction sale Wednesday at the Stephen farm.

Mrs. Gust Larson and Stanley and Eldon of Thief River Falls visited at the Albert Larson home and also attended the funeral of the late John Larson of this community.

John Larson of this vicinity passed away at a hospital in Thief River Falls on Wednesday evening. Funeral was held Saturday at the Clara Lutheran church.

Mrs. Benne Johnson and children visited at the Olaf Bergland home in N. Dak since Friday until Sunday.

"THREE IN ONE" BIRTHDAY PARTY

Baudette—When three members in a family have birthday anniversaries on the same day matters of celebrating the events are much simplified, in that it is possible to make it a "three in one". A triple birthday party at the James Heaton home in Spooner one day last week was probably unique in the history of the state. Three daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Heaton were born March 7, although in different years, and the happy event was made the occasion of a triple party. There were three birthday cakes, of course. Lillian, the oldest daughter, is 20; Gail is 12; and Thelma is nine.

Prowlers Return Victorious From State Tournament

North Falls to Undefeated Thief River Quint 31-29.

The Prowlers opened their tournament schedule Thursday afternoon by trimming the Faribault team 37 to 29. The favored Prowlers showed their best shooting form of the tournament in their victory over the southern Minnesota quint coached by Mal Elken.

The Prowlers led 18 to 5 at the quarter; 26 to 14 at the half and coasted their way to the finish by holding a 29 to 22 lead at the quarter and finishing with an eight point advantage.

All-stater Roy Lee was the "Dead Eye Dick" for the Prowlers with five field goals followed by Clark Mickelson "Big Mick" played one of the outstanding games of his career and his injury the following day was little short of tragic. Lorentson with six and Nicholson and Caldis were the other big guns in the Prowler juggement. in the Prowler juggement.

Captain Bruce Smith, who received more advance publicity than any other tournament player, was high with eleven points, but was held to only two field goals.

After defeating Faribault in the first round of the tournament, the Prowler's next hurdle was Crosby-Ironton, who had advanced to the semi-finals by virtue of their triumph over Virginia's Blue Devils.

Crosby-Ironton undoubtedly offered the Prowlers the strongest opposition in the latter teams victory march. The Range boys took the lead at the opening gun and at the end of the first quarter held a one-point advantage at 6 to 5. In the second quarter, the two teams continued exchanging field goals, first one scoring and then the other, until the close of the first half when the scoreboard showed Crosby-Ironton 18, Thief River Falls 12. The Range quint also held the lead at the end of the third period, 23 to 20, but in the last few minutes of play, the Prowlers finally started to cut the lead down and with seconds to go, Crosby-Ironton in front 27 to 25, Roy Lee popped a shot from the side to tie the score and send the game into overtime. In the overtime, "sudden death" was in effect; that is, the first team to score two points would be declared winner. Crosby-Ironton had the first chance when they drew two free throws on a foul. Just as he was about to throw the first shot, Lorentson called for time out, thus pulling probably the smartest play of the tournament. When he finally shot his gift shots, only one went through the hoop. Seconds later, Lorentson was fouled while shooting and also was given two free throws. However, he too made only one to again tie the game at 28 all. This didn't last long, however, when Earl Nicholson, who had injured his knee on the first play of the game, drove into the basket from the side to win the game and send the Prowlers into the finals.

The game with Minneapolis North rivaled the Crosby-Ironton game from the standpoint of excitement and thrills when, after trailing the whole game, the Prowlers tied the score in the last couple minutes of play and then went out two points ahead and defended that margin for the state title.

The Polars started out strong in the opening period and before the game had much more than started had a four-point lead. Keeping up their pace they held a 10 to 6 advantage at the end of the first quarter. Again in the second canto Jacobi's boys outscored the Ledmen and when the gun sounded to close the half they commanded a six-point lead at 21 to 15. However, in the third quarter the Prowlers outpointed their rivals ten points to six to cut the Polar's advantage to a scant two points, 27 to 25, and in the final minutes the scoreboard revealed a 29 to 29 tie. Seconds later Roy Lee made a beautiful long shot as he had done earlier in the the game, to put the Prowlers ahead 31 to 29. From then on the locals played a stalling game against a fighting North team.

Both North and Thief River Falls were handicapped by two men out on fouls. In the last quarter Don Lorentson was called on his fourth personal and "Bones" Stadum, high point man and hero of the game followed him off the court a few minutes later.

BAND NOTES

Among the Thief River Falls rooters at the basket ball tournament at Minneapolis last week was the high school band. They represented Thief River Falls very well and they gave a fine performance. On Saturday night there were only two bands there, and our band had a chance to make a fine showing. Especially popular were the famous "Birdies" and "The Old Gray Mare." As the band played, the crowd sang.

Thirty band members went on the bus Friday morning and they came back Sunday. The rest of the band had other means of transportation. The band was very glad to be able to go to Minneapolis to support our team, and everyone enjoyed the trip very much.

At the celebration in honor of the team last Monday morning, the band, led by the twirlers, marched in the parade. They also played several selections at the auditorium during the program.

The mouth should be kept shut when swimming, and when angry.

LEE AND STADUM ON ALL-STATE TOURNEY TEAM

Lorentson Also Added to Official Pair for Progress Team

The state champion Prowlers placed two players on the official all-state basketball team chosen at the close of the tournament Saturday, Co-Captain Roy Lee, and Loren "Bones" Stadum were the two chosen on the squad of eight selected by five Minneapolis coaches who did not have teams participating in the meet.

The others selected were Dick Hallman, Dick Burk, Jerry Goodman of the second place North squad; Clarence Martin of Crosby-Ironton; Ed Thamper of St. Paul Central; and Nick Pepelnjak of Virginia who was also an all-state choice last year. The all-staters were awarded beautiful silver belt buckles with a protruding gold basketball and an appropriate inscription on the buckle. All of the Prowlers, including Orville Eide who dressed in place of the injured Clark Mickelson for the final game received attractive gold medals attached to blue ribbons as members of the championship squad.

The all-state selections did not meet with the approval of the majority of the crowd, especially in the Thief River Falls section, which did not consider the choice of three North high players and only two Prowlers as being representative of the top placers. Of special regret was the absence of Co-Captain Don Lorentson, one of the most consistent local players in the tournament. Not only did the Thief River citizenry believe that the "rubber jointed" Lorentson merit an all-state position, but the majority of all the spectators at the tourney. However, Lorentson will always be an all-stater in the eyes of Thief River Falls fans and will be regarded as such.

The Progress all-state selections are identical with the official choice with the exception of Don Lorentson of the Prowlers instead of Dick Burk of North at a forward post. Lorentson played guard during the state meet, but has seen most of his service at forward the past season.

TUMBLING

Last week during the state tournament, the Lincoln High School tumblers performed between the halves of the Prowler-Crosby-Ironton game, and proved a real success with the fans there.

Not all of the tumblers tumbled at this exhibition, the following eight having dressed; Merle Carlson, Clifford Lunke, Tommy Carlisle, Gordon Dunham, Bob Hanson, Billy Claffy, Clarence Freed, and Dick Battleson.

The Tumblers enjoyed themselves very much at their stay in Minneapolis. They roomed at the Y. M. C. A., where they enjoyed the comforts of a swimming pool and other various amusements and sports.

The tumbling team, and Mr. Gabrielson wish to thank the business men and those who appropriated the necessary funds for their appearance at the tounament.

TEACHERS TRAINING

We had the opportunity to test our real ability as teachers when we were practice teaching in the rural schools from March seventh to eighteenth. For three days we took charge of all the classes of the daily program. We had many interesting experiences that we feel have been very beneficial.

After our return to the training department we began the study of three new subjects. They are history, citizenship, and general science.

We have resumed practice teaching in the various grades of the schools in this system.

On Monday of last week Miss Stapleton pleasantly surprised us with a very delicious lunch. Mr. Bye was a special guest of the occasion.

With the nerve wrecking state tournament left only as a joyful memory, let us recall and consider the success in basketball our school has attained during the unforgettable season just completed. The perfect record of twenty seven victories without a defeat and the winning of the state championship is, in itself, meritorious of the highest praise and regard we can possible give them but there was more, much more, than that to be worthy of our comment.

For many years, with this year in special, the members of the team have practiced diligently through "thick and thin," adhering to strict training rules with the very goal they so recently won as their highest goal. Through thousands of hours of practice, they reached the acme of basketball success. This year saw the team wade through opposition, some strong and some weak, with the Prowlers winning game after game. The pessimists wondered what would happen to the wonder team if they ever were forced to fight "uphill" with the other team possessing the score advantage or if the Prowlers should meet a team of real high class calebre which they opined no other team in the northwest possessed. That occasion presented itself in the final regional game when they exhibited their real mettle. With the Prowlers far outdistanced in the early stage of the game, they staged a cool "never say die" drive that brought them the victory which the majority of fans had already conceded lost. The victory was not won by their basketball finesse but by their dogged determination, poise, and courage which a true champion must possess.

At even more critical spots in the state tournament the Prowlers showed why they were the "sweethearts of the fans", the most popular team in the state. In the semi-finals the Prowlers, hardly within hailing distance of the Crosby-Ironton team, as far as the score indicated and with two injured players, played their hearts out to win the most hair raising and blood chilling game in the history of the tournament. It took real courage and cool headedness to refrain from becoming panicky but again they were equal to the task.

With one of their stars out of the championship tilt and North high favored to win and leading by a large score, the leg and arm weary Prowlers seemed to be playing a hopeless cause but these same characteristics asserted themselves and the finish is history.

Not only did the team exhibit these enviable virtues, but also its incomparable coach, George Lee, who generaled the Prowlers to the most successful basketball season in the history of Lincoln high school. That is why Thief River Falls salutes the Prowlers, who are real champions in every way.

PROWLING AROUND

Your columnist batted almost a perfect record for his state tournament prognostications with ten correct selections out of eleven games. The only game which prevented a perfect record was the Crosby-Ironton-Virginia game. Also on the correct list, were Thief River Falls, first; Minneapolis North, second; St. Paul Central, fourth; and Luverne in the last place position was not played out. The final placing of Virginia and Crosby-Ironton was thus inverted with your columnist's choices as well as the Faribault-Appleton placings.

It must have been quite an ordeal for the injured regular, Clark Mickelson, to sit on the bench in the state championship game and watch his mates go down to what semed to be an almost inevitable defeat. Mick was all smiles, however, when the Prowlers pulled the game out of the fire. Clark, had played a sterling game the first night, played well the second night before he was forced to the bench with a severely injured leg, and had to warm the bench when he should have been playing his final game as a high school player for the Prowlers.

One St. Paul sports writer personally voiced the opinion that Mickelson might easily have been an all-state choice on the basis of his play in the first game and the first part of the second, but whatever chances he had were ruined by his injury. Mickelson had played his finest ball in the regional meet and in his abbreviated state action.

The Prowlers rated Crosby-Ironton over North high and didn't regard state competition as being a wide improvement over the play of the northwest teams. They conceded that Warren and Bemidji, at the best, would have made an excellent showing in the Mill City

PROWLERS FETED BY LOCAL MEN ON HOMECOMING

Parade to Auditorium Followed by Pep Rally

Our victorious basketball team and coach returned Monday morning by train from the State Tournament, after which at 8:00 that morning they were treated to breakfast at the Evelyn Hotel by the Mayor. Then a parade followed in which the main attraction was the decorated float upon which the team and coach sat. Our overready band was there in all their splendor and pomp led by the twirlers. A drum corps, composed of men and women, did their bit to express the appreciation of the people as a whole.

An hour or more program was held at the auditorium which was packed by Thief River folks and out-of-town people. On the stage, decorated by baskets of flowers, sat the team, coach, the boys' parents, and speakers. Our school band and Mayor Prichard's Personal Band were both there to provide music for all. The school song started the program followed by yells by the three cheer leaders. Paul Lundgren was the toastmaster who did much to excite the audience and provide humor. The speakers spoke according to previous arrangements. They were Mayor Prichard, Mr. Dave Gustafson, Mr. Norby, Mr. Sande, Mr. Claffy, Mr. Bye, Coach Lee and a representative from Warroad.

Then our efficient coach, George Lee, said something about each individual on the team. His son, Pepper, who was the center of attraction at Minneapolis, said his bit too.

An added attraction was the announcement of Earl Nicholson as next year's captain.

Paul Lundgren then introduced each boy on the team and their parents on whom the cheer leaders pinned roses. Quite a novelty was presented when the basket and backboard by which Roy Lee had practiced since he was a tot was carried out on the stage by two men.

Mr. Bye gave a very expressive talk which voiced the attitude and appreciation of the people.

Three boys of Warroad gave an invitation to the team and the coach to partake in an over-nite trip on the Lake of the Woods.

All in all, Thief River did their most and best to give their congratulations and appreciation to the state champions.

Tall Tales

As told to: FRANK R. HAGAN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A Resourceful Cock

"THE picture in my living room," said Hemming Bird Stevenson of Columbia, Tenn., "is not a reproduction of a freak of nature but a lifelike portrait of Blinky, my one-eyed rooster.

"That smear on the right side of his head is a glass eye. I know it's bloodshot. I painted it that way to make the other cocks overconfident. His neck is a trifle corkscrewish—that's because Blinky, in feinting to overcome the handicap of a single eye, almost wrung his own neck.

"The greatest pitting he won was when a couple of city fellows came to Columbia with their fighting birds and cleaned everything in sight.

"In the grand finale, Blinky was matched against the city champion, an Allen round-head, and I bet all I could beg, borrow or steal at odds of 5 to 1. The odds were easy to get, for word was passed to the city slickers that poor Blinky was a one-eyed cock. I guess you know who spread the report.

"Blinky never showed better pitmanship. Wherever the round-head struck my pride sidestepped and put his glass eye in front of the gaffs. After that the round-head's needles were too dull to mend a pair of open work stockings and the match was in the bag."

SPORT SHORTS

Ray Parkins, coach of last year's state champs, Edison high, said poise would win the tournament. A truer word has never been spoken.

The loss of Pelto and Dolan, who were ill hurt Virginia's chances of finishing high in the state race and raised horror with the "Prowling Around" sports columnists placings for the tournament.

Dick Cullum of the Journal and George Barton of the Tribune recognized as the Middle West's outstanding sports writers devoted part of their columns paying homage to the cool fighting Prowlers who they recognized as real champions, in every sense of the word.

The Gabrielson tumblers and the local band really added in a great degree to the Thief River Falls popularity. The Prowlers were regarded as the most popular team ever to win the state tournament which was the most thrilling in its history.

Roy Lee was the smallest player in the tournament but was far from being little in ability and was the most popular player.

Don Lorentson pulled the smartest trick of the tournament in the overtime trophy game by calling time out just as a Maroon player was about to try two foul shots that could have won the game. The Maroon cager thus had time to brood on the shots and went on to miss one of the two and the game went on until Nicholson won the game. Roy Lee tied the score by hooping one from near the center of the floor with only thirteen seconds remaining of regular time.

Next year's state tourney will be held at the Minnesota university field house instead of the city auditorium.

The sight of the Prowlers going on the floor to receive the championship trophy will not be soon forgotten by local fans who saw the final game. The appearance of Coach Lee and his magnanimous Prowlers about to receive the trophy struck a note of ecstacy in the heart of every Prowler fan and all the 90% or more of the Prowler boosters there. At one end of the line was the hobbling Clark Mickelson being aided by a team mate and in the other end of the line were Reuben Mickelson and little "Pepper" Lee, hand in hand.

EXCHANGE

The following was taken from the Bemidji High School News: Our A-1 spark plug, Rich Olson, adopted the Galloway one-hand shot and cashed in on nearly every one. Thief River fans called it "slopsy." After the game, however, they grudgingly admitted that our team was really better than theirs until Olson was benched. Bemidji led all the way until the last quarter.

Governor Elmer A. Benson visited the Minnesota School for the Deaf on Tuesday, March 8, as he was on a tour of inspection of the state institutions. (Taken from The Companion—Faribault, Minnesota.)

SEND-OFF GIVEN TEAM

A large per cent of the students of Lincoln High School joined in a Pep Parade on Tuesday evening from the Auditorium to the Soo Depot, where the basketball team left for the State Tournament. The girl twirlers began the parade and were followed by our high school band. Each of the six cars which followed carried two of the players, while the students marched along behind. In the depot, our cheer leaders lead us in our well known yells, and the band played the school song and various other pieces. When the train arrived, everyone watched our players get in the train, and they were on their way.

SPRING FOOTBALL PRACTICE OPENS HERE ON MONDAY

Coach Lee Reports Fifteen Lettermen are Lost to 1938 Squad

Spring football candidates will report for opening practice next Monday with Coach George Lee beginning early preparation for the 1938 season. Fifteen seniors depart from last year's undefeated team and a multitude of positions are open to aspiring regulars and substitutes. They are linemen: Captain Bob Hanson, center, Clarence Mattson, Ray Bredeson, and Floyd Melby, tackles, Jack Hess and Wes Johnson, Guards, Don Lorentson, Clark Mickelson, Robert Quale, and Cliff Oleson, ends. The backfield performers lost are Lynn Booren and Wallace Tunberg, quarterbacks, Lowell Nesse and Mel Haughom, and Gordon Caldis, fullback.

The departing squad is the greatest in number and ability ever graduating at once from Lincoln high so Coach Lee's situation in discovering adequate replacements for all these is an impossibility but a fairly good squad is expected, nevertheless.

An entire new backfield and end corps are the key positions which Coach Lee must fill. A powerhouse line is expected with the exception of the ends. Captain-elect Loren "Bones" Stadum and Karl Sundberg, gigantic tackles, will give the Prowlers terrific strength at these two posts. Orville Eide and Harry Oen, will man the guards and Cliff Lunke at center will present little worry for Coach Lee. Gene Nelson also will be in evidence in the fight for a regular line post. Neil Mullen may step into an end slot. Jewell Stadum, Austin Shanahan, and Kevin O'Malley are probably the leading candidates for the backfield.

Coach Lee extends an invitation to all freshmen, sophomores, and juniors to report for practice Monday. Several regular positions and a number of substitute roles are open for all gridders who are willing to work for a position.

A challenge game will probably be played between the graduating seniors and the 1938 edition of the Prowlers.

A game with an "outside team" may also be scheduled to round out the spring training season.

TOURNAMENT TID-BITS

Hm!—A hectic weekend to be sure—The West and the Curtis were the hot spots of the tournament I'd say—and then there's the Marigold.

All these T. R. F. gals and their "steadies" didn't get along so well in the big city—I wonder why—

Our hats are off to "Bones" and Lee—It isn't everyone that makes the "All State" you must remember.

Nothing small about Joyce and Marky—staying at the Curtis, and all.

Another busy girl at the tournament—Joyce H. Not only one Bemidji boy at her side—but the whole darn team.

No—we weren't seeing double—that guy Gabe's twin brother. A striking resemblence—I'd say.

Goldsmith in Literature

Oliver Goldsmith is said to be the only English writer who excelled in three branches of literature—as a novelist with "The Vicar of Wakefield," as a playwright with "She Stoops to Conquer," and as a poet, with "The Deserted Village."

What will Jesse Moe's horses do when the flies come? That's what's troubling Moe, who keeps a stable in Minneapolis and his friend, Ed. Engh, who you see guarding the horses after their tails were stolen. Three steeds were trimmed. Patrolmen Vivian Kaufman and George Williams, who investigated, believe that the hair was stolen for use in garment making.

LIBRARY NOTES

For the past eight years, the Carnegie Public Library has been purchasing books for the rural schools in Pennington County. During the first year, thirteen districts enrolled as members of the project and ever since that there has been a steady increase. This year, forty eight schools are being served.

Each school contributes $10.00 a season but receives from the state their usual library aid, thus making the actual expenditure considerably less. According to the contract, the entire amount collected must be spent on books. As a result, a very fine collection costing nearly $2,400.00 is now available for all rural schools of the county signing contracts. The books are shelved in the basement and are used only by the schools enrolled. The department is open to the public. Anyone interested is cordially invited to inspect it as the books themselves are the most convincing argument for its growth. The best time to see the entire collection is during the summer when all books are returned for inventory and repair but a visit at any time is revealing. Enough can hardly be said in praise of the splendid type of books available to every rural child in the country thru this method of co-operative buying.

BUCKET BRIGADE FOR FARM FIRE

Hoffman—Again the once famous bucket brigade held its own when a hastily organized brigade quenched a fire at the Edwin Hanson place in Elk Lake township. The blaze, starting from an overheated kitchen range, spread through the interior of the first floor rooms and only the highly efficient work of neighbors who came to the scene saved the house from burning to the ground. Being home alone when fire broke out, Mrs. Hanson was forced to walk half a mile to a neighbor to summon help by telephone. About a dozen farmers living in the vicinity hurried to the Hanson farm and in a short time had the flames under control. When the Hoffman fire department arrived, the blaze had already been extinguished. Walls and ceilings of the first floor rooms, especially the kitchen, were badly seared.

The Ginkgo Tree

Geologists believe that the ginkgo tree has been on the earth for more than 200,000,000 years. It sometimes is referred to as a living fossil. Almost exterminated by the fast ice sheets of the glacier periods and again attacked later by a blight, the ginkgo tree was saved by Buddhist monks who protected and cultivated a number of them in their gardens.

Complacent—Complaisant

A person showing satisfaction or who is pleased with himself is complacent; one who allows freedom to others is complaisant. Flattery was meat and drink to Uncle Charles, who sat with a complacent smile as he listened to his praises being sung. Aunt Emily was in a complaisant mood, and allowed us to play in her garden.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

AWARDS OFFICER WHO ARRESTS HIM

Sleepy Eye—An odd situation indeed! Did you ever hear of a fellow rewarding an officer who arrested him? D. C. Phillips of Rochester, New York, did just that for Officer Clark, Sleepy Eye chief of police, who tagged the Phillips car for a traffic violation during a recent stop here. Phillips read the tag, but didn't have any intention of reporting at the police station. "I'll be a 100 miles away before your hick cop knows it," he boasted to a local merchant. So imagine Phillips' surprise when Clark caught up with him north of town, just when he was satisfied he had given the local boys the runaround. The New Yorker, brought before the judge and fined one dollar and costs of four dollars, was so well satisfied with the manner in which the case was handled and with the courtesy of the department that he promised the Chief a gold buckled belt. "Our New York cops are terribly abusive, and I like your midwestern town after all," he said. He kept his promise, too, Chief Clark received a fine belt with his initials monogramed in the gold buckle. Along with the belt came an ash tray.

VALLEY POTATO SHOW IN FALL AT EAST GRAND FORKS

Local Directors Present at Meeting in Crookston Saturday

At a regular meeting of the directors of the Red River Valley Potato Improvement association held at the Northwest School in Crookston, Saturday, it was voted to hold the annual Red River Valley potato show at East Grand Forks next fall. This is in accordance with the desire of the directors to alternate the show between East Grand Forks and Moorhead, the two potato centers of the Valley. The exact date of the show will be announced soon by Herman Skyberg, president of the association.

The association went on record against the proposed increase in freight rates on potatoes at this time. The directors of the association felt that an increase would tend to demoralize present weak potato markets. The association went on record, further, requesting the principle roads serving the Valley to hold hearings to give growers and dealers a chance to present their side of the case before increases in rates were put into effect.

Peter Engelstad, potato producer, and Howard E. Grow, county agent, are the directors from Pennington County.

Business Activity in U. S. Now Operating at 1931 Level, Survey Shows

The nation is now operating at 1931 levels of business activity, with industrial payrolls, unemployment, department store sales, and numerous other economic indexes paralleling 1931 figures with surprising closeness, a comparative tabulation by Northwestern National Life Insurance Company shows.

Industrial production for the year 1931 averaged 81 per cent of the 1923-25 normal, reached a high of 122 in March 1937, but registered 80 in December 1937, and for the first three months of 1938 is running a little under 80, measured by the same Federal Reserve Board index.

Unemployment totals in 1931 averaged a little under 9 million for the year, by A. F. L. estimates; for December 1937 the same source set the total at 9,355,000; varied sources estimate the January 1938 unemployed at from 10 million to 10.3 million. The index of factory payrolls was 67.4 for the year 1931; it soared to 98 for the year 1937, but by January 1938 it had dropped back to 71.1.

TRAGEDY COMES TO OLD COUPLE'S HOME

Frazee—Having moved recently to Detroit Lakes that they might be nearer their children, tragedy came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lee, residents of Frazee for ten years. Mrs. Lee became ill immediately upon coming to their new home. At the same time Mr. Lee, while crossing an intersection, was run down by a car and injured so that he had to be removed to a hospital. Because of Mrs. Lee's condition she was not informed of her husband's accident before she died a few days later. Mr. Lee, in turn, was unable to leave the hospital to attend his wife's funeral.

Basketball Banquet

In recognition of the work done by the basketball squad of the Plummer High School during the past year, the mothers of the members of the squad, entertained the boys at the fifth annual basketball banquet, Tuesday evening of last week in the dining room of the Plummer school. The menu consisted of roast turkey with dressing, mashed potatoes, gravy, scalloped corn, Jello salad, buns, pickles, apple pie and coffee. Place cards in the form of miniature basketballs, decorated with the school colors were used. After the boys had spent an enjoyable time playing "Bingo", the mothers served ice cream, coffee and angel food cake.

Guests at the banquet were Julius Aitlan, principal of the high school, A. H. Olsberg, head of the vocational agriculture department; V. E. Jaspers, coach, Dean Schoenaur and Superintendent and Mrs. H. I. Berger.

After the banquet a short program and business meeting was held. Talks were given by Gordon Langlie, Captain of the squad; Mr. Adrian, Mr. Schorneur, Mr. Olsberg and the captain elect, Howard Torstveit. The two other members of the team who will not return because of graduation, Fahlen and Hanson, also spoke. An extemporaneous humorous talk was given by Maurice Page. He expressed his personal appreciation for the fine cooperation the team had given him during the year.

Considering the lack of reserve material the Plummer squad had a very successful season. In most of the games played during the season Plummer was either the winner or else played their opponents a very close game. At the tournament held at East Grand Forks the hardest fought and most interesting of the games played in the first round was the game between East Grand Forks and Plummer. Unfortunately, the boys who showed such determined sportsmanship in this game—Hanson, Langlie and Fahlen—are graduating this year and hence will not be back for another season.

Even though the team is losing these three rugged veterans, the new squad will offer plenty of competition to any team from the schools in this territory. Through the organization of intramural teams Mr. Jaspers has developed some very promising reserve material. The new men, with the return of the veteran players Captain Howard Torstveit, Robert Hendy, Jim Mack, Lester Norby, John Christenson, Maurice Page, Roy Jacobson, Marlow Hovland and Lawrence Page, basketball prospects for another season look very good for the Plummer school.

It has become a tradition during the past five years for the mothers of the boys who play on the Plummer basketball squad to plan and present for the boys a banquet at the close of the basketball season. The mothers in charge this year were: Mesdames Langlie, Jacobson, Hovland, Hendy, Torstveit, Mack, Christenson, Page, Norby and Fahlen.

LOCAL QUINTET IS RUNNERUP IN DEMOLAY MEET

Loses to Red Wing in Finals in Minneapolis Last Saturday

LOCALS WIN FIRST 2 TOURNAMENT GAMES

Defeat Marshall 28-23 and Win Tight Contest from Hibbing 34-22

Coming thru the state DeMolay basketball tournament in Minneapolis last week-end with victories over Hibbing and Marshall teams, the Thief River Falls DeMolay team captured runnerup honors, losing to a veteran Red Wing team 43-31 in the championship contest.

Playing Saturday night against the regular Red Wing high school quint, the local team led 10-9 at the quarter, only to fall behind 19-24 at the half. Thief River Falls outscored its opponents in the third period, but a rally in the final period fell short and Red Wing won 43-31.

In the semi-finals the locals won a tight battle from Marshall 28-23, while in their first contest in the tourney in the quarter-finals, Thief River Falls was given a hard fight to defeat Hibbing 34-32. Roy Lee and Leonard Hellquist led the scoring for the locals, making respectively 12 and 14 points, while Don Lorentson and Orville Eide performed well in all three games.

Lorentson was high scorer in the Marshall game, accounting for a total of 13 points.

In the consolation game Marshall led all the way to defeat South St. Paul 40-32. An all-state DeMolay team named by tournament officials included Roy Lee and Don Lorentson, both of whom starred in the recent state high school tourney won by Thief River Falls.

In addition to defeating Thief River Falls, Red Wing won from Duluth 46-16 in the first round, from Waseca 45-31 in the quarter-finals and from South St. Paul 41-19 in the semifinals. Bemidji, defending champion, was eliminated by Marshall in the quarter-finals 24-22.

The Thief River Falls team was awarded an attractive trophy in recognition of its having won runnerup honors, in addition to which each member of the quintet received a silver watch fob bearing the DeMolay emblem. Roy Oen, A. F. Berge and H. M. Olson accompanied the team to Minneapolis.

REPUBLICAN CO. CONVENTIONS ARE SET FOR APRIL 30

To Reorganize County Committees and Select Delegates

Republican county conventions in all counties in Minnesota recently were set for April 30 by the party's committee on convention arrangements. Precinct caucuses will be April 25. The date of the state convention was changed from June 27 to June 25, in the Minneapolis Armory.

The convention call was authorized, fixing district conventions for May 14, three days after filings close. There is nothing however, to prevent district committees from calling conventions in their districts at an earlier date to indorse candidates for congress if they wish.

County conventions will elect delegates to the state convention and reorganize county committees.

Each county will have two delegates-at-large to the state convention, and one for each 750 votes cast for the Republican candidate for governor in 1934. It will mean a convention of about 750 delegates.

F[illegible]iring Secretary of [illegible] C. Honored

Paul A. Lundgren, who retired March 31 as secretary of the Civic and Commerce association after ten years of loyal and energetic service, was the center of attention at last Thursday's luncheon of the association attended by 75 members. He was succeeded April 1 as secretary by L. W. Rulien, recently elected to that post.

President Walter Jung paid tribute to the efficient service rendered by Mr. Lundgren as secretary and active leader of the association, following which he presented him with an array of elaborately wrapped gifts which, when opened, proved to have a more or less close relation to Mr. Lundgren's prowess as a fisherman.

Secretary elect Rulien, dwelling on Mr. Lundgren's long connection with the association, objected to the trifling nature of the gifts, and his remarks were seconded by W. E. Dahlquist, following which Morris Bye arose to add a word of praise for the guest of honor.

Concluding by saying that "Paul has done a grand job", Mr. Bye, in behalf of the assemblage, presented him with a fine outboard motor to use on future fishing trips.

Mr. Lundgren, in thanking the members for their gifts, said he appreciated what the organization had done for him during his years of service thru the friendships he had made and otherwise, and he spoke in praise of his successor, Mr. Rulien.

In the course of the meeting, Mayor W. W. Prichard read a toast to Mr. Lundgren prepared by young ladies in the office of the Central Lumber company.

RESETTLEMENT BUILDING AGAIN GETS UNDER WAY

Carpenters Start Work Monday on Farm Houses in Grygla Area

First crews of carpenters, after the winter recess, Monday resumed work on construction of several dwellings on farms in the Grygla vicinity, it was stated today by John W. Taylor, manager of the federal farm security project formerly known as resettlement.

Crews, he added, will be enlarged next week when WPA labor is expected to be available for fencing operations.

More than 50,000 small trees are being received shortly to be set out in windbreak plantings on farms included in the project, Mr. Taylor said. The trees are three to four-year-old stock obtained from the forestry division, and are to be distributed at the rate of approximately 1000 per farm.

Included in the coming shipment are cottonwood, ash, elm, caragana and white spruce. The purchasers, who will plant the trees, were given instruction as to proper methods last week by Parker Anderson, extension forester, who addressed a meeting in this city.

SPORTSMENS CLUB MAY BUILD CABIN ON FAIR GROUNDS

Name Committee to Investigate Project at Meeting Tuesday

The matter of erecting a log cabin to be used for a conservation building on the county fair grounds came in for much favorable comment at a meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club Tuesday evening in the Civic and Commerce association rooms.

After considerable discussion over various features of the proposal, the project was referred to a committee, which was instructed to investigate and report at the next meeting. Serving on the committee are William Borchert, chairman; C. H. Jung, Ben Kiewel and Alfred Olson.

CCC OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY ATTRACTS BIG ATTENDANCE

Visitors Impressed by Large Numbers of Waterfowl in Refuges

The open house celebration Sunday at CCC Camp, Company 710, near Middle River, was well attended by parents of the enrollees and residents of the surrounding communities. All present evidenced a keen interest in the inspection of the CCC Camp buildings, and the exhibits prepared by the enrollees were of particular interest. The CCC truck and equipment repair shop with modern garage facilities was the center of attraction for those interested in machinery. Other buildings visited included the State Administration Buildings located on the Thief Lake refuge, as the CCC played a prominent parts in their construction.

As visitors arrived they were welcomed by one or more members of the camp personnel. After the project and the events of the day were briefly explained enrollees were selected to serve in guiding visitors through the building and to the various points of interest. In spite of the raw cold day an excellent crowd was in attendance and the crowd would undoubtedly have been larger had the weather been more favorable. Even so, there were many visitors present from points as far distant as 100 miles.

After a tour an inspection through all CCC Company 710 Camp buildings, automobile caravans loaded with visitors made a tour through the Mud Lake Refuge. During this tour the control structures and spillways regulating the water level on the refuge, and the series of dykes to impound water on the area were inspected. While driving along the dykes every one marveled and was thrilled to see the early arrival of waterfowl in such large numbers. On arrival at the New Mud Lake Administration buildings now under construction, parents and friends of the enrollees while conducted around through the building were afforded an excellent opportunity to view the many fields of training available in the CCC. As a result many more visitors anxious to see the geese and duck are visiting the refuges daily to observe the many different species of waterfowl while the refuge trails will permit travel.

Incubator Used by Quints to be on Display Here Next Week

As the result of arrangements made by St. Lukes hospital, the historic incubator in which the famous Dionne quintuplets spent the first weeks of their lives near Callander, Ontario, will be on display in a window of the J. C. Penney store in this city beginning next Monday, April 11, and continuing until Wednesday, April 20.

When Dr. A. R. Dafoe of Callander, family doctor to the Dionne Quintuplets, announced he would have a better chance to save the lives of the prematurely born children if he could have a baby incubator, a search was immediately begun.

It was not an easy task, because the incubators of today are warmed by electricity and there was no electric current in the Dionne farmhouse, 240 miles from Toronto. An old fashioned incubator, heated with hot water had to be found. After a frantic search, such a device was found in the Sharp and Smith Surgical Supply house of Chicago. It was built 33 years ago and was located in the company's warehouse. Employes of the firm's staff tested and sterilized it and sent it to Callander.

At the time that the incubator arrived for its duty, it was estimated by Dr. Dafoe that there was only one chance in five hundred that all five of the children would live. Later, he expressed the opinion that it was only the incubator that saved the lives of at least two of the children.

It was possible to accommodate only three of the "Quints" in the device at one time, so it was necessary to rotate them. The incubator is built of wood and heated by hot water through a copper container.

After its service with the Dionnes, this now historic article was displayed in Canada and then appeared at Carnegie Hall in New York City. It is now being sent on tour of the larger cities of the country.

COUNTY PREPARED FOR HOPPER FIGHT, SAYS AGENT GROW

Townships Organized and an Ample Supply of Poison Is Available

The day of the weed meeting, March 15, at which time all township chairman were present, plans were made for a county-wide grasshopper control program if serious infestations occur this spring, County Agent Howard Grow said today.

Last September 10 tons of mixed bait, 20 tons of bran, a carload of sawdust and 30 fifty gallon drums of sodium arsenite were shipped into the county to take care of a sudden outbreak of grasshoppers, he added.

Each township organization will report any outbreaks in their locality and control work will then start immediately. These township groups have handled the situation satisfactorily in the past and know just what to do in case of an outbreak.

Some grasshoppers have already been seen this year during the warm weather in March. These grasshoppers have wintered as adults and do no harm. The ones that are harmful live over winter as eggs and hatch in May.

Farmers are urged to report any signs of outbreak to their respective township organizations, Mr. Grow stated.

PENNINGTON CO. WILL GET $57,051 FOR HIGHWAYS

Gas Tax Payment Amounts to $45,000, with $12,051 from 1-Mill Tax

Marshall County to Receive $104,428 and Red Lake Gets $57,051

Minnesota's 87 counties this week were awarded a total of $7,250,000 for local highway improvements, the largest sum ever allocated by the state board of allotment for county aid and state aid local roads in the history of the state.

The allotments to counties, made from state one mill road and bridge tax funds and counties' one-third share of state-collected gasoline taxes, was $887,250 larger than last year's record-breaking total, despite the fact that revenues available from the road and bridge tax were $12,750 lower. This increase in the total of county aid was due to returns from the additional one-cent gasoline tax, which provided the counties with $700,000 more than they received for highways in 1937.

Pennington county will receive $57,051 for its share, under the division of funds made by the board of allotment, consisting of State Treasurer C. A. Halverson, State Auditor Stafford King, and state Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg. Marshall county will get $104,428, and Red Lake county $57,051. The board, at its previous meeting in March had allotted $4,037,171.71 of this year's state highway revenues to pay bonds and interest.

The increased county allotments this year are expected to be used in part by more than 50 per cent of the counties to match the $590,000 federal aid for secondary roads that, for the second year, is available to the counties on a dollar-for dollar matching basis.

The allotment to Pennington county includes $45,000 from the gas tax fund and $12,051 from the one-mill road tax fund. The 1937 allotment included $[illegible] from the gas tax fund and $[illegible] from the one-mill fund, while in 1936 this county's share of gas taxes amounted to $36,000.

The major portion of the road funds to be received by the county this year are already obligated as a result of the purchase of motor patrol equipment and other expenditures last year.

AN EXCITED MOTORIST STRIKES "ARTESIAN"

Olivia—"White gold", a direct offspring of "black gold", flowed freely in Olivia's west end last week when an excited motorist struck an "artesian" at a local service station. C. H. McGowan, enroute to his home at Pipestone was driving into the station and evidently stepped on the gas throttle instead of on the brake. The car lunged ahead and smashed into the two automatic pumps, snapping them both off at the base. Gasoline, forced by the pressure in the large storage tanks nearby, shot upwards six feet for several minutes before the shut-off valves near the tanks could be closed. McGowan's car was not damaged and insurance covered the estimated $600 loss.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

I wish to thank the Sportsmen's Club and members, and A. C. Hovie and Mr. W. Borchert, Ole Ness, and others that helped us in our window display at Oen's store for Wild Life Week, March 20 to 26. And we thank Oen Merc. Co. for the use of the window for our display. This display has been moved over to the Palm Garden Cafe for the present.

I wish to say here the Thief Lake water at present is running into Mud Lake and has not come here as yet. Making a trip over this ground last Sunday I can see where it will be a while yet before we get this water. And I never saw so many ducks for this time of year. This is worth your while to go and see them. The club has asked for restocking of fish in our river, and we are planing on getting a building at the fair grounds. I wish the members of last year would get their cards for this year and new members come on in. See E. O. Peterson at Union State Bank or Harold Olson.

Plan Safety Schools for Highway Employes

From April 18 to April 27, inclusive, the Minnesota Highway department will conduct its annual safety schools for highway employees, N. W. Elsberg said this week. He will speak at each meeting. The school will be conducted in each highway maintenance district and will cover every phase of safety touching on highways and shop work. Awards will be presented for best safety records during 1937. Places of the meetings are: St. Paul, April 18; Rochester, April 18; Owatonna April 19; Mankato, April 19; Windom, April 20; Marshall, April 20; Willmar, April 21; Morris, April 21; Brainerd, April 22; Duluth, April 25; Virginia, April 25; Bemidji, April 26; Crookston, April 26; Detroit Lakes, April 27; St. Cloud, April 27.

Lack of Care Main Cause of Highway Accidents in Minnesota, Says Elsberg

What is most likely to cause the automobile accident that you hope will never happen—the accident that may result in property damage, personal injury, or even death to you or a member of your family?

Chances are it will be not the murderous drunken driver, not the speed demon, not the irresponsibility of youth nor the incompetency of age, but instead, just plain Old Man Carelessness.

This is revealed, Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg disclosed this week, by information on the causes of traffic accidents given confidentially by the drivers themselves who have been involved in traffic accidents, as expressed in the space at the top of the regular vehicle accident report forms which have been returned to the Safety division of the Minnesota Highway department in St. Paul, in accordance with the new Uniform Traffic laws.

The carelessness is sometimes on the part of the driver, sometimes on the part of the pedestrian, but it stands as the major factor in highway accidents. The reports also indicate that the average user of the highway is an honorable user of the highway and is not afraid to accuse himself if he is at fault.

Uses Seed Loan for Trip; Gets Six Months in Jail

Edward E. Ortloff, Ray, North Dakota, found Tuesday that it is a serious business to borrow money from the Government for seed and then spend it for something else.

Judge George F. Sullivan, St. Paul, sentenced him in federal court in Fargo to serve six months in the county jail for spending $271 which he borrowed for seed for purposes other than were cited in his seed loan application.

Ortloff said he decided it was too dry to plant seed last year so he used the money to pay up a few bills and the balance on a trip to Kalispell, Mont., to see if he could locate more suitable farm land.

Even a tombstone will say something about a fellow when he is down.

Thomas Gallagher, prominent Minneapolis attorney, filed Wednesday for the Democratic nomination for Governor. In filing Gallagher, who was the leader of the Democratic State ticket in 1936, disclosed that a State-wide volunteer organization was in process of formation to support his candidacy.

In the 1936 campaign, after the Democratic candidates for U. S. Senator and Governor withdrew, it was feared by many Democrats that the party would fail to poll the required statutory vote, and in consequence would lose its legal status in Minnesota. Gallagher, holding that his first duty was to the people throughout Minnesota that nominated him, refused to withdraw, waged a hard aggressive campaign, under singularly adverse circumstances, to roll up a surprisingly substantial vote in the finals.

His action was generally credited with saving the Democratic Party in Minnesota, and at once gave him wide support for the 1938 Gubernatorial nomination. He is the son of P. J. Gallagher of Faribault, where he was born and where members of his family first settled in 1850 when the town was little more than a trading post.

House Committee Kills Bill to Limit Trains

The Senate bill to restrict the length of freight trains to 70 cars was killed Thursday in the House Committee on Interstate Commerce by a vote of 14 to 7.

Railroad labor leaders who sponsored the bill claimed that it was a safety measure, but it commonly was regarded as a "make work" bill.

It was opposed by farm groups, shippers and railroads who contended that the operation of unnecessary trains would increase accidents, impair the efficiency of railroad service, result in embargoes during harvest season, and add more than 100 million dollars a year to railroad costs.

The railroad presented accident statistics to show that fewer trainmen were injured on the longer trains.

He Couldn't Keep a Secret

It is related that Benjamin Franklin had to have two of the Constitutional convention delegates accompany him after every session of the convention. It was to prevent the eccentric Franklin from telling everybody about the secret proceedings of the conclave.

Educational Campaign for Early Diagnosis of T. B. During April

Nearly 90 per cent of the patients entering Minnesota tuberculosis sanatoria are in an advanced stage of the disease. Dr. E. A. Meyerding, executive secretary of the Minnesota Public Health Association, in announcing plans for the April educational campaign for early diagnosis gave out this fact in emphasizing the need for the campaign.

"Tuberculosis Undiscovered Endangers You" is the slogan for the campaign which forms a part of the program financed by Christmas Seals. All the channels of education open to the public will be utilized, including newspapers, magazines and radio. Thousands of pamphlets and posters on tuberculosis will be distributed. Tuberculin testing and x-raying projects will form an important part of the campaign in many communities.

"One characteristic of tuberculosis is that symptoms appear gradually," says the Minnesota Public Health Association's early diagnosis bulletin. "It is comparable to a slow leak in a water pipe. The germs of tuberculosis may enter the body, gain a foothold, and multiply over a considerable period of time before the individual is aware of any unusual symptoms of discomfort or disease. By means of the tuberculin test and the chest x-ray modern physicians can determine the presence of tuberculosis during the symptomless period when effective treatment can be started with good assurance of early recovery."

The statewide committee appointed by Dr. S. A. Slater, Worthington, president of the Minnesota Public Health Association, to promote the educational campaign includes Dr. Baldwin Borreson of Thief River Falls.

Experiments Show Why Lambs Fail to Gain

That prairie hay is often too poor in protein and phosphorus to give good growth and vigor to lambs is shown in recent feeding experiments of the Minnesota Experiment Station.

Results of these experiments are given in a new publication of the Minnesota agricultural extension service, University Farm, St. Paul, entitled "How to Use Prairie Hay for Lambs." It is written by D. W. Johnson, of the division of animal husbandry and Dr. L. S. Palmer of the division of agricultural biochemistry.

Twenty-four yearling ewe lambs, divided in four lots, were fed hay known to be deficient in both protein and phosphorus. Two of the lots, not supplied with sufficient supplemental protein and phosphorus for vigorous growth, made only slight gains during a period of 13 weeks. Lambs in the other two lots, furnished protein and phosphorus in beet pulp, gluten meal and bonemeal, made spectacular gains. Protein was pointed out as the primary dificiency in the hay.

A full account of these experiments may be obtained by requesting Folder 62, "How to Use Prairie Hay for Lambs," either from a county extension agent, or by writing to the Bulletin Office, University Farm.

First Steamboat Whistle

The first boat on Lake Erie with a steam whistle was the City of Cleveland, built in 1837.

"There's a lot of bunnies here" says little Audra Nestler, 4, as she sits right in the alfalfa with them. The rabbits will be exhibited at the Rabbit Breeders' association show in connection with the Northwest Sportsmen's show in the Minneapolis auditorium April 16 to 24.

Pair of Dogs Drowned in Red Lake River Sunday

While running on the newly formed thin ice on the river pool near the Soo bridge Sunday morning, two dogs broke thru the ice and were drowned before a group of firemen, summoned to the scene, were able to launch a boat and rescue them. A police dog belonging to Dr. J. Biedermann was one of the victims, while the other was a smaller black dog.

Public Asked to Beware of Chronic Indigestion by State Medical Group

If you have indigestion once in a long while it may be something you ate; but if you have it repeatedly, the source of the trouble is probably not your dinner, and it is very unwise to keep taking doses at home without trying to find out the real cause of your troubles.

This advice is contained in a bulletin issued today by the committee on public health education of the Minnesota State medical association. According to the bulletin, very few people actually have what is so often called simply a "weak stomach".

A survey was made recently of a large number of people who had what they had considered to be merely chronic indigestion. Approximately 50 per cent of the men in the group who were over 40 were really suffering from ulcer, gall bladder disease or cancer. About 38 per cent of the women were suffering from gall bladder disease, peptic ulcer or cancer.

Home remedies may offer a slight temporary relief; but otherwise have no effect whatever on any of these grave ailments. Also they persuade the sufferers to put off seeking treatment. When they are finally forced to seek help, it is sometimes too late.

The moral pointed out by the health education committee is this: Be suspicious of any indigestion that becomes chronic. It is very seldom due to "something you ate".

NO MORE NIGHTLY TRIPS FOR SONNY

Ortonville—"Trips alone at night aren't very much fun", thinks little four-year-old Ronnie Beckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beckman, who has decided not to go again very soon on nocturnal trips to his grandmother's house. Once is enough. Waking recently in the middle of the night, Ronnie called loudly but got no answer from his father who had fallen asleep by the radio. Terrified when not getting a response, Ronnie, clad only in night clothes and barefooted, decided to go to "Grandma's", Mrs. Chas E. Siglon. Mrs. Arthur Sackreiter, who lives on the second floor of the Beckman home, heard the boy crying. When she went downstairs to wake Ronnie's father, it was too late—the child had left the house. Beckman, realizing Grandma's house would be the boy's logical destination, sprinted out. And Ronnie was there. Well taken care of but chilled, the boy had his feet in hot water in the "thawing out" process when his dad arrived.

New Garden Book for Minnesota Published

The first garden book to be written especially for Minnesota will be published April 19 by the University of Minnesota Press, Mrs. Margaret S. Harding, managing editor, has announced.

It is "The Northern Garden Week by Week" by Mrs. Daisy Thomson Abbott, St. Paul, newspaper columnist and wife of Dr. John S. Abbott, faculty member of the University of Minnesota medical school. Mrs. Abbott writes for the St. Paul Pioneer Press and also the Milwaukee Journal.

The book deals with directions for planning, planting and care of the garden from February through October. It is planned especially to deal with problems peculiar to a climate of hard winters and dry summers. Sections are devoted to planning for color, shrubs and trees and rock garden, care of grass, vines for various purposes, window boxes, planting for scent, protecting against garden pests, correct watering methods and other aspects of gardening.

HEARS FROM MOTHER AFTER FIFTY YEARS

Grand Rapids—George McGinn, now of Remer, but a worker in the big woods of Itasca county in past years, knows he has a mother living, although it is a half century since he left home or heard anything of his family. A short time ago Mr. McGinn, who is 69 years of age no longer able to work hard, applied in Walker for old age assistance. To prove his age he gave the name of the town in eastern Ontario, Canada from which he came. The Cass county authorities wrote there for definite information and found members of his family. Mr. McGinn was surprised and delighted to receive a letter from his mother, now 94 years of age. The mother had heard nothing from her son since he left home 50 years ago, and the son, not handy at letter writing, had made no attempt to keep in touch with his family.

FALL INTO CISTERN ENDS IN A TRAGEDY

Madelia— Accidental drowning at his home in a cistern containing five feet of water caused the death last week of Walter N. Dahm, 62. Mr. Dahm had been about the house early in the morning and was alone when his wife left for church. He, also, had planned to attend Mass that morning. Later in the forenoon a farmer, unable to gain entrance to Mr. Dahm's paint and wall paper store, called the home and a search was instituted. Mrs. Dahm noticed that the lid of the cistern had been opened, and looking into it, discovered the body.

Official Paper of Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls

EIGHTH REGION HAS GOOD RECORD

Thief River Falls has no reason to complain about the amount of space given to the Prowlers by Twin City newspapers during the recent state tournament. Even before the tournament had gotten under way, the Thief River Falls team was given more than an even break in the pictures and in the headlines. The sports writers, in their personal columns, were more than fair to us. These facts are appreciated locally and we certainly are not going to complain.

We did get a few chuckles, however, out of the fears expressed by some of the sports writers that possibly the boys from the country would be at a disadvantage playing before large crowds against a city team that was accustomed to large crowds. The old idea seems to persist among city folks that people out in the country are somehow different. A former city-bred governor seemed to have that notion and referred to us as hicks from the hinterland. Just to prove that such things don't bother us, we named a city park in honor of his memory.

But records certainly do not indicate that the boys from the country are at any particular disadvantage in competition with their city cousins as far as basketball is concerned. This region, for instance, is as far removed from the metropolitan centers as it is possible to be and yet the record of this region in state competition is very good. In the last eleven state tournaments the region in which Thief River Falls is located has taken five championships. Since the regions were rearranged in 1931 the eighth region has taken three championships and has finished in third place twice. There isn't any other region, in southern Minnesota, the cities or on the range, that can tie that. So on the basis of past records we submit that in spite of the fact that our towns are comparatively small up here, this corner of the state plays a variety of basketball that, year in and year out, will compare favorably with the game played in any of the other regions.

The county board is under a lot of pressure these days, with delegations from all parts of the county insisting on road improvements. It's a difficult thing, with limited funds, to decide which roads should be built first and the board members have our sympathy. Still, hang it all, they asked for the job and as long as they remember their pledge to spend only as funds become available why should we worry about it?

Everyone agrees that Thief River Falls has wonderful city water. "It is clear and pure and palatable and soft. We are all very happy about it. Now is a good time for all of us to forget how terrible it was a few weeks ago. Or shall we act like intelligent human beings this time and take steps to correct a condition that we know is going to repeat again next winter? We are in favor of acting now to avoid that bad future condition.

It is getting along toward the time when another annual spring clean-up campaign will be in order. As a part of the annual drive to improve the city from the standpoint of both beauty and sanitation we suggest that local officials this year include in their tour of inspection a trip along the banks of the river that is our source of drinking water. We have an idea that such a trip will give them a few good ideas for discussion at their meetings during the summer months.

Didn't the month of March prove to be an awful disappointment to you those last two or three days?

Coach George Lee has had a good year this year, both his football and basketball teams coming through the season undefeated. He handles his glory well, however. His version of the thing is that he has had an exceptionally fine bunch of youngsters to work with and that he's been lucky on the breaks. We like his attitude, and we like his coaching. Just because he isn't boosting his own stock doesn't mean his stock isn't being boosted.

We haven't checked up on the totals but there surely must have been a record number of fire alarms turned in during the past few weeks. The truck barely gets back from one job and the siren shrieks out another alarm. One of these days we are going to have a couple of calls coming in at the same time and then the chief [illegible] state men up and down the [illegible] agree that we should have bought that additional unit a long time ago. Maybe the smart thing to do is to buy another fire truck before the double call comes in. The purchase can't be postponed much longer anyway.

Although we read quite carefully the entire Farmer-Labor platform as it was adopted at the Duluth convention, we failed to find any mention of the need for either economy or efficiency in the administration of the state's affairs. In view of the fact that the state is going deeper in the hole each year, financing a large portion of its expenditures by borrowing, it would seem that the question of economy is becoming increasingly important. But the platform offered suggestions only as to how more money should be spent. Not one single word in the entire document could we find that would indicate the leaders of the party are giving any consideration to the possibilities of saving a few dollars here and there.

Congratulations to the Thief River Falls Prowlers, high school basketball team, upon their winning of the state high school basketball championship for 1938. Their defeat of the [illegible] team by two points Friday evening in an over-time play period was spectacular and then on Saturday evening they edged out Minneapolis North High in [illegible] [illegible] to 29 point score.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

A lot of Thief River Falls fans found time [illegible] [illegible] in Minneapolis last week end and even if they did take a few days off the state tournament must have been worth their time. Anyhow, the publicity the new state champs received is no small matter.—Detroit Lakes Tribune.

And to Thief River Falls! All of us country boys and girls think it was just swell the way you won the state high school basketball championship. [illegible] North of the [illegible] [illegible] the final game from North of Minneapolis—And it's in Montevideo News.

If you see a lad with a triumphant gleam in his eye he is from Thief River Falls. The high school basketballers of that city are the champions of the whole state.—Bill Moore in Roseau Times-Region.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agriculture Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., April 5, 1938. Fed cattle comprised a large share of local deliveries and salesmen found difficulty in holding prices steady while buyers favored around 25c declines. Most other killing classes held about steady, and stockers were little changed, according to the Federal State Market News Service.

[illegible]

Tuesday's hog market was steady to 10c lower but active at the decline. A top of $8.50 was paid freely and most good and choice 170-250 lb. hogs sold at $8.35-8.50 and 250-290lb weights at $8.00-8.35, heavier butchers down to $7.75. Good packing sows realized $7.40-7.50 and good stags $7.00-7.50. Pigs were very scarce.

Slaughter lambs were steady to 10c higher, compared with Monday's trade. Good and choice wooled lambs turned at $8.00-8.25 mainly, a choice deck at $8.35, plain and medium grade lambs at $6.00-7.25. Choice clipped lambs scored $7.10. Good to choice slaughter ewes made $4.00-4.75, cull to medium ewes $2.00-3.50. Native feeding lambs were noted at $6.25-7.00.

HARRY L. FOWLER IS RELEASED FROM PRISON THIS WEEK

Former County Auditor Is Released After Serving Two and One-Half Years

Word was received here this week that Harry L. Fowler, former Pennington county auditor, had received a commutation of sentence and had been released from the state prison at Stillwater where, since October, 1935, he had been serving an indeterminate sentence of up to five years after having pleaded guilty in district court to the misappropriation of $272.01 in county funds. He is reported to have left for California. The shortage in Fowler's accounts was discovered July 1, 1933, in the course of a routine examination by the state public examiner's office. State Comptroller E. J. Tedrlove later fixed the amount of the shortage, $13,755.79. He had served a term of approximately two and one-half years in prison.

$12,000,000 Revenue Is Anticipated from State Income Tax During 1938

Revenue from the state income tax will total about $12,000,000 on the basis of returns tabulated to date, members of the state tax commission estimated late last week.

That is somewhat more than double the return last year, the greater revenue being the result of sharply increased rates effective on 1937 income. About 175,000 persons filed returns, compared to about 100,000 last year.

All income tax money goes to schools, being distributed as school aid and on a per capita basis.

Many returns have not yet been tabulated. In fact, some have not even been looked at, but on the basis of the check so far, commission members said the $12,000,000 figure is a fair estimate. The sharp increase in number of taxpayers is due to lowered exemptions.

CRIPPLED CHILD CLINIC TO BE HELD IN CITY MAY 14TH

Is One of Series in State to be Sponsored by State Board of Control

Seven clinics serving a total of 36 counties have been arranged for the 1938 spring crippled children clinic schedule to be conducted by the division of services for crippled children, Minnesota state board of control. One will be held in Thief River Falls May 14.

Medical examination and vocational consultation for physically handicapped persons under 21 years of age will be provided at these clinics. The clinics will be held under the direction of Dr. H. E. Hilleboe, director of the division, and co-operating will be the Gillette state hospital for crippled children, the division of rehabilitation of the state department of education, and the Minnesota public health association.

Following is the spring schedule for the clinics:

At St. Cloud on April 23 for Stearns, Benton, Sherburne, Morrison, Todd and Mille Lacs counties. At Morris on April 30 for Stevens, Pope, Douglas, Grant, Traverse and Big Stone counties. At Willmar on May 7 for Kandiyohi, Meeker, Renville, Chippewa and Swift counties.

At Thief River Falls on May 14 for Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake, Polk and Roseau counties. At Austin May 21 for Mower, Freeborn, Steele and Dodge counties. At Aitkin June 4 for Crow Wing, Aitkin, Carlton, Pine and Kanabec counties. At Detroit Lakes June 11 for Norman, Mahnomen, Becker and Clay counties.

Thirteen such clinics were held in rural Minnesota last year when 928 crippled children were examined. Of these, 269 or 29 per cent were new cases referred to the clinics by the field nurses. To increase the effectiveness of this year's clinics, the co-operation of all local health and welfare agencies and civic groups interested in the crippled child is asked.

THREE-CENTURY ELM TREE HEWN

Long Prairie—For three centuries it has been, "Woodman, spare that tree", but last week an elm tree, estimated to be 300 years old, surrendered to the blows of a woodcutter's axe. The tree, an old landmark on the August Hoffarth farm south of this village, yielded two logs that sawed out 1,162 feet of wood at a local mill. A count of the rings revealed its age, so that it must have been an old tree in the days of George Washington. The two logs brought to the sawmill, measured more than three feet thru. In addition, Mr. Hoffarth got a number of loads of fire wood. Not only one of the largest elms in this section, the recently cut tree is also thought to have been one of the oldest. Not many logs brought to the local mill have sawed out more timber.

Road Deaths Increase Ten Per Cent During January and February

In January and February this year 76 persons were killed on the highways of Minnesota, 17 more than for the same two months of 1937, according to the report of the Minnesota Highway department's safety division to N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

The increase in number is 29 per cent. At the same time, however, gasoline consumption for the two months increased 16 per cent, which means the actual traffic fatality rate per mile of travel increased 10.5 per cent.

Review of the accidents compiled by the accident recording unit of the safety division disclosed that five per cent of the drivers involved in accidents were women, six per cent of the drivers were under 20 years of age, 80 per cent lived within 25 miles of the place of accident, 40 per cent had over 11 years of driving experience, and 10 per cent "had been drinking."

In nearly half the accidents one car was on the wrong side of the road and 55 per cent of the accidents involved some traffic law violation. Defective lights were four times as responsible for accidents as defective brakes and the most dangerous day of the week for driving was Saturday. One third of the collisions occurred at intersections and 55 per cent happened during hours of darkness. Four times as many persons were killed in the evening as in the morning. Fifty-four per cent of the mishaps occurred on U. S. and state highways, the remainder on city streets and county or town roads. Most accidents took place, the reports revealed, on straight-away, level road.

FIRST WEDDING IN NEW COURT HOUSE

Bagley—To a Gonvick couple goes the honor of being the first to obtain a wedding license in the new Clearwater county court house, and to be the first couple to be married in the building. They are Walter Eck of Winsor township and Miss Inez Kleme of Pine Lake township, who were married March 17 by Judge of Probate, Elvin Sorenson. Although the clerk of court, E. H. Reff, had been moved into his new office a few days previous, not much business had been transacted. This wedding license was the first to be issued in the new building, and because of that fact was written without charge.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

SENIORS DEFEAT SOPHS IN ANNUAL INTERCLASS MEET

Haug Cops Scoring Honors With an 18 Point Total

The Senior boys and the Junior girls were crowned champions in the two high school divisions of the second annual interclass basketball tournament held last week at the city auditorium. The Seniors repeated last year's achievement with a 39 to 33 conquest of the Sophomore boys while the Junior girls were crowned champs in their division with an 11 to 9 upset over the Freshmen, last year's champs.

Other team champions were Washington, grade school victors, the Indians, junior high school boys and the Clippers, junior high school girls.

A mild upset occurred in the first game when the Clipper girls topped the Comets, who led for the greater part of the game. The final score was 20-17 with Glessner scoring fifteen points for the victors.

The next game was a heated duel between the Junior girls and the Seniors with the Juniors winners by a 10 to 6 score by virtue of a last quarter rally.

The afternoons activity was culminated by the Sophomore boys 26 to 8 victory over a small but gritty Freshmen squad. Kielty was outstanding for the winners while Carlisle and Flasch shared honors for the first year men.

The Central boys championship tilt opened Tuesday evenings sport schedule with the Indians walloping the Eagles 23 to 12 in an early sensational display of basket shooting which sent the winners into a 14 to 4 lead at the quarter mark.

Relseson of the Indians was top scorer with ten points followed by Mathason and Fjelstad, Lorentson and Carlisle played the best ball for the Eagles.

The Freshmen girls romped to a decisive 16 to 4 win in their first round game which saw the Sophs scoreless at the half. Hagen was the ace scorer with eleven counters.

A spirited skirmish occurred in the nightcap between the Senior boys and the Juniors with the more balanced Seniors winning 23 to 20 despite an early Junior lead.

A coalition of the Knox and Northrop teams was not sufficient to hold the powerful Washington team, and bowed 34 to 10.

Sharpshooting Billy Rye led the winners variegated attack with six baskets or twelve points followed by Morris Efteland and Johnson with eight apiece. Evanstad and Carlson topped the losers.

A hilarious ruckus between the Faculty women and the Senior girls found the teachers on the short end of a doubtful 7-10 tally in the next game.

The only consolation match of the tourney was won by the Junior boys by 20 to 10 triumph over the hapless Freshmen who did their best to prevent a runaway. Lunke scored eight markers for the victors while Flasch with six was high for the green.

In one of the most interesting tilts of the meet, the Junior girls won an uphill fight from the favored Frosh 11 to 9 to win the championship in the curtain raiser on Wednesday evening. The Frosh commanded a lead until the final quarter but apparently blew up in the fourth canto. Helquist of the Frosh and Nelson for the Juniors were outstanding.

The faculty men put on a rousing exhibition to whip the Juniors 34 to 26 in another uphill fight. Lee, Gabrielson and Schneider were the big guns in the faculty onslaught with Eide carrying off honors with fourteen counters for the vanquished. Eide scored at least two field goals in each quarter with the exception of the third when he went scoreless by some close guarding by Peterson.

The final game of the tournament found the favored Senior boys winning 39 to 33 over the Sophs in a high scoring bout.

The Seniors led all the way and widened the gap as the game progressed. Carlson gave the finest offensive prep exhibition of the meet by scoring sixteen points followed by Booren with twelve and Haug with ten. The Soph scoring was quite evenly divided with Bredeson tops with ten.

Other trophies were awarded as follows: Best cheering; Juniors, best stunt; Juniors, and sportsmanship; Sophomores. Individual honors went to Erling Melby, Senior, best cheer leader; Clarence Haug, Senior, boy's high scorer and Hagen, freshmen, girl's high scorer.

PROSPECTS FOR 1939 B. B. TEAM LOOK PROMISING

Nicholson, Stadum, Mickelson to be Strong Point of Squad

With five seniors graduating out of the state championship eight, prospects for a winning team next year, would appear almost nil to the casual observer. However, after scanning the roster of the remaining players and the Prowler second team, we may arrive at the conclusion that prospects are not as dark as they appeared earlier, although, of course, they are not bright.

Returning next year will be Loren "Bones" Stadum, all-state center who ought to be the sensation of the circuit in his senior year. "Bones" was an all-district choice in his freshman year and anyone who saw his work in the state tourney will concede that the all-state moniker was no fluke. Captain-elect Earl Nicholson, a Progress all-district choice, will be back again to man a regular forward post. "Nick" is a cool, accurate shooter and a brilliant defense man as well. Another returning player of the same type is Reuben Mickelson, a guard, and the last of the Mickelson basketball players. "Little Mick" is probably the finest shooter on the entire Prowler squad. The two remaining players on the first ten, Perry Pederson and Orville Eide are especially strong defensive men and may step into the two remaining regular positions although there will be a terrific fight for these positions.

The outstanding second team player expected to make a bid for a regular position is Rob Kielty, a sophomore guard. Kielty possesses a world of speed, has a competitive spirit and really makes things click on the floor. If Rob doesn't become one of the greatest players ever to wear a Prowler uniform, he will have only himself to blame.

Other Prowler second team players who will be out to win first team positions will be the two sophomore forwards, Wayne Bredeson, a high scorer, and Loren "Doughboy" Jung. At least two Prowler "B" centers will be out for substitute positions on the first team. They are the hard working Cliff Lunke and the rangy soph, Kevin O'Malley, who threatens to give the locals a player with the famous shot of Tom Jassen, the Crookston ace.

Another sophomore, Leonard Furuseth, a rugged guard will be in evidence in the fight for a guard or center berth. Other Juniors include Jewell Stadum, a polished floor player and Austin Shanahan.

The two outstanding freshmen, Ed. Flasch and Tommy Carlisle are probably a year or so away from varsity competition, but will give the Prowler "B" squad plenty of strength. Allan Conner is also expected to land on the Prowler "B" squad again next year.

TENNIS TOURNEY SLATED TO START

Matches Now Framed for Opening Round

After approximately six months of hibernation, sixteen Lincoln tennis players will emerge from the throes physical lethargy to compete in the Annual High School Tennis Tourney.

Each of the participants in this year's encounters are in every sense veterans, with scores of games behind them. At least twelve are experienced tournament players. As you will recall last year's scheduled play was cut short due to inclement weather, and progressed no farther than the second round. However, all but two of those who weathered the first round play last year are vying for this year's crown.

The pairings this year find in the top bracket: Gordon Holte vs. Ray Althoff. In the second game Wesley Johnson meets Floyd Melby. Roy Lee matches shots against Gordon Rierson, and Lynn Booren tests Jerome Salveson.

The Bob Smith—Kevin O'Malley encounter tops the lower bracket which also finds James Borreson squaring off against Delmer Hovie, Wendell Pope returning Perry Froseth placements, and Wayne Bredeson seeking to down Wendell Olson.

First round matches are expected to be played by the time school opens after Easter Vacation.

The winners of each match are asked to report the outcome of their games to Mr. Gabrielson.

Immediately after the singles champion has been determined, a doubles tournament is expected to be initiated.

With the memorable basketball season officially closed, Lincoln high school will attempt to complete the most successful athletic year in the school's history by turning out another champion in the track team and also progressing in other minor spring sports activities.

In the spotlight on the spring sport calendar, will be the Prowler track team coached by Mr. Gabrielson. Last year the Prowler track and field team romped through district competition to win the championship, and later were quite successful in the regional meet.

Although several of last year's stand-bys have either graduated, or are going to school elsewhere, the greater number of last year's champs remain including Clarence Haug, the Prowlers lone regional titleholder. With opposing schools determined to cut short Prowler dominance in district sports and with the locals equally determined to continue it, a lively campaign is expected to ensue.

Also on the list of activities will be the second annual school circus which will be directed by Mr. Gabrielson. Last Year's circus, which was a fitting end to the tumbling season, will be repeated this year with new and added attractions.

Last, but not least, will be the spring football training season which will see Coach George Lee and a host of aspiring gridmen working to mould an eleven to take the field next fall to defend their district crown. As prospects for next year are not bright, a great deal of interest will be focused on the spring practices to see what developments will occur toward the building of the team. More than ever will there be fierce competition with almost every position open and with several gridders possessing equal opportunities toward the winning of regular and reserve posts.

The spring season can be made every bit as interesting and successful as the regular football and basketball seasons if students are willing to take part and to really work toward that end.

Local DeMolay Team Captures Second Place

The Thief River Falls DeMolay basketball team came back from Minneapolis last Sunday, where they had competed in the state DeMolay tournament, with a runner-up trophy, two representatives on the all-state five, and a bunch of pleasant memories.

The team composed of eight high school boys and two of last year's graduates, practised together once and then journeyed to the Mill City Thursday noon to play their first game with Hibbing the following afternoon. Although the local quint won by only two points, the game was not as close as the score indicates. At the end of the third quarter the Thief River Falls squad commanded a substantial lead and it was only a last period splurge by the range aggregation that brought them to within two points of a tie when the gun sounded. The second game, played with Marshall Saturday morning resulted in another victory for the locals, this time by five points, 28 to 23, giving them the right to enter the finals Saturday evening against Red Wing. Thief River Falls took an early lead but soon lost it and at the half were trailing by four points. At the close of the third period this advantage was reduced to two, but in the final quarter Red Wing just couldn't miss and rolled up eighteen points to give them an eight point victory, 41 to 33.

Trophies were presented after the last game to Red Wing, Champions; Thief River Falls, runners-up; Marshall, consolation winners; and Hibbing, sportsmanship. Medals were awarded to players on the top four teams. Don Lorentson and Roy Lee won berths as center and guard respectively on the all-state five. The team was coached by Roy Oen and was composed of Roy Lee, Don Lorentson, Leonard Helquist, Orville Eide, Cliff Oleson, Jerome Salveson, Wallace Tunberg, Loren Jung, Bruce Prichard, and Jack Hess.

THE MELTING POT

Floyd Melby's love-life must be gettin' him down. He hardly ever cracks a smile for us gar's any more. Guess he can't take it.

And did Glenn A. get all hot and bothered under the collar when he found that Esther H. wasn't in school.

Flasch: Coach Lee and Gabrielson, highscorers on The Women Faculty's basketball team.

Small fry seem to be out since the H. H. boys have grabbed the limelight. And furthermore nobody else can get a word in edge wise. And to top it all off Don 'n Roy 'n Earl have to get fan mail.

Some people have been going around saying that Tuny C. is unconscious. We can truthfully say he was after what happened Sunday.

Anyway we found out that he likes to be patted on the head between his sore spots.

Clarice kinda sorta blushed when Coach read the "epistle" by Synonymous".

It's a toss-up when it comes to deciding whether one should go swimming or skating these days.

There is just as much horse sense as ever, but the horses still have it.

WE SALUTE

A great number of poems were written in Miss Tandberg's English III classes with the exploits of the state champion Prowlers furnishing the material for their construction. The two chosen, "State Champions" and "Prowlers", were chosen as being representative of the entire group of poems and the most worthy of publication.

These two poems dedicated to Coach Lee and his gallant players express in words the feeling of every Lincoln High student toward the team.

"STATE CHAMPIONS"

Congratulations! on your work
We are proud of you boys that never shirk;
We have tried to do honor where honor is due
By the homecoming celebration arranged for you.

Most of the games this year have been tough,
But you won them all, sure enough;
To the state tournament all could not go,
The rest heard you over the radio.

Coach Lee receives credit for what he has done,
Without his work, we could never have won;
He's got what it takes to be a good coach,
And we hope "Pepper" Lee will the same height approach.

Many kind messages have been sent,
To you, "Sweethearts of the Tournament";
We know you've been working from early to late,
And deserve being champions of the state.

—Esther Hetland

"PROWLERS"

Twenty-seven games the Prowlers won,
They fought and struggled but really had fun.
At the district tournament Warren bowed low,
Which made the Prowlers fame upward grow;
When they defeated Bemidji by only three scores,
The crowd cheered them with shouts and roars;
Then home they came with victory and fame,
By winning that Minneapolis North game.
Prowlers, we're proud of what you have gained,
For our school and city you have won fame.

—Esther Haughom.

DISTRICT BAND CHOSEN FRIDAY

Thief River Falls Rates 21 Members of 100

The Agassiz School masters club met at the Evelyn Hotel last Friday night, April 1, to decide on the membership for the all-district band. Unlike last year, only the best players in the district will be included in the massed band.

Band directors from ten towns in this district were present, and they selected all the best players from the high school bands to represent their schools in the district music contest to be held at Crookston the latter part of April.

Only 100 were chosen from about 350 band members in the district and Thief River Falls had the honor of placing twenty-one members in this group: Ralph Gustafson and Lorraine Amundson, Cornets; James Skurstad and Martha Havel, French horns; Robert Quale and Gloria Quist, Trombones; Wesley Burrel, bass; Willis Wright, Ardith Burrel, and Joyce Benhes, drums; Ileene Hoffseth, Charles Gustafson, Palma Jahr, and Margaret Jacobson, clarinets; Marjorie Hellquist, flute; Claire Myhrum, Oboe; Filnor Erickson, baritone; Jerome Salveson, Wendell Olson, Eugene Nelson, saxaphone; and Gordon Caldis, alto clarinet.

At the meeting of the Agassiz club the brass sextette entertained with two selections. "Memories of Steven Foster" was presented for the first time in public. They also played "The Rolling Sea."

Lee Leads Local Scorers With a Total of 186 Points

Final unofficial statistics give Roy Lee scoring honors for the season on the state champion Prowlers by a bare two point margin over the other Co-Captain, Don Lorentson. Lee totals 186 points for the season and Lorentson following with 184. Caldis followed the hard working guards with 125 points with Nicholson and Clark Mickelson bunched at 111 and 106 points respectively. Thus, the five who finished the season as regulars are the five top scorers on the ledger. The Prowlers, however, can take pride in the fact that all of the tournament eight have started games the past season, and that chores have been very evenly divided among the first eight. The individual scoring could have been higher in almost every case had the Prowlers elected to pepper the basket in all the games instead of stalling, especially in a couple of tournament games when they played to conserve their energy.

Roy Lee was also announced as free throw king for the year with an aggregate total of fifty four made with only eighteen misses for a .750 average. This average is one of the highest ever set up by a Prowler cage. Lorentson, followed among the regulars, with the same number made and thirty-eight misses.

The Mickelson brothers, Reuben and Clark, were the cleanest players among the first eight for the season. Reuben inflicted only eight fouls in twenty-five games and "Big Mick" fourteen in twenty-six contests.

APRIL ANTICS

A few of our seniors got pretty well bunged up over the week-end. Bob M. is nursing a broken toe, Clarice hobbles about with a sore knee, Tuny has a hard time talking (ecmagine) under all that gauze and tape—and it looks as though he'll have to walk to school for the next few weeks.

And Oden didn't do so pretty bad Friday nite either—nearly clipping off a fire hydrant. Mow'em down, Oden, we'll stick with you.

And, incidentally, a couple of senior gals nearly got tickets for speeding Saturday last. Keep up the good work gang, and we'll all land in the dog-house!

It seems to us the more we go to Red Lake Falls, the better we like the place—right, Seniors? (you too, Hecky)

And of all the kids that got danger of failure notices this six weeks—it really amazes me, or does it?

Some of the notes we've been collecting are just too good to keep much longer—so a warning to Perry, Blanche, Ardith, Tuny and a few others—we start publishing next week—and that's for sure!

Pep Program Held Prior to Tourney

Tuesday afternoon, March 29 prior to the interclass basketball tournament, a short, short pep fest was held in the assembly.

The purpose of the assembly was to incite class pep and explain the tournament to the freshman and those who were not in our school at that time last year.

Mr. Gabrielson, boy's physical education instructor, did the explaining. He then called upon the cheer leaders of each class to lead their respective classes in a yell. The following were the students who served as cheer leaders for their classes at the pep fest: Lorraine Amundson and Mary Chommie, Seniors; Jewell Stadum, Juniors; Rodney Brodin, Sophomores; and Buster Anderson, Freshmen.

The above named then led the classes in a mass yell, each class supplying its name for the word, Prowler. Maybe this pep fest will incite and arouse more boys to try out for cheer leaders next fall. Let's hope so!

The assembly was dismissed with the urge that all show up at the big class tournament and help their respective classes bring home a trophy or two.

PROWLING AROUND

Now who says sports are being emphasized too greatly in our high school? What else could possibly be so emphasized with the tremendous success that basketball has attained? Nothing puts our school and city on the map as effectively as a winning basketball team. We can't always have top notch teams, but we should never give up trying.

Clark Mickelson, whose knee was injured in the state tournament will be out of sports for the remainder of the year. The seniors had planned on using the glue fingered pass catcher in their challenge football game with the 1938 Prowlers this spring, but in order to allow the injury to heal "Mick" will stay out of sports this spring. Robert Quale, another end, will also be out of action in spring sports as a result of a basketball injury last winter.

"Bones" Stadum, all-state center scored nine free throws without a miss in the final two games of the state tournament when the "heat" was on. From substitute to "all-state" is quite a leap, any way you look at it.

Your scribe can't see how the inter-class all-star team selectors failed to include Bob Kielty on their team. Clarence Haug was the outstanding high school player in the tournament in the eyes of your columnist.

Next year's basketball season ought to see a real center duel between all-state "Bones" Stadum of the Prowlers and "all-American" Tom Jessen of the Crookston Pirates.

Mel Haugham attempted a bit of strategy with his Freshmen team in the inter-class meet by inserting an extra into his playing lineup, but the alert Juniors quickly brought it to the attention of the unknowing (?) officials.

We advise anyone who hasn't seen the basketball display of pictures and trophies in the Salveson Studio window, to go out of your way to see it before it is removed.

Roy Lee scored eight consecutive free shots in the first game against Hibbing in the DeMolay tournament.

The DeMolay team's defeat at the hands of Red Wing was the first time this season that Roy Lee and Don Lorentson have been on a losing team.

At last we know where "Bones" gets his attractive ties. Several of them have been the gifts of a few of his admirers after Stadum won all-state honors. "Bones" wishes to have it known that he appreciates these gifts immensely.

"I" and "You" on Telephone

"I" is the most commonly used word in telephone conversation, and "you" is second.

SECOND ANNUAL CIRCUS SET FOR END OF APRIL

"Greatest Show of Earth" Name of 1938 Classic

Blissful memories of the sawdust ring will be recalled by citizens of Thief River Falls when R. W. Gabrielson and Miss Harriet Helquist present the second Annual High School Circus Thursday, April 21 at the city Auditorium.

The 1938 edition of the "Greatest Show on Earth" promises to even eclipse the success of last year's more than fruitful enterprise. And there is no reason why it should not, for the high school version will incorporate everyone of the features of the real show under the Big Top Tumblers, acrobats, trapeze artists, dancers, and divers will be much in evidence during the proceedings. Clowns and novelty performers will provide the comic relief. A special band will blare forth in inimitable circus music to provide the atmosphere for the gala occasion.

Venders will propound the merits of pink lemonade, popcorn, and candy bars. What is lacking in this replica of the amusement popularized by the Great Barnum?

This event really culminates approximately six months of gymnastic work boys and girls gym classes and the tumbling team, and is a review of the activities they have participated in. It is expected that about 100 boys and girls will take part in this huge spectacle. These performers are slated to demonstrate their proficiency on the mats, rings, parallel bars and various other devices familiar to the gymnast.

Perhaps the most popular feature of the show is the low admission fees which are: Grade students 10c; high school students, 15c; and adults, 25c.

GIRLS SPORTS

Despite the recent snow flurries, robins and gym josies are still optimistic when it comes to spring and its activities. About eighty-five girls have signed up for kittenball, and the minor sports track, tennis, and archery, have another share in sports followers.

Kittenball will be practiced on two nights a week instead of one, since the sign-up number is almost a hundred. Practice will be Mondays and Thursdays after school. Those who signed up for archery will have to come to Monday practices.

Track practice will come on Wednesday nights, and archers will meet on Thursdays after school. Tennis followers will practice anytime they can, with those who need special instruction reporting Thursdays with the archery class.

The kittenball signers will be divided into league teams which will play within each league and then dust off the season with playoffs between the winners of each league.

Tennis tournament is scheduled for the days between May 9-20, track events will be run off second week of May, and the archery rounds the third week in May.

All in everything, josies, the season looks mighty busy!

JOB RISK REPORT DUE BY APRIL 30, EMPLOYERS TOLD

Starkey Urges Promptness to Avoid Delays in Benefit Payments

Employers subject to the Minnesota Unemployment Compensation Law this week received forms for filing contribution and wage reports for the first quarter of 1938. Contributions and reports are due on or before April 30. Those employers who do not receive forms by April 10 are required to apply for them.

Employers are cautioned by the unemployment compensation division that their wage reports are to show the proper social security account number issued to each of their workers. Without proper numbers, it was pointed out, it is difficult for the division to properly credit the accounts of workers and, consequently will delay the payment of benefits to such workers should they become unemployed and file benefit claims.

Penalties provided by the law will be enforced in cases of delinquency, the division warned.

"Employers now delinquent in reporting for the fourth quarter of 1937 are urged to make returns promptly to avoid penalty and to assure prompt payment of claims filed by workers who have filed claims since April 1, "Frank T. Starkey, Industrial Commissioner in charge of the division, stated. "Claims filed by unemployed workers on and after April 1 are to be determined on the basis of earnings during the entire year of 1937 and delinquent fourth quarter reports will delay the processing of many claims."

FOX HOUNDS ARE "FOXED"

Hector—Two fox hounds were stranded for several days three miles southeast of here when caught in a drain tile 2,500 feet into the pipeline, thus literally "foxed." The hounds belonged to a Shakopee man who had been hired to exterminate fox in this territory. One afternoon the dogs caught the scent of fox, trailed it into a drain tile and apparently crawled 2,500 feet into the drainage line. At this point the 12-inch pipe converges into nine-inch tile, too small for the hounds to penetrate. While the fox continued, the dogs were caught. Not until two days later when blue prints of the tiling system were available to rescue workers were the dogs found.

There Is No Short-Cut to Weight Reduction, Say State Physicians

There is no short cut to shorter weight, according to a bulletin issued today by the public health education committee of the Minnesota State Medical association.

New drugs are constantly seized upon to tempt the overweight who wants to take off pounds but does not want to exert himself in the process.

Anti-fat drugs are usually either inert and without any effect whatever or they are actually dangerous to life and health. Except in a few cases that need exceptional medication, the only way to reduce, according to the doctors, is to cut down on food and to increase physical activity by moderate exercise so as to burn up excess fat. Just how much the food intake should be cut depends upon the individual dieter and his own needs. Ruthless dieting without regard to a balanced diet is frowned upon, also, as dangerous.

The way of the reducer is hard, the physician's bulletin admits; but there is no short cut by the drug route. On the contrary, many deaths and a good many cases of permanently damaged health are on record that can be traced directly to irresponsible experimenting with new drugs. These drugs are useful for other purposes in expert hands; but they cannot be used as substitutes for individual will power and determination in the business of weight reducing.

Bulletin Tells How to Plant Home Grounds

Making a house into a home may require more than "a heap o' livin'." A small amount of properly arranged landscape materials can transform the humblest cottage into an attractive and livable home, says a new publication of the Minnesota agricultural extension division.

The publication, Special Bulletin 193, "Landscape Planning," is written by E. M. Hunt, extension horticulturist at University Farm. Hunt lays down the principles of landscape planning in a way that combines beauty and convenience in farmstead planting.

Outlined in the new bulletin is a "5-year plan" for improving the appearance of the farmstead. The plan first provides for basic improvements, after which details can be added as time goes on. Such a plan makes it possible for families to improve farmsteads without assuming this extra burden in any one year, explains Hunt.

The new bulletin may be obtained free of charge either from a county extension agent, or from the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

TAXES of THIS COMPANY OVER $4,400,000 IN 1937

Federal, state and local taxes of this Company were more than $4,400,000 in 1937...an increase of over 50 per cent since 1935. Wage payments increased about $2,300,000 in the two years.

In spite of continuous improvements in equipment and methods of operation we can only partially offset this great increase in taxes and wages.

Last year, telephone expenses went up several hundred thousand dollars more than revenues. It is becoming more and more difficult to provide at present revenues the service telephone users require.

Growing With Your Child

Environment and Personality

Phyllis is a child of four. She lives with her parents and a baby sister in two rooms of a house converted into small apartments. She gets out of the house only two or three times a week, as her mother has no baby carriage, and therefore can't take her and the baby walking. Phyllis can't go out of doors alone, for her mother doesn't think it would be very safe; and besides, what is there for her to do? She has no outdoor playthings, and there are no other children of her own age near by.

Peter is a little fellow of about the same age as Phyllis. He lives in a very select part of town, in a house that is imposing, to say the least. It has wide lawns and a winding driveway that is the delight of Peter's heart when he rides up and down it on his tricycle. Much as he enjoys its curves and slopes, however, he is pretty apt, if his nurse turns her back for a moment, to scuttle as fast as he can pedal in the direction of the corner, where there are a post-box and a hydrant and a good many passers-by. No matter how hard the nurse scolds, he tries the same tactics over and over again. For he has no one to play with!

In an unpretentious part of town near the open fields where the country begins, lives Billy. His home is inconspicuous, but Billy thinks it is a pretty satisfactory place. He has a big sand-box under a tree, where four or five youngsters often congregate for an hour at a time; there is a swing, too and in summer he and his small playmates spend hours under the spray from the hose, which falls back into an old mason's mixing-box, which his father, who is a cement worker, has rigged up for their enjoyment.

Only a few miles away lives Harriet. Her home is on a farm, and her earliest memories are of the eerie sounds that sweep thru the windbreak trees to the north of the house; and the rustle like rain from the leaves of the poplars, never still all summer long. Harriet has never had another child for a playmate, but there are always puppies and kittens tumbling underfoot, and there has been one old hen that followed her about, much to the family's amusement. Despite the fact that the beauties of nature are so lavishly spread out all around her, Harriet does not live in beautiful surroundings, for the cruelties of nature are in evidence, too. Her father has always been too busy trying to wrest a living out of the soil to have much energy left for making things beautiful, or even tidy, about the place. So Harriet, with all the green of fields in the distance, plays on the hard-beaten dirt of the dooryard, which looks out on the barn and cattle yards rather than toward the river. She accepts the squalid sight of pigs wallowing without being aware of there being other possibilities in the landscape. Harriet has "all outdoors to play in," as her family says, but she sticks pretty close to the house with her clothes-pin dolls, and corn-cob houses.

What contrasting influences are at work in the lives of these four children, many of them the result of physical surroundings, rather than of persons or events? Who would deny that all their lives long these children are going to carry with them, as part of their personalities, characteristics brought out by these widely varying surroundings?

GIRLS BORN SAME DAY TO SISTERS

Hutchinson— Coincidences seem to run in the Henry Baumetz family, at least when it comes to births. On Tuesday of last week two of the girls gave birth to children, and both infants were girls. Not only that, but eight years ago two other girls of the family had babies on the same day, at that time both were boys. March 15 baby girls were born to Mr. and Mrs. Alton Peterson of Northfield and to Mr. and Mrs. Elmon Pilkins of Hutchinson, the women being sisters. Eight years ago it was the same, when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Silker, now of Park Falls, Wisconsin, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Weissenberger, now of Spring Valley, Illinois, became the parents of boys on the same day. The mothers in each case are daughters of the Baumetz family.

THREE DEPOSITORS GET FORGOTTEN CASH

Sleepy Eye—A few weeks ago the First National Bank of Windom posted a list of names of depositors who had placed money in that institution many years ago and had forgotten to call for it. Two of the depositors were located and claimed their money. It was believed that the others would probably never be located, but a third man was found last week. The gentleman is J. C. Ritchie of Stratford, Iowa, who when located, was found under the care of physicians with a severe case of sinus trouble. He had left a balance of $188.43 in the Windom bank. It had been there since 1916. "Thank God, there are some honest men left," Ritchie said, "if we do have to go to Minnesota to find them."

SUMMER PLANS OF UNIVERSITY ARE ANNOUNCED

To Offer 750 Courses During Two Vacation Sessions at Institution

New courses in several fields, some of them taught by nationally-known visiting lecturers, will feature the 1938 summer session at the University of Minnesota, Professor T. A. H. Teeter, director, has announced.

Registration for the first term will open June 13, with classes beginning June 15 and continuing through July 22. Second session registration will close Monday July 25, and classes will open on the same date, closing August 26.

A program of 750 courses taught by a staff of 400 faculty members will be offered. Attendance, which exceeded 6,000 last year, is expected to be approximately 7,000 for both terms, Professor Teeter said.

Courses designed to meet the needs of teachers and students associated with practically every type of educational institution have been prepared for the summer term. In the field of education, particularly, the program has been considerably expanded to meet demands for instruction in newer trends such as administration and personal guidance.

In educational administration a new course "Minnesota Problems and Issues in Education" will be featured. Several leaders in education including members of the State Department of Education will combine to give nine unit courses dealing with problems of finance, transportation, the [illegible] year high school and libraries. These courses will also make it possible for city, village and country school administrators to acquaint themselves with recent changes in state and federal legislation affecting schools.

A much featured course will be Education and Democracy which will have such distinguished visitors as Dr. Karl W. Bigelow of the [illegible] Council's Education Board, New York, W. E. Givens, executive secretary of the National Education Association, Dr. Ernest Horn of the University of Iowa and Dr. John L. Rockwell, state commissioner of education.

The youngster was discovered some minutes later when a member of the family noticed one foot sticking out from beneath the box. When released from his prison, his breathing had apparently ceased. Prompt medical aid kept the spark of life burning but the boy remained unconscious from nine o'clock Saturday morning until Monday noon. He is reported now as fully recovered from the near-tragic experience.

Permanent Work Relief Program Recommended by a State-Wide Group

Establishment of a permanent work relief agency, so elastic as to be capable of quick expansion and contraction as current needs may require, was recommended this week by a committee of prominent Minnesotans, who made an extensive study of what has been accomplished by federal work agencies in the field since 1933. TWINS OBSERVE 70th BIRTHDAY

Round Lake— Twins celebrating their 70th birthdays together is an event that occurs rather rarely, but just such an occasion took place here last week. Henry M. Diehn of this village and his twin sister, Mrs. Christina Stoltenberg, of Davenport, Iowa commemorated together their birthday anniversary at the home of their sister, Mrs. Minnie Schwarting. Mrs. Stoltenberg had come from Iowa a few weeks previous in anticipation of the event, which had been planned as a celebration at the legion hall. A recent severe illness of Mr. Diehn made such a program inadvisable, and a birthday dinner was given at home. During the day the twins received greeting cards, flowers and telegrams with good wishes from children and other relatives living in distant places.

1938 Contest for Rural Newspaper Writers Is Now Getting Under Way

The fourth annual contest to find the champion country newspaper correspondent of the United States was announced today in New York by Wheeler McMillen, editorial director of The Country Home Magazine, national farm publication. Prizes totaling $500 will be awarded by the magazine and the winner, in addition to getting a trip to New York and Washington as in previous years, will be [illegible]

[illegible] of each of the 48 states. This has been arranged with the assistance of the N. E. A., which will cooperate with the magazine, and will make it possible to recognize ability to a wider extent than previously.

The annual awards were started in the belief that there are hundreds of men and women in the country who do a fine job of reporting and writing in their local newspapers, as fine a job in their own field as do many famous reporters on the big city dailies. The contest is designed to call attention to these abilities.

Jobless Get Lump-Sum Checks in Payment of Claims, Says Starkey

St. Paul, March 23—First lump-sum payment of accumulated benefits to unemployed workers began to flow from the Minnesota unemployment compensation division this week.

For thousands of claimants the lump-sum payments, which were for two or more compensable weeks, represent payment in full of all benefits due them. For other thousands the payments serve to bring their accounts up-to-date.

Frank T. Starkey, industrial commissioner in charge of the division, pointed out that for some claimants lump-sum payments merely bring their accounts nearer to a current basis. It is impossible to bring all claimants to a current basis with lump-sum payments because of the necessary [illegible] for issuance of such checks.

It is expected that the division's lump-sum payment plan, approval of which recently was obtained from the Social Security board, bring the division to a current basis within 30 days as far as determined claims are concerned.

However, Commissioner Starkey emphasized, the immediate cooperation of employers who have failed to report the earnings of workers [illegible]

[illegible] the division on a state wide basis, with a large crew of field workers pressed into duty.

Bee Culture in the Valley

A great many people may not realize that production of honey has become a great industry in northwestern Minnesota. This fact helps to prove that this region is especially blessed in an agricultural way by making it possible for the northwestern Minnesota farmer to have so many strings to his bow. The railroad booklet recently quoted says:

"The central and northern sections of Minnesota are important honey and bee raising territories. Honey is shipped in carload lots from about all of this territory. Special shipments are made from the Red River Valley and points along the Great Northern between Thief River Falls and Warroad. This region in the northwestern section in Minnesota ships annually 25 to 50 carloads of honey and each car usually contains upwards of 50,000 pounds.

We read below about the conditions and the vegetation that makes this region so well adapted for honey production, but we recall that we were told it was clover that proved especially attractive to a member of the University of Minnesota faculty who has one of the largest commercial apiaries in the country at Hallock. By the way, when the writer visited this plant two years ago the man in charge was an expert from the far south, Louisiana or southern Alabama or Mississippi. Recently we read that somebody in northeastern North Dakota tried the experiment last winter of shipping his bees south for the winter as this was said to be beneficial to them. We do not know much about this or to what extent it is practiced, but it is an idea, anyway. The time may come when farmers will find it expedient to send their purebred dairy cows south for the winter. But resuming the article on honey production we read:

"Moisture is one of the most important factors in the production of honey. It is necessary to have a dependable and continuous supply of blossoms and flow of nectar in order to secure a large production of honey.

"Heavy production of honey from single colonies is secured in the northern region and it is due in a large measure to the great [illegible] and abundance of blossoms supplied by the larger acreage of sweet clover, alfalfa and alsike that are grown for pasture or hay [illegible] and to the abundance of [illegible]

[illegible] provide the feeding grounds for the bees. As a matter of fact, clover culture is in itself a great northwestern Minnesota industry, and one that is seldom linked to the bee industry in the mind of the average person perhaps, but, nevertheless, it is important in many ways besides furnishing feed and seed, as a soil builder, for example. Resuming the article again we find:

"Bees are kept in small or moderate numbers by a great many farmers but several large operators keep a few hundred to as high as several thousand colonies. One large concern maintains about 5,000 colonies distributed over a large territory and many of its bees are rented out, or "farmed out", on a share basis.

"The usual, annual production per colony ranges from 250 to 300 pounds of honey. Persons who are familiar with the situation state that bees are an important factor in the production of many kinds of seed in connection with pollinization; and that the clover crop has been increased from 25 to 50 per cent by bees."

Here we have another remarkable situation: while the clover culture industry makes the bee business possible on a large scale in northwestern Minnesota, at the same time the bees retaliate by increasing clover growth from 25 to 50 per cent through increased pollinization.

Some time ago we were told something about the many uses to which honey now is put. We mentioned something about this once in this column, but we now have forgotten the specific uses. The fact is, however, that honey is used in a surprising number of and most unexpectedly varied range of ways.

It may be that golden honey will some day prove more valuable to the state and to this region particularly than gold mines, provided there were not too many of the latter. But at that gold mines in the north in a region the writer visited about a year ago were not all great money makers.

DIAMOND IS FOUND IN CAN OF CREAM

Luverne—Everyone has heard of a "diamond in the rough" but rarely does one hear of a diamond in a can of cream. However, that is just where one was found last week. Robert Erickson who is employed at the local creamery, found the diamond in a cream can while going about his usual duties. The stone had evidently slipped off the owner's finger while he was doing chores. Chances are that the owner, after missing his stone, has hunted high and low for it and may even be harboring the belief that there is a thief around him. Mr. Erickson announced the owner can recover his stone by identifying it and satisfying his curiosity as to how the diamond came to be in the cream can.

FOREST COMMISSION URGES AMENDMENT

Urging the passage of the land exchange amendment to the state constitution, the Minnesota legislative interim forestry commission adopted a resolution asking all voters to vote "yes" on this important measure. The forestry commission, composed of three members from the senate and three from the house together with the state conservation commissioner, met first in December and was in session again last week.

Increased Production Costs Force Us to Discontinue Our $1 a Year Subscription Special

Our operating costs are steadily increasing and apparently will continue to increase during the next few years.

During the depression years we have cut the subscription price of the Times to $1 a year in the immediate territory. This low price has barely covered the cost of paper and ink.

It is impossible to continue selling the Times at this price without taking it out of the quality of our paper and we are not going to lower our standards. It costs more money to publish a good newspaper than it does to publish a poor one. The Times is going to continue to be a good newspaper.

Effective May 1st the Subscription Price of The Times in Pennington and Adjoining Counties Will Be $1.50 a Year

Until May first the old rate will apply. Until that time you will still be able to buy the paper at the old price of $1. You may protect yourself at this rate by subscribing for several years in advance if you wish. The Times is a good buy at its regular price of $2 a year. At $1.50 it will be excellent value. At $1 it is a bargain. Thruout the month of April you will still be able to subscribe at the bargain price.

Present Times Subscription Rate

Effective Until May 1st

April 7, 1938, marks the fifth anniversary of the return of legal beer.

In 5 years the brewing industry has created more than 7 billion dollars worth of new business.

Beer paid $250,000,000 in federal taxes, in 1937 alone, besides $170,800,000 in state, county and city taxes and fees.

Minnesota received $2,862,461 in beer revenue in 1937 — and the money went to the general fund, used for schools, unemployment relief and aid to dependents. Also, Minnesota brewers pay more than $4,000,000 a year for Minnesota barley and other farm products.

Each year, The Hamm Brewing Company alone purchases more than a million bushels of finest Northwest malting barley.

MIDDLE RIVER — HOLT
MINNESOTA

Dear friends:

Often we are asked, "Do you arrange for the minister?" "Can you notify the musicians?" "Whom shall we see about the preparation of the grave?"

All those details are a part of our service. The family is relieved entirely of all responsibility in connection with funeral arrangements. We know this means much to those whom we serve.

All desired preparations are made without causing the family one moment's worry.

Respectfully,

Carl B. Larson

NATIVE MARRIES

Word has been received that one of our local lads, Dale Johnson, son of Mr and Mrs Lewis Johnson, who is now in the United States navy was married last month in Sydney, Australia to an Australian girl. Dale has been in the navy for two years and his travels, so far, have been more than interesting. His ship, the U. S. S. Louisville has just completed a cruise as a representative of the United States at the 150th Jubilee in Australia. Besides spending some time in Sydney, other ports touched were Honolulu, Pago Pago, Tahiti and New Zealand. As Dale and his fellowmen crossed the Equator they were ceremoniously initiated by the "Shellbacks", men who have already crossed the Equator and King Neptune, traditional ruler of the waves. Men who have never crossed the Equator are called the "Pollywogs" and Dale's tale of the ceremony was both hilarious and interesting. He is now stationed at Long Beach, Calif., and his pretty bride will join him there in July.

Alvin Kenner and Myrom Onlie of Brinsmade and Devils Lake, respectively, motored here Saturday where they spent the day at the home of their relatives, the O. N. Olson's. On their return home that evening, they were accompanied by Mrs. Mark Olson who will spend a week at the home of her parents in Brinsmade, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Waller.

Miss Junice Ranum spent the week end at her parental home. Junice is employed at the Mont Knutson home in Silverton.

There was a Soil Conservation meeting at the Smiley Hall Monday afternoon. Quite a large number of farmers from both Smiley and Kratka were there to "sign up" for this year. Will McCrum and Pat Culkins were in charge.

Mr and Mrs Henry LaCount and family of Minneapolis will be future residents in this community. They are staying at present at the Lewis Johnson home while Mr. LaCount is building a [illegible] cabin on the south quarter of Mr. Johnson's farm. The LaCounts were former residents in Thief River Falls some years ago.

The O. N. Olson's brought a freezer full of ice cream and the Jim McCrum's an angel food cake and pleasantly surprised the George Egge's in Thief River Falls on Thursday evening on their eighteenth wedding anniversary. Other guests were Mr and Mrs Jake Olson, Miss Genela Ostrum and Conrad Sund, Jr. of Euclid.

Ole Helgeland left Norway on the 6th of this month. He has been visiting there since the 6th of December. His family anxiously await his return with his many interesting things to relate about his fatherland.

Stassen Talks Saturday on Radio Station WCCO

Harold E. Stassen, Republican Candidate for Governor will deliver his second radio address in his debate with Governor Benson over the record of the present administration on Saturday, April 9th at 8:30 p. m. over radio station WCCO of Minneapolis. The broadcast will be made directly from a dinner meeting sponsored by the Stassen for Governor Volunteers of the Eighth Congressional District which will be held in the Spalding Hotel at Duluth.

Indians residing near Cass Lake adopted the tactics of their white brothers and staged a "sit-down" strike in the government Indian office there. They objected to the removal of the office from Cass Lake to Duluth, more than 200 miles away, without consulting the tribal council set-up under the Wheeler-Howard self-government act.

Minnesota Heavyweight Contender Gets Beating from Joe Louis Friday

Joe Louis, defending the world's heavyweight championship for the third time since he won it nine months ago, knocked out Harry Thomas, rugged blond challenger from Eagle Bend, Minn., in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round title contest in Chicago stadium Friday night.

Louis, starting cautiously by finally opened up with a devastating barrage of left hooks to the chin in the fourth round, dropping Thomas four times. He finished him in the fifth, knocking him down twice again. Thomas got up after the second knockdown at the count of eight, only to run into another lethal series of left hooks to the chin that knocked him sprawling, after 2 minutes, 50 seconds of the round.

The game Thomas attempted to draw his rubbery legs under him and get up but he fell back on his haunches while Referee Davey Miller counted 10 over him. Blood was streaming from his mouth. He was thoroughly and convincingly beaten, although he made a courageous stand as long as he remained on his feet.

Bell Telephone Company President Responds to Report of Federal Body

A statement of Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, regarding the Federal Communications commission, report to the senate and house committees, follows in part.

"When the telephone investigation was begun over three years ago, I welcomed the opportunity to place before the commission all facts as to the manner in which our business is conducted. I naturally assumed that we would have a fair investigation and an opportunity to place before the commission all of the material facts pertaining to all phases of the company's business which the commission should desire to study.

"The investigation, however, was one-sided from start to finish. We were denied not only the right to cross-examine investigation witnesses and to be heard in our own behalf, but were denied the right to have included in the record written material which we had prepared and considered necessary to point out serious and important errors affecting most of the investigators reports. Commissioner Walker's report must be appraised in light of these facts.

"We have not been given a copy of commissioner Walker's report, said to contain 1,000 pages, but if the summary of it correctly reflects the report, it presents much that is simply not true and has been prepared with the same unfairness that characterized the investigation proceedings.

"This country has the best, the most extensive, the most widely used and the cheapest telephone service in the world. In spite of this, it would appear that fault has been found with almost everything this company has done throughout its existence. This just does not make sense.

"Bell System earnings have never been excessive. The suggestion that rates might be reduced 25 per cent throughout the Bell System without reducing net earnings by changing depreciation and other major policies and practices is absurd."

LOCAL DELEGATION TO HEAR TALKS ON NEW '38 FARM ACT

Meeting Will be Held in St. Paul Auditorium Next Monday Afternoon

More than 6,000 farmers are expected ot attend a state-wide meeting in St. Paul Monday, April 11, on the new agricultural adjustment act recently passed by congress and now being launched in Minnesota, Harry S. Muir, chairman of the state AAA committee, said Tuesday.

Farmers, their wives, businessmen and professional agricultural workers from every county in the state will attend the meeting, Muir declared. A delegation of farmers from Pennington county plans to go to the meeting, including Hans Anton, chairman of the county agricultural conservation committee; County Agent Howard Grow; and others.

Headline speakers at the meeting will be Claude R. Wickard, Indiana farmer and director of the North Central Region for the AAA; Roy M. Green of Washington, D. C., manager of the Federal Crop Insurance corporation; and Paul E. Miller, new director of the Minnesota extension service.

Muir, in announcing the meeting, declared that "we realize that the farmers out in the counties have many problems. We are anxious that as many as possible have an opportunity to deal directly with the men in charge of the AAA program from Washington in working out these problems.

"For this reason we have asked the two AAA administrators from Washington to come to St. Paul, April 11, to present the program to farmers and answer any questions that have come up in the field.".

At the meeting the first official presentation of plans for crop insurance on wheat in 1939 will be presented by Green. Wickard will explain operation of the national farm program and the part Minnesota farmers play in the national picture. Director Miller will outline work of the extension service and the part it plays in the new program.

After the talks the meting will be thrown open to questions from the floor, giving farmers an opportunity to get their questions answered directly by men in charge of the program.

The new farm act, enacted by congress February 16, provides for three integrated programs: A soil conservation program under which AAA payments will be made to cooperating farmers; government-financed loans on corn and wheat; and marketing restrictions on corn and wheat if and when surpluses pile up.

In addition, the act provides for crop insurance on wheat, beginning with the 1939 crop. The insurance feature of the new act provides for insuring wheat yields against natural hazards. It provides payments of losses to wheat producers to the extent that their yield falls below 50 or 75 per cent of their past average yield. Losses to producers are to be paid from reserve built up by the premiums which farmers pay in.

Minnesota Hospital Assn. Meets May 19-21

Members of the Minnesota Hospital association and eight allied organizations will conduct their 15th annual convention May 19, 20 and 21 at the Nicollet Hotel, it was announced today by Sister M. Patricia, superintendent of St. Mary's hospital in Duluth and president of the Association.

Nationally known hospital executives will be on the various programs. Thursday the opening session will begin at 1:45 p. m. and that evening a program will be held at St. Mary's hospital, Minneapolis. Friday morning the program will include officers of national organizations who will give short addresses. At the Friday noon luncheon, Archbishop John Gregory Murray and Dr. R. C. Buerki, president-elect of the American College of Hospital Administrators will speak.

The convention will come after observation of National Hospital Day on May 12 when all Minnesota hospitals will hold open house or other forms of public meetings to call attention of men and women in the state to hospitals and their problems.

MAN PLAYS POOL WHILE CAR BURNS

Benson—Nero, notorious old Roman emperor of the early Christian era, played his fiddle while Rome burned, legend tells us. Nero had his modern counterpart in a Turning township farmer who enjoyed a game of pool in a local recreation parlor while his car burned on a Benson street. There are those who manitain that Nero even set fire to his capitol city to enjoy the spectacle, and here the analogy between the two men ends, for the car owner disavows any attempt to render himself a pedestrian. Passersby noticed smoke bellowing from a parked car and found the front seat cushion afire. The cushion was promptly removed and tossed into a snowbank where it smouldered until the owner arrived to ruefully view the scene of the disaster. A cigarette stub was blamed for the conflagration.

Capital News Review

By A. I. Harris

Specific planks in the Farmer-Labor platform adopted by the state convention at Duluth pertaining to the independent business man include an effective chain store tax to remove unfair competition from chain stores and monopolistic business, a graduated corporate income tax which would aid the smaller corporation, and, from the national standpoint, liberalization of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loaning policies to enable extension of loans to small business men at low rates of interest.

* * *

The taxation planks in the platform call for lowering of property taxes, raising of the exemptions in the state income tax for individuals to correspond with the exemptions in the federal law, reduction of rates for incomes of $5,000 and under, and complete exemption of homesteads from the state real estate levy up to $5,000 valuation. The present homestead exemption law, amended by the conservatives in the last legislature so that its full benefits will not be felt for some four or five years, exempts homesteads for the first $4,000 valuation. A tax program based on ability to pay is recommended.

This is quite consistent with the stand always taken by Governor Benson and the Farmer-Labor party. It will be recalled that Governor Benson refused to sign the present income tax bill because it taxes people who do not receive sufficient money to maintain a decent standard of living, and because the rates for persons receiving $5,000 and under are too high. The Governor has uncompromisingly championed the cause of reduction in property taxes, which he succeeded in having reduced several mills despite the increase in state costs due to relief and social security. It also was due to his insistence that the present homestead exemption law was passed, despite opposition of a conservative senate.

Much has been said about state expenditures and taxes, the newspapers deliberately overlooking—the word deliberately is used advisedly—the fact that every item of state expenditure was approved by a Republican Senate finance committee. This puts the lie to the spending allegations. The newspapers also fail to inform the citizens that the Republican tax program, if adopted, would have added some eleven mills to the state levy on real property. It was a question merely as to who should pay the tax bill, and the Republicans wanted to ease the load for the corporations, utilities, and those of great wealth at the expense of the small business man, the owner of real property, and those in the comparatively low income groups. This fact the dailies attempted to conceal from the people under a smoke screen of taxing industry and driving business from the state—sheer nonsense.

Highway Patrolmen Aid Many Motorists on State Highways During February

Adding to its record as "courtesy service" as well as a law enforcement agency, the highway patrol of the Minnesota highway department during February assisted in various ways 3,524 users of the highways, according to the reports of the patrolmen.

In the same month, 322 arrests were made and resulted in $3,694.60 in fines. Improper equipment and improper registration led in the causes for arrest with 66 violators of each apprehended. Twenty-eight drivers were arrested for carelessness and 17 for driving while drunk. Driving while drunk accounted for $925 in fines.

First aid was given to nine injured motorists by the patrolmen, while 928 vehicles were given minor adjustments or repairs. The patrol pulled 380 cars out of the ditch.

The guardians of the highways were busy during February warning border line offenders, and 6,710 drivers who flirted with the traffic code received their attention. As usual, improper parking led the list with 1,273 reprimands.

The "must repair" tag total decreased from previous months, but nevertheless 1,311 vehicles were herded into garages for repairs and adjustments.

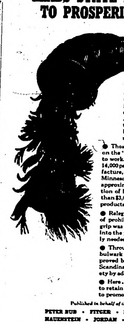
MINNESOTA BREWING INDUSTRY LEADS STATE BACK TO PROSPERITY



● On March 22, 1933, when the return of beer was legalized, Minnesota Brewers began spending millions of dollars for wages and transportation . . . for city, county, state and federal taxes . . . for barley, corn and other Minnesota farm products used in making beer.

● Those millions of dollars put the brakes on the "slump". They put Minnesota people to work. During that first year alone about 14,000 persons were given work in the manufacture, distribution and sale of beer in Minnesota. Today the number employed is approximately 25,000. Since the relegalization of beer, Minnesota Brewers paid more than $3,000,000 annually for Minnesota farm products.

● Relegalization of beer also marked the end of prohibition's reign of terror. Gangland's grip was broken, and tax revenue flowed back into the public treasuries where it was sorely needed.

● Throughout history, beer has been the bulwark of moderation and sobriety . . . as proved by the success of Germany and the Scandinavian countries in promoting sobriety by adopting beer as the national beverage.

● Here . . now . . is Minnesota's opportunity to retain all these economic benefits . . . and to promote moderation as well.
